BALANCE SHEETS AND BALANCE ACCOUNTS.

By James R Macdonald.

THE ultimate end of all bookkeeping being the elaborating of a balance sheet, or balance account, either of which purports to contain in itself a complete resume of all past detail, we consider the best method of treating this subject is to take a few representative balance sheets and explain their component parts. This system is different to that adopted in existing treatises on bookkeeping and to the way it is taught in schools. Nevertheless, it lends itself readily to the explanation of principles—a most essential point in any educational system. Another reason for adopting this course is that it immediately imparts the minimum knowledge of accountancy necessary to the conduct of a large business. In our day a high standard of excellence is attained in preparing these statements of accounts, but it should not be forgotten that this is the outcome of generations of experience and expediency.

WHAT IS A BALANCE SHEET?

A balance sheet is simply a memorandum containing the capital and liabilities of a business at a given date, together with the assets or funds available to satisfy these. It is usually stated in the following form:

A. B. & Co.

Balance Sheet as at 31st December, 1897.

Liabilities	£15,000
Capital	20,000
	£35,000
Assets	£35,000
	£35,000

From this it will be seen that a balance sheet is nothing more nor less than a statement of affairs at a given date, compiled from any data—not necessarily from book records. It is not a ledger account, or part of any bookkeeping system, but merely a memorandum containing figures based on the accounts—if such exist. Hence the term "balance sheet" (or statement) to distinguish it from a balance account as used on the continent.

Before going further it may be as well to consider—

WHAT IS A BALANCE ACCOUNT?

A balance account is a general account in the ledger, into which at a given date, the balances of all other accounts are transferred. Thereafter one obtains at a glance a kind of panoramic view of the financial situation of the business. For convenience, those items of receipt and expenditure, which relate to revenue, are collected into an intermediate account called the profit and loss account, and the balance of the latter only is transferred along with the others.

The following is the form of a balance account:

A. B. & Co.

Balance Account as at 31st December, 1897.

Dr.
To Assets		£35,000
		£35,000
Cr.
By Liabilities	£15,000
By Capital	20,000
		£35,000

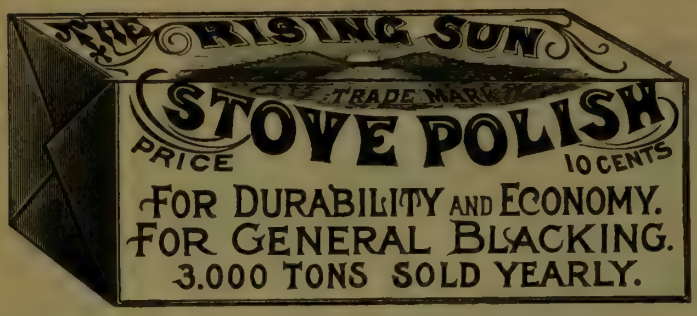
WHEREIN DOES THE BALANCE ACCOUNT DIFFER FROM THE BALANCE SHEET?

First, the former is part of the bookkeeping system, while the latter is not.

Second, the same items are placed on opposite sides of each form.

Third, the "balance account" bears the symbols of an account proper with its "Dr. to" and "Cr. by," while the balance sheet should not.

Fourth, as regards the bookkeeping, where the balance sheet is adopted the books are "opened" for the new period by the balances brought down from the old, but where the balance account is in use the new accounts have to be "opened" by journal entry, because all ledger balances have been already cleared off to the balance account, and the latter itself balances.



These simple rules do not appear to be generally known.

The example we have given shows a balance sheet in its most rudimentary form. It is natural to assume that the parties interested in the business would require fuller information as to how their capital, liabilities and assets are made up. The sole art of framing a balance sheet consists in subdividing these three main divisions—capital, liabilities and assets—in such a manner as to show the salient features of the business. To what extent this should be carried is entirely a matter of judgment and experience. A few facts are readily grasped, while many tend to obscure the principal features.

Another important matter is to display the various items in an intelligent manner, so as to bring out their relationship to each other. A good method is to set down, first in order, those liabilities which have to be paid at an early date, and against this the funds which would then be available to meet them. Likewise with future liabilities, as far as possible. A statement so displayed offers useful information and looks symmetrical. It is perfect in substance if it contains all the liabilities, funds and capital of the business. Perfection in form is, on the other hand, only approximately attainable, because it is largely a matter of fancy, accuracy of principles, experience and practical knowledge of the business. The latter is, for all practical purposes, a minor matter compared with perfection in substance, which all may attain.

Two typical balance sheets are worth

Stock		10,000
Freehold property	£15,000
Less mortgage thereon	10,000
		£35.000

It will be observed that the subdivisions are so arranged as to bring out conspicuously the amount of each principal heading; and that in the nature of things, the total assets must equal the total capital and liabilities, if the business is solvent. If insolvent, the amount of loss, or deficiency, added to the assets must equal, or "balance," the capital and liabilities taken together.

In private firms any loss is deducted from the partners' capital, and any profit added on.

THE RAND EXPLORATION COMPANY, LIMITED.

Balance Sheet as at December 31, 1897.

Capital—

		1,470,000

Investments	840,000
Ordinary debtors	14,000
Office furniture	1,000
Live and dead stock	5,000
		£1.470,000

All balance sheets are reducible to the form of three principal divisions—capital, liabilities and assets; although in the case of public companies it is not usual to do so.

Any observations on the best manner of displaying the various items in a balance sheet are equally applicable to a balance account. In either case the statement is simplified and more clearly explained by adopting the three division principle, hence our using it.

The various items composing the assets and liabilities in the above balance sheets are more or less explanatory. With the subdivision of capital, however, some debatable points are involved which we will now consider.

WHAT IS CAPITAL?

In the case of a private individual or trading firm, capital practically means excess of assets over liabilities. With a joint stock company, however, a little more discrimination is necessary.

Theoretically, and in the abstract, the same rule is true, although it is seldom used in this sense even by accountants, owing to the peculiar constitution of these companies. The term "capital," in connection with the public companies, is more often employed as meaning share capital. This, of course, is a more restricted application than the wider meaning, to which we may apply the term "actual capital."

Therefore, the actual capital of a corporation, as well as of a trading firm, is the excess of its assets over its liabilities. This admits of two subdivisions: (1) Share capital and (2) profit. The former may be split up into the different kinds of share capital, as preference, ordinary and founders', and the latter into:

(a) Reserve fund,
(b) Profit available for dividend, and
(c) Profit carried forward.

Share capital is regulated entirely by the memorandum of association of the company and any subsequent modifications thereof.

It should be noted that debentures, being of the nature of mortgages, come under the heading of liabilities, and not of capital.—Accountant's Magazine.

THE AMERICAN TEA TRADE.

Mr. Wm. Mackenzie, the Ceylon Commissioner in the United States writes that he has now heard from the Indian Committee that they are willing to pay their share of the advertising in the United States till the end of the year (August and September excepted, as we ease off during those hot months) provided he carried it on jointly as hitherto. Mr. Mackenzie says: "I have told them I would do so till the end of May, but after that it would depend upon whether the Ceylon Committee approved or otherwise. What do you say? I might give reasons for and against. Perhaps on the whole we should accept their offer. Ceylon or Indian teas are imported indifferently by the large houses according to which is the cheaper at the moment, and that Ceylon generally is. To the consumers, the teas go as Ceylons—Indians being seldom advertised by the trade." We should say that this last remark clearly shows that India ought not to work through the Ceylon Commissioner. Indian teas should make a name for themselves, not go into consumption as "Ceylons." Mr. Mackenzie's remarks lend strong force to what we wrote about the recent withdrawal of Mr. Blechynden.—Planting Opinion, Madras.

NATIVES AS TEA DRINKERS.

In a "note on the effect of the increasing imports of foreign sugar on the market for, and price of, Indian sugar" (in the Bombay Presidency), Mr. Morison states: "Large classes of people, such as ordinary mill-hands and other operatives in Bombay, who a few years ago, seldom indulged in sugar, except as a luxury on rare occasions, now use it in tea and coffee daily, and doubtless the same is the case in towns up-country." So the development of a taste for tea has at least made a start in India.—Planting Opinion, Madras.

STRIKE OF SALMON FISHERS.

According to news received this morning by the steamer Cutch, the Indian fishermen of the north have decided that they will be well paid this year, or they will not work at all. To all practical purposes, 2,500 Indian fishermen, principally at Rivers Inlet, while some are on the Skeena and Naas, are out on strike and they do not intend to go fishing until a satisfactory arrangement is made for them to be paid 10 cents a fish for the whole season.

Robert McLachlan, manager of E. A. Wadhams' big cannery on Rivers Inlet, came down by the Cutch. He said this morning that the nine canneries on the inlet could pay six and perhaps eight cents to the men they employed, but it was entirely out of the question for them to take on a 10-cent rate. They could not afford to do the work at that price. The northern season opened yesterday morning and only a few fishermen went to work. Mr. Wadhams' cannery has 103 boats and only ten of these were taken out, while even now, right at the opening of the season, there are plenty of fish running. When Mr. McLachlan left it was not decided whether or not the canneries would start running under present conditions as they could not be sure of any certain supply. Mr. McLachlan came down to Vancouver to take men north with him. He wants about 150 for their cannery alone. He says that the Indians are hanging out firmly for the higher rate of wages, and neither party has any present intention of giving in.—World, Vancouver, June 16.

THE WORLD'S SUGAR CROP.

Willett & Gray say of sugar: "From data now at hand there is a moderate increase in the estimates of the world's old crop supplies, say for Cuba 15,000 tons, Asgentine Republic 10,000 tons, Australia 15,000 tons and European beets 20,000 tons, a total of 60,000 tons. Not a large increase by itself and of no special importance, but the notable feature of the sugar situation is the largely improved prospects of the crops of the next campaign. These improved outlooks come from the crops of Europe, Brazil, Australia, Mauritius, Cuba, Hawaii, Louisiana, and last but no longer least, the United States domestic beet crop. Our correspondence from Cuba gives a marked improvement in the conditions there. Louisiana gives decidedly good indications and there is no question about a largely increased domestic beet crop. Neither will Hawaii be behind in its pro rata of increase. These crops named with their increase of supplies for the United States, in connection with Java and other cane sugar countries, will leave a more unfavorable market condition for the beet crops with our countervailing duties against their high bounties than they have yet experienced."

THE CANARY SEED CROP.

A Smyrna advice under date of June 10, in regard to canary seed, says: "It was only for a short time this year that prices went down so much, and it was to be foreseen that they could not possibly remain so very long. Now they are higher than at any time in these last four years, and it is very probable that the article will advance much more, for the crop is estimated to be a very small one — 30,000 to 40,000 bags, against 100,000 last year and about 140,000 in 1897. We also must not lose sight of the fact that stocks in Europe have very much diminished. Under existing circumstances and pending uncertainty as to actual yield of this year's crop I prefer not to offer."

"'Grand Mogul' soap is meeting with a large sale. As the quality is strictly high-class and the price moderate we presume this accounts for the heavy demand," write T. B. Escott & Co.

A City Traveler's Drive.

W. R. Kindree, one of the most popular grocery travelers of the city, is being considerably jollied by his friends. It is well known that W. R. is fond of a drive. On Saturday evening last, he was returning from a pleasant drive along Queen street west when some miscreant hit the horse, causing it to run away. Mr. Kindree was thrown out, and the horse continued to run till it drew up at the corner of Dovercourt road and Bloor street, with a badly damaged rig. Beyond a few scratches, W. R. was not injured; but he lost a couple of valuable books, which he is still looking for.

The Picnic at Hamilton.

Though there were several members of the Toronto association who did not want the picnic to go to Hamilton this year, since the matter has been definitely settled all members have joined so enthusiastically to make the excursion a success that a failure is now almost an impossibility. Arrangements have been completed for the Garden City to take the crowd to a central wharf. From here the crowd will likely scatter throughout the city for the morning, meeting together again after dinner at Mountain View Park, where the programme of games will be run off. The baseball match will again be a feature of the day, as will also the soap race, the boys' boot race, and other such events, which caused so much merriment last year. After the games, the company will gather in one of the large pavilions on the ground for supper. Several of the Hamilton officials, and, possibly, the members of Parliament from the city, will make speeches suitable to the occasion. The boys say that President Frank Johnson is already building the framework of his address.

SHIPMENTS OF SOCKEYE SALMON.

The Anglo-British Columbia Packing Co., Limited, of Vancouver, B.C., have lately sold to various points in Ontario and Quebec a number of cars of sockeye salmon of the balance of the 1898 pack. The buyers of these goods report a good demand from the trade, the present being perhaps the time of year of greatest consumption.

The company, at the close of the season, were not able to offer the trade the choice of all their well-known brands, and the sales were confined to the three brands "Lynx," "Salmon Fly" and "Cornflower." The last named is a white and gold label with the design of a bachelor button (cornflower) in blue as a trade mark, and is a new brand on the Canadian market, but one that has made a name for itself on the United States side of the line, where the company also pack salmon.

The Anglo-British Columbia Packing Co., Limited, are a large English corporation, who are said to control the output of 15 packing establishments on the various rivers of the Coast. The company are making a big bid to increase their output in Eastern Canada through their agents J. L. Watt & Scott, Toronto, and Watt, Scott & Goodacre, Montreal.

The packing establishments controlled by The Anglo-British Columbia Packing Co., Limited, include those of many brands familiar to Canadian salmon buyers for a quarter of a century, such as "Sovereign," "British America," "Red Star," etc., while some of their newer brands, for instance, "Laurel Wreath," show exquisite taste in design and colors.

The company report considerable inquiry for new season's pack, and a fair amount of business done in all their Canadian branches.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, July 3, 1899.

AFTER the holiday there is little news. Things got a little out of their ordinary run with having Saturday and Sunday holidays together. Business in wholesale grocery lines was normal all through the past week with few, if any, special features to note, while in produce there was a great deal of activity.

The canned goods situation is peculiar and relations are somewhat strained. Before the association was formed canners entered into large contracts at lower figures than are now quoted by the association. Wholesale men here have found this out, and the result is buying is almost nil, and is not at all likely to improve. In tomatoes all reports point to a large pack, and wholesale men here will hold off and await developments. There is no doubt the feeling towards the factories is rather hostile at the present time.

TEAS—New Japan teas have arrived on this market and show better values than last year, both in price and quality.

COFFEE—This market is very slow and dull sales are not even normal, especially in Rios. Good green Rio is quoted from 8½ to 9c.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS—Currants are very firm in the primary market and an advance is looked for here. Valencia raisins are rather light in stock at present, but will probably hold out until new goods arrive, as there is a fairly good supply of Californian muscatels.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—New apricots are offering and some small orders have been placed at prices which will permit of them being sold at from 15 to 16c. Prices for last year's stock, however, have not altered, and, though the demand for evaporated fruits has decreased with the coming of green fruits, still the market remains firm and prices high.

CEREALS—Rolled oats have advanced 10c. per sack since last writing, and are now quoted at $1.95 to $2.

RICE—New Japan rice has arrived, and shows slightly lower figures than last year. Quotations are 4⅝ and 4¾c. This is about ⅛c. lower than last year. The quality is also very fine.

BUTTER—Creamery butter is 15c. per lb. at factories. This, all dealers are willing to pay. A few lots in special packages of 14 and 28 lb. changed hands last week at 15½ to 16c., but it is not likely that this point can be reached by the finest article this week. The British Columbia market seems full, and this is emphasizing low prices here. Dairy—The supply of dairy is large, and the bulk of it is going into cold storage in hopes of higher prices. Dealers grow hourly more critical as to quality, and only the choicest is touched by them; 10 to 11c. country points are the staple figures. For a few lots of extra choice, 12 to 13c. have been paid.

CHEESE—The receipts of cheese were large last week and this affected the price somewhat, 7½ to 8c. are the present quotations.

EGGS—Demand continues good while the supply is somewhat limited. 14c. Winnipeg is present quotation.

GREEN FRUIT—The holiday trade about cleaned up all the stocks in the city, but large supplies arrived this morning. There is not much change in price. Oranges are $5.50 to $6.00; lemons $3.75 to $4.25, according to quality; bananas $2.25 to $2.75; peaches $1.50; plums $2.50; Bartlett pears $5.00; Oregon cherries $1.75 to $2.00; Georgia watermelons $4.50; tomatoes $2.00 per crate of four baskets. New potatoes $2.50 cwt.

THE SAGACIOUS RAT.

One day a rat came across an object made of wire, whose sole occupation seemed to be to take care of a liberal piece of cheese. Having had several years' experience with men and their machinations, the rat surveyed the ground with great care, and he was still engaged in this occupation when a mouse appeared and wanted to know what was up.

"Why, the fact is," replied the rat, "I have more cheese here than I can possibly eat at one meal, and, as cheese quickly spoils in this climate, I was waiting for someone to come along and accept a portion."

"You are generous," said the mouse.

"Don't mention it. Just step inside and pass the cheese out, will you?"

The mouse had no sooner nibbled at the bait than there was a crash, and he found himself trapped.

"Ah, that's the way it works, is it?" queried the rat. "I couldn't just make it out. Um! I see. Spring there somewhere. Good idea."

"But I'm caught," exclaimed the mouse.

"So I observe."

"And what's to be done?"

"Well, I leave that for you to decide. I let you in on the ground floor, and my responsibility ceased there. Fine day. Hope we shall have a good harvest."

TRADE CHAT.

PROF. RUDDICK, formerly director of the Kingston, Ont., dairy school, writes from New Zealand stating that shipments of cheese from New Zealand to Great Britain will this season be smaller than for some years, on account of increased demand in Australia for New Zealand cheese.

Goulet Bros. have opened a general store in The Brook, Ont.

A. W. Laing has opened a grocery and meat store in Halifax.

A large crop of apples and plums is expected in Prince Edward Island.

Advices from the Annapolis, N.S., district report that the prospects are for a good apple crop in that district this year.

CALIFORNIAN PRUNES.

Concerning the situation in prunes on the Coast The California Fruit Grower of June 24 says: "The firmer feeling has not developed sufficient strength to cause any noticeable increase in demand or price. A few prunes are being supplied the trade but the shipments at the moment do not materially reduce the stocks on hand. Holders are firm as to values, but as the season advances they are casting about looking for an outlet. Much of the stock on hand will require dipping as the fruit shows considerable sugar. The growing crop looks well and in the Santa Clara Valley the bulk of the prune trees are loaded with fine, large-sized fruit. Our reports from the East show a weak market and low prices on large sizes. The markets East have not fully recovered from the 700 or 800 carloads of large-size, low-priced Oregon Italian prunes. Californian growers have paid but little attention to what Oregon and Washington have been doing, but when you go up against 1,000 or more cars of large Italian prunes at one-half the price of Californian fruit of equal size you will have more respect for and interest in your Northern neighbors."

TEA IN NEW YORK.

The feature of the week was the auction sale held on Wednesday. The offering was only a moderately large one, amounting to about 9,500 packages, and the prices realized showed a fairly steady undertone. Business in the private market has been dull. Demand for lines has been flat, as there have been no developments of character to stimulate a demand, and the market for invoices has been neglected. Advices from the East have reported no new developments in primal markets.—N.Y. Journal of Commerce.

FRUIT CROP PROSPECTS.

IT was generally expected by Toronto fruit dealers that last week would see the end of the strawberry season, yet the receipts on Tuesday and Wednesday were so large that prices were kept down to 6 to 8c., and all week receipts kept fairly large.

Though the season has been a longer one than usual, the total receipts have not been as great as last year's aggregate. The demand has been better throughout, and, consequently, prices have been higher.

A light crop of raspberries was looked for, but the past week or so has materially improved the outlook, so, with a few showers during the ripening period, the deliveries may be as large as usual.

A bumper crop of red currants is anticipated.

Cherries are likely to be up to the average, but, as packers are buying direct from the growers this year, the receipts on the Toronto market will not likely come up to those of last year, and prices will likely be better maintained.

The crop of huckleberries is expected to be one of the largest in years, unless a drought interferes with the fruit.

Tomatoes are expected to be a good crop, but it is early to speak of this crop with any accuracy.

In regard to apple prospects, fruitmen differ in their opinions, according to reports they have individually received. It has been suggested by Toronto fruitmen that THE CANADIAN GROCER ask its subscribers in the various apple districts to send in reports of the prospects in their locality. This would be of undoubted value, not only to fruit dealers, but to all interested in the apple trade of Canada, so the columns of this paper will be left open for such reports. They should be sent in on Monday, if possible.

FIRM PROVISION MARKET.

The demand for smoked meats for home consumption this year has been the largest that packers have ever had to meet. The growth of population and the better condition of affairs in all sections of Canada have been factors to this end, but the high price of beef has probably had most to do with it.

The result of this activity, together with the firmer feeling in Great Britain, has been that the price of all hog products, especially smoked meats, has advanced 1 to 1½c. in the last two weeks. This week, breakfast bacon, hams and backs have risen ¼ to ½c. in value. Further advances are expected.

FIXED PRICE ON CANNED SALMON.

Advices from the Coast in regard to the canned salmon situation are stronger rather than otherwise.

The most interesting news is to the effect that the packers on the Fraser and those at Rivers Inlet have agreed upon a fixed price for the new pack.

According to the advices which brought this news, the price of Rivers Inlet canned salmon is equal to $4.80 delivered in Toronto, and for Fraser river fish $5.30 is the figure, in carload lots or more, to the wholesale trade.

The outlook on the Fraser is still reported to be poor.

MERCHANTS' ATTITUDES TOWARDS COMPETITORS.

FAIR competition is the life of trade. There is no question about it. If there were no competition nine-tenths of those who are to-day successful merchants would soon die of dry rot.

Business men, as well as runners, only do their best when they have competitors pushing them.

In athletic events A does not scowl on B because he has essayed to become a competitor, for he knows that if there are not two or more competitors there will be no prize. He, however, runs, rows or swims his best in order that he may win the prize.

A business man should do his very best to win trade; but he should not scowl upon his creditors, treat them as if they had no right to an existence, and employ methods with a view to driving them out of existence.

Every man has a right to enter whatever vocation he believes himself to be best suited for; and no one has a right to say him nay.

The refusal to recognize this is the cause which produces such effects as cutting prices, false advertisements, indiscriminate giving of credit and other evils to which business is heir.

It is better to give your competitor a handshake than a kick.

THE SULTANA RAISIN CROP.

What will be the outcome of the growing Sultana raisin crop is yet undetermined, the estimates that are now being made in Smyrna showing quite a divergency, due to the lack of reliable data.

Some put down the likely production at 22,000 to 23,000 tons, practically last year's figure; others venture to predict 4,000 to 5,000 tons more. The satisfactory feature remains that even the minimum estimate is not below last year's total. Phylloxera is certainly playing havoc in many districts, but, on the other hand, the rainfall, if a short one, has been well distributed and came at seasons when likely to be of most benefit to vegetation. "We have only," write C. Whittall & Co., "been spared the loss of the fruit which was occasioned last year by the sharp and late spring frosts. On the whole, therefore, the chances are in favor of a yield 10 to 15 per cent. in excess of last season.

A BRIGHT TRADE OUTLOOK.

IN a recent article in Bradstreet's, New York, dealing with the prevailing prosperity, the point was brought out that the primary cause of the "good times" was that during the years 1896 to 1898 the prices of agricultural products were so remunerative to the farming class that it caused a greatly increased demand for both the necessaries and luxuries of life from that class, the supplying of which largely increased manufacturing and mercantile transactions of all kinds.

This being the case there is every reason for the belief that there will be a continuance of the present high prices and hopeful feeling for some time to come. The following table gives the prices ruling in Toronto on produce during the first week of July in three years :

	1897 Cents.	1898 Cents.	1899 Cents
Eggs, per doz	9¼ to 9½	11½ to 12½	12½ to 13
Butter, dairy tubs, per lb	12	11 to 11½	12 to 13
Butter, creamery, per lb.....	16	15¼ to 16	16½ to 17
Cheese, per lb ..	8¾ to 9	7¾ to 8¾	8¾ to 9
Wheat, Ont winter...	65 to 66	77 to 79	73
" Man. No. 1 hard.....		$1.00	82
Peas per bush.....	41	51	62 to 68
Oats " "	22½	31½ to 33	35 to 36

It will be seen from the above that with the exception of wheat and cheese all prices are higher to-day than they were either last year or the previous one. Cheese is the same price as two years ago, and ¾ to 1c. dearer than a year ago. Wheat is 6 to 7c. dearer than two years ago, but 4 to 6c. less than was paid for it early in July last year. But, it must be remembered that last year prices fell before the end of the month fully 10 to 12c., so, as the expectation is that the wheat prices now ruling are likely to hold good through this season's harvest, the outlook is to-day practically better than at this time last year.

In other products prices are away up this year. Eggs are ½c. dearer than last year, and 3 to 3½c. dearer than the year before last. Both dairy and creamery makes of butter are 1c. per lb. dearer than either of the previous years. Peas are 11 to 17c. dearer than in 1898 and 21 to 27c. dearer than in 1897. Oats are 2 to 4c. dearer than a year ago and 12½ to 13½c. dearer than two years ago.

Not only are prices higher, but the production and export are greater than in the previous year. The home consumption of all our agricultural products has shown great development in the past few years, due largely to the opening up of our mining districts, and to better circumstances in our cities and towns. Nothwithstanding this fact, however, Canada has exported from the port of Montreal alone 385,134 boxes of cheese this season, as against 262,350 boxes last season, an increase of 122,784 boxes or 46.8 per cent. During the same period only 75,261 boxes were sent from New York, as compared with 85,810 boxes last year, a decrease of 10,649 boxes or over 11 per cent.

Butter, to the extent of 53,278 packages has also been sent from Montreal up to June 24 this year, compared with 29,966 packages in the same time last year, an increase of 77.7 per cent. Up to June 24, New York sent 29,122 packages last year, and 10,003 packages this year, a decline of 19,119 packages or 65 per cent.

Had there been sufficient refrigerator space on Liverpool steamers the export of butter from Montreal would have been still larger, for 168,705 packages were received at that port, and much of this had to be held as the space on the steamers was, in many cases, given to Chicago meat packers. This state of affairs has been remedied, and exports of this product will likely continue to grow in volume.

The growth of the Canadian pork-packing industry has been possibly the feature of agricultural progress in this country in recent years. In 1896 Canada exported $3,802,135 worth of bacon. In 1897 we sent out $5,060,039 worth, and last year our exports of this one product amounted to $7,291,285, showing a development of over 90 per cent. The returns for the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1899, have not been made up yet, but there has been just as great an increase in this trade as in former seasons. In fact, this year has shown by far the greatest activity of any year in the history of the trade. New factories have been built or old ones considerably enlarged at Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver. This fall will show still greater advancement, as new factories are being erected, or are proposed, for Woodstock, Palmerston, Harriston and Brockville, Ont., Woodstock, N.S., and St. John, N.B.

While our production of cheese, butter and bacon is increasing so rapidly, our wheat areas are not being neglected. In Manitoba alone the crop is estimated at 40,000,000 bushels, against 32,000,000 last year and 25,000,000 bushels in 1897.

All this means that, as prices are higher and the production much greater than in either of the last two years, both exceptionally good ones, 1899 is likely to prove a banner year to the Canadian farmer.

Our agricultural resources are not alone in the rapid advancement that has been made. Our mineral resources are being recognized and opened up with even greater briskness. The clean-up at the Klondyke for the present season is estimated at between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000. English capitalists have put fully $8,000,000 into mining properties in the Rainy River district in two weeks. A company, capitalized at $15,000,000 (largely United States capital) is building a great smelter and shipyards in Cape Breton. Montreal capitalists have formed a company capitalized at $10,000,000, and intend erecting, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence, pulp mills with a capacity of 600 tons of pulp per day. A company of United States capitalists intend erecting a nickel refinery and a large pulp mill at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. A smelter is being erected at Midland, Ont., which will be supplied with ore from the iron mines north of Lake Superior.

Therefore, with such satisfactory conditions prevailing in regard to both agricultural and mineral products, it is eminently reasonable to look for a continuance of the present mercantile and industrial activity for several years.

CEYLON TEAS ARE HIGHER.

Low-grade congou teas are pretty strong, according to advices to hand from the primary market.

The lowest price is 12 taels against 10 taels a year ago, an increase of 20 per cent.

The cause of the higher prices is the purchase on Russian account, for, out of a total of 579,000 half-chests sold at Hankow, 469,000 were bought by Russia, against 410,000 half-chests during the same period last year.

PRETTY COOL CHEEK.

IT was certainly the most sublime impudence for the steamship companies running from the port of Montreal, who were subsidized by the Federal Government to provide cold storage transportation for Canadian butter to England, to refuse such space to Canadian shippers, and allow the said space to be taken up by fresh meat shipments from Chicago.

Of course they got their subsidy, and also a premium from the Chicago people, so that the scheme was a profitable one until they were found out. But it took some three or four weeks to do so.

During all this time the shippers had their suspicions aroused at the refusal of butter shipments to Liverpool, some in fact having to send butter to the latter port via Manchester so as to get cold storage.

At last the Butter and Cheese Association took the matter up, and then the steamship people were notified that if they desired to carry Chicago fresh meat in preference to Canadian butter, well and good, they could do so, but in such event their subsidy would be wanting. As the Government stands a part of the charge of iceing or freezing these cold storage compartments, the steamship people at once came down, and now butter shippers experience less difficulty in securing cold storage transport for their butter across the Atlantic.

DAIRY BUTTER PROSPECTS.

The high price of beef is affecting the production of dairy butter. It has greatly encouraged farmers in raising calves, with the result that much milk is held back from the cheese factories, and made into butter, the skim milk being fed to the calves.

A cable received by D. Gunn, Bros. & Co., this week states that the British butter market is dull, and that a decline is expected there.

With increased production in Canada and an easier market in Britain the prospects are that prices on the Canadian market will be reduced before long.

VEXATIOUS CUSTOMS RULES.

The article in last week's issue of this paper in regard to the vexatious affidavits which exporters to Canada are compelled to make has attracted quite a little attention. In that article, it will be remembered, was an extract from an exporter in France in which strong exception was taken to the lengthy character of these regulations.

Since then THE CANADIAN GROCER has been shown a letter from a Marseilles house, which, after acknowledging the receipt from their broker in Toronto of a copy of the Canadian Customs regulations regarding exporters' affidavits on invoices says: "We have taken note of what is required, and will in future write in extenso the whole humbug of form 'J,' but form 'F' must be given in French, as our Chambers of Commerce will not certify in foreign language."

It is to be hoped the Department is considering ways and means for simplifying and making less vexatious the invoice affidavits.

HIGH BIDS FOR CANNED CORN.

There is considerable speculation among the trade in Montreal as to the motive which actuates the corn packers in refusing to quote prices for future delivery.

The reason alleged by the packers is that they are now booked to the full extent of their prospective output and do not care to assume any new obligations.

The explanation is skeptically received by buyers, who contend that, instead of being booked up to their full capacity, the canners have simply agreed among themselves that the present is a good season to try and secure high prices and are pooling their efforts in that direction.

Whatever the actual motive is, it must be a strong one, for in several instances the Montreal agents have declined to book orders on the basis of 70c., which all will admit is a pretty high price for corn.

BOSTON FOOD FAIR.

The fourth food fair, under the auspices and personal management of the Boston Retail Grocers' Association, will be held in October next.

The previous exhibitions, given in 1891, 1894, and 1897, were quite successful, and did much to raise the standard of purity and hygienic excellence of prepared food.

The coming fair promises to be on a still larger scale of success, and will be watched with interest by the general public, as well as by members of the trade.

STRONG JAPAN TEA MARKET.

The market for Japan tea is decidedly strong. May advices under date of June 14 stated that at both Kobe and Yokohama prices were $2 to $3 per picul higher for choicest grades and fully $1.50 higher on low and medium grades. A cable despatch received in Toronto this week announces a further advance of $1 per picul.

The mail advices referred to stated that the demand for low, trashy teas seems to have no end, and the natives are supplying the same at what we consider exorbitant prices, considering what strictly good medium and fine teas can be purchased at.

The arrivals and settlements (in piculs) at Kobe and Yokohama this season, up to the middle of June, were as follows:

	Arrivals.	Settlements.
1897	151,319	137,422

This means that, for the present season, there is an excess of 28,599 piculs in the arrivals and of 26,271 piculs in the settlements.

A BIG BUTTER BUSINESS.

How is this for business? McFarland & Company, Markdale, have purchased over their counters this season 1,174 tons dairy butter containing upwards of 70,000 lb.

They sold the lot to a Montreal firm for shipment to the British markets.

COFFEE SUPPLY AND DEMAND.

Coffee growing is slow to respond to the influence of supply and demand, owing to the fact that it takes about four years to bring a coffee tree to the bearing point, says New York Merchants' Review. Afterwards it may continue to furnish an annual crop for some years with very little care. Hence any stimulus given to the industry by high prices would be felt long after the period of high prices had gone by. But when the price sinks beyond a certain level, the production may instantly be affected, owing to the abandonment of the plantations that are furthest from the avenues of transportation. That is what is happening in some parts of Brazil this season, it appears from a clipping in The Rio News. It is declared that in Sao Paulo the market price in some parts of the province does not cover the cost of transporting the berry to the coast.

"ITS VIGOROUS DEVOTION" to the best interests of the trade has formed a basis for progress unequalled by any other Tea firm in Canada or the United States.

ONTARIO MARKETS

TORONTO, July 6, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THERE have been no strikingly new developments on the local wholesale grocery market this week. The volume of business is fairly good, although one hears some complaints. The canned goods trade is still characterized by a great deal of firmness, although the wholesalers are not anxious buyers, being fairly well supplied, having bought rather liberally for future delivery. There is a fair sorting-up trade by retailers of old goods, and orders are still being booked for future delivery, although there is, perhaps, not as much doing in this respect as there was a week ago. The coffee market is rather quiet. Sugars are meeting with a rather better demand, and, although the outside markets are easier, prices in canned goods are unchanged. Syrups and molasses still rule quiet. There is not a great deal doing in teas, but the outside markets are strong, as a rule, particularly in regard to Japans. The market for filberts is very firm, according to advices received this week. Wholesalers are experiencing a fairly good demand for currants. Valencia raisins are gradually getting scarcer, and wholesalers are marking up their figures for both selected and fine off-stalk.

CANNED GOODS.

The tone of the market for future delivery is, if anything, stronger than it was a week ago. Some of the canners have withdrawn all their prices on vegetables, while some have partially withdrawn them. Those packers who are offering tomatoes are asking 75c. for future delivery, and wholesalers are quoting 75 to 80c. to retailers. In old tomatoes the wholesalers report a fairly good sorting-up trade, mostly on Northwest account. The ruling price to retailers for 1898 packed tomatoes is 80c. with the range up to 85c. There is quite a demand for 1898 pack of peas at from 75c. upwards, for future delivery; 75c. is the ruling price for ordinary and 80c. for sifted peas. There have been some transactions during the past week in canned peas for future delivery at 65c. for ordinery, and 70c. for sifted peas in round lots to the wholesale trade. Old corn is still held firm, and, while $1 is the ruling price, there are still some quotations as low as 85c. Whelesalers are quoting corn for future delivery at 70 to 75c. for ordinary and 80 to 85c. for extra fine brands.

While there is not much doing in canned strawberries, some interest is being taken in the market for this article on account of the smallness of the pack. One packer was on the street this week trying to buy 500 cases from the whslesale trade to fill his orders, he having oversold to that extent. The new pack of strawberries is coming upon the market. The demand recently noted for gallon apples has slackened off again. The ruling price is $2.25. Very few canned salmon are moving and little or nothing is being done as far as can be learned for future delivery. Some of the packers of staple brands have not yet quoted at all. The situation on the Coast is strong, and from mail advices we learn that an agreement as to price has been arrived at by the packers, both at Rivers Inlet and on the Fraser river. Canned lobster is quiet. There are only a few parcels of new goods on the market so far. Canned and potted meats are in fair demand.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SUGARS.

The outside markets during the past week have ruled easy. The easiness started in the European market, both beet and cane sugar being cabled at lower prices. The decline, however, has been most marked in beet sugar. In the United States the price of refined sugar, except in two or three grades, is unchanged this week, and the holidays which they are having over there this week are somewhat lessening the interest in the sugar market there. For the week ending June 29, however, raw sugars declined ⅛c. in the United States. The total stocks of sugar in Europe and America at the end of last week, according to Willet & Gray's Statistical, were 1,731,597 tons, against 1,743,263 tons the previous week, and 1,974,265 tons a year ago. On the Canadian market the demand for refined sugar is rather better than it was a week ago, and trade may now be considered fair, although perhaps not as active as it should be. The most unsatisfactory feature about the sugar trade, as far as Canada is concerned, is the smallness of profits. The price in Toronto to-day is still $4.60 for granulated sugar, the product of the Montreal refineries, and $4.55 for Acadia. Yellows are quoted at from $3.80 upwards. Foreign granulated is quoted at $4.50 net, and foreign yellows at $3.75, ordinary terms. On Canadian sugar there are the following rebates on carload lots: To points where the equalized rate is not over 22c. a rebate of 5c. per 100 lb.; to points where the equalized rates are 23 to 26c., a rebate of 6c. per 100 lb.; to points where the equalized rates are 27 to 30c., a rebate of 8c. per 100 lb.; to points where the rates are 31c. and over, a rebate of 10c. per 100 lb.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are quiet and unchanged. Advices from New Orleans state that prices are a little higher, but, of course, the season is over when molasses can be imported from there.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

The demand for rice is fairly good at 3¾ to 3⅞c. for standard B. Tapioca is in moderate demand and firm at 4¼ to 4¾c. per lb.

TEAS.

The vessels which had been detained in quarantine having been released, more Japan teas are now being offered. The brokers report that while business is quiet, they anticipate an improvement within the next few days, as there are a good many inquiries from wholesalers. Shipments of Japan tea to this market have, so far, been light. Mail advices from Kobe, Japan, under date of June 14, stated that the market was active, and that prices both there and at Yokohama were $2 to $3 higher for choicest, and $1.50 higher on low and medium grades. A cable received this week announces a further advance of $1 per picul. The settlements this season up to June 14 were 26,271 piculs in excess of last year, while the arrivals were 28,599 piculs in excess of last year.

Low-grade China congous are dearer in the primary market, the latest price by mail being 12 taels as against 10 taels last year. Good common tea sold readily at from 14 to 16c. The higher prices in Congou teas are due to the free buying on the part of Russia. Mail advices also state that small packages of China green teas have been put on the market and that Pingsueys were expected in few days. It will probably be about the middle of August before new crops of Pingsuey teas reach the Canadian market.

Ceylon teas of the finer grade are advancing in London, England, while the commoner teas are lower. This is attributed to the fact that at this season of the year shipments from Ceylon show their worst quality, while the quantity is the largest. Consequently, teas possessing fine liquoring qualities are in smaller compass, while the commonest teas are in the greatest abundance. Mail advices from London, under date of June 23, state that at the auction on the 19th of that month, there were 19,375 packages, against 26,181 the week before. In regard to Indian teas, the advices state that the proportion of the new season's tea brought forward to auction was somewhat smaller, in addition to which a large quantity of second-hand tea was included in the sale. Prices showed a disposition to give way, teas from 7 to 8d. being especially weak.

NUTS.

The market for filberts is in a strong position. A few buyers in Canada have covered at 40s., but the advance to 47s. 6d. has put a stop to buying for the present. The crop is short, and what little there is is controlled by speculators. It is difficult to say where prices will go.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The primary market appears to have been somewhat unsettled during the past week or ten days, but it has, as yet, had no effect upon the local market. The demand here is good and prices unchanged.

VALENCIA RAISINS—Stocks of raisins are gradually being depleted, and a firmer tone prevails. Selected raisins are being held at 6½c. for the best brands, while fine off-stalk are held at 5c. per lb. The demand is fairly good for this time of the year.

PRUNES—There is no material change in the situation, while the demand is, as usual at this season of the year, light.

GREEN FRUITS.

There is still a liberal supply of strawberries. Early in the week they sold at from 6 to 8c., but it is expected that by Saturday 10c. at least will be asked. Raspberries are commencing to come in fairly well at 8 to 12c., but more liberal receipts are expected next week. Cherries are more plentiful than last week, but the demand still absorbs all offerings. A few huckleberries are offering at $1.10 to $1.25 per basket. Red currants are already arriving in large quantities, and prices have fallen 10 to 25c. in the past week. From 40 to 65c. is the present price ruling. They are in good demand. Canadian tomatoes are starting to come in at $1.25 to $1.50 per basket. Texas fruit is still offering and in good demand at $1.75 to $2 per 4-carrier case. Watermelons are arriving in car lots daily, and sell readily at 20 to 25c. The supply of bananas is light, and, as the demand keeps active, prices are firm. Oranges are in fair demand at unchanged prices. Lemons are selling well, with prices stiffening. Californian peaches and plums are arriving in larger quantities, but the demand improves sufficiently to keep prices at last week's figures.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS — There is a steady movement. Prices are firm, but unchanged at 12½ to 13c.

POTATOES—For the few old potatoes to be had $1 to $1.10 is asked. New stock is coming in more freely, and can be had this week at $1 to $1.20 per bushel. There is a ready demand for all new stock at these figures.

BEANS—There is nothing doing. Prices are unchanged at $1 to $1.10 for hand-picked, and 75 to 80c. for medium grades.

VEGETABLES — Green peas are so scarce and in such good demand that prices have advanced 25c. this week. Otherwise there is no change. We quote: Rhubarb, 15 to 20c.; radishes, 15c. per dozen bunches; spinach, 30 to 40c. per bush.; green onions, 5 to 10c. per doz.; asparagus, 30 to 50c. per doz.; celery, $1.00 per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz., $1 to $1.25; parsley, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; green cucumbers, 60 to $1 per doz.; new beets, 20 to 30c. per doz. bunches; parsnips, $1 per bag; carrots, 20 to 30c. per doz. bunches; green peas, $1 to $1.15 per bag. New cabbage are being imported at $1.65 to $1.90 per crate; cucumbers at $2 per half-bush. hamper.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The make of dairy butter is larger than for some years. This, combined with an easier feeling in Great Britain, has caused a decline of ½c. for dairy tubs, which now sell at 12 to 12½c., and a generally weaker feeling. Creamery is also easier, but no change in prices is reported.

PROVISIONS.

Another advance of ¼ to ½c. is noted in the price of breakfast bacon, hams, and backs, breakfast bacon now being quoted at 11 to 11½c., hams at 11c., and backs at 10¼ to 11c. Other meats are stiffening in value, but so far no quotable change is noted. The demand for home consumption continues exceedingly brisk.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Wheat is steady at 69c. for both red and white at outside points. The Toronto market shows considerable activity in wheat and oats. prices are unchanged. We quote as follows: Wheat, white and red, 73c.; goose, 66c.; peas, 62 to 68c.; oats, 35 to 36c.; barley, 44 to 45c.; rye, 53 to 55c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat is firm at 82c., Toronto.

FLOUR—A good demand is reported, with prices steady. We quote: Manitoba patents, $4.10; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.70; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—There is little doing. Prices are steady. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.75 in bags and $3.85 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

FISH.

Receipts are fairly large, but are easily absorbed by the demand. Oregon salmon and bluefish are done. Restigouche salmon is 1c. cheaper. Speckled trout is 5c. per lb. cheaper. North Shore whitefish and trout are ½c. per lb. dearer. No. 1 mackerel is offering at 10c. per lb, We quote as follows: Fancy mackerel, 15c.; No 1 mackerel, 10c.; Restigouche salmon, 16c.; Erie fresh whitefish, 8c.; North Shore whitefish, 7½c.; North Shore trout, 7½c.; bluefish, 9 to 10c.; speckled trout, 25c.; perch, 4c.; pike, 6c.; frogs' legs, 35c.; eels, 6c.; bullheads, 4c.; herrings, large, 4c.; halibut, 8c.; steak cod, 6c.; salt water fresh haddock, 5c.; Labrador herring, $4 per bbl. and $2 per half-bbl.; Digby herring, 9 to 10c. per box; Halifax herring, $1.50 to $1 65 per 100; cod, in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.; haddies, 8 to 9c. per lb.; lobsters, 15c. per lb.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—Deliveries continue large. Prices are steady. We quote cowhides: No. 1, 8¼c.; No. 2, 7¼c.; No. 3, 6¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9c.

SKINS — Lambskins are 5c. dearer. Otherwise there is no change. We quote as follows: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 9c. per lb.; No. 2, 7c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheepskins are worth 90c. to $1, and lambskins, 30c.

WOOL—Since the advance of 1c. last week, the feeling has weakened somewhat, and buyers are not anxious to purchase. We quote fleece at 13 to 14c., and unwashed at 8 to 9c.

SALT

A fair demand is noted. Prices are unaltered. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less thancarload lots, $1.05 per bbl, and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote F.O.B., barrels, 70c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English coarse salt 47 to 49c.. Toronto per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Dairy tub butter is ½c. cheaper.

Valencia raisins are firmer in Toronto.

Breakfast bacon, hams and backs are ¼ to ½c. per lb. dearer.

The salmon packers on the Fraser river and at Rivers Inlet have agreed upon a fixed price.

There have been further advances in Japan tea during the past week in the primary market.

Raspberries are on the market at 8 to 12c. Watermelons are 5c. cheaper. Red currants have declined 10 to 25c. per basker. Canadian tomatoes have commenced to arrive at $1.25 to $1.50 per basket.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, July 6, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE most notable fact in the wholesale grocery trade has been the continued inquiry for canned vegetables for future delivery, additional heavy contracts being placed in this market during the past week. Other canned goods exhibit little life. Sugar has exhibited rather more activity, and the movement in this staple is expected to expand during the next week or so. It maintains a steady value on spot, though the outside markets have shown some variation. Molasses and syrups have been featureless, while butter and cheese display a distinctly heavy tone and exporters are reducing their bids.

SUGAR.

There has been little change in the raw sugar market since last report, but, if anything, the tendency has been downwards and prices of beet show a decline of ½d., making a drop during the fortnight of 5 to 5¼d. There has been no change in the New York market for refined except that some grades of soft sugars reflected an easier tendency. The local market for refined was steady, and a fair business has been noted; in fact, the volume of trade has been heavier if anything than last week, and it is expected to improve as time passes. At the factory we quote: Granulated, $4.50 and yellows, $3.70 to $4.25 per 100 lb., as to grade.

SYRUPS.

There is nothing to report in the syrup market, business ruling exceedingly quiet, while values range at 1¾ to 2¼c., as to grade, at the refinery.

MOLASSES.

The advanced prices cabled on Barbadoes from the Islands has not led to any import business, probably because importers consider that they have all the goods they care to handle at present. On spot the market is quiet, as retailers show no more desire to operate at present than importers. Some small lots, ex wharf, have changed hands at 33½c. and for carlots ex store prices are 35c., and single puncheons 36c.

DRIED FRUITS.

There has been nothing special noted in dried fruits during the week. Stocks of Valencia raisins are light here, and currants are also a moderate stock, but little or nothing has been noticed yet in connection with export business on new crop.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been a good demand for new pack vegetables for future delivery, contracts for fully 10,000 cases more of tomatoes, corn, and peas being noted. The firm feeling already noted is fully maintained, tomatoes being quoted at 75c., peas 65c., and beans 65 to 70c. In corn, agents in several cases have refused to quote this week, as they look for still higher prices. In fruits, trading has continued quiet, the only firm offers that have been made so far being on strawberries and raspberries. The latter were placed at $1.40 preserved and $1.15 in syrup, and the former $1.35 and $1.15, respectively. There is little or no business in canned goods from stock, the only notable fact being a scarcity of peas and some trading in tomatoes at prices quoted in our prices current. New pack salmon for forward delivery are unchanged at $4 f.o.b. Coast for standard brands.

RICE.

There has been a fair trade noted in this staple. We quote: B standard, $3.40 to $3.50; Patnas, $4.12½ to $4.75; Japans, $4.50 to $5, and Carolina, $6 to $7.

COFFEE.

Trade in coffee was absolutely featureless during the week. The tone is easy, as offers are quite numerous, so that importers have clearly the best of it in all negotiations. Some business in Maracaibo at 12c., and Rio at 7 to 9c., is noted this week.

SPICES.

Advices state that Penang pepper continues to advance in the East. Locally, the market for general spices is quiet and prices are firm. We quote as follows: Singapore black pepper, 12½ to 13c., and Singapore white, 19½ to 20c. Penang pepper, 17½ to 18c., and West Coast, 12 to 13c. Pimento, 11 to 12c. Nutmegs, 28 to 44c., as to quality. Cassia, 9 to 10c.; Jamaica ginger, 19½ to 20c.; Cochin tips ginger, 6 to 6½c.; Zanzibar cloves, 9 to 10c.; nutmegs, 40 to 55c., and mace, 45 to 50c.

TEAS.

There has been but little to call for notice in the tea market during the past week. All the late arrivals of new Japans here are now absorbed, chiefly from 18½ to 19½c., while business in old stock is noted at 13½c. Greens have met with some inquiry at 10 to 12½c., and a few 100-package lots of blacks have sold at 14½c.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been a good business transacted in all sorts of green fruits. Oranges have been in good demand at $3.75 to $4 for 200's, and $2 to $2.50 for 100's. Lemons have ranged from $2 to $3.50, while bananas were scarce most of the week and firm at $1.40 to $1.50. The quality of the strawberries arriving during the past week was good, and prices ranged from 6 to 7c. per box. Cherries were offered more freely at 75 to 90c. for white, and $1 to $1.25 for red. The first receipts of raspberries are light and are selling at 15 to 18c. Californian fruits have been offered quite liberally: Peaches, $1.25 per crate; plums, $1.75 to $2.50, and apricots $1.50, with pears $1.50 per half-box.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—A moderately active business was transacted in eggs this week in a jobbing way, and the tone of the market was firm, with an upward tendency. Choice candled sold at 14c.; ordinary, 12c., and No. 2, 9 to 10c. per dozen. Receipts were 814 cases.

MAPLE PRODUCT—There was no change in maple product, business being very quiet. We quote: Syrup, in wood, 5¼ to 6c. per lb., and at 65 to 70c. per tin. Sugar sold at 8½ to 9c. per lb.

HONEY — The demand for honey was slow and the market is dull. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 8 to 9c.; dark, 6 to 7c.; white extracted, 7 to 7½c., and dark, 4 to 5c.

BEANS — In beans, trade is only of a small jobbing character to fill actual wants.

NEW SEASON'S JAPANS

We have made arrangements whereby we will have shipments of New Season's Japan Teas by every steamer from the Orient.

BEFORE BUYING, WRITE US FOR PRICES AND SAMPLES.

S. H. EWING & SONS, Wholesale Only. Montreal

We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

POTATOES—There is considerable inquiry for car lots of choice old potatoes, of which the offerings are light and prices firmly held at 85 to 90c. per bag.

ASHES—The market for ashes is quiet and easy. First sorts sold at $3.80 to $3.85; seconds at $3.60, and pearls are nominally quoted at $5.15 to $5.35 for firsts per 100 lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN—With two holidays in the United States business in grain on spot was exceedingly quiet, and the market is without any new feature of note. No. 2 white oats afloat were quoted at 34½c.; peas at 76½c., and buckwheat at 60c.

FLOUR—There was a fair local and country demand for small lots of flour; in consequence the market is moderately active, with no change in prices to note. We quote as follows: Winter patents, $3.75 to $4; straight rollers, $3.40 to $3.50; in bags, $1.65 to $1.70; Manitoba patents, $4.20 to $4.40; strong bakers', $3.80 to $4.

MEAL—In meal business continues quiet, the demand being only for small lots of rolled oats at $3.80 per bbl. and at $1.85 per bag.

FEED—The demand for shorts continues good, but bran is only moving in small lots to fill actual wants. The tone of the market is steady. We quote as follows: Ontario bran, in bulk, $14.50 to $15; shorts, $16 per ton; Manitoba bran, $13.50 to $14; shorts, $16, and mouille, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY—The demand for baled hay at country points for shipment to United States and England is still good; in consequence, the undertone to the market is very firm, and an active trade is reported. We quote: Choice No. 1, $7.50 to $8; No. 2, $5.50 to $6, and clover, $4.75 to $5.25 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market is very firm and prices have an upward tendency, owing to the fact that packers generally are behind hand with their orders for smoked meats; in fact, local dealers in some cases found it impossible to secure supplies. A fair trade is doing in lard, but pork is dull. We quote: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50, and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7 to 7¼c. per lb., and compound refined 5½ to 5¾c. per lb. Hams, 10 to 12c., and bacon, 10½ to 11c. per lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—As most people expected, the cheese market has recorded reaction and the average price this week is from an ⅛ to ¼c. lower than it was last, and the market rules heavy and dull at the decline. In the country, at this writing, exporters are bidding 8¼ to 8⅜c., as against 8½c. last week, while on spot, though holders have not shaded prices, if they wanted to make a sale they would have to accept 8⅛ to 8¾c., as to grade, against 8⅝ to 8⅞c., last week's figure.

BUTTER—The butter market also rules heavy in tone, but there is no particular change to report. Values on finest creamery range from 17½ to 17¾c., and on dairy from 13½ to 14c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

With the short contracts filled the expected reaction in cheese materialized last week.

Further forward contracts in canned vegetables have transpired here since last report.

First receipts of fresh new raspberries were offered on Friday last, and since then offers have increased slightly.

American operations continue active both in the baled hay and potato markets at country points in this Province.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 6, 1899.

AT this time there is little in active business to report, there being but a fair present demand for general lines. Values show little change, and, except in canned goods for future delivery, there is rather an easier tendency all round. The weather continues unsettled and quite cold for the season. The holiday somewhat affected the volume of business for the week. There have been during the last few weeks very free arrivals of English rice, so that the local stock is larger than usual. Some on hand was bought at low figures, though of good quality. In spices, while there is little change the tendency is to rather lower prices. Our market is not a large one in this respect. Tourists are beginning to arrive quite freely, and never have we been in a better position to receive them, or have the outside attractions been so many.

OIL—There is the regular summer business. For the season the sale of burning oil is particularly active. Lubricating oils move freely, but orders are generally at this season for limited quantities. Paint oils continue high. Linseeds have advanced and are firmly held. The high price makes it difficult to effect sales. Turpentine is also still high. Cod oil has rather more attention at quite low figures.

SALT—Quite a large cargo of Liverpool coarse arrived during the week. Owing to higher rates of freight rather higher figures were asked. The demand was not large, a considerable part of the cargo going into store. There was also some received via Boston, owing to lower rates of freight ruling to that port. At many common points it can be landed lower than via St. John. Canadian salt has a steady sale at even prices. For fine salt it holds the trade, except in the case of some farmers and retail dealers who want bulk goods, these buy Liverpool factory-filled. We quote: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—There is not much of interest at present. The trade have largely bought and are satisfied to watch the market advance. Only a certain quantity can be consumed and they do not care to overstock even if quite a further advance was assured. In fact, they have bought rather lighter stocks than usual, and they will carry much lighter stocks over. Many still look for rather lower figures, particularly should the pack be large. The number of brands sold this year is smaller than usual, the best known ones getting the business. Salmon have some attention but the opening price is rather high to attract business. The season is still early. Some Alaska pink fish that were brought here, though fair goods, do not give general satisfaction, the demand being for a better fish. Fruits have had little attention. Peaches are the only thing largely sold here except apples. In oysters higher prices are asked, and pineapple have been advanced. Meats of all kinds are firmly held with quite a steady sale.

GREEN FRUITS — The big sale is in bananas; and, though prices have been kept high, there has been an active demand during the week. Oranges are only of fair quality, and move slowly. Lemons sell freely at rather higher prices. Californian fruit has a ready sale, and is lower than usual at this season. There is a small daily auction of Californian fruits, which is something new, and is fairly successful. Plums, apricots and cherries have a fair sale. Strawberries show quite a range in price. Natives are now being received, but rule quite high in price. Pines are quite plentiful, but hold their price, which affects the sale. A car of melons was received this week. It is bad weather for best results, being too cold. The fruit, however, had a fairly good sale. Rhubarb is low. Tomatoes and cucumbers have a steady sale.

DRIED FRUITS — This is a quiet line. Though dealers are beginning to think about futures, little has yet been done. Prices in all lines are low, holders being anxious to clean up before new goods arrive. There is but a light demand, and prices rule lower than it would cost to import. Seeded raisins are rather easier at outside points. Dealers being short on choice goods are cutting the price of fancy. There is quite a stock still held here. Dates hold firm. Onions are lower with a fair business doing.

SUGAR—There is an active demand. As is usual at this season, prices show no change; but the feeling is not towards higher prices, at least, for a little while. American sugars are not now coming in.

MOLASSES—There is no excitement here. Present stocks are equal to all demands. Some 250 casks of Barbadoes arrived by steamer this week. Porto Rico is the grade chiefly sold. There is some inquiry for New Orleans, but little business results at this season. Stocks of all grades are light.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Eggs are not being freely received shippers obtaining better results elsewhere. Prices are rather higher, but there must be a still further advance before there will be free receipts. Butter, on the other hand, is a large stock, and, while of fair quality, is very low, with only a fair demand. Cheese is limited sale, and only small ones move at all freely. Any change in local price is towards easier figures.

FISH—Salmon have chief attention. The catch has been a small one. Prices rule high, American demand being particularly good. Cod and haddock are quite plentiful, and halibut and shad are still received, but in limited quantities. Mackerel are in light receipts with quality good. In dry fish stocks are not large, and little changed in price, though there is a rather easier tendency. Smoked, as reported last week, are higher than for some time, and, if stock does not arrive too freely, tends firm. In pickled fish, alewives have chief attention. The pack was but about two-thirds the usual quantity, being about 8,000 to 10,000 bbls. They are all exported, going south via New York. They are bringing a good price, better than usual, and show a fair profit. We quote as follows: Large and medium dry cod, $3.65 to $3.75; small, $2.25; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6½ to 7½c.; halibut, 8 to 10c. per lb.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; shad, 12 to 15c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $1.75 per 100; salmon, 17 to 18c.

PROVISIONS—At this season the demand is small, particularly for barrelled goods. Clar and mess pork keep quite close together in price. Local packed mess holds the demand over imported at a higher figure. Beef is quiet. In hams and bacon there is a fair sale at full figures. Lard is a fair sale, and prices are rather firmer.

FLOUR, FEED, AND MEAL—The firmer feeling seems to have passed by in flour, but millers feel that good prices will rule later. Oatmeal shows little, if any, change. Sale is light. Oats keep high, and are reported very scarce. There is a limited sale. Feed is rather easier to get, particularly bran, which is rather lower. Cornmeal is quite firm at a slight advance. Beans are dull at even figures. Barley, split and blue peas, while rather easier, except the last-named, are but a light sale. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.65 to $4.80; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.10; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $4.00 to $4.10; cornmeal, $2.05 to $2.10; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10; prime, 95 to $1.00; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50 to $1.75; do., Canadian, $1.80 to $2.25; mammoth clover, 7½ to 8c.; alsike, 7½ to 8c.; red, 7¼ to 7¾c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

C. H. Binks, of Montreal, was in the city this week.

Large shipments of Heinz pickles have been received by the retail trade this week.

The many friends of Mr. C. H. Dearborn, senior member of the firm of Dearborn & Co., are much pleased to see him again at his desk after his winter sojourn in Florida. Mr. Dearborn reports that the frosts of the past season have again put back the fruit industry of that State. In fact, the growers are all but discouraged.

It is with great regret we note the death of Mr. W. W. Turnbull. It was fully expected Mr. Turnbull would recover from an illness that has been somewhat tedious. For many years Mr. Turnbull was very closely identified with the wholesale trade and was, perhaps, our richest citizen. Few succeed in attaining such a reputation for honest and business capability as he enjoyed. The wholesale grocery trade of the city closed their stores for two hours the afternoon of the funeral.

Through the kindness of Mr. Ganong, of the St. Croix Soap Co., your representative was this week shown through the various departments of their large factory at St. Stephens. "Surprise" soap is a household word throughout the Dominion, and no expense is spared to keep the immense sale on the increase, while modern appliances and up-to-date methods, united with capacity of management, go far to bring about this result. The fact that quality is the first consideration is, perhaps, the primary cause of success. Besides the Canadian trade, this company is now sending large shipments to the West Indies.

CURRENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

July 6, 1899.

This list is corrected every Thursday, and the quotations herein given are for the cities of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London, St. John, N.B., Halifax, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria. The prices are solicited for publication, and are of such quantities and qualities as are usually ordered by retail dealers on the usual terms of credit.

Goods in large lots and for prompt pay are generally obtainable at lower prices.

All quotations for staple products are under the direct control of the Editors who call daily upon all the leading houses in the principal centres.

THE FLY NUISANCE.

THE following suggestions as to the abatement of the pest of flies which are such a source of annoyance and expense in many dry goods and general stores are offered by one that has had a large experience in devising means of keeping stores free of flies.

The first thing to do is to provide proper screens at doors and windows.

The next thing of importance is cleanliness. If any of the employes bring lunches which are eaten in the store, or eat fruit in the store when trade is quiet, the remnants, especially in fly time, should be gotten outside with as little delay as possible; if carried into the basement or left for several days in waste baskets the flies are attracted and eggs might be laid and flies hatched in such refuse.

If any sticky fly paper is used, and it is practically indispensible, to catch the flies that will get inside in spite of all precautions, it should always be used in the cardboard holders which the more enterprising manufacturers provide for this purpose; they cost but a few cents apiece, and, besides avoiding accidents, the paper looks better when used in these holders. A sheet of sticky fly paper laid on the shelf of a dry goods store is apt to be blown against a piece of goods, but the use of the holders reduces the risk to a minimum, as, if one of the holders is turned upside down by the wind, the fly paper contained in it will not come in contact with whatever it may be inverted upon.

For show-windows, where expensive goods are displayed, it is best to catch the flies as quickly as possible, for the damage a few flies will do in a window full of choice ribbons and silks is amazing.

Sticky fly paper cannot be used to so good advantage here as back in the store, but there is now a device called "Fly Ribbon," a strip of paper about 1½ in. wide and 20 in. long, which is covered upon both sides with sticky material, and wound upon a core for convenience in handling. It has a small wooden or metal drip cup at the lower end, and is reinforced at the upper end with a piece of tough paper having a small hole and a longitudinal slit for convenience in hanging it up. These ribbons can be used in a show-window, and, if there is any chance of the wind swaying them where they might swing against some of the goods displayed, they could be fastened with threads to avoid this danger, the threads, of course, would be practically invisible to anyone looking in at the window from the outside, and the ribbons themselves can be concealed, if it seems desirable, by hanging some of the goods displayed in front of them.

These ribbons we have never seen in any Canadian city, but they are offered in New York city by many dealers, and are made, we understand, by the manufacturers of "Tanglefoot Sticky Fly Paper."

A TEA MERCHANT INTERVIEWED.

JOHN McEWAN, senior partner of the large London tea firm, McMeekin & Co., was interviewed by a representative of the St. John, N.B., Sun, when he was in that city.

McMeekin & Co. deal only in Indian and Ceylon teas, and have plantations of their own in both countries. The late Mr. McMeekin was one of the earliest tea-planters in India. He was also a practical horticulturist, introducing new methods of cultivation of the tea plant.

Mr. McEwan has been in the tea business since 1877, and has visited the plantations of India and Ceylon, and has been over the tea-drinking world in the interests of his trade. He has visited Russia, and Australia, and Africa, and has been over this continent from New Orleans to Winnipeg, and from Halifax to Vancouver and San Francisco. His firm handle a large direct trade with the west coast, across the Pacific. His travels and his business experience make him an authority on the subject of tea, and he is now preparing a paper on "Distribution of the Tea Plant in Production and Consumption," to be read before the International Geographical Congress at Berlin next September. He is a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, which has a commercial geographical section. He has written a booklet on Indian tea.

Discussing the cultivation of the tea plant, Mr. McEwan pointed out that India and not China was its real home. The cultivation of the plant in India was begun by the East India Company, members of which brought plants from China in ignorance of the fact that the plant was a native of India. They cleared the jungle and set out Chinese plants, but in the course of time discovered they had been cutting down trees of a superior character to those they had brought from China.

The native Indian plant, as a profitable commercial product and as a leaf for producing good liquid tea was found to be vastly superior to what was thereafter termed the China variety. Consequently much the greater portion of all the modern cultivation of tea, both in India and Ceylon, has been of plants from the seed of the indigenous type. Many hybrids are, however, in use, and are more or less successful, according to elevation. The pure China tea has in some cases given very satisfactory quality at a high elevation, although its yield in quantity is comparatively small. Many hold the theory that under European supervision and methods of planting, cultivation and manufacture a tea superior in quality to anything the world has yet seen may be produced. Many tea experts maintain that for delicacy and flavor there never has been such tea as formerly came from China, but under the modern conditions of trade its production appears to be a lost art. There is a possibility of recovering, in the way suggested, what seems to have been forgotten.

The blending of teas, Mr. Ewan pointed out cannot be done in Ceylon, for the importation of other teas is forbidden; nor in India, on account of climatic conditions. If tea were opened up during the rainy season in Calcutta or in the moist, steamy atmosphere of Colombo, it would lose materially by the exposure. Nothing is more sensitive than tea. In packing it on the estate the last process, called the final firing, is designed to remove any particle of moisture which may have been left during the earlier process, or contracted while it awaited packing. Immediately after the final firing the tea is packed and sealed down, but when packages are opened at the point of shipment for any purpose it is not possible to refire them, and consequently the contents to some extent deteriorate, especially if exposed to a moist atmosphere.

"For this reason," said Mr. McEwan, "the best tea to handle in a country store, with a miscellaneous stock of goods, some of which give off strong odors, is a tea in sealed lead packages. Any tea which has to be left open in bins or chests is liable to contract some of the characteristics of other goods, and consequently deteriorate."

"In spite of the rise in prices since last December, aggregating fully 50 per cent. on the value of all common grades of Indian, Ceylon and Chinese teas, the home consumption in England has continued to increase, and it seems probable that prices will be maintained at a high level for a considerable time to come. It will be easily seen that it is not possible quickly to extend the production of tea, as an estate yields practically no crop for about five years after the land is cleared for planting. There need be no fear, however, of an ultimate short supply, for a very large acreage of new cultivation in India and Ceylon and in Travancore in Southern India has yet to come into bearing, and will materially increase the supply.

COLSON & SON'S NEW AGENCY.

E. C. Colson & Son have been appointed Canadian agents for "Eiffel Tower" lemonade, and will have a full line of samples about July 15, when they will be pleased to send them to any wholesaler who may require them. Besides making lemonade, this firm puts up a line of winter drinks, such as ginger, etc., and it is the intention to thoroughly exploit the Canadian trade.

SUGAR CONSUMPTION IN GREAT BRITAIN.

"In 1869 the English consumed on the average 42 lb. of sugar per capita annually," says a writer in the Forum. "That this is enough for either health or reasonable enjoyment is proved by the fact that few people use so much to-day. For example, in 1896 Italy consumed 7.19 lb. per capita; Spain, 12.67 lb.; Austria-Hungary, 16.84 lb.; Belgium, 22.8 lb.; Germany, 27.14 lb., and France, 28.24 lb. In the United States, where the use of sweets is said to be injuriously excessive, only 35 lb. per capita were consumed in 1869 and 61 lb. per capita in 1898. In England during 1895-97 every human being, including babies, invalids and paupers, disposed on the average of nearly 4 ounces of sugar a day, or 84.77 lb. a year. Furthermore, neither from the economic nor the sanitary standpoint do the uses to which this extra sugar ration is put seem satisfactory. One of the chief of these appears to be to encourage drinking. Though the exports of beer from England show a tendency to decline, brewing grows apace. Twenty-seven gal. a year per capita, counting women and children, are surely enough. In America, though the amount of spirits drunk is the same, 15½ gal. of beer suffice, and American beer is light. Twenty-seven and one-quarter gal. were the measure for England in 1883, yet in 1897 it had swelled to 31½ gal., an expansion at the rate of about 1 per cent. a year. But, fast as brewing grows, the weight of sugar used in the beer grows faster. In 1883 the public put up with something less than 4½ lb. of sugar to the barrel; in 1897 it demanded between 8 and 9 lb.

It Pays to Please the Laundress

Benson's Enamel Starch is a perfect cold-water laundry Starch for shirt bosoms, collars, and cuffs, where an especially stiff finish or brilliant gloss is desired. Do you know of any laundress who wouldn't thank you and continue to trade at your store if you suited her absolutely on those points she prides herself so much on in her work?

Benson's Enamel Starch

never fails in the perfect work it does. Our extensive plant by which all water we use is filtered assures an even whiteness of the color always. "It pays to please the laundress."

THE PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU . . . .

Reads every paper in Canada and clips therefrom all articles of a business or personal nature of interest to subscribers in this department.

Politicians can obtain from it everything the papers say about themselves on any subject in which they are interested. Business men learn of new openings for trade, pointers to sell goods, addresses of people likely to become buyers, tenders wanted, stocks for sale or wanted, reports of new industries or stores, etc.

TERMS—$5 per hundred clippings; $40 per thousand, payable in advance; but a yearly contract will be found the most satisfactory.

We have also lists of firms in every branch of trade in the Dominion, the professions, club members, society, etc., and we are prepared to address and mail circulars or letters to these at any time.

Your Profit in Selling Salt

depends for its real value upon the length of time that you hold the trade of the customer who buys it of you. The permanent customer pays you the biggest profit in the end. Salt is a small item, but it is just one of these "small items" that holds a customer's trade.

Windsor Salt

is absolutely free from all impurities—it is a free-running, white, perfectly crystalized Salt that never varies from the one high standard that has made it famous as the "Salt of Quality." With it you can hold the trade of the most particular woman that ever lived. Leading wholesalers sell it.

Suggestions

Cox's Gelatine.

The brand folks know—tried and true in its purity and its strength. It makes a rich and a crystalline jelly, and it does its work quickly and surely. The economical housewife's gelatine—Cox's.

The Best and Strongest.

Lazenby's Jelly Tablets.

13 varieties of already sweetened and absolutely pure, flavored jelly tablets. The field of their sales is widening—"quality counts" you see.

Lazenby's Soup Squares.

Large orders recently filled in London for the Government for the Indian frontier. Competition is always out-distanced by quality—again we say "quality counts."

Stower's Lime Juice Cordial.

Absolutely no musty flavor so common in similar preparations. Not a drop of alcohol in it. Used by the Queen and both Houses of Parliament. The highest quality made anywhere by anybody. Good profits for you in handling it.

"Thistle Brand" Finnan Haddies.

Real Finnan Haddies, cured, smoked and packed right at the waterside. Thus, they retain that delicate flavor that consumers like and yet so seldom get.

Packed at St. Mary's Bay, N.S.

Stower's Lime Juice.

The most economical for your customers because 20 per cent. stronger than any other. Absolutely pure Lime Juice—purified twice over! A money-maker and a "customer-keeper." A quick, seasonable seller for now!

Every one the best of its kind.

A few words about

TEAS

Now is a good time to buy Ceylon and Indian Teas.

The competition for low-grade teas has been so strong that the relative values of both low and high have been much disturbed.

The higher grades were never cheaper, and exceptional values are still to be had. As a return to normal conditions may be expected

Grocers would do well to stock up at once.

Is It Fair?

Comparison is the only true test of profits. If you have been dissatisfied with the amount of money you make from the sale of Cigars, the chances are ten to one that the quality of the Cigars has not been quite up to the mark and many men have gone elsewhere to buy their cigars after buying once of you.

My "Pharaoh" 10 cent and my "Pebble" 5 cent Cigar contain the highest quality of tobacco that it is possible to put into cigars selling at these prices. I employ only the most skillful cigarmakers. My list of permanent customers among the retail grocers in Canada is increasing from month to month—I would like to number you among them. Send for my samples and prices of

Everything in its Season

"STERLING" BRAND PICKLES FOR SUMMER

It may be a question whether the larger quantity of pickles are sold in summer, when picnicing is at its height, or the winter season, when banquets and suppers are galore.

Enough for the present to know that the demand in summer is large and the better the pickles the better the grocer's trade—and more satisfactory. Your choice will be "Sterling" Brand Pickles if you're after the best trade.

Molina Rolled Wheat

Sold by the Pound.

You are mistaken in thinking because your business in Rolled Oats falls off in hot weather that you've got to lose your profits on Cereal Breakfast Foods until cool weather comes around again—Tillson's "Molina Rolled Wheat" is the one ideal substitute that will keep your profits at the high-water mark right through the Summer months.

CARD-WRITING AND WINDOW DECORATION.

WINDOW card-writers and window-designers ought to give more attention to the study of Nature in her more decorative aspects—that is, of flowers, fruits, birds, and all such simple forms of natural things as those which the mind of man instinctively turns to in order to get his ideas of what is decorative and festal. The practical trimmer must study Nature early and assiduously in her decorative aspects, especially on the side of color. With this study of Nature in her decorative aspect must be associated that conscious and deliberate adaptation of her forms to the purposes of practical design, which is a fundamental in all practical work. This, again, is one of the things which the ordinary art student learns to despise in just about the same degree as his powers as a technician become developed, and is, therefore, something which must not be left until his training is very far advanced, but must be taken hold of as one of the fundamentals of his course.

Secondly: The practical window design or card effect means an intelligent grasp of the limitations imposed.

Every trimmer or card-writer cannot hope to always have an abundance of material with which to work. Hence the need of skillful use of what is at hand. Color furnishes the very first element of interest in window decoration, and is the most elementary thing with which the decorator deals, so that its use should be one of the first things with which a window designer becomes familiar. The first work with color may be in such schemes as are represented by stripes and plaids. Study the fundamentals of color theory and the laws of harmony with reference to such elementary uses of color as the forms of ornament represent.

LABEL DESIGNS.

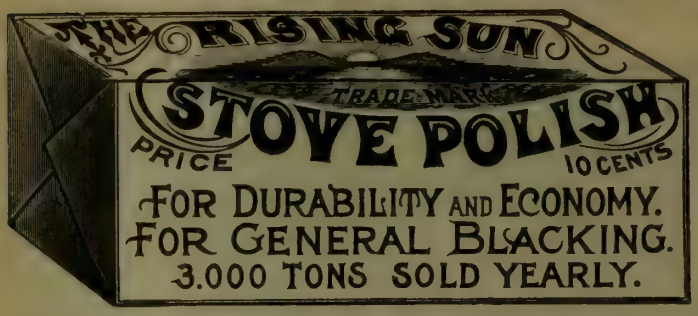
Card-writers are frequently called upon to prepare fancy tickets or labels for shelf and counter goods. Take the matter of color in this connection. The labels may made so as to sell or prevent the sale of the goods. In the colors of labels, plain white, plain buff, and the combination of blue and white are useful. The favorite colors are red and yellow. The writer commends the following colors: (1) Light blue or lilac ground, with flowers in black; (2) crimson ground with flowers of five colors, these for children's clothing; (3) light blue ground with white flowers, for curtains and bed-coverlets.

LANDSCAPE SCENES.

Many of the mistakes made in coloring landscape window illustrations arise from a lack of a proper perception of the conditions under which color is seen, or of the influences colors have upon each other when combined or juxtapered. The colors of a landscape scene in a window will vary according to the light by which it is illuminated. A green tree will appear dull and grey in a low light, in the bright mid-day sun it will appear yellow, in the last rays of sunset it will assume a purple hue. This has bearing on the coloring of window settings as there is a direct connection, as light and shade in any color combination exercise an influence upon the whole effect and upon the individual colors of which it is composed as well.

The quality of one color in the window will vary according to the colors with which it is combined. Make a display with black and blue, black and red, or black and orange, and the quality of the black will be different in each one, although the same material is used in each case. This is simply due to the influence of the color upon the black. The same remark applies to the influence of one color upon another. Not merely does the presence of the different colors influence each other, but their relative quantity and the amount of light and shade, or black and white, also. There are numerous ways of studying and comparing their effects. One of the simplest is to take strips of colored paper or cloth of varying widths and lay them side by side upon white, black or neutral grounds, and compare the effects. When the effects have been noted with the colored strips laid close together, move them slightly apart so that they are separated by a narrow strip of white or black; then move them a little further apart, and careful observation will show that there is a distinct influence upon both colors and ground. If very strong contrasting colors—such as blue and orange, or red and green, are used, the effect is all the more marked. It is best to study color effects in a steady, subdued light, so that the quality of the color can be best observed.

Another simple method of studying color is to sit in a room where there is a stained glass window and note the effect of the light as it passes through the different colored glasses upon a carpet or other object. Whenever the light passing through red glass falls upon a red object, or any color partaking of red, the color is enhanced, whilst other colors will be subdued.



ART AS APPLIED TO TICKET-MARKING.

There are four classifications of ancient types used in modern ticket-writing. First, is the Greek form.

GREEK ART.

Here, delicacy and refinement of treatment, careful study of proportion of figures and letters, and infinite care produce an exquisite art, that is, to-day, a model of all that is best in ticket architecture and decoration.

ROMAN ART.

In the Roman class we have scrolls, and cover them lavishly with acanthus leaves. Indeed, scrolls heavily laden with acanthus leaves surrounding a rosette, have become a sign of recognition in window tickets of this order. This heavy ornamentation soon gets monotonous. Their only originality is manifested in their development of the forms borrowed from others.

SARACENIC ART.

This is not often used by ticket-writers, because the ingenuity of the artist is taxed to create a style that depends entirely upon geometric form and on color for its effect. The result is a theme interlacing with gorgeous colors. Gold is used profusely and the decorations are worked much in relief with stucco effects.

GOTHIC ART.

The last is the Gothic, which is practically a religious style, having grown out of the Christian Byzantine. The arch known in history as the Gothic arch, is a strong characteristic, although other forms are common. The trefoil and quartrefoil are also typical forms. Its exquisite window tracery, built on geometric forms, is a strong mark for recognition.

CANDLING EGGS.

A simple lamp for "candling" eggs has just been patented, which enables a dealer to make the tests in any subdued light. An ordinary kerosene-burning lamp, backed by a strong reflector, furnishes the rays. The front of the lamp is shielded by an upright of black japanned tin, supplied with a broad, stubby spout, into the end of which the egg is laid. The light of the lamp is concentrated through that spout and the egg becomes almost transparent.—New England Grocer.

HIS CAPITAL WAS 40c.

As an instance of the rapid strides that can be made in this country by pushing young men who don't mind a little hard work the following is told: Mr. Colin McDougall, of Indian Head, arrived there at the age of 18 with the magnificent capital of 40c. For four years he worked as a firm laborer at an average salary of $12 per month. He then rented a half section of improved land at $300 per year with the privilege of purchasing at any time. After two years' work here he bought a half section of land for $4,000 and sold out about June for $7,300, and is now starting in again in the Yellow Grass district with a capital of $6,000 clear.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held on Monday evening in St. George's hall, Elm street. There was a good attendance. President Johnson occupied the chair.

The principal matter considered was the annual picnic of the association, which is to be held at Hamilton on Wednesday, July 26. The various committees reported the completion of their labors.

The musical committee reported that an orchestra of eight pieces had been secured to furnish music on the boat and at the park.

The sports committee reported that arrangements had been made for the baseball match between the Toronto grocers and travelers; a tug-of-war between the Toronto and the Hamilton grocers, and 15 other events, such as races, jumping, guessing contests, etc. An offer was read from a Toronto house, offering prizes for a soap race, similar to that of another race on the programme. After a warm discussion, the offer was accepted, but the opinion was generally expressed that, in future, prizes should not be accepted for specified races. Discussion also brought out a desire for a quoit tournament for the members of the association. The addition of this and a couple of races makes the programme of sports a much more complete one than in former years.

An offer was read from Lumsden Bros., wholesale grocers, Hamilton, who offered to put up a tent on the park for the use of the association, if desired. This offer was accepted. A letter was received from Lucas, Steele & Bristol, inviting the grocers to visit their warehouse, and offering cigars to all who did so. This offer will also be accepted.

HOW GROCERS ARE FOOLISH.

When she buys of the retailer, she says: "I'll see that you get paid for this. No one can say that I cheated him."

This, after a long course of trusting on the part of the retailer, brings doubt to his mind.

Later, she cometh not, and to the collector saith: "You must collect this of my husband. He is responsible for all our bills."

About that time, this good and faithful wife is "priming" up some other foolish grocer.

Do you know the kind?—Retail Grocers' Advocate.

COMPOUND FOR CLEANING GLASS.

A mixture for cleaning window glass, according to an exchange, is prepared by moistening calcined magnesia with benzine so that a mass is formed sufficiently moist to let a drop form when pressed. Make the mixture as wanted for use, or else keep it ready prepared in glass-stoppered bottles. For use, dip a pad of cotton wool or rag in the paste, and rub it on the glass to be cleaned, and afterwards polish with a clean duster and chamois leather. Another cleaning compound for the same purpose is to mix one part of olive oil, one part of liquid ammonia, two parts of lime and one part of water to a thick paste.

CLERGYMEN AND TRADING STAMPS

In The Kingston Times of July 6 was printed the following over the signature of "Citizen":

"Unless the merchants take a firm stand against trading stamps and coupons, the evil will spread to such an extent that many merchants will be ruined and many clerks thrown out of employment. I don't understand why more ministers do not use their efforts to try and rid cities of such things, which are, in many cases, causing the merchants and people to commit fraud. In order to get the ten stamps held out as a bait to force people to continue, some actually keep four and five books, and send different members of the family to get the stamps, then put into one book. Then, again, the people are so crazed that, for a fact, people have been known to take stamps in preference to a discount of 20 per cent. on an article. What are merchants thinking of, allowing a third party to step in between them and their customers and reap the profits, which justly belong to them? In less than a year, $15,000 have been taken from whom and for whom—by coupons and trading stamps?

"How are we going to get rid of them? It all depends on the people and merchants. If you don't feed the animal, it will die. If the clergy would bring up such matters as these it would be better than worrying about the heathen Chinese. Looking for something for nothing is next thing to stealing. Let all take up the broom of right and sweep trading stamps and coupons out of Kingston, same as they did in Halifax, Arnprior, and many other places."

REFRIGERATOR CAR SERVICE IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The local refrigerator car service from Vancouver to interior British Columbia and Kootenay points, inaugurated by the C.P.R. for the season on June 19, should prove a benefit to the wholesale trade of the city, as well as to the up-country merchants, in transportation of perishable goods, as fruit, fresh butter, eggs, etc. Such a service should render it possible for Vancouver wholesalers to reach out for that trade in a way that would bring it this way. And every point of contact between the coast and the interior is a means to the end of bringing about that close and far-reaching trade relationship between the parts of the Province, which is absolutely necessary for progress such as is possible.

The dates on which freight will be received for shipment at Vancouver are advertised by the company as July 3, 8, 13, 18, 24, 28; September 1, 6, 11, 16, 21, 26, and October 2. As stated in the circular issued by C.P.R. freight department and previously published, cars will be iced between Vancouver and Arrowhead, and from the latter point freight will be forwarded by first steamer.—Province, Vancouver.

HALF HOLIDAY IN VANCOUVER.

The Wednesday half holiday has gone in Vancouver and the reasons are various. It would seem to be lack of unanimity principally. There was also apathy on the part of some, though in the main the merchants have expressed themselves as quite willing to observe the holiday. The stipulation always made was that everyone should observe it. The only benefit that has arisen from the whole movement has been the establishment of a pretty generally observed early closing practice, which is, perhaps, a good deal to have accomplished if only the merchants continue to observe it.—Province, Vancouver.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

FROM January 1 to June 30, there were received in New York, according to statistics furnished by the Fruit Buyers' Union, 127,740 boxes and 14,200 cases of oranges, against 19,450 boxes last year; 1,457,900 boxes of lemons, compared with 1,040,460 boxes for same period in 1898; 2,073,000 bunches of bananas, against 1,876,000 bunches for the corresponding time last year.

BRAZILIAN COFFEE CROP.

According to the entries at Rio and Santos the coffee crop for the season of 1898-99 was 8,771,000 bags of which 3,192,000 bags were Rio and 5,579,000 bags were Santos. It is estimated that the world's visible supply of coffee made very little change during the month of June.

THE PRUNE CROP.

Concerning prunes The California Fruit Grower says in its issue of July 1: "The export movement during the past ten months has been very light as compared with the same period in 1897-98, the shortage amounting to some 436 carloads. This quantity would have cleared the stock held on the Coast, besides making quite a hole in the stocks carried by eastern dealers. The situation will, no doubt, be changed this season, as the crop prospects in Oregon and Washington are poor, while last season these States contributed some 700 or 800 cars for eastern shipment. From France comes the report of a short crop, it being estimated at about one-third of last year. Reports from the producing districts of this State show a decided change in the outlook, owing to the heavy 'drop' that has been going on for some days past. Just how much the drop will cut down early estimates it is hard to say, but holders of spot stocks are extracting consolation from the change in the situation."

EXPORTS OF SPICES.

J. W. Phyfe & Co. report the following telegraphic advice of exports from Singapore and Penang during the last half of June, 1899: To United States, black pepper, 60 tons; nutmegs, 35 tons; to Great Britain, black pepper, 50 tons; to continent, 90 tons. Total exports since January 1: To United States, black pepper, 1899, 1,830 tons; 1898, 1,095 tons; 1897, 2,590 tons; nutmegs, 1899, 171 tons; 1898, 160 tons; 1897, 86 tons; to Great Britain, black pepper, 1899, 1,570 tons; 1898, 2,840 tons; 1897, 3,870 tons; to continent, black pepper, 1899, 980 tons; 1898, 1,100 tons; 1897, 1,150 tons.

NEXT SEASON'S CALIFORNIAN ORANGES.

Private mail advices state that 30,000 cars will be the probable crop of Californian oranges next season, which is considerably larger than this year's crop. Northern California will commence to ship about the beginning of November, while the oranges in the southern part of the State will probably not be ripe enough to ship until the middle of December. The Mexican crop of oranges is reported to be very light this year.

FIVE HUNDRED PIGEONS WANTED

L. S. & B. write: "A customer west wants 500 live pigeons, crated to ship by express. See if an inquiry through your paper would bring a reply."

The lobster fishermen on the north shore of Prince Edward Island have again suffered serious loss. The Farmer says: "Last Friday's storm so broke up the traps that we learn of many who are compelled to shut down for the season, not having sufficient traps to further pursue operations. The shores along the north side of the island are strewn with broken traps.

ENGLAND'S TEA TRADE.

GOW, WILSON & STANTON'S tea report, published in London, Eng., shows very little change in the volume of importation of tea into the United Kingdom. In the season of 1896-97, the importation of all teas was 269,989,925 lb.; in 1897-98, the total was 269,133,457 lb., and, in 1898-99, 269,428,560 lb., showing a decline of about one-fifth of 1 per cent. in two years.

Though the aggregate importation is practically unchanged, the report shows that China teas are still being imported in diminishing quantities, the imports being 32,479,996 lb. in 1896-97; 30,496,929 lb. in 1897-98, and 25,858,614 lb. in 1898-99. The receipts of Indian teas, on the other hand, are steadily growing. In 1896-97, they amounted to 133,026,515 lb.; in 1897-98, to 135,796,425 lb., and, in 1898-99, to 138,250,958 lb. Imports of Ceylon tea fell from 97,796,474 lb. in 1896-97 to 95,497,963 lb. in 1897-98, but rose again, in 1898-99, to 97,764,806 lb. That other countries are steadily increasing the shipments to the United Kingdom is shown by the increase from 6,692,940 lb. in 1896 97 to 7,342,130 lb. in 1897-98 and 8,554,182 lb. in 1898-99.

The aggregate exports from the United Kingdom show a falling off from 36,283,251 lb. in 1896-97 to 33,431,076 lb. in 1898-99. This is caused by the decline in exports of Chinese tea of which 20,325,656 lb. were exported in 1896 97, and 18,970,230 1897-98 and 13,480,943 last season, showing a falling off of 7,164.713 lb. in the two years. The exports of Indian tea from the United Kingdom in the same period rose from 5,338,967 lb. 1896-97 and 6,171,776 in 1897-98 to 7,866,933 lb., and the exports of Ceylon tea from 9,682,878 lb. in 1896 97 and 10,935,440 in 1897-98 to 11,178,640 lb. last year.

The following table shows the countries to which the various teas were exported last season:

	Indian. lb.	Ceylon. lb.	China. lb.
Countries in Europe	4,328,430	6,747,847	7,228,830
United States	592,723	1,029 872	566,350
British North America	1,697,726	1,856,823	883,441
Newfoundland	41,396	91,635	122,938
Other countries	1,206,658	1,453,463	4,679,384
Total	7,866,933	11,179,640	13,480,943

In addition to the above, 903,560 lb. which had been received from "other countries," were exported. The exports of Indian tea to Canada were 1,032,386 lb. in 1897-98, so the past season's exports show an increase of 665,340 lb., over 60 per cent. The exports of Ceylon were 1,452,035 lb. in 1897-98, the increase last season being 404,788 lb., or over 35 per cent. The exports of Chinese teas were 975,122 lb. in 1897-98, thus showing a decline of 91,681 lb., or about 10 per cent.

CANNED FRENCH DELICACIES HIGHER.

A feature in regard to the canned goods market is that the sale of French peas in Canada is constantly increasing. Advices in regard to this specialty state that the season's packing is now practically over. It is a short one. Prices for the raw material have been so high that an advance of 50c. to $1 per case has taken place. With reference to mushrooms, a sharp advance of 75c. to $1 per case is also reported. There never was such a scarcity of this vegetable.

MANIPULATION OF CHEESE VALUES.

A RECOVERY, an advance in the price of cheese was the last thing that people expected during the previous week. Yet, it has come about in a manner that cannot be denied.

The curious part of it, however, is that the improvement seems to have originated entirely on this side of the Atlantic, for, while advanced prices were paid last Thursday, Friday and Saturday and during the present week in the country, cable limits to exporters in Montreal did not respond. On the contrary, they were reduced, instead of advanced, in some cases.

Two influences possibly had a good deal to do with the sudden turn in the market. These were the comparative scarcity of colored cheese, and the fact that operators had not only oversold the market on the first half, but on the last half of June as well.

It was on colored cheese that the extreme prices were realized, while manipulation had a good deal to do with putting up the price on the shorts.

Such a situation is an artificial one, and it remains to be seen whether the course of future events will warrant the prices that are being paid. One satisfactory feature is that it has resulted in a good clearance on this side, for the factorymen in every situation are very closely sold up.

EXPORT DUTY ON JAPAN TEA.

The cable announcement to the effect that the Japanese Government will remove the export duty on tea has naturally created a good deal of interest, although the report, up to the time of writing, has not been confirmed.

Should this export duty be removed it would possibly make a difference of half a cent per lb. in the price of Japan tea. In the meantime, therefore, importers are disinclined to place orders.

APPLES WANTED IN MONTREAL.

A subscriber writes us asking for names of those in the Maritime Provinces who will be in a position to ship apples to Montreal. Any person desiring to correspond with this gentleman will please address THE CANADIAN GROCER, Montreal.

THE CANNED CORN SITUATION.

THE situation in canned corn for future delivery continues to gather strength, and one packer after another is withdrawing quotations.

Some of the packers are going so far as to try, upon technicalities, to back out of orders which they had previously accepted.

This is certainly pretty good evidence of the strength of the market.

Reports from all over the country agree that the growing corn plants are in anything but a satisfactory condition, although the rain of the past few days has been most beneficial.

But what undoubtedly gives the market its greatest strength is the purchase of canned corn futures by a certain syndicate. What the quantity is that the syndicate has purchased cannot, of course, be stated, but it is estimated at all the way from 80,000 to 100,000 cases.

With the uncertainty of the crop and the large purchases on syndicate account it is difficult to say what the condition of the market will be a few months hence.

Corn is at present a pretty good price for futures, and an advance of another 10 or 15c. will put it where old corn is to-day. But the high price that is ruling now for the latter is interfering with the consumption, for, with prices 95c. to $1 per dozen, corn cannot be retailed three for 25c., the maximum sum which consumers have been educated to pay of late years.

However, the syndicate may only have in view a moderate price.

A GOOD MOVE.

It is understood The Hamilton City Improvement Society is now an established fact, and has for its president Mr. Steele, of Lucas, Steele & Bristol. The objects of the society are to promote the improvement and beautifying of the city, and to assist and stimulate the authorities in enforcing the laws relating thereto. It is to be hoped that similar societies will be established all over the country.

When one sees the wretched condition of lanes and streets in our towns and cities, the poor sanitary arrangements, and the badly kept lawns and sidewalks, the law respecting noxious weeds a dead letter, it is obvious there is a great need for a wide-spread creation of local improvement societies.

No class probably benefit more from well-kept streets and well-enforced laws than the merchants, and it is to be hoped they will be leaders in this movement.

DEAREST EGGS FOR TEN YEARS.

The price of eggs this week is higher than has been the case during any similar week in 10 years. The price in Toronto just now is 13 to 13½c., the latter figure predominating. Many sales have been made at 14c.

In previous years, the following prices have ruled at this time: 1898, 11½ to 12c.; 1897, 9 to 9½c.; 1896, 9 to 9½c.; 1895, 10½ to 11c.; 1894, 10½ to 11c.; 1893, 11½ to 12c.; 1892, 10 to 10½c.; 1891, 12½c.; 1890, 13 to 13½c.

The cause of the high figures ruling this year is simply that the demand from all parts of Canada has grown so near to the production that prices have been forced up until they are now above an export basis. Some firms, who were pickling at this time last year, have now their hands full supplying orders for British Columbia.

THE PINEAPPLE SEASON.

The New York pineapple season, which has just closed, has, acrording to The New York Journal of Commerce, been a very unsatisfactory one. The receipts of Havana pines were but 69,000 barrels as compared with 108,000 barrels in 1897, and of Bahamas, but 40,000 dozen as compared with 84,000 dozen two years ago.

Records of Florida shipments are not kept, but it is estimated that receipts from that source were not nearly as large as usual.

The quality, too, especially of the Havana fruit, has been very inferior, causing much loss to New York jobbers, on account of rebates asked for spoiled fruit..

The cause of the poor quality in the Cuban pine is probably the fact that the fields or plantations have been neglected during the rebellion in the Island. The fields have been devastated and the pines have been allowed to grow almost wild.

Canadian jobbers did not suffer from spoiled fruit to the extent the New York fruitmen evidently did, but the amount of business done was small, owing to the scarcity of supplies. Prices ruled much higher than usual throughout the season.

A TEN-YEAR CURRANT RETENTION LAW.

THE Currant Retention Bill has again been adopted by the Greek Parliament, but, this time, instead of being a 12-month affair, it is good for 10 years.

As up to the time of writing no details of the law have been received, just exactly what its provisions are cannot be stated, but its very title implies that the measure again authorizes the Government to retain a certain proportion for distillation purposes. Under the previous law the proportion of the crop retained was 15 per cent.

Advices from both Patras and London state that the passage of the bill has imparted a firmer tone to the currant market, and importers in Canada were, this week, compelled to pay 6d. per cwt. higher than was paid two weeks ago for fine Filiatra fruit.

As to whether prices will be maintained or not remains to be seen. Among experts, there is some difference of opinion, although the majority take a bullish view. Dem. Schias, of Patras, is one of those who is not so sanguine.

The weather in Greece appears to have been exceptionally fine, and mail advices received in Toronto this week estimate that the yield will likely be about the same as last year. According, however, to an English paper just to hand, some experts are of opinion that the crop will be smaller than anticipated.

A CANNED TOMATO SYNDICATE.

A syndicate is now trying to do with canned tomatoes what a syndicate has already done in regard to corn. That is, purchase a good proportion of the pack.

Whether it will succeed or not remains to be seen. On account of the large lot of canned tomatoes which have already been sold for future delivery, the task will not, perhaps, be as easy of accomplishment as it was in regard to corn.

However, the scheme is being negotiated, and some purchases have been made, while certain packers have been quoted figures for their whole pack. What the measure of success will be time only will tell.

MOLASSES ADVANCES.

THERE has been still another shuffle in the Barbadoes molasses market, prices having advanced again at the Island within the past few days. Some cables ask 16c. and some quote an even higher price, naming 17c. first cost at the Island.

This latter figure is the top price, which was reached some time during the latter part of May. Then the market began to sag off, falling as low as 14c.

Business was done by Canadian importers chiefly around 14½ to 15c., and naturally they are not disappointed by the recovery that has taken place in the cost price, as it makes the possibility remote of any low-priced molasses coming into competition with their higher priced goods. It is also understood that the crop at the Island is nearly exhausted, and that there is hardly more than 2,000 puncheons in reserve.

In Montreal the market has ruled much firmer since the reception of this news, and round lots, ex wharf, are now held ½c. higher at 33½ to 34c. Jobbers also show more desire to operate for future delivery, though the actual movement is light.

ENGLISH SCARCITY OF JAMS.

There has been a great shortage of English jams for the last month or two. A leading importer informed THE CANADIAN GROCER, a few days ago, that, for two months past, he had been unable to secure any, and said it was all owing to the shortage in the English fruit crop. He had often wondered, he said, why Canadian canners did not pay more attention to the exporting of fruit pulp.

UNITED STATES BACON IN CANADA.

Last year mention was frequently made of the large shipments of United States provisions into Canada, especially into British Columbia and the northern districts of Ontario.

The price of provisions was so low in the United States last year that, in the face of a duty of 2c. per lb., British Columbia imported $428,355 worth and Ontario $157,686, against $176,987 for both Provinces in the previous year.

This year the price of United States provisions is so much nearer to that of Canadian, that Ontario packers are at present able to fill even British Columbia requirements at a figure that United States packers could not touch.

The consequence is that orders for British Columbia and Northern Ontario have been largely increased. This, together with the general improvement in the demand, has resulted in an increase of fully 100 per cent. in the demand experienced by one large Toronto packing-house, which packs only for Canadian trade.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

The Grocers' Baseball Team.

It looks as if the travelers' baseball team were going to receive another "drubbing" from the grocers this year. The grocery batters have been practising on the Weston bakery team, whom they have twice beaten. In the last game, on the Upper Canada grounds, one of the batters hit the ball so hard that it traveled to the Arlington hotel, where it went through a $12 plate glass window. Such exhibitions of batting powers come high, but, as they are precursors of victory, the bill will be cheerfully paid. The offer of Lumsden Bros. for a tent on the park grounds might not have been accepted had not Ben. Panter thrown out the suggestion that it would probably be needed as a hospital tent for the travelers' fielders. The travelers are a game lot, though, and, though they have been beaten in the past, they may spring a surprise on their rivals when the time comes.

Camping Goods Trade.

A couple of weeks ago I made mention of window displays of camping goods shown in Toronto store windows. One of the displays noted was in the window of Michie & Co.'s King street store. This firm have since made a display in their window of still greater interest. In the background is a fine large painting, showing two canoeists rounding a curve in the rapids of some river. The whole scene is typical of camp life, and, that its import may be misunderstood by none, a card is placed in a prominent position. It reads: "An Ideal Holiday. Plenty of opportunities in northern Ontario to combine camping, fishing and canoeing into a delightful and inexpensive holiday. We make a specialty of camping supplies. Michie & Co." The whole of the floor space of the window is devoted to canned soups, tinned meats, pickles, chow-chow, soup squares, fruit vinegars, etc. This firm make a big bid for camping-goods trade, and have found that not only is it a large, but a paying, trade to cater for.

From the Ranks.

Special honor is given to the man who wins his way from the ranks to a position of responsibility and trust in military matters. So honor should be given to the clerk who works his way up to the position of proprietor of the business which he has served. T. P. Loblaw, who bought out J. M. Cork, College street, started in the grocery business about eight and a half years ago as a clerk in W. G. Cork's grocery on King street east. About five years ago he entered the employ of R. F. Nicholson at 459 College street. Since then this stand has been under the successive management of Geo. Palmer & Sons, Mont. Smith, and J. M. Cork. Mr. Loblaw served as clerk for each of the three proprietors, and was admitted into partnership by J. M. Cork, under the style of J. M. Cork & Co., and became proprietor by buying out Mr. Cork the other day. Very good progress, I think. THE RAMBLER.

ONTARIO MARKETS

TORONTO, July 13, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE past week has not seen any developments of very great importance in the wholesale grocery trade. The volume of business, on the whole, has been fair. The most active line is probably canned goods for future delivery, all houses having booked a good many orders during the past week for tomatoes, peas and corn. The canned goods market is still strong, particularly in regard to corn. Sugars are in fairly good demand, and, while there have been some fluctuations in prices in the outside markets, quotations here are as they were before. Syrups and molasses still rule quiet. In regard to teas, there is only a moderate business being done. Japan teas are still firm, but in Ceylon teas the market is a little firmer in London, England. There has been some business in filberts for importation at advanced prices. The currant market is firm with the demand fairly good. Valencia raisins are gradually getting into smaller compass, and inquiries have been received this week from Montreal houses.

CANNED GOODS.

The feature of the canned goods trade is the active demand for canned vegetables for future delivery, a number of orders having been placed by the retail trade during the past week. Prices are much as they were before. For tomatoes the idea is 75c., although for some packs as high as 80c. is demanded, but this is the exception. For present shipment the idea as to price is 80 to 85c., but there is very little business being done, only small lots being wanted. A good many canned peas are also selling for future delivery, principally at 70c., although the range is 70 to 75c. for ordinary standard peas. There have been some transactions between packers and wholesalers in canned peas, one round lot of 1,000 cases being sold at 65c., the packers' fixed minimum price. Some packers are, however, refusing to quote peas. They have, in some instances, they claim, sold all their pack. While pea-packing is over in Western Ontario, there are still some peas being packed by Eastern factories, who report that the recent rainfalls have been very beneficial.

The feeling in regard to canned corn is stronger than in regard to any other line of canned goods. Neither packers nor wholesalers seem anxious to do business in this line, and in any transactions that take place tomatoes usually accompany the order. Some of the factories are trying to get out of filling the orders placed for canned corn by some of the wholesale houses, and it is quite possible there may be some legal proceedings. What probably gives the canned corn situation its greatest strength is the large purchases, as already noted, which have been made by speculators who are trying to corner the market. The ruling figure quoted by wholesalers for future delivery of canned corn is 75 to 80c. For present delivery, 95c. to $1 is the range, but only small quantities are being bought at this latter figure.

See pages 31 and 32 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

Wholesalers are, as a rule, quoting 75c. for peas, corn and tomatoes all round, for future delivery.

The strawberry pack, as is becoming more evident every day, is a small one, and we know of several factories that have not packed any, on account of the high prices which the growers demanded for the berries. Wholesalers are quoting $1.50 for the new pack, but there is practically no business being done, which, of course, is to be expected at this time of the year.

A liftle more business is being done in a quiet way in canned salmon for future delivery. The prices which are being quoted this week to the wholesale trade for round lots of canned salmon are $4.50 to $4.75, f.o.b. the Coast for Fraser river, the inside figure being the ruling price. The wholesalers are beginning to book orders for Fraser river fish, but at open figures, as a rule. Where prices have been named $1.45 per dozen appears to be the idea. The situation on the Coast, according to latest advices, is still decidedly strong. Representatives of the lobster factories report that business is lighter than usual this year on account of the high price. The price of No. 1 is practically prohibitive, and, as a consequence, wholesalers are almost altogether turning their attention to what is called "straight pack" which sells at $1 per dozen less than No. 1.

SUGARS.

Business in sugar is fairly active, deliveries during the past week having been fairly heavy. The price is unchanged, the fixed quotation being $4.60 for Montreal granulated, and $4.55 for Acadia granulated, with yellows quoted at from $3.80 upwards. American granulated is still too high for importation, but a little business is being done in American yellows. The outside markets during the past week have been weak as a rule. Raws in New York declined 1-16c. per lb. during the past week, and there have been declines in beet sugars in Europe. This week, however, the European market opened a little firmer with a fractional advance. The American Sugar Refining Co. have shaded their prices 1-16 to ⅛c. per lb. Business in New York during the past week in refined sugars has been unusually large, on account of the withdrawal of the 90 days' guarantee, after being in operation but a few days.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Trade continues quiet in syrups and molasses. Local quotations are unchanged. The outside markets are also dull.

TEAS.

Good flavoring Ceylon teas are gradually getting scarcer, both here and in England, and the bulk of Ceylon teas show that they are largely "wet weather" goods. Latest reports from England state that the market there for Ceylon teas has declined ¼d. on the commonest grades, which brings these grades of tea down to the basis of 7½d. c.i.f. Toronto, and practically no business is being done for Canada in these grades, spot goods showing better value. The Japan market keeps stronger, but there is very little business being done. Advices from London, Eng., dated June 30, state that new Indian teas offered at the previous auction were somewhat disappointing in quality, and did not attract much attention from the trade, while the market showed a decline on rates current the previous week for teas under 9d.

NUTS.

During the past week, some sales of filberts have been made for importation at

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—C. Ceroni, of Patras, writing under date of June 27, states that in consequence of the adoption of the Retention Bill for a period of 10 years by the Greek Parliament, the position of the currant market is stronger. Dem. Schias reports that the crop is being favored by exceptionally fine weather, and if these conditions continue the yield will be about the same as it was last year, and of fine quality. A small business is being done in Toronto at open prices for shipment by first steamer. Sixpence more is being paid this week for fine Filiatra currants than was paid a couple of weeks ago. Local wholesalers report a good demand for currants.

VALENCIA RAISINS — A feature of the trade this week is an inquiry from Montreal wholesalers for layer Valencia raisins. Stocks in this line are only light, and we have been unable to ascertain whether any business was done or not. The ruling price is 4½c. for off-stock; 5c. for fine off-stock; 6¼ to 6½c. for selected, and 6½ to 7c. for layers.

PRUNES — There are not many moving and the demand is chiefly for Californian prunes at about 6c. per lb.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS — The crop of peaches is expected to be a very large one, and there is a good crop of apricots, but the latter are being kept pretty firm on account of the demand for canning purposes, this fruit coming into increasing use for that purpose.

GREEN FRUITS.

Strawberries are about done. Those arriving are of inferior quality, and sell at 6 to 8c. per box. Raspberries are coming in freely, and selling well at 7 to 9c. Cherries are plentiful, but, as the demand is better, prices are 10c. higher for the cooking varieties. Red currants are coming in in larger quantities, and are 10 to 15c. cheaper, now selling at 30 to 40c. Huckleberries are starting to arrive in quantities and are down 10c., the price now being $1 to $1.15 per basket. Black currants are in, and are selling at 85c to $1 per basket. A couple of cars of canteloupe melons have been received. They sell in two sizes of crate, one at $2, the other at $3. There is a fair movement of oranges, bananas, and lemons at unchanged prices. Canadian tomatoes have begun to arrive on the market in liberal quantities, and are 25c. cheaper, the price being $1 to $1.25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS — The demand is so brisk that, though receipts are large, prices have again advanced ½c., fresh stock now being quoted at 13 to 13½c.

POTATOES—Old potatoes are still quoted at $1 to $1.10 per bag, but the feeling is easier than last week. The receipts of new stock are increasing, the bulk of arrivals being small sizes. These are quoted at $1 to $1.05 per bushel.

BEANS—There is nothing doing. Prices are unchanged at $1 to $1.10 for hand-picked, and 75 to 80c. for medium grades.

VEGETABLES — Canadian beans are starting to come in at $1.25 to $1.50 per bush. Cabbages have declined from $1 to $1.25 per doz. last week to 50 to 75c. per doz. this week. This vegetable is also arriving in bbls. at $2 to $2.25 per bbl. We quote as follows: Rhubarb, 15 to 20c.; radishes, 15c. per dozen bunches; spinach, 30 to 40c. per bush.; green onions, 5 to 10c. per doz.; asparagus, 30 to 50c. per doz.; celery, $1.00 per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz., $1 to $1.25; parsley, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; green cucumbers, 60 to $1 per doz.; new beets, 20 to 30c. per doz. bunches; parsnips, $1 per bag; carrots, 20 to 30c. per doz. bunches; green peas, $1 to $1.15 per bag. New cabbage are being imported at $1.65 to $1.90 per crate; cucumbers at $2 per half-bush. hamper.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Though the feeling in Great Britain continues unchanged, the market here shows a decidedly firmer feeling. Dairy pounds and tubs are ½ to 1c. per lb. dearer, and creamery boxes and squares are 1 to 1½c. higher. Dairy tubs are now worth 13 to 14c.; prints, 14 to 15c.; creamery tubs and boxes, 17 to 18c., and prints and squares, 18 to 18½c.

CHEESE—The feeling is steady and unchanged at 8¾ to 9c. per lb.

PROVISIONS.

The demand, both local and shipping, continues unusually brisk. Backs have been advanced ½c. per lb. this week, and rolls are ¼c. dearer. Otherwise, prices are unchanged.

FISH.

A fair demand is noted, but supply is not sufficient for requirements. Whitefish is particularly scarce. We quote: Saguenay salmon, 20c.; speckled trout, 25c.; salmon trout, 7½ to 8c.; whitefish, 8 to 9c.; pickerel, 7c.; maskinonge, 8 to 9c.; black bass, 8 to 9c.; halibut, 8 to 9c.; perch, 5c.; herrings (Erie), 3½ to 4c.; cod, in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Wheat continues steady at 69c. for both red and white at outside points. The Toronto street market is dull, with goose wheat 2c. dearer and white and red wheat 1c. cheaper. We quote: Wheat, white and red, 72c.; goose, 68c.; peas, 62 to 68c.; oats, 35 to 36c.; barley, 44 to 45c.; rye, 53 to 55c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat is 1c. dearer, now being quoted at 83c., Toronto.

FLOUR—A good trade is being done, with prices steady. We quote: Manitoba patents, $4.10; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.70; On-

WOOL—The feeling is steady. Deliveries are moderate. We quote fleece at 13 to 14c., and unwashed at 8 to 9c.

SALT

A good demand is noted. Prices are unaltered. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less thancarload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote F.O.B., barrels, 70c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English coarse salt 47 to 49c.. Toronto per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Wholesalers are beginning to book orders for canned salmon for future delivery.

Montreal buyers were looking for layer Valencia raisins in Toronto this week.

All dairy and creamery butter is ½ to 1c. per lb. dearer. Eggs are advanced ½c. per dozen.

A good many orders for canned vegetables for future delivery are being booked by the wholesale houses.

Red currants are 10 to 15c. cheaper. Black currants are selling at 85c. to $1 per basket. Canteloupe melons are offering at $2 and $3 per crate. Canadian tomatoes are 25c. per basket cheaper.

GROCERIES.

THE wholesale grocery market has not contributed any general activity during the week. Outside of sugar, the actual movement is rather light. In this staple, however, it shows symptoms of expansion. Canned goods continue in active inquiry for future delivery. Barbadoes molasses shows a firmer tendency at primary markets, and cables note a further advance of ½c. in the price of Japan tea at points of production. Other lines have been featureless.

SUGAR.

There has been little change in the situation of the outside markets since last reports, except that beet for August delivery is rather lower than it was quoted last week. This, however, has been the only change in the raw market, and cables to-day reported it steady in London, but with little doing. Beet was quoted at 10s. 6¾d. for July and 10s. 7½d. for August, while cane was quiet, but steady, at 12s. 9d. for Java and 11s. 6d. for fair refining. In New York, it has remained steady—fair refining, 3 15-16c.; centrifugal, 96 test, 4 7-16c., and molasses sugar, 3 13-16c. The demand for sugar here is fair, and, if anything, a little wider than it was last week. Prices all round are unchanged, viz., $4.50 on granulated and $3.70 to $4.25 on yellows, as to grade.

SYRUPS.

Business in syrup continues quiet and prices are unchanged as last quoted at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb. at the factory.

MOLASSES.

The season for new crop Barbadoes is now about over at the Island, as cable advices state that the supply is almost exhausted, there being not more than 2,000 puncheons held in reserve. As a consequence, the tone of the market has been stronger and prices have advanced 1c. per gallon, the first cost now being 16c. Here also round lots are held stronger ex wharf at 33½ to 34c. From stock in a jobbing way the demand is slow as yet, but there is more inquiry in this connection for future delivery, the difference being that buyers have made up their minds that they will not be able to procure supplies below ruling figures.

DRIED FRUITS.

There is little to relate in regard to dried fruits. Reports from primary markets on all descriptions remain about the same as last week and there is practically nothing doing on spot.

CANNED GOODS.

Demand for new pack corn and peas for forward delivery continues good, but little fresh business is reported, as agents lately have not been urging sales for forward delivery until they see how the crops are going to turn out. One agent had an order for 6,000 to 7,000 cases, but when it was submitted to the canner it was turned down. Some packers have advanced prices for early June peas 5c. to 70 to 75c. per doz., and marrowfats to 65 to 70c. Tomatoes are quoted at 75c. and beans at 65 to 70c. Canned fruits continue quiet, though inquiry for them shows a broadening tendency this week. The low prices at which strawberries and raspberries have been offered has stimulated the demand to a large extent. We note contracts for future delivery in apples, 3-lb. at 75c., preserved, $1.40; 1 gallon tins, $2; pears, 3-lb., $1.80; plums, 3-lb., $1.60; greengages, 3-lb., $1.75; yellow peaches, 3-lb., $3.25; pumpkins, $3-lb., $3.65; strawberries, preserved, $1.35; do., in syrup, $1.15; raspberries, preserved, $1.40; do, in syrup, $1.15. Inquiry for new pack salmon has been steady, and prices are still quoted at $4 f.o.b. Coast.

RICE.

There is no change to report in the rice market. Demand is fair, and prices steady. We quote: B standard, $3.40 to $3.50; Patnas, $4.12½ to $4.75; Japans, $4.50 to $5, and Carolina, $6 to $7.

COFFEE.

Business continues dull in coffee, and the market is also featureless.

SPICES.

The movement in spices is very light, but the market maintains its firm undertone, in line with foreign advices. We quote: Singapore black pepper, 12½ to 13c., and Singapore white, 19½ to 20c. Penang pepper, 17½ to 18c., and West Coast, 12 to 13c. Pimento, 11 to 12c. Nutmegs, 28 to 44c., as to quality. Cassia, 9 to 10c.; Jamaica ginger, 19½ to 20c.; Cochin tips ginger, 6 to 6½c.; Zanzibar cloves, 9 to 10c.; nutmegs, 40 to 55c., and mace, 45 to 50c.

TEAS.

Cables received to-day from Yokohama reported an advance of ½c. in the price of Japans, and state that the market is tending higher. Business here is light, sales of small lots of new crop Japan being noted at 18 to 19c. Old Japans have moved at 13c., and black teas are firm, especially Ceylons. Congous have sold at 15c., and gunpowders, 12 to 14c.

GREEN FRUITS.

Trade in green fruits has only been fairly active. Oranges have ruled rather firmer at $4 to $5 for 200's, and $2.50 to $2.75 for 100's. There is very little life in the lemon market, business passing at $2 to $3.50 per box, as to grade. Bananas have been more plentiful, firsts selling at $1.25 to $1.40, and seconds, 75 to 85c. per bunch. The strawberry season is drawing to a close, and they range from 7 to 8c. Raspberries are commanding 10 to 12c. per box, but offerings have been light so far. Cherries have been coming in freely and selling at 75c. to $1 per basket. Receipts of tomatoes have been heavy and prices are easy at 30c. per crate. Watermelons are also in ample supply at 20 to 30c. each. Supplies of all kinds of Californian fruit have been liberal. Peaches sell at $1.35 per carrier; plums, $1.25 to $1.50; apricots, $1.50, and pears, $2.50 per half-box.

FISH.

The salt fish market is a purely nominal one. Fresh fish show a fair demand for the season. We quote: Fresh haddock and cod at 3 to 4c. for haddock, and 3 to 3½c. for cod; British Columbia salmon, 12 to 13c.; halibut, 13 to 14c.; salt fish: Green cod, $4.25 to $4.50 for No. 1, and $5 for No. 1 large per barrel; dry cod, $4; Nova Scotia herring, $4.25 to $4.50 in barrels; Cape Breton, $4.75 in barrels; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $14 to $15; sea trout, $9.50 to $10; lake trout, $4.25 to $4.50 per keg of 100 lb.; No. 1 green haddock, $4 to $4.25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—They was no change in the situation of the egg market. The demand for small lots was good, and a fairly active trade was done at firm prices. Choice candled sold at 14c., ordinary at 12c. and No. 2 at 9 to 10c. per dozen. Receipts were 808 cases.

MAPLE PRODUCT—Business was slow, owing to the light offerings. We quote as follows: Syrup, in wood, 5¾ to 6c. per lb., and at 65 to 70c. per tin. Sugar sold at 8½ to 9c. per lb.

HONEY—The market for honey continues quiet, but prices are maintained. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 9 to 10c.; dark, 7 to 8c.; white extracted, 8 to 8½c., and dark, 4 to 5c.

BEANS—The demand for beans in small lots was fair. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

POTATOES—The tone of the market for potatoes is still firm, and any carload lots of choice old stock offering meet with a demand at 85 to 90c. per bag.

ASHES—The demand for ashes is slack and the market is dull, there being more sellers than buyers. First pots are quoted at $3.75 to $3.90; seconds, $3.60, and first pearls, $5.25 per 100 lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN—There was no improvement in the demand on spot for grain, consequently trade is quiet, and chiefly of a jobbing character, but the undertone is steady, and prices show no change. There was a fair inquiry over the cable for Manitoba wheat, but as bids were out of line, few sales were put through. On spot oats sold in car lots at 34c. ex store, and peas were quoted at 76c. afloat.

FLOUR — The demand for all grades of flour was limited, in consequence, business is quiet, and chiefly of a jobbing character. The tone is easy, and holders would, no doubt, shade present prices for round lots. We quote as follows : Winter patents, $3.75 to $4 ; straight rollers, $3.40 to $3.50; in bags, $1.65 to $1.70; Manitoba patents, $4.10 to $4.30 ; strong bakers', $3.70 to $3.90.

MEAL—There was no new feature in the meal market. In a jobbing way rolled oats are selling at $3.75 per bbl. and at $1.80 per sack. Carload lots are offering at less money.

FEED—The demand for feed is only fair, and, as supplies are in excess of requirements, the tone of the market is easy. We quote : Ontario bran, in bulk, $13 to $13.50; shorts, $14.50 per ton ; Manitoba bran, $12 to $12.50; shorts, $13.50, and mouille, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY — There is still a good demand for baled hay at country points for shipment to the United States and English markets, consequently the tone of the market is firm, and prices show no change. We quote : Choice No. 1, $7.50 to $8; No. 2, $5.50 to $6, and clover, $4.75 to $5.25 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

There continues to be a steady demand for hams and bacon here, and, as supplies of such are somewhat short, a very firm feeling prevails. Lard is moving fairly well, but pork is quiet. We quote : Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16 ; short cut back, $15.50 ; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50, and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel ; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7 to 7¼c. per lb., and compound refined 5½ to 5¾c. per lb. Hams, 12 to 13½c., and bacon, 11 to 12½c. per lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—The high prices paid Saturday for cheese in the country imparted a firmer tone to the spot market. Exporters still contend, however, the limits do not warrant present cost, but the sentiments of these people cut little figure, and the only explanation is either that the market is again oversold, or that some operators consider summer makes a good speculation at present prices. There was little doing in Ontario makes, and values were nominal at 8⅝ to 8⅞c., as to grade. In Eastern makes the chief business was at the wharf, where 7,000 to 8,000 boxes, last half of June make, sold at 8⅜ to 8½c., with the outside the ruling. This is a rise of ¼c. on the range at the previous Monday sale.

BUTTER--The butter market seemed to be, if anything, a little soft, but there was no change in prices. In some special cases we heard of 18c. being made for creamery, but such sales were hardly a quotation, and 17½ to 17¾c. is a fair range to quote. In England, according to mail advices of July 1, the last rise in price has rather had the effect of straining the position and checking business. There is quite a quantity of low-grade creamery on the market at present, and business is doing in it at various prices. Fair, undergrade stock ranges from 16½ to 17c., but there have been sales as low as 15½c., the flavor of the butter being all right, but it presented a mottled appearance.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Cables from Japan this week state that tea has advanced ¼c. per lb.

Prices on cheese have again stiffened ⅛ to ¼c. per lb. during the week.

There has been an advance in the first cost of Barbadoes molasses of 1c. per gal.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., July 13, 1899.

THE week has shown but a fair movement in grocery lines. Canned goods are still a matter of interest. Some attention is given to salmon, and it is a matter of regret that the trade are inclined to buy cheap goods. The trade here appreciate the article in THE GROCER of June 30 re "Vexatious Customs Regulations," as business here is being very much interfered with by these regulations. It is rather hard on the merchant to ask him to take an oath and, in substance, tell him at the same time that he is a liar, which is certainly the inference when, for a simple thing such as a matter of the style of a package, goods are sent to the appraiser's when there is no doubt the entire invoice has paid all the duty the law requires. But this is only one case. The thing referred to occurs again and again. A new regulation is now needed regarding invoices, making several changes within a short time. In nothing else would a man stand the implied dishonesty which he meets at the Customs house, but the difficulty of redress and the desire to get goods through as promptly as possible, with the fact that the law is on the side of the Customs, causes him to stand the unfair treatment.

OIL—The demand for burning oil tends to increase; in fact, contracts for later shipment are already being made. Prices show no change. Paint oils are still firm. At the higher figures sales are rather lighter. Lubricating oils are low, and prices show no change. A fair business is being done. Cod oil comes in very slowly. Price is low. In wax, rather higher prices rule. Supplies seem short.

SALT—Liverpool coarse continues to show a fair demand. Prices, owing to higher freights, are firmer. A fair stock is held, and shipments from Boston are quite regularly received, stocks being kept up between direct shipments in this way. Outside points are often supplied in the same way. Fine salt has a steady sale at even prices. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—Wholesale dealers are selling quite freely to arrive at a fair profit over the packers' opening prices. Peas are being held quite firm, and corn shows an advance. Many packers are not offering; in fact, some will not book any more orders for any vegetable at present. Stocks here are very light. Salmon are not freely quoted, though some have been offered. Opening price is quite high. Competition has brought the cohoes into our market, so that where, a few years ago, it was impossible to sell them, quite a quantity are now used. This is a matter of regret. Business is now practically in the hands of Canadian packers. New Brunswick packed fish are now being freely offered, such as sardines, kippered herring, kippered haddies, and finnan haddies. Prices show little change from last season, but, as they stand the packer more, they are really lower; or, in other words, show less profit to the packer. Shrimps are scarce. Oysters are higher. Pineapples are scarce and tending higher.

GREEN FRUITS—Dealers are very busy. Quite large consignments of Californian fruits are being received, and direct shipments are expected next week. The first pears came to hand this week. All the fruit is good this year, and prices are reasonable. Oranges are scarce and demand slow. Lemons are higher and very firm. There is a good sale. Bananas have been scarce this week owing to increased demand. Prices are firm. Melons are plentiful, but sale is light at quite full figures. Rhubarb is very plentiful and low. Native strawberries are very fine quality and very low for the season.

DRIED FRUITS—This is still a quiet line, though it begins to have more attention as regards futures. In loose muscatels much will depend on what the Californian shippers decide regarding rebate to Canadian buyers. The fruit is popular, but cannot be expected to hold the price as high as in the primary market. It simply means our people going back to Valencias. Last year they made the rebate after they had lost much trade. Peels are rather lower this season. Our dealers have not yet ordered. Spot goods are all dull, and so tend easy. In nuts, everything seems to tend higher.

SUGAR—There is a steady sale at even figures. The market is largely supplied by the local refinery. The berry season always means big sales of granulated. Dealers buy only to supply needs. There is quite a little West Indian sugar offered, some of which is very nice.

MOLASSES — There is little if any change. Two small cargoes of Porto Rico arrived this week, one to go forward to Fredericton. Barbadoes is very near the price of Porto Rico.

PRODUCE—Eggs are higher, and are held very firm. Receipts are light, and there is a good, active demand. Butter keeps very dull, receipts being larger than the demand, and only the best finds any sale except at low figures. Creamery finds a small trade, as buyers will not pay the price. Cheese tends easier. The local buyers are supplied largely by their customers for other goods, and, owing to consumers buying from factories, trade is much cut up.

FISH—Dry cod come in slowly, and the market shows higher figures. Pollock, however, will not supply the demand, and they show no change. Hake, which are chiefly sold in the West Indies, tend easier. In fact, the hot weather always affects that market. Smoked herring hold quite firm at the slight advance. Bloaters and haddies are quiet. In pickled fish, Bay herring begin to come in, and open at a fair figure, though below the price that has ruled, the market having become almost bare. Alewives are about all sold, though the stock has not been shipped yet. Fresh fish are still a leading feature. Salmon are lower, the catch still being light. Halibut and shad are scarce. We quote: Large and medium dry cod, $3.65 to $3 95; small, $2.50; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6½ to 7½c.; halibut, 9 to 10c. per lb.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; shad, 10c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $1.75 per 100; salmon, 10 to 15c.; pickled herring, $1.70.

PROVISIONS—In barreled meats there is light business, pork having chief sale. Mess is about the same price as clear, and demand is largely supplied by local packers. Hams and rolls have a fair sale at even figures. Lard keeps very low. Western packers show quite a range in price.

FLOUR, FEED, AND MEAL—Flour is held quite firmly by most millers, particularly some grades of Ontario. The local market is a dull one. Owing to considerable Ontario winter wheat being destroyed, it is thought higher prices will rule later. Oats are scarce, and hold quite firm. It is said some millers have shaded the prices of oatmeal. Beans are still dull. Some sales at rather easier prices are reported. Cornmeal shows no change in price, and continues to sell very freely. Feed is still scarce and high. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.65 to $4.80; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.10; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $4.00 to $4.10; cornmeal, $2.05 to $2.10; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10; prime, 95 to $1.00; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50 to $1.75; do., Canadian, $1.80 to $2.25; mammoth clover, 7½ to 8c.; alsike, 7½ to 8c.; red, 7¼ to 7¾c.

Chas. Gyde, representing Rowntrees and other houses, was in the city this week.

Dealers throughout Cape Breton are expecting greatly increased business because of the extensive works being undertaken by The Dominion Coal Co.

Mr. Antoine Solaris, in company with E. T. Sturdee, his local representative, called on the trade this week. Mr. Solaris has a very large trade here for figs. His shipments have given every satisfaction.

Smith & Tilton, representatives here for Windsor salt and other lines, have added very largely to their office accommodation, also very much improving what were already particularly well-appointed offices.

In loooking over the trade between St. John and the United States for the past year, the great advantage the American millmen here have is very apparent. The total shipments for the year in all lines were $1,341,420.55. Nearly two-thirds of this is American lumber, it amounting to nearly $900,000.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, July 10, 1899.

BEYOND the fact that the city is already crowded with Fair visitors, there is little new or interesting to report. Winnipeg's big Industrial Fair opened with all pomp and ceremony on Monday, and, as the weather looks propitious, there is no doubt it will be huge success. The retail trade has been very brisk in anticipation of the event, but it has not particularly affected wholesale houses. All the wholesale houses look extra trim, and are prepared to entertain their customers in the best style.

The canned goods situation remains unchanged from last week, and buying is very light and likely to continue so as long as wholesale houses here know that wholesale houses in the East are prepared and are really able to sell goods to retail men at a very slight advance on what they would have to pay at the factory. This state of things has prevailed ever since the association was formed, and it is likely to continue.

There is no change in the price of staple lines of groceries. Trade is fair in almost all lines.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—The offerings of new apricots are small, so far, and the price is too high to tempt buyers. The report that the crop is a fair one also inclines them to hold off in anticipation of lower prices.

PRODUCE—This market is pretty active in all lines. Local cured hams have advanced another ½c., and are now quoted at 12c.; breakfast bellies, 12c.; all other lines without change and firm.

BUTTER—In creamery the offerings of June-made have been quite heavy, but the price is bad, being only 15c. at factories. This is causing many of the factorymen to ship to British Columbia on consignment. It is doubtful if they will realize any more, if as much, that way. The British Columbia market has stiffened a little this week, but not sufficient to improve conditions here, and they have a larger local supply than formerly and also get larger quantities from the Government creameries in the Territories. Dairy butter is still lower, and there is very little demand. The price at country points is 9½ to 10c. with 13 to 14c. Winnipeg for some small lots of extra choice. The bulk of this butter is still going into cold storage.

CHEESE—A good deal of June-made is offering, and the purchases are mostly made at 8c. The market appears fairly firm at present, though some dealers confidently expect a further drop of 1c.

EGGS—The demands of exhibition week have forced up the price, and jobbers are getting 16c. and are paying 14c. Winnipeg. The supply at present is not equal to the demand.

GREEN FRUITS—This market has not been so active for years. Last year during Exhibition week the supply ran short and retailers have made their purchases early. For this reason the week has been an extremely busy one with these houses. The variety of fruit in is good and the quality excellent. The newest lines are red currants, a large shipment arrived from Senator Sandford's farm at Hamilton. These sold at $2.50. Fresh raspberries are also in and quoted at $2.75 for the 24 box crate. Peaches are abundant. Early Crawfords and St. Johns are quoted at $1.75 to $2, while Hale's early are worth $1.50. Plums run from $2 to $2.50 per crate; pears, $5; apricots, $2.15; watermelons, $4 to $4.50 per doz.; tomatoes, $1.75 for the 4-basket crate; cucumbers, 65c. per doz. Oranges and lemons without change, though a rise may occur through the week.

ALL ABOUT TEA.

While investigating the history of tea, an English writer, according to an exchange, came across a rare manuscript in the British Museum, giving a quaint summary of the virtues of the herb called tea or chee. It was dated October 20, 1686, and purported to be a translation from the Chinese, as follows :

1. It purifies the blood that which is grosse and heavy.
2. It vanquisheth heavy dreams.
3. It easeth the brain of heavy damps.
4. Easeth and cureth giddiness and pains in the heade.
5. Prevents the dropsie.
6. Drieth moist humors in the heade.
7. Consumes rawnesse.
8. Opens obstructions.
9. Clears the sight.
10. Cleanseth and purifieth humors and hot liver.
11. Purifieth defects of the bladder and kidneys.
12. Vanquishes superfluous sleep.
13. Drives away dizziness, makes one nimble and valiant.
14 Encourages the heart and drives away feare.
15. Drives away pain of the collick.
16 Strengthens the inward parts and quickens the understanding.
17. Strengthens the memory.
18. Sharpens the will and quickens the understanding.
19. Purges safely the gaul.
20. Strengthens the use of due benevolence.

From the foregoing it seems that the "cup that cheers" was a beverage very highly esteemed in England 200 years ago. Its introduction was an event of great significance. Its medicinal and wholesome qualities had been proclaimed in advance, and its arrival was hailed with delight as a substitute for intoxicants.

AN INDICTMENT OF THE GROCERS.

As with tea, so with coffee, the lower grades are selling at a premium, because the demand for them has grown out of all proportion to the call for the fine grades.

In years gone by, when tea sold at wholesale from 35 to 50c., and coffee at 25 to 40c., there was nowhere seen such eagerness to shove the cheap grades to the front as to-day, when the better grades are within the reach of all.

If the inference respecting the capability of the grocers, which is to be drawn from the above statement, were formulated and gravely presented by a severe critic of the dealers, we should instinctively rush to their defense, although we should probably find it very difficult to make out a case for them. But when the indictment, as it were, presents itself, what defense can be made? What excuse can the grocers themselves offer?

Prices have fallen 50 per cent., and yet the grocers do not seem to be satisfied, but must descend to the utmost bottomless pit of quality in search of something cheaper. Why? Who can say?—Merchants' Review, New York.

A PLEASING PRESENTATION.

On Tuesday, July 4, about 60 members of the Granite Club, Toronto, met in the club rooms to do honor to Captain Arthur N. Burns, who had resigned the position of secretary of the club, which position he had held for five years, to join the business staff of the Toronto office of The MacLean Publishing Co., Limited.

After a supper had been given in honor of Mr. Burns, Mr. Bernard Jennings, manager of the Imperial Bank, and president of the club, after an address expressing sorrow because of his resignation, presented him on behalf of the club with a case of pipes, and beautiful gold watch with monogram on the back and the following inscription on the inner case: "Presented to Captain Arthur N. Burns by friends of the Granite Club, Toronto, July, 1899." Mr. J. C. Kemp, of the Bank of Commerce, also made a short speech, giving Mr. Burns the promise of the lasting good-will of his fellow clubmen.

Mr. Burns was greatly pleased by these evidences of friendship, and expressed his pleasure in a short speech, suitable to the occasion.

FIGS IN CALIFORMIA.

The Agricultural Department have issued a bulletin treating of the probable success of the efforts to establish the Smyrna fig industry in California. It appears that the fruiting of the Smyrna fig is dependent upon the introduction from Southern Europe and the establishment in California of a little insect which fertilizes the fig. Experimental introductions of the insect were thereupon begun and some of them brought over in 1898 have succeeded in penetrating the closed flowers of the Capri figs growing at Fresno, making the first step of the experimental work a success. The bulletin adds: "Since the insect has maintained itself for an entire year there is reason to suppose that it will continue to breed, and that California in the near future will be able to place a fig upon the market which will possess the same superior flavor as that which has given the imported Smyrna figs their preeminent commercial rank."

BRANDIES

We represent

Philippe Richard

one of the oldest established firms in Charante. Brandies of this make, although on the market for years, are still unsurpassed in quality.

LAPORTE, MARTIN & CIE., Montreal.

IN THEIR NEW PREMISES.

A REPRESENTATIVE of THE GROCER had the pleasure, a few days ago, of being shown through S. H. Ewing & Sons' cork factory and spice and coffee mills, at No. 96 King street, Montreal. The premises have been enlarged by the addition of a large three-storey building, which is used for offices and cork factory. The first visit was to their bright new offices, which occupy the whole of the ground floor of the new building and are finished throughout in whitewood, being bright, roomy and convenient. They consist of a general office, a tea sample-room, coffee and spice sample-room, and three offices en suite. The general office is large and fitted up with every convenience, a telephone-room, typewriter's room and lavatory. Their tea sample-room is separate, so that no foreign smells can come in contact with their large range of samples.

Upstairs they have their cork factory, and here was seen cork in all stages of manufacture as well as the different machines at work. Everything here is done by machinery and every bit of machinery is of the very latest and best make.

Beyond the cork-room are their coffee roasters. Here the representative of THE GROCER was treated to some delicious hot and crisp peanuts fresh from the oven, and saw the coffee being roasted and passed along to the grinders. Under the coffee-room are the spice grinders and other machinery, all run by an electric motor.

Between the two main buildings is an archway. This leads to the old building which is now used for storage of spices of all kinds as well as shipping and packing-rooms.

Every inch of these buildings is packed full of bales, barrels, and bags of the different goods they handle, and even at this mid-season there seemed no room for anything more.

Mr. Ewing informed THE GROCER that they had had a splendid trade this season, and the prospects were bright for fall.

BUSY NANAIMO.

Travelers from the local jobbing houses visiting Nanaimo just now say that business is brisk in the Coal City. Not a vacant house or business premises can be found, and houses are in constant demand. Joseph Morton, manager of The Manitoba Produce Company, who returned from a trip to Nanaimo recently, says: "Things are fairly booming in Nanaimo. The merchants are all busy and happy, and there is not an idle man in the whole place. In Nanaimo would be a good place for a man to strike who was looking for work. Business is as good as it was in 1890 and 1891, the years when Nanaimo had such a prosperous period. The present output of The New Vancouver Coal Company is over 50,000 tons per month, and the shipments of coal are right up to the amount produced."—Province, Vancouver.

The Modern STOVE POLISH

PASTE.

LIQUID.

CAKE.

We present herewith cuts showing the three different forms of package in which Enameline is put on the market. The enormous amount of advertising being done to familiarize housekeepers with the name enables merchants to make quick sales. Don't load up with unknown brands—that's dead stock.

J. L. PRESCOTT & CO., New York.

THE ART OF COLLECTING AND DISTRIBUTING NEWS.

BEFORE the art of printing was invented, the ink-horn and quill pen were the only means of preserving and handing down to posterity records of the times. All books and statements were copied by professional clerks, and a few sentences an hour was considered good progress. With these drawbacks, education was materially handicapped, and we even hear of kings and queens who could not write their own names. Books were expensive—ruinously so, and only the great and rich could afford them. Even one volume was a treasure, and though sometimes the owner could not read, he was happy in possession.

But with the art of printing came, also, a freer distribution of knowledge. With the advance of time and continuous improvement in the art, books became more widely circulated. To be able to read and write was no longer a profession. Improvement after improvement was introduced. News spread much more quickly, and, as decade after decade rolled on, new thoughts and ideas replaced the old ones. The difference of a few centuries is astounding. Caxton, in his wildest enthusiasm, never dreamed of a newspaper. When Victoria came to the throne, the steam engine was unknown. Yet, we have the railway, the steamer, the telegraph, and telephone, and these are quite commonplace. Our daily paper tells us what happens in England, in China, in India, in the uttermost parts of the earth, the very day it happened. What more can the mind of man conceive? Truly, the printer's art has reached perfection! He has all these means at his disposal, and he uses them. From a lack of news, a man is overwhelmed—buried—with so much, he cannot possibly read it all.

How, then, is this mass of news collected and distributed? How does a man receive every item of news bearing on his business? There are 1,200 papers published in Canada—he cannot read all these. Yet, he must know the news. Men in every business used to have this problem to solve. They cannot subscribe to every paper—it would cost a fortune—and, even if they did, the task of reading them and finding what they wanted would prove too great. How, then, can a man receive all the news relating to his particular business without reading all the papers? How can a contractor, broker, banker or wholesaler receive daily every item of news in the Canadian press relating to his own particular business without reading all the Canadian papers—without wading through thousands of pages and tens of thousands of columns of printed matter?

Here is the solution. He subscribes to The Canadian Press Clipping Bureau, Montreal.

His reading is all done for him. He tells what particular class of news he wants, what he must receive, what it is necessary for him to have, reports from all over the conntry on the condition of crops, of cattle, of mines, or of anything his business is interested in. Every paper in Canada is searched. Dailies, weeklies, every publication, and the items clipped, mounted and set before him daily. He escapes the herculanean task of doing this for himself at a paltry cost. It is not his business to read papers, but it is the business of The Press Clipping Bureau. They do absolutely nothing else. Skilled sharp-eyed readers systematically search the columns of the press and clip the items he wants; they rarely miss one, so great is their experience.

Brokers receive every notice of the sale of bonds, debentures and money transactions; the chief of police everything relating to crimes and criminals, descriptions of bank-robbers, murderers and thieves; contractors, all advertisements of tenders for the erection of buildings, bridges, etc.; the politician every scrap of political news, and material for speeches; the alderman, complete reports of city council meetings in any other or every city in the country; the author, notices of his books and material for new works; private parties, material for scrap books and personal notices. Even the undertaker receives all death notices. Anybody interested in anything for business or private use requires the services of this perfect system of the art of collecting and distributing news.

"BLUE RIBBON" IN VANCOUVER.

The Province, Vancouver, of a recent issue, says: "G. F. & J. Galt, of Winnipeg and Toronto, who are recognized as the largest tea importers in Canada, also owners and packers of the celebrated 'Blue Ribbon' tea, are so well satisfied with the success of their package tea in British Columbia that they have decided to further extend their business and carry a full line of Ceylon teas at Vancouver, to supply the Western market, with headquarters on Water street. Mr. J. D. Roberts will be manager of the Vancouver branch. This firm now have warehouses at Toronto, Winnipeg, Prince Albert, Calgary and Edmonton."

Suggestions

Cox's Gelatine.

The brand folks know—tried and true in its purity and its strength. It makes a rich and a crystalline jelly, and it does its work quickly and surely. The economical housewife's gelatine—Cox's.

The Best and Strongest.

Lazenby's Jelly Tablets.

13 varieties of already sweetened and absolutely pure, flavored jelly tablets. The field of their sales is widening—"quality counts" you see.

Lazenby's Soup Squares.

Large orders recently filled in London for the Government for the Indian frontier. Competition is always out-distanced by quality—again we say "quality counts."

Stower's Lime Juice Cordial.

Absolutely no musty flavor so common in similar preparations. Not a drop of alcohol in it. Used by the Queen and both Houses of Parliament. The highest quality made anywhere by anybody. Good profits for you in handling it.

"Thistle Brand" Finnan Haddies.

Real Finnan Haddies, cured, smoked and packed right at the waterside. Thus, they retain that delicate flavor that consumers like and yet so seldom get.

Packed at St. Mary's Bay, N.S.

Stower's Lime Juice.

The most economical for your customers because 20 per cent. stronger than any other. Absolutely pure Lime Juice—purified twice over! A money-maker and a "customer-keeper." A quick, seasonable seller for now!

Every one the best of its kind.

"My Time is My Own"

that is what most men say to themselves in hot weather. And then, nine men out of ten go and buy a cigar and think it over. When a man's time is his own, a poor Cigar is sorry comfort for him—that's the time when he remembers the man who sold him the cigar if the quality of the cigar doesn't suit.

When you sell a man my "Pharaoh" 10c. Cigar or my "Pebble" 5c. Cigar, you can be absolutely sure that the man is going to remember the store at which he bought those brands and buy them again of you. The quality in each brand never varies from the one high standard that has made it famous.

"Dreaming Away Profits."

Many grocers allow hot weather to get the best of them—they dream away profits because they do not ACT. They build "Castles in Spain," but they never lay even the first foundation stone to the building. A grocer can lose lots of nice profits in hot weather by "dreaming them away."

Some grocers have read our advertisements about that ideal hot-weather Cereal Breakfast Food, "Molina Rolled Wheat," and that is all they have done—but the pushing, wide-awake, progressive grocer has read and acted promptly BY ORDERING IT. He is getting all those profits that the other grocer has "dreamed away." STIMPSON COMPUTING GROCERS' SCALE

The Stimpson Computing Scale by one operation gives all information sought,

WEIGHT and VALUE

It is the best and cheapest scale in the market.

It is the most simple in construction and operation.

No more beams, bearings or pivots than any ordinary scale.

The only grocers' scale ever produced in which all bearings are pivoted.

The only grocers' scale in which weighing platform is entirely detached from stationary base, insuring least friction, greatest sensitiveness and durability.

No movable carriages or other complex features to adjust for price, one movement of poise giving both weight and value.

Contains more improvements designed to give accurate results, simplicity of operation and durability than all other grocers' scales combined.

The merchant weighs his goods to ascertain the correct weight and value. The Stimpson gives these results by the movement of one poise. Why use a scale giving but one of these results?

VOL. XIII. TORONTO AND MONTREAL, JULY 21, 1899. NO. 29

NELSON, BRITISH COLUMBIA.

THE question is often asked of me by friends in Manitoba, "What do you think of Nelson?" That to me is a broad question to answer, as not a few want the answer commercially, while others ask from a physical, and some from an artistical point of view.

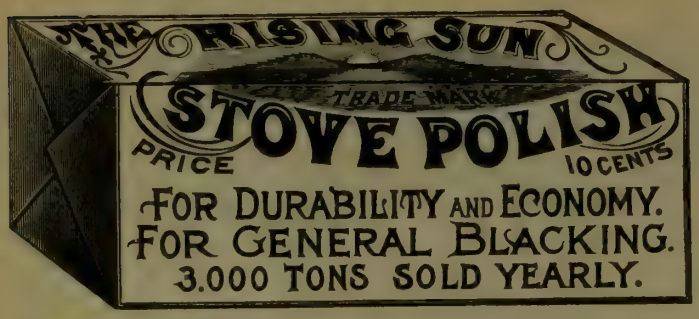
Commercially, the town has made extraordinary progress for its age, particularly the last two years. It is the centre of distribution for the Kootenay district, consequently has induced several wholesale houses from Winnipeg and other places to open out here, and, as a rule, all are doing a good trade. Retail grocers are numerous, each getting a fair share of sales according to individual ability "to make it go."

It would be rather invidious to point out one store in preference to another, where each in his small corner is trying to shine, but I may mention that on Nelson's gala day, July 1, M. Des Brisay & Co. took the prize for the best dressed window, which goes to show the public idea of the matter. They certainly have the most handsome store in this section of the country. I send you per this mail photos of their store, which measures inside 75 x 27 feet, is handsomely fitted up, has all modern improvements, and every facility for carrying on an extensive business.

The season here is from six to eight weeks later than usual, and the prospectors have been unable to go out on the hills, which has had the tendency to make business generally quieter.

Nelson may be said to be in a very healthy condition financially. The gold question does not make that bustle or excitement which one might expect in a mining town, business going on very quietly. Nelson, as well as other towns in the Kootenay district, has felt the drawback of the eight hour law, which has been the means of closing down quite a number of the mines.

Physically, as a health resort, Nelson, though we don't brag about it, is away ahead of many so-called "health-givers," as not a few can testify from personal experience.



We have a very perfect sewage and waterworks system, and our water for domestic use comes down from the mountain, pure, clean and soft. The lake affords excellent fishing, boating and excursion facilities.

abounding in the grand and beautiful by river, lake and mountain. Let me finish with a quotation which, I think, applies :

The land of pine-decked hills, of azure lakes,
Of snow wreathed mountains, where entombed within
The adamantine rock—a golden hoard
Awaits the hungry grasp of conquering man.

[The Nelson people were very proud of the success of their rather unique Dominion Day celebration, and one of the local papers in the course of a long description of the day's doings, referring to the prize window display of Des Brisay & Co., said : "The work was done by T. J. McCammon, one of Mr. Des Brisay's accommodating clerks, and was greatly admired by the crowds of people who stopped to inspect it. The prize was a pair of military brushes."—Editor CANADIAN GROCER.]

B. C. LUMBER FOR MANITOBA.

Reports from all sections indicate that the demand for lumber from Manitoba and the Northwest Territories has never been greater than at the present moment. Building, principally by farmers, is extremely active and the higher prices of lumber and builders' hardware are no appreciable check on the movement. To those who are familiar with the country it is easy to explain that there has been great need of farm houses and buildings better than the average that farmers have been compelled by circumstances to get along with. The farmers in that rigorous climate have perhaps the greatest necessity of substantial and comfortable houses for themselves and barns for their stock. It is also true that on the whole no class of people in Canada have got on with a poorer, more makeshift style of buildings and by force of necessity owing to the cost of lumber in that country ; it being largely an imported article. Recent years of good crops and fair prices have changed the conditions of the Western farmers and they have been getting into position to realize their long-deferred dreams of comfortable homesteads. Hence the strong and insistent demand for lumber. The rapid increase of population and extension of settlement by immigration has added to the demand until to-day the demand is away beyond the very limited home supply of spruce lumber and the turnout of the pine mills in the Lake of the Woods country, which with the shipments from British Columbia and a limited trade from Minnesota are the chief sources of supply.

The rapid growth of such a desirable home market for one of the leading articles and perhaps the most readily available of British Columbia's resources is a most satisfactory prospect to the lumber trade of the Province.

The situation in the market of the prairie country is well illustrated by the statement made to The Province the other day by a gentleman who knew of the case, that in a small town on the Calgary and Edmonton railway there were buildings partly erected which had stood for some weeks waiting for lumber, not a board being available in the town.—The Province, Vancouver.

DO NOT WEIGH LEAD WITH TEA.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER, — A recent case that appeared before the court and which has attracted much attention has been one that affects the public in regard to the weight of articles purchased. It has been stated in open court by some witnesses that it was a common practice for grocers and others to weigh in the paper, or other wrapping material, with the article sold. Now, we would like to emphatically contradict this, and we state that it is not the practice of the trade to do so. There are individual cases in which it is done, as was proved against the accused in court, but our goods have been before the public for many years, and we can say most decidedly that every package of tea sold under the brand of "Salada" contains full weight inside the lead of each package. We will thank you very much if you will acquaint your readers of this fact.

"TOWER" TEA.

The Tower Tea, Limited, is one of the pioneer packet tea firms of England, and have large branches in France, Germany, Australia and South Africa. About one year ago they opened a branch in Canada under the management of H. B. Hungerford, and since then this brand has secured a fair share of the Canadian trade.

One of the trade principles of this firm is that in all the smaller towns they confine their trade to a single store and claim that adherence to this rule has been one of the secrets of their success in other lands, so much so, that for the present, at least, they will continue on the same lines in this country.

Mr. Hungerford has been in the tea business since he was 17 years old, and has a good connection with the trade throughout Eastern Canada. It is his intention to start shortly for the Maritime Provinces, where no doubt he will meet with a good reception.

THE BEAUTIES OF ST. JOHN, N.B.

The New Brunswick Tourist Association never let up in their efforts to make the world recognize the varied attractions their Province offers to the pleasure or health seeker. The scenic and climatic advantages of New Brunswick are great. So are the sports offered to the fisherman or hunter. St. John is considered by the association as the natural centre of and outfitting point for tourists. The beauties of the city and of the country adjacent to it are attractively set forth in an elegantly gotten up booklet, containing forty half tone views, presenting the city and country in a most attractive manner.

A DRINKS EXHIBITION.

A unique exhibition is to be held in New York City next December. It will be known as the International Drinks Exhibition. Although drinks will be shown, the main purpose of the exhibition will be to show to brewers, malsters, distillers, soda-water, mineral water and carbonated drink manufacturers cider makers, etc., the most modern styles of machinery and appliances used in making or handling any of these drinks.

Manufacturers of such machinery and appliances in all countries will be invited to exhibit. A preliminary announcement has been issued by the International Drinks Exhibition Co., Park Row building, New York, giving full particulars of the exhibition, and extending an invitation to all dealers, jobbers, importers or manufacturers of these drinks to visit the exhibition.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

THE stock of currants in London on July 1 was 5,385 tons, compared with 4,919 tons on the same date last year and 5,959 tons in 1897.

London's stock of Valencia and Denia raisins on July 1 was 216 tons, against 544 tons the same date in 1898 and 516 tons in 1897. Of Smyrna sultanas there were in warehouse 1,088 tons, compared with 1,541 tons on July 1, 1898, and 1,968 tons in 1897.

ARRIVAL OF NEW CROP TEAS.

A Tacoma despatch of July 16 says: "The steamship Olympia, of the Northern Pacific line, arrived to-day from China and Japan with 3,000 tons of the new crop tea. She began discharging immediately and will hasten back with freight that importers are attempting to rush into Japan before the new duties become effective.

TEA SALES IN NEW YORK.

The feature of the week was the regular auction sale held on Thursday. The offering was not a large one, and, as the bidding was fairly spirited, the prices realized showed a fairly good undertone to the situation. The volume of line business transacted in the private market has been of only very limited proportions; still, there has been some demand for new crop Japan and Formosa, and they have sold at steady prices. The market for invoices has been dull. Settlements in the China markets have continued light, as prices asked have been too high to be attractive to exporters.—N.Y. Journal of Commerce, July 15.

CALIFORNIAN CROP OUTLOOK.

According to the crop bulletin of the Californian section of the Weather Bureau, the prospect for a large crop of grapes in the Sacramento Valley was never better. In some localities, deciduous fruits were damaged by the hailstorm in May, but the yield will be above the average. Peaches, plums and pears are yielding a heavy crop, and apricots and prunes are turning out better than expected. Almonds and olives are better than for several seasons. Oranges are dropping, but a fair crop is probable.

CANNED SALMON IN LONDON.

The demand for salmon continues fairly satisfactory, and values are maintained. There are some exceptional parcels offering in flat tins, and grocers would be well advised to take full advantage of them. The pack of this particular shape in 1898 showed a very marked decrease, and sooner or later higher prices are almost certain to be realized.—Produce Markets' Review, London.

Boston mail advices say: "The visible supply of canned lobsters is very small, the smallest for years. One-pounds are selling at $2.75 to $2.85 for talls, and $2.85 to $3 for flats."

THE GRANGE SUPPLY CO.'S STOCK

The stock of The Grange Wholesale Supply Co., 126 King street east, Toronto, was sold en bloc on Wednesday afternoon. The total value of the stock was $15,088.56. This included $4,026.07 boots and shoes; $3,305.05 groceries; $2,646.34 staple dry goods; $1,473 59 hardware, and stationery, jewelery, harness, patent medicines, etc., in smaller amounts. The purchaser was R. Y. Manning, manager of The People's Wholesale Supply Co., 144 King street east, who paid 56c. on the dollar.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

Fruit and Fish.

The fact that, in spite of the dirt and dust that soon reaches berries and other fruit displayed outdoors, so many dealers cling to the outdoor system made me question whether this was not, after all, the most profitable way to display this class of goods. We all know that goods so displayed cannot retain their freshness of appearance, nor do they long remain free from the minute particles of dust. Yet, though we know this, the fact remains that goods so displayed attract transient trade, and the reasoning is logical that if trade is to be reached in that way the proper thing to do is to put out the fruit and get a share. There is another side of the question, and, though I have long believed it important, I had no retailer's experience to back up the belief. The large part of all grocers' fruit trade is from their regular customers. The outdoor display is to them no attraction, but rather detracts from the value of the fruit in the store.

F. Simpson, 736-738 Yonge street, has always been successful in catering to a high-class trade in general groceries, fruit and fish. In his old store he made an extensive outdoor display of fruit. Since moving into the new store the indoor method of display has been used. The result has been largely increased sales of all fruit to regular customers. Some of these told Mr. Simpson that the indoor method of showing the fruit had caused them to start dealing there, whereas they had bought elsewhere when the outdoor display was used.

In the new store excellent provision has been made to keep meats clean and fresh. At the back of the store a small glass room is devoted to fish only. The floor is of marble, the serving tables of slate. The fish are kept in a long case divided into three compartments. This case is provided with double glass lids, and as it is kept well supplied with ice is always cold enough to keep the fish bright and fresh. A good device is used in front of the store door, consisting of a bulletin board with slips stating what fish are offered for sale each day. Mr. Simpson's fish trade, like his fruit trade, has shown much improvement since his new store was opened.

The increase in trade noted is not the only effect that is caused by changes such as the two noted. They help to create the impression that one is doing a high-class trade, which virtually means better customers and better prices.

The fact should always be remembered that a store that has a reputation for cleanliness, for fresh goods, etc., can always get better prices than can a store with no particular reputation.

Early Closing.

There is little being done in the way of early closing just now. As the fruit season is at its height dealers are hard to persuade that to close early now would be to their advantage, so it is likely that the movement will make small progress in the next couple of months. Yet, here and there throughout the city are grocers who have become convinced that it is to their advantage to close moderately early, at least. Two notable examples of this came before my notice one evening this week. I was returning to the city from South Parkdale along Queen street. All the stores, grocery and otherwise, except two, were opened and brightly lighted. The two, W. H. Marmion's and A. O. Foreman's were closed. The next morning I had a talk with Mr. Marmion. He told me he was satisfied with the results of early closing. He has reached the decision that he is going to close early, and get something out of life other than the few cents that might be made in the evenings. He also expects to close all day Wednesday that all his family and help may enjoy the grocers' holiday. An independent spirit results in freedom from much worry and overwork.

BIG LOSSES IN CHEESE.

THE export cheese market at present is in a very unsatisfactory position, as a result of excessive speculation. Contrasted with the strength that has been maintained on this side since June 1, the low offers made in a regular way from Great Britain are striking in their disparity.

The present position of values on this side the Atlantic and the activity that has been displayed lately are simply and solely the result of speculative manipulation of the market. That this operation has been highly unprofitable so far is made clear by recent advices to hand from England.

From these it is learned that cheese has been sold in England, chiefly in the London market, on the basis of 39s. to 39s. 6d. for all July delivery, the goods specified being June Ingersoll's, Belleville's and Brockville's.

The figure named is about equivalent to 7¾c. Montreal; that is, a shipper would have to purchase them at the seaboard at the figure named if he wanted to get out without a loss.

It is hardly necessary to say that purchases of finest June cheese at such a figure are absolutely impossible at present.

The curious spectacle is witnessed, therefore, of shippers selling cheese in Great Britain for about 8c. laid down, and paying for the same goods all the way from 8⅜ to 8¾c. at country points in Canada.

This highly undesirable situation is the result of heavy short sales by shippers who, no doubt, thought they would be able to get the goods for less money and have been disappointed. Now, of course, it is their own business, if shippers care to do business at a loss of 1c. per lb. or 70c. per box, but the trouble lays in the fact that it makes for an unhealthy situation with bad after effects. Advices make it clear that this short selling has been carried on to an unusual extent this season, for English reports from time to time have clearly stated that c.i.f. quotations were 2 to 3s. less than the cheese could actually be bought at. Naturally, therefore, these offers were closed with, and the English buyers are bringing these goods forward and disposing of them before making new engagements. As a result, business on a legitimate basis is practically impossible at present. These low offers and the reports in regard to the English home production all tend to create indifference on the part of the Britisher.

According to good authority, the domestic output in Britain is large, some estimates making the increase almost 50 per cent. The exports from Montreal also, so far, have been largely in excess of those of the same period of 1898. Up to last Saturday, the shipments were 615,379 boxes, against 466,633 in 1898, an increase of 118,746 boxes.

N.B. LUMBER FOR ENGLAND.

The shipment of lumber from St. John, N.B. to Great Britain the past year, ending June 31, shows a large increase in all lines over the previous season, particularly in birch plank. The figures for the past year are: Spruce, 67,762,544 ft.; birch plank, 2,603,674 ft.; birch timber, 3,191 tons, and 131 tons of pine. Of this, W. M. Mackay shipped the larger quantity.

AFRAID OF CANADIAN HARDWOOD

THE National Hardwood Association of the United States, at a meeting held last week in Milwaukee, declared against reciprocity with Canada because of the lower tariff on lumber, which would be the resultant.

This is quite what might have been expected.

The hardwood forests in the northern part of the United States are gradually becoming exhausted, and it is predicted that those who now largely depend upon them will, ere many years, be compelled to draw upon the southern forests for their supplies.

In the meantime, however, the hardwood lumber men are reaping the advantage which this condition of affairs, accentuated by a keen demand, induces, for the prices they are getting to-day are $4 to $5 higher than a year ago, and the tendency is still upwards.

It is not surprising the National Hardwood Association is opposed to reciprocity.

DAIRY INDUSTRY IN P.E.I.

The growth of the dairy industry in the lower Provinces has been quite rapid, particularly in Prince Edward Island. At one factory during the past week 149,557 lb. of milk were received, making 207 cheese, while at another factory 25,000 lb. were received in one day, making 35 cheese.

HOW $30 WERE SAVED.

No part of a trade paper should be more closely read than the advertisements.

Every advertisement in display type is an article specially designed by one who has goods to sell for one who wants to buy.

The goods advertised may not always be what is wanted, or right in price, but this is an exception.

As a rule, he who advertises names in his advertisements lines that he deems will be most attractive in regard to price, pattern or character.

A reader of THE CANADIAN GROCER declared the other day that he had saved $30 by reading an advertisement which appeared in its columns. Thus in one instance he saved enough money to pay his subscription for fifteen years.

It pays to read the advertisements.

BETTERING THE CONDITION OF THE WHOLESALE TRADE.

THE most interesting subjects for discussion in grocery circles this week are the various schemes which are being developed with a view to improving the financial condition of the wholesale grocery trade.

The most ambitious and most important scheme is that in regard to the amalgamation of the wholesale houses in the chief trade centres, reference to which was first made in these columns three or four weeks ago.

This scheme is still being negotiated, and those who are the most active in promoting it inform THE CANADIAN GROCER that there is every prospect of its consummation. Others, however, while desiring its success, are not so sanguine ; at any rate, as far as its immediate success is concerned.

Options have already been secured on certain houses. In Toronto, two are known to have signed documents giving options on their business. Others, while refusing to do so at present, would not be adverse to doing so when the scheme has been more fully developed.

Should amalgamation be effected, the stock, good-will and buildings will be taken over at a valuation, and out of these will be formed one, two or three houses, just as the circumstances warrant. Toronto, for instance, will probably have two.

The scheme is not of the nature of a combination. It is amalgamation pure and simple. There are too many wholesale grocers in the country. Every retailer knows that from the number of travelers who are in the habit of calling upon him. But the amalgamation will not destroy competiton, for there will still be wholesale houses outside those controlled by the syndicate.

The chief object in view is the curtailment of expenses. And it would be a good thing if two or three retailers here and there in towns throughout the country were to double up, as some of them have already done.

Another scheme is the appointment of an official buyer. This scheme has actually been put into operation, Mr. Thomas Wilson, who has been with Watt & Scott for a number of years, having been appointed to perform this duty for certain wholesalers in Toronto, Hamilton and London. He assumed office on Monday last, but at present his duties will be largely confined to the buying of foreign dried fruits. The idea is to purchase currants, raisins, etc., in large quantities in the country of production, through the shippers themselves and not through their agents, as has been the custom with each wholesale house in the past.

By this means, it is hoped, first, that the fruit will be bought at a little better price, and, secondly, that business in foreign dried fruits will be put on a more satisfactory basis.

It is a well-known fact that the dried fruit trade, and particularly the Valencia raisin part of it, has for some years been anything but satisfactory to the wholesale grocers.

The past year was a most unsatisfactory one in regard to Valencia raisins, a great deal of the business being done at actual cost, and not infrequently below cost.

One of the chief causes of this unsatisfactory trade is the fact that consignments have been brought on this market and sold at figures below those at which the bulk of the orders had been placed, thus, in turn, inducing the cutting of prices.

A good many people are sceptical as to the possibility of the evil being corrected through the appointment of an official buyer. And it does seem as though the best results can only be obtained in regard to Valencia raisins, or any other commodity or article, when those engaged in selling it are less jealous of each other and are more willing to share with their fellows the business that is going.

Purchasing through an official buyer should help, rather than otherwise, the wholesalers to obtain more satisfactory results from the sale of any and every article which is purchased through him, but they will need to help themselves by shunning the very appearance of cutting.

Still another scheme is the formation of a joint stock company, composed of wholesale grocers, to manufacture soap, spices, and grocers' supplies. This company is to be known as The Empire Soap Co., of Toronto, and has just received letters of incorporation from the Ontario Government. Those who sought, and obtained, the incorporation were: W. Ince, jr., of Perkins, Ince & Co., Toronto; Hugh Blain, of The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, Toronto ; F. W. Humphrey, Toronto ; John I. Davidson, of The Davidson & Hay, Limited, Toronto, and H. C. Beckett, of W. H. Gillard & Co., Hamilton. The capital will be $100,000, in 1,000 shares of $100 each. It has been asserted that the company is negotiating for the purchase of The Grocers' Goods Manufacturing Company, the soap manufacturing concern organized about a year ago by W. A. Bradshaw, but a member of The Empire Company informed THE CANADIAN GROCER that he was ignorant of any such negotiations.

The wholesale grocers do not do as large a share of the soap trade as they formerly did, and the company in question is organized presumably with a view to regaining, at least, a part of that which has been lost.

CANNERS COMBINE.

A combination has been virtually effected whereby, under the name of the California Fruit Canning Association, twelve of the largest canning concerns of the Pacific Coast have united their interests, with a subscribed capital of $3,500,000. The following firms are included in the combination : Cutting Fruit Packing Company, with plants at San Francisco, Santa Rosa, Colton and Santa Ana ; Fontana, with plants at San Francisco, Hanford, Healdsburg and Courtland ; King-Morse Canning Company, San Francisco and San Leandro ; San Jose Fruit Packing Company, with plant at San Jose ; Sacramento Packing Company, Sacramento, Visalia and Ventura ; Rose City Canning Company, Santa Rosa ; Southern California Packing Company, Los Angeles ; California Fruit Preserving Company, Oakland and Biggs ; Oakland Fruit Preserving Company, Oakland and Milpitas ; Marysville packing Company, Marysville ; A. F. Toney Company, Fresno.

Last season the united pack of these plants was 1,582,000 cases, compared with 1,020,000 put up by the independent canneries.

It is estimated that the combine will pack about 2,000,000 cases this year.

For the present season prices will not be influenced, the avowed object being to eliminate the harmful competition of past seasons.

SOCKEYE SALMON RUN.

SEVERAL of our British Columbia exchanges, under date of July 10, noted satisfactory conditions as far as the salmon run on the Fraser river was concerned. The Province, for instance, had the following :

The present run of sockeye salmon is the biggest on record for this early in the season. Last night the smallest catch was 100 fish per boat. The run is always looked to commerce on or about July 15 in full swing and already the catch is as great as that usually obtained at the beginning of the run proper.

A canner who is closely in touch with the conditions at present speaks in enthusiastic terms of the prospects for the season's catch. The only drawback, and it is a serious one, is the very small number of fishermen on the river. By actual count there were only 300 odd out last night, and of those but a very small percentage were white men ; Japs and Indians made up nearly the whole number. It is also stated that the chances are that not more than another 400 or 500 will be on the river during the season. Men never were as scarce as now and the restrictions as to taking out licenses are almost entirely to blame. The men are not now in sufficient force to take care of the catch and the run cannot be said to have properly commenced.

The promising condition of the run of fish appears, however, to have been but short lived, for private telegraphic despatches this week state that by the middle of last week matters had taken a different turn. There were plenty of salmon, but they were nearly all running into the traps on the United States side of the river, with the result that some of the packers notified their agents in Toronto to advance prices 25c. per case.

And, not only were the Canadian packers catching but few fish, but the price to the fishermen had been, the telegraphic despatches stated, advanced to the extraordinary sum of 30c. per fish. This latter feature is confirmed by a letter which THE CANADIAN GROCER has received from Malcolm & Windsor, Limited, of Steveston, B.C. The letter is dated July 12, and reads :

The position here at the time of writing is unprecedented in the history of the Fraser river. Some of the canners seem to have completely lost their heads, and sockeye salmon are now being eagerly bid for at 30c. apiece. The present state of affairs has been largely brought about by the scarcity of labor, together with the fierce jealousy entertained by some of the large packers towards each other. Fish on the Fraser have never yet reached such a figure as 30c., and it is just a question as to whether the smaller packers will be able to meet such keen competition.

In the face of this state of affairs, we quite fail to see how any Fraser packer can guarantee delivery of his salmon in Canada at the prices now being quoted, as it is patent that the packer of talls, with salmon at 30c., is making the buyer a present of $1.35 per case. Taken as a whole, the prospect is anything but a cheerful one, though the Government have extended the time for registration of fishermen to July 15.

The Province, Vancouver, of July 10, also printed the following :

From information received from northern canneries, it appears that a good run of salmon has set in on the Skeena river, and bigger catches are being made there than at Rivers Inlet. All the canneries are making satisfactory packs, and the trouble with the Indians is just about adjusted. The following packs have already been reported :

On Naas, July 1, Naas Harbor cannery, 140 cases (approximately), and Mill Bay, 250.

On Skeena, July 1, Inverness, 1,100 ; North Pacific, 800 ; Windsor, 800 ; Balmoral, not packing ; British America, 1,400 ; Cunningham's (approximately), 2,000 ; Carlisle, 1,400 ; Claxton, 600 ; Standard, 600.

On Lowe Inlet, Lowe Inlet cannery, 1,200 cases.

At Namu Harbor, Doaney cannery, 1,900.

On Rivers Inlet, July 3, Vancouver Packing Co., 1,100 ; Brunswick, 900 ; Wannock, 1,100 ; R.I.C. and Victoria canneries combined, 800, and Wadhams, 900.

ADVANCE IN MATCHES.

An advance of 20c. per case on "Telegraph," and of 25c. per case on "Telephone" and "Tiger" matches is announced by The E. B. Eddy Co., Limited. The new prices are as follows :

	Per case.
"Telegraph."
5-case lots and up	$3 20
Under 5 cases	3 40
"Telephone."
5-case lots and up	3 05
Under 5 cases	3 25
"Tiger."
5-case lots and up	2 90
Under 5 cases	3 10
"Telephone" (in ⅙ gross boxes.)
5-case lots and up	3 25
Under 5 cases	4 45

The cause of the advance is the sharp appreciation in the cost of raw material, which is not only likely to be maintained, but to increase. Consequently, matches are firm at the advance.

SUGAR PRICES IN MONTREAL.

Values on refined sugar in Montreal have displayed some irregularity lately, as a result of cutting in prices between jobbing firms, and, in some cases, others who were not inclined to do so were compelled.

But the effect has only been local in its nature, and up to the present has not exercised any depressing effect upon the actual situation. On the contrary, the demand at the refineries for all grades of refined sugar has been brisk, and a good volume of business has been transacted at firm prices.

If the cutting tactics are continued for any length of time, however, the fact would undoubtedly have an influence on the general situation.

TEA EXPORTS FROM CEYLON.

Exports of tea from Ceylon to the American continent from January 1 to June 10 aggregated 1,060,398 lb. This an increase of over 33 per cent., compared with the same period of 1898, when the quantity was 791,869 lb.

The total quantity exported to all countries was rather less than in the preceding year, the figures being 49,007,483 and 50,940,576 lb., respectively.

The decline was chiefly on London account, although Australia took 400,000 lb. less than during the corresponding five months of 1898. The figures relating to London were 36,619,267 and 41,282,535 lb. respectively, showing a depreciation of 1,663,268 lb. Africa, China and "other countries" also took slightly less than a year ago.

The countries which increased their purchases of Ceylon tea were Germany and Russia. The quantity sent to the continent of Europe increased slightly, and, as we have already pointed out, that to the American continent by 33 per cent.

CHAT WITH A REGINA MAN.

MR. THOMAS P. MALONE, manager of the general business of McCarthy & Co., Regina, N.W.T., has been in Toronto this week. Mr. Malone, who has been suffering from nervous prostration, induced by overwork, has been away from Regina during the past six months in search of health, and it is gratifying to know that he has found it. During the last three weeks he has been taking a bicycle tour, accompanied by his camera, through New York State and the Niagara Peninsula. He reached Toronto on Saturday.

He said his information from Regina in regard to the crops was favorable. "The crops in our district are often uncertain," he explained, "but we have had good crops for three or four years now. The dairying industry is developing rapidly, particularly in regard to creameries, which are a grand thing for the business men, as well as for the farmers. You see, the creameries pay the farmer every month for the milk they buy from him, and the farmer, in turn, is able to pay the business man for the goods he has bought from him."

Last fall, McCarthy & Co. moved into newer and larger premises. They have three stores, which are connected with each other by archways. These three stores have a combined frontage of over 80 feet, and the depth is 75 feet. The stores have a floor space of 5,000 square feet. The firm carry dry goods, clothing, hats and caps, boots and shoes, fur goods and groceries. It is probable that a stock of millinery will be added eventually.

IT IS SO EXTENSIVELY ADVERTISED that every grocer is in the happy position of having customers brought to his very counter through this persistent public announcement.

ONTARIO MARKETS

TORONTO, July 20, 1899.

GROCERIES.

As far as the markets are concerned no strikingly new features have developed during the past week, either in regard to the volume of business or prices. Canned goods is still the most interesting line. A good business is being done by the wholesalers in the way of booking orders for future delivery in canned tomatoes and corn, and a fair quantity have been booked for peas. Quite a large trade has been done by the representatives of the salmon packers during the past week, orders for some good round lots having been placed. No change has taken place in the price of any line of canned goods. The sugar market, while, perhaps, not as active as it was last week, is still in a fairly satisfactory condition, as far as the volume of business is concerned. The outside markets have been irregular, but no change is to be noted in the Canadian market. Syrups and molasses rule dull as before. Business is only moderate in teas. Tapioca and rice are in fair request. There is a fair demand for foreign dried fruits for this time of the season and prices rule firm.

CANNED GOODS.

Probably the most interesting feature in the canned goods market during the past week has been the large business that has been done by the representatives of canned salmon, some good large orders having been placed. Additional interest has been lent to the situation in canned salmon on account of the fact that one or more of the packers were compelled to advance their prices on account of the unfavorable turn in the fishing conditions. At the beginning of last week the prospects favored a fair catch, but before the middle of the week such changes took place, which necessitated, as has already been noted, some of the packers advancing their prices, much to the dissatisfaction of the wholesalers who had placed orders which had not been confirmed up to the time the advance took place. The idea for Fraser river fish in round lots to the wholesalers is $4.50 f.o.b. the Coast, which would mean about $5.10 delivered here. A representative of one packing house offered early in the week at $4.25, but, on account of the unfavorable turn in the fishing conditions, he had to advance his prices to $4.50 before any orders had been accepted by his principals. For one well-known brand of Fraser river salmon $4.75 f.o.b. the Coast is asked. Wholesalers report that they have sold a large quantity of canned salmon for future delivery, principally at open figures. For one well-known brand they are, however, quoting $1.65 for flat tins and $1.50 for talls. For immediate delivery there is a moderate business being done in canned salmon by the wholesale trade. The official buyer of the wholesale trade was this week looking around for canned salmon for prompt shipment, but with what results is not known.

In canned meats, a fair sorting-up trade is being done at unchanged prices.

In regard to canned vegetables, the situation has not changed materially from a week ago, the tone of the market still being strong. A fairly good trade is being done for present delivery in tomatoes and corn, but in peas the attention being paid is slight. During the past week there have again been some transactions in good round lots of canned peas for future delivery, at 65c. for ordinary and 70c. for sifted to the wholesale trade. At these prices offers have been freely taken. Some packers are, however, asking 5c. more than the figures at which these transactions took place. Wholesalers are quoting 70 to 75c. for future delivery. There is still no disposition on the part of wholesalers to purchase canned tomatoes at the prices asked by the packers. In fact, as far as can be ascertained, none of the packers are taking the trouble to offer this line. One packer, who has hitherto been quoting 75c., has, this week, advanced his figure to 80c. Wholesalers are, as a rule, quoting 80c. for future delivery to the retail trade, and some business is being done at that figure. Quite a few orders have been received by wholesalers for canned corn at 75c. for future delivery during the past week. For present delivery, 95c. to $1 per dozen is still the idea as to price.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

The tapioca market continues strong, and local wholesalers report a fair demand at 4¼ to 4¾c. per lb. Rice is in fair request at quotations.

SUGARS.

The demand for sugar during the whole of last week was decidedly brisk, and some of the wholesalers report that the volume of business in this line during the past couple of weeks has been unusually large. This week, however, the demand, while still quiet, is not as heavy as it was at time of last review. There have been no changes in prices on the local market, but on the outside markets there has been easier feeling. In New York, last week, raws declined 1-16 to ⅛c. per lb. The present week opened out under more favorable conditions, the cables from London reporting a decidedly better market for beet sugar with prices 2¼d. higher. This imparted a firmer tone to the New York market, and on Monday the refineries openly offered to guarantee prices up to January 1.

One of the features of the Canadian market this week is the fact that the Montreal refineries have placed a new dark yellow sugar before the trade, to be known as No. 1. It sells at $3.70 per 100 lb., or 10c. below the price of No. 2. The object aimed at in placing this sugar on the market is to meet the competition of dark yellow of United States make, which has been selling below the price of the lowest Canadian yellow on the market.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There are no syrups offering and none are wanted. Advices from new Orleans state that the market there is rather easier for molasses, and that the yield of the new crop is likely to be larger than was anticipated a short time ago.

TEAS.

Cable advices received this week report an advance in the price of fine Japan teas, bringing the figures up to about ½c. within those of last year. There has been a good demand in Japan in these teas lately for shipment to the United States. The representatives of Japan tea on the local market report a better inquiry for teas at about 16c., and, while there has been some business done, yet, there being a scarcity in this line, transactions have not been as numerous as they in all likelihood would have been otherwise. Buyers here, however, are not inclined to buy freely, living in anticipation that there will be lower prices later in the season. There is nothing, however, in the condition of the market at the moment which will indicate that their anticipations are likely to be realized, the cable report received last week stating that the export duty to be removed by the Japanese Government has been confirmed. The new regulations went into force on Monday, July 17. The duty is rather less than 6½c. per lb., and its effect is held to have been discounted on account of the fact that the Japanese Government gave notice some time ago of its intention of removing this duty. On account of the difficulty between the Indian and Ceylon tea-growers and the importers over the decision of the former to discontinue the 1-lb. draft, the London market is practically closed, as far as Indian and Ceylon tea are concerned. Consequently, the conditions of the market as to price for these teas cannot be ascertained.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The most interesting information in regard to currants was a cable received on Saturday last denoting higher prices. One cable showed the quotations to be 2s. 3d. higher than one which had been received on a similar line of goods 10 days before. The local market is fairly active for this time of the year.

VALENCIA RAISINS — The scarcity of selected raisins noted before is becoming more acute, and the demand is fairly good. Prices are unchanged, our quotation still being 4½c. for off-stalk, 5c. for fine off-stalk, 6¼ to 6½c. for selected and 6½ to 7c. for layers.

PRUNES—There is not much that is interesting to note in regard to prunes. Prices are steady and the demand just moderate.

GREEN FRUITS.

The fruit market has benefited by the feeling of prosperity that seems to dominate trade in all branches. The short crop of strawberries has resulted in a continued active demand for raspberries. It was expected by most dealers that prices would fall considerably, as shipments increased this week, but they are but ½ to 1c. cheaper than a week ago. Buyers are beginning to fear lest they should have to pay even higher prices than the 7 to 8½c. now noted. Black currants were very plentiful on Friday and Saturday last, and as the demand was moderate they sold easily at about 75c. per basket. They are offering less freely this week, and the price has advanced to 80 to 90c. Gooseberries are offering in smaller quantities, but prices are steady. The supply of red currants is also falling off, though no change in price is noted. Huckleberries are 10 to 20c. cheaper than a week ago, and, as a bumper crop is expected, prices are likely to fall below the 80c. to $1 price now ruling. A large number of watermelons are being imported from Missouri and Illinois. They are selling at from 20 to 25c., the former figure being the most general. Harvest and Red Astrachan apples have started to come in. They are in good demand at 25 to 30c. per basket. Lemons are advancing, the price now being 50c. higher than was noted last week. Bananas and oranges are moving quietly at unchanged figures.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS — Prices continue to stffen locally, an advance of ½c. being reported by some jobbers, who consider the market warrants 13½ to 14c. this week. Other houses have not yet put their price above 13 to 13½c. The British market, too, is advancing, but it is yet at too low a figure to do business at a profit, while prices keep as high as they now are here.

POTATOES—Old potatoes are practically done. New Nova Scotian stock is offering at $2.40 per bbl. The new Canadian crop is coming in more freely, the bulk of it still being small size. Prices have declined to $1 per bushel.

BEANS—There is little doing. Prices are unchanged at $1 to $1.10 for hand-picked, and 75 to 80c. for medium grades.

VEGETABLES — Cauliflower is in at 75c. to $1.25 per doz. Celery is 25c. cheaper. Cucumbers are 20 to 40c. lower than last week. Butter beans are offering at $1.25 per bushel. We quote: Cauliflower, 75c. to $1.25 per doz; Rhubarb, 15 to 20c.; radishes, 15c. per dozen bunches; spinach, 30 to 40c. per bush.; green onions, 5 to 10c. per doz.; asparagus, 30 to 50c. per doz.; celery, 75c. to $1 per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz., 30 to 50c.; parsley, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; green cucumbers, 40 to 60c. per doz.; new beets, 20 to 30c. per doz. bunches; parsnips, $1 per bag; carrots, 20 to 30c. per doz. bunches; green peas, $1 to $1.10 per bag. Butter beans, $1.25 per bushel.

GROCERIES.

THE week has not developed any change in the grocery situation as a whole, a fair volume of trade being noted for the season. In refined sugar competition between two jobbing firms has led to some irregularity in price, but the figure at the refineries is firm, and the movement from first hands of this staple may, in fact, be called brisk. Molasses furnishes no new feature, and in dried fruits light stocks of raisins are the chief characteristic at present. Forward business in canned vegetables has been less active from the fact that canners will not quote, but some good-sized contracts in canned fruits have been closed lately. Rice, coffee and spices are featureless. Rather more activity has been shown by tea during the week, but the aggregate turnover of the week has not been extensive.

SUGAR.

Competition between two wholesale firms has led to some irregularity in values on refined sugar locally, but, aside from this, values at the refineries are held firm. Demand has been good for all grades, an active business being reported, and we quote granulated $4.50, and yellows $3 70 to $4.25 per 100 lb. as to quality, net cash 14 days. The foreign markets have not shown much change. Inquiry for cane at London has been quiet with little demand at 12s. 6d. for Java, and 11s. 6d. for fair refining. Beet has been firm at the advance, present month being 2¼d. higher, the quoted price being 10s. 6d. and next month ¼d. higher at 10s. 6¾d. In New York raw was steady, but not quotably changed.

SYRUPS.

This market is without special feature. Demand continues very slow, and prices are nominally unchanged at 1¾ to 2¼c. at the factory.

MOLASSES.

There has been nothing striking to report in molasses since the occurrences of last week. Trading on spot in round lots has been fair, and prices are firmly held. More distributing trade from second hands has been noted during the week, also sales of half-carload lots being noted at 36c. ex store. For round lots, ex wharf, bids of 33½c. have been refused, holders asking 34c. Offers of Porto Rico stock have, it is said, been made at very reasonable figures, but nothing appears to have resulted in these goods, and the exact figures in question were not made public.

DRIED FRUITS.

Business in dried fruits continues light and prices generally are firm under light stocks. This is particularly the case in Valencia raisins, of which, aside from a small quantity of off stalk, supplies here are exhausted. In currants, values rule steady, while there is little to report in connection with prunes, and other lines of fruit.

CANNED GOODS.

Business for forward delivery in new pack canned vegetables has been less active during the past week, as packers refuse to quote until they know more definitely how the different crops are going to turn out. Demand for new pack corn from retail buyers has been experienced, and sales of 800 cases or so are reported at 75c. per dozen. Tomatoes in a jobbing way are selling at 77½ to 80c. Inquiry for new pack canned fruits has been fair, and several large sales of mixed lines are noted. We quote: Apples, 3-lb., 75c.; preserved, $1.40; 1 gallon tins, $2; pears, 3-lb., $1.80; plums, 3-lb., $1.60; greengages, 3-lb., $1.75; yellow peaches, 3-lb., $2.25; pumpkins, 3-lb., $3.65; strawberries, preserved, $1.35; do., in syrup, $1.15; raspberries, preserved, $1.40; do, in syrup, $1.15. Business in new pack salmon for future delivery is still being freely done, over 5,000 cases having been placed during the past ten days.

RICE.

An average business is reported in rice and prices are without change. We quote as follows: B standard, $3.40 to $3.50; Patnas, $4.12½ to $4.75; Japans, $4.50 to $5, and Carolina, $6 to $7.

COFFEE.

Demand for coffee is still slow and the market lifeless.

SPICES.

There is nothing new to report in spices. We quote: Singapore black pepper, 12½ to 13c., and Singapore white, 19½ to 20c. Penang pepper, 17½ to 18c., and West Coast, 12 to 13c. Pimento, 11 to 12c. Nutmegs, 28 to 44c., as to quality. Cassia, 9 to 10c.; Jamaica ginger, 19½ to 20c.; Cochin tips ginger, 6 to 6½c.; Zanzibar cloves, 9 to 10c.; nutmegs, 40 to 55c., and mace, 45 to 50c.

TEAS.

Rather more activity has been developed in the tea market, new crop Japan stock selling all the way from 17 to 22½c. for lots aggregating 700 packages or so. Old gunpowders have also changed hands at 15c. In blacks, the firm feeling in Ceylons is quite marked though no actual transactions are noted. Private cables from Japan continue firm, in line with the advance noted last week.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been a fair business in green fruits, and both city and country orders have been more numerous. Oranges are in good demand, and sell at $4 to $5 per box for 200's, and $2.50 to $2 75 for 100's. Lemons have sold better at $2.50 to $3.50 per box. There has been a glut of bananas, and they have jobbed as low as 42c. per bunch, but now 75c. to $1.25 is asked. Raspberries are more plentiful, but sell at 7 to 9c. Cherries make 90 to $1.25 per basket. Tomatoes are in lighter supply, but there is still plenty to go around at 85c. to $1 per crate. Watermelons are easier, at 15 to 20c. each. There have been heavy receipts of Californian fruit, and we quote: Peaches, $1.15 to $1.25 per box; plums, $1.25 to $1.75 per box; pears, $4.25 to $4.50 per box; Californian apples, $2 to $2.25 per box.

FISH.

There is little doing in fresh fish and salt stock is largely nominal. We quote as follows: Fresh haddock and cod at 3 to 4c. for haddock, and 3 to 3½c. for cod; British Columbia salmon, 12 to 13c.; halibut, 13 to 14c.; salt fish: Green cod, $4.25 to $4.50 for No. 1, and $5 for No. 1 large per barrel; dry cod, $4; Nova Scotia herring, $4.25 to $4.50 in barrels; Cape Breton, $4 75 in barrels; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $14 to $15; sea trout, $9.50 to $10; lake trout, $4.25 to $4.50 per keg of 100 lb.; No. 1 green haddock, $4 to $4.25.

CHAT WITH A MAN FROM THE KLONDYKE.

"HAVE a talk with F. J. Long," said Mr. T. B. Alcock, secretary of The Gurney Foundry Co., Limited., to me on Thursday afternoon. "He has just come from Dawson City, and may be able to give you some information that will be interesting to readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER."

I found Mr. Long about an hour later in his room at the Rossin House. He was preparing to leave for Ottawa.

"Are you in business at Dawson City, Mr. Long?" was my first query.

"Well, yes," was the answer, "but I am not a merchant. Last year I took a Niagara Falls acetylene gas machine and fixtures, and a large supply of carbide from The Wilson Carbide Co., in St. Catharines. I now have the lighting of 15 business houses in the city.

"Is there any competition?"

"Yes, electricity has been introduced, but so far they have lacked power, and where acetylene and electricity have come into competition, the former has won. But it is only a matter of time when electricity will be generally supplied. I believe the owners of the plant are out buying more machinery now.

"We are compelled to supply light from 21 to 23 hours per day during the winter season, and in the summer we have to supply some of the larger buildings with 12 hours' light a day. You see, some of the buildings there are 150 feet, or more, long, and have no windows except at the ends, so artificial light is needed."

"Have prices been as high as reported?"

"As high as any reports I have seen. For materials I have myself needed I had to pay fancy prices. I had to pay $1 to $1.50 per foot for ½ in. pipe; 50c. apiece for ¼ in.; 75c. for ½ in., and $1 apiece for 1 in. fittings. One sale of 200 feet of 1 in. pipe was made at $1.85 per foot, and 30 feet of steam hose was sold for $150, or $5 per foot. But, tell your readers they are too late to get a taste of these prices. Those who need these goods, or expect to need them next winter, are out for them now."

"I suppose that is what you are after?"

"Partly. My first reason for coming out was to see my family." Mr. Long stopped, and handing me photos of two bright boys, about 7 and 9 years old, asked: "They are worth seeing once in a while, are they not?"

Then he continued: "I also desire to patent a gold washing machine, which I have designed and constructed. Of the 150,000 miners in the Yukon district, over 100,000 use the old-fashioned rocker. My machine does the work of 15 such machines. It also saves water, as it will use the same water repeatedly. The miners are eager for me to put them on the market, but I want to protect myself first."

"Will you manufacture them yourself?"

"I will likely have them made in Vancouver. It is the nearest point, and freight rates are important factors in the price of machinery."

"What are the rates from Coast points to Dawson City?"

"From Vancouver, Victoria, or Seattle to Dawson via St. Michael the rates are $100 to $125 per ton. From any of these points to Dawson via Skagway and Lake Bennett it depends on the quantity taken. Over 10 tons, the rate is $165 per ton; over 20 tons, $145 per ton; over 40 tons, $135 per ton. The latter route has the advantage, though, as this is the best way to go in yourself. You can keep your goods ahead of you, whereas the St. Michael route is much slower. If I were sending a very large shipment, I would send it early via St. Michael. When I sent in the acetylene machinery and the carbide, I sent them via New York round the Horn to St. Michael for $140 per ton."

"Are the machines the only goods you will take in?"

"Oh, no! I have personal interest in 22 mining claims, and will need to take a good deal of material in. Included in this will be steamboilers for thawing the frozen ground."

"Are they in general use?"

"All miners get them as soon as they can. In the sinking of shafts and in drifting steam is now playing an important part. A jet of steam inserted four and a half feet in the frozen ground will, by remaining turned on for three hours, thaw from five to seven feet of ground, where, by the old method of thawing by wood fires, 15 to 20 inches is considered a fair burning. My trip will cost me $550, but I expect to save that on the materials I purchase."

"How many dealers in hardware are there in Dawson?"

"There are four or five who carry a regular line of shelf hardware, but nearly all the stores handle it, more or less. The bigger ones, such as The North American Transport and Trading Co., Limited, and The Alaska Commercial Company, carry everything. They have between them over twenty steamers."

Mr. Long brought out some photographs taken in the Yukon district. One of these was a photo of one of the Yukon river steamers. These are stern wheelers with small draught, and are in some cases as large as the Mississippi river boats, which they resemble in appearance. Between 70 and 75 ply the Yukon between Dawson and St. Michael, or Dawson and Lake Bennett.

Another photograph gave a fine view of Dawson. For such a quickly constructed city in the remote Yukon the buildings are very creditable. There are four churches, two hospitals, Salvation Army Barracks and Shelter, two banks and a post office. The last named is small, and a site for a new one has just been chosen.

Mr. Long was enthusiastic in his praise of the law and order in Dawson and vicinity, saying that he believed there was less criminality in that city than in any city of equal population anywhere.

"What is the outlook for permanent prosperity?" I asked, as a concluding query.

"I could hardly say. But, as time goes on, the country will steady down to a less exciting, but more satisfactory business policy. The miners who have good claims now throw away what is known as 10c. dirt, which, with the larger, improved machinery such as is used in British Columbia, would pay well. Men and companies are already applying for bed-rock sluices, for the sake of washing out with such machinery waste dumps and tailings. The waste dumps include the sand considered by miners as too poor to wash, and tailings are the residue left after the imperfect wash they give what sand they do handle. What the country now wants is capital, rather than lebor. A man with $10,000, or a company with $25,000, prepared to buy and develop known properties, would not fail to make a good thing in the Yukon this year or in the years to come."

Mr. Long predicted that excursions to Dawson City would be far from rare in the near future.

The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, report heavy sales for their "Anchor" brand fancy Fraser river salmon. Their travelers are busy booking orders for standard packs of salmon for future delivery.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. are offering Bevan's connoisseur clusters at $1.25, extra dessert clusters at $1.50 and "Royal Buckingham" clusters at $2.25. Fruit is in excellent condition—1898 crop.

"This season's import orders for our 'Anchor' Japan tea in air-tight tins, show the increased and gratifying appreciation it has secured," says The Eby, Blain Co., Limited. "The trade who have not yet placed their orders are asked to do so within two weeks to enable us to depatch the final list to Japan for execution."

the market is moderately active, with no change in prices to note. Choice candled stock sold at 14c.; ordinary at 12c., and No. 2 at 9 to 10c. per doz. Receipts were 485 cases.

MAPLE PRODUCT — There was nothing new in maple product, the market being quiet on account of small supplies. We quote: Syrup, in wood, 6½ to 7c. per lb., and at 85 to 90c. per tin. Sugar sold at 8½ to 9c. per lb.

HONEY —In honey, business was slow and prices steady. We quote as follows: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 9 to 10c.; dark, 7 to 8c.; white extracted, 7½ to 8c., and dark, 4½ to 5c.

BEANS — The demand for beans is limited at present and trade rules quiet. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

POTATOES—There was no change in the market for old potatoes. The demand is fair at 75c. per bag in round lots.

ASHES—The market for ashes was quiet and without any change to note. We quote: First sorts, $3.70 to $3.75; seconds, $3.60, and first pearls, $5.50 per 100 lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—There was no important change in the situation of the flour market, except that the feeling was a little easier, in sympathy with the decline in wheat, but no actual change in values was recorded. The demand from local and country buyers was fair for small lots. We quote as follows: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4; straight rollers, $3.40 to $3.50; in bags, $1.65 to $1.70; Manitoba patents, $4.10 to $4.30; strong bakers', $3.70 to $3.90.

GRAIN—The local grain market continues to rule very dull. In Manitoba wheat, another decline of 1c. was scored again today in sympathy with the weakness at American points, and No. 1 hard at the close was quoted at 71¼c. afloat Fort William. In regard to oats, shippers state, according to private cable bids received today, they could not pay more than 32½c. afloat here for them. Car lots for local consumption sold at 33½c. ex store. A bid of 75½c. ex store was made for peas, and refused. Buckwheat was quoted at 59½c.

MEAL—Business in meal was quiet and of a small jobbing character. Rolled oats sold at $3.70 per bbl., and at $1.75 per bag.

FEED—The inquiry for bran and shorts over the cable continues good, and further sales of round lots will likely be made in the near future. The local demand is quiet, but the tone of the market is steady. We quote: Ontario bran, in bulk, $13 to $13.50; shorts, $14.50 per ton; Manitoba bran, $12.50 to $13; shorts, $15 to $16; mouille, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY — There was a good demand for baled hay at country points for shipment to American and English markets, in consequence of which supplies on spot are not excessive and prices rule firm. We quote: Choice No. 1, $7.50 to $8; No. 2, $5.50 to $6, and clover, $4.75 to $5.25 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

The demand for all cured meats is still good; in consequence an active trade is passing and prices rule firm. In other lines there is only a moderate amount of business being done. We quote as follows: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50, and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7 to 7¼c. per lb., and compound refined 5½ to 5¾c. per lb. Hams, 12 to 13½c., and bacon, 11½ to 12½c. per lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—Last Saturday, a halt was called in the upward tendency that characterized cheese values, but whether it is to be of a temporary character or not, lays with the speculative element, who have been responsible for the recent rise. The chief spot business consisted in the transactions at the wharf where 7,000 cheese were offered and sold at 8¾ to 8½c. precisely the same range that ruled last Monday. Otherwise no change is to report in quotations, Ontario being quoted at 8¾ to 9c. and Quebecs, 8⅝ to 8¾c., as to grade.

BUTTER—The butter market rules steady and fairly active. Inquiry has now veered round to boxes, which have the preference over tubs of about ½c. per lb. Values on creamery are steady at 17½ to 18c., as to grade, the outside being an extreme figure and not generally obtainable. Undergrades sell all the way from 17 to 17¼c. Western dairy moves in a quiet way at 13½ to 14c. in tubs.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., July 20, 1899.

DURING the past week there has been a fair movement in business. This is, however, a rather quiet season. Markets show little change. The wholesale trade are giving more attention to fall goods. The season is proving a good one for the lumber dealers, and, though shipments have not gone forward as quickly as last year, they show better returns. There are also good returns from vessel property, because of the good freights ruling, which also tends to make our people feel good. In markets we note a rather easier feeling in tea, Ceylon particularly showing rather lower figures. The stock of good values in low-priced teas is small, and there is some inquiry. In allspice, there is a rather lower figure quoted, but, as a whole, spice shows little change. Latest reports show an unsettled Ceylon tea market.

OIL—Business in burning oil shows improved movement. The competition has not as yet resulted in any change of price. Linseed oils keep high, and there seems no stop to the upward movement, which is also true of turpentine. Cod oil is in very light supply, but is very low. Lubricating oils are low with a fair business reported.

SALT—Quite a large cargo of Liverpool coarse salt arrived during the past week. It found just a fair demand, quite a quantity being put in store. Prices are as for some time. Market is well supplied. The business is practically in the hands of one or two firms. In fine salt, prices show no change, and with the advancing season there is rather less demand. We quote: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—Prices are firm. Wholesale dealers are still buying, but are now largely supplied. Some are turning the goods over quite quickly, or, rather, selling to arrive, but others look for better profits later. Corn is the only line of new goods that has really advanced, though many packers are at present not open to make sales, some even looking for stock themselves. Salmon has opened high, and the outlook is firm. In fruits, gallon apples show a range in price among the packers at rather higher figures than last year. Peaches give promise of full figures. Strawberries, also, are held firm, and, owing to the short pack tendency, are higher. Pumpkin has but a fair sale in this market, and string beans, also, have but a limited demand. In canned fish, such as sardines, kippered herring and haddies, some new brands are seen on the market this year. Prices are firm, with fair sales. There is little local sale, but the goods go west. Meats are firmer.

GREEN FRUITS—Small fruits are now taking a first place. Strawberries have been very plentiful and of good quality. In price they have been lower than usual, even at retail good berries being sold as low as 6c. Nova Scotian cherries are being received quite freely, and sell low. Preparations are being made for the usual large shipments of wild raspberries to the American market, where they are used for manufacturing purposes. Rhubarb is very low, and has but a limited sale. Oranges are quite high. Some new fruit has been received, so that quality is better, but sale is light. Lemons are a good sale, but show a big range in price, according to quality. Pines and melons are in fair demand at quite full figures. Bananas keep quite scarce. Californian fruits are a matter of interest. Pears are now being received, but figures are still high. They are the line of Californian fruit most sought after.

DRIED FRUITS—This line shows little life at present. In peels, some orders for future have been given at prices rather below those of last fall. This is about the only line in which business has yet been done. Our dealers are no inclined to give open orders. They begin to inquire for prices, but figures in most lines have not been named. Californian figs will rule high, but the Smyrna fig is the only seller here, and orders have largely been placed. Spot prices in all lines are low. Dealers are more anxious to do business than are the buyers. In onions, low prices rule. Bermudas are particularly low. At the usual difference in price, the demand is for Egyptian. Quite a quantity of cocoanuts have been received. Prices show no change. Peanuts are high. In the local market, prunes are easy.

SUGAR—The market shows no change. Prices are quite firmly held. There is a good sale, particularly for granulated.

MOLASSES—While there is a fair business, there is nothing of interest to note. There is quite a stock of Porto Rico held, but Barbadoes is light supply and relatively high. Market is firm.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Eggs keep scarce and high, but our market is still lower than other points. Butter is over stock, and is very low, some very good being offered much below usual figures. There is no business in creamery. Cheese is in ample supply and relatively lower here than at outside points.

FISH—Pickled herring begin to take a more active place in the list. Some nice stock was received during the week, and prices are rather easier. Dried cod are still quite scarce, and keep high. While pollock are a light stock prices are easy. Smoked herring are firm with fair business. Salmon is rather firmer. Catch continues light, but quality is splendid. Shad, halibut and mackerel are quite scarce. In haddies, bloaters and kippers a light and purely local business is being done. We quote as follows: Large and medium dry cod, $3.75 to $4.00; small, $2.50; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6½ to 7½c.; halibut, 10 to 12c. per lb.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; shad, 10c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $1.75 per 100; salmon, 15 to 16c.; pickled herring, $1.75 per half bbl.

PROVISIONS—Barreled pork and beef show no change in price, but tend easy, owing to light demand; hams and rolls a fair sale at even prices.

FLOUR FEED AND MEAL — The week shows practically no change in the local market. If anything values tend lower, more particularly in Ontario grades, but millers look for firmer figures. Oatmeal is a light sale at even figures. Oats are scarce. Cornmeal moves freely at the same price which has been quoted for some time. Feed is still scarce, and high. Beans are a light sale at rather easier figures. Barley, split peas, etc., show light business at even figures. Hay is still dull. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.65 to $4.80; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.10; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $4.00 to $4.10; cornmeal, $2.05 to $2.10; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10; prime, 95 to $1.00; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50 to $1.75; do., Canadian, $1.80 to $2.25; mammoth clover, 7½ to 8c.; alsike, 7½ to 8c.; red, 7¼ to 7¾c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

The cornmeal mill of W. H. Fowler was burned last week.

Woodstock, N.B., is to have a summer carnival early in August.

A car of salmon arrived this week and was divided among the trade.

The grocers' picnic will be held at Nauwigewauk on July 25. Every effort is being made to make it a success.

Jones & Schofield have some of Nicholson & Brock's mince meat on hand. The demand for this brand is rapidly growing.

Dulse is now being received quite freely. That from Grand Manan is considered the best. Thos. Gorman receives regular shipments, and does quite an export business.

The Maritime Board of Trade will meet in our city on August 16. It is hoped there may be some visitors from some of the large Western boards. They would have a hearty reception.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, July 17, 1899.

EVERY wholesale house in Winnipeg has been inundated with visitors during the week. No industrial exhibition ever brought so many merchants to town. During the early part of the week they called to chat over matters in general and view the stock, but on Friday and Saturday very considerable buying was done and merchants on all hands are satisfied with their week's work. Wholesale men were too busy to talk markets ; the word on all hands was : "Prices are just what they were last week, we have been too busy to change."

Mr. F. S. Millard, of The MacLean Publishing Co., was in town Monday and Tuesday and took in the Fair. This is Mr. Millard's first visit to the West and he expressed himself as pleased with all he saw.

The Produce Exchange has been organized, but the combination of farmers and dealers is so peculiar that at present it is extremely difficult to say what the outcome will be. So far, none of the large produce houses have signified their intention of joining the association.

In produce, the markets appear a little firmer. Creamery butter has hardly advanced, as the quotation is still 15c. creameries, but several lots have netted during the week 15½ to 15¾c., and feeling is stronger. In dairy butter, however, there is no change except that the receipts on consignment are larger than those of last week. The quality has not improved.

CHEESE—Has been very quiet and the market is, if anything, weaker than it was a few days ago. The quotation is 7½ to 8c. for large, and 8 to 8½c. for small, but buyers are not keen and anticipate lower prices in a few days.

EGGS—Exhibition demands about exhausted the supply, and the prices have ruled high all week ; 14c. Winnipeg was paid early in the week, but as high as 15c. was given towards the end. It is not thought these prices will hold, but the prospects are that eggs will be fairly high throughout the season.

CURED MEATS—This market continues very firm. The demand is also good. Hams are 12c., breakfast bellies, 11½ to 12c.; shoulders, 9c.; backs, 11½c.; spiced rolls, 9c.

GREEN FRUITS—The market has been very active all week. The crowds of visitors and hot weather combined, made an ideal week for fruitmen, and they profited accordingly. There are no new varieties on the market, but stocks are fresh and in good condition in all lines. Oranges are firm, though there has been no real advance in price. The price, according to variety and condition, ranges from $5.25 to $6. Lemons are also very firm, and the quality now on hand is not as good as could be desired. Quotations are $5 per box with a further advance likely to go into effect immediately. The bananas are plentiful and of excellent quality and are quoted from $2.25 to $2.75. Watermelons are $3.50 to $4 per doz. Californian peaches are $1.50 per crate. Apricots are out of the market and only small lots will arrive for the future. Californian plums, $1.50 to $2, according to variety ; Californian Bartlett pears, $3.75 to $4 ; Washington cherries, very fine, $1 per box; raspberries, $2 per crate of 24 pints ; red currants, $1.75 per crate of 24 quarts ; tomatoes, $1.50 per crate.

FROM ITALY TO B.C.

What is known to be the first direct shipment of merchandise in any quantity from Italy to the British Columbia market has been received by Morris & Aitkin, wholesale commission merchants of this city. The shipment which was several tons, was comprised of boracic acid, brimstone, citron peel, olive oil and Italian castile soap. As the goods were shiped direct from Livorno (Leghorn), which is the principal mercantile centre of the department of Lucca, the importation of oil bears that well-known name which is standard of excellence in olive oils. The merchandise came via Gibraltar and Liverpool.

This shipment, which is intended to be but the initial order of a continuous trade, is noteworthy as it marks an era in the development of trade in this Province. When our merchants are dealing direct with the source of supplies it shows enterprise and a disposition to do the best possible for the home trade, which deserves encouragement, as it cannot fail to establish Vancouver as a trade centre, a position she is rapidly attaining.-The Province, Vancouver, July 13.

THE UPWARD TREND OF PRICES.

Bradstreet's index figures show the low water mark in prices to have been 56.803, October 1, 1896. On July 1, 1897, they were 66.937, but between these dates they had been over 68 ; they reached 76.556 on August 1, 1898, 77.819 on January 1, 1899 and 80.818 on July 1. This is almost exactly the same as on July 1, 1892, 80.629; but on July 1, 1891, the figures were, 91.633, and on October 1, 1890, 105.996. The most rapid part or the fall, however, occurred in the next two months ; the figures for January 1, 1891, were 94.236. During June 36 articles on the list of Bradstreet's advanced, 14 declined and 55 remained unchanged. In 12 months 63 advanced, 26 declined and 14 remained without change.

An unusually large shipment of tobacco was sent to Japan on the Empress of China, exporters wanting to land large quantities before next month, when the duty will be advanced over 100 per cent.

MONTREAL GROCERS' PICNIC AT IBERVILLE.

THE nineteenth annual picnic of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association, which was held at Iberville, Que., on Wednesday, July 19, was an unqualified success in every way.

The morning looked unpromising, heavily laden clouds and chilly winds no doubt kept some away, but the reputation which this annual event has secured for itself could not be offset by the chance of a little rain, and the two trains which left Windsor station in the morning were heavily laden with pleasure seekers, many more going out to the beautifully situated grounds at Iberville by the regular trains. Arrived there everyone set about making themselves and others happy, the various committees sparing no pains to provide entertainment and pleasure for all.

A lengthy programme of games was carried out in the best of order and good spirit, the successful competitors receiving the congratulations of their friends, sometimes in a manner more forcible than polite.

The dancing platform was continually crowded with young people tripping the light fantastic to the strains of an excellent string orchestra, while those who enjoyed boating made the most of the opportunity presented by the quiet water of the Richelieu river, which is most picturesque and attractive at this point.

THE BANQUET.

The banquet, which was held in the large enclosed pavilion, was most enjoyable, being attended by nearly all of the prominent retail men with their ladies and friends. After partaking of a cold luncheon, which was well served, President John Scanlan proposed, in a few appropriate words, the toast of "Her Majesty the Queen," which was received with much enthusiasm.

The toast of "The Mayor of Iberville" was then proposed by the president, who said that, in all the years that the retail grocers had been leaving Montreal for their annual outing, they had never been received better or more enthusiastically than by the people of Iberville. The mayor of the village, Mr. Nadeau, replied, stating the pleasure which it accorded him and his fellow-citizens to welcome to their midst such a gathering as that which was present to-day.

Thereafter, the treasurer, Mr. Dixon, read letters from Hon. Felix Marchand, S. Demers, and —. Livernois, of Quebec; Ald. Laporte, Hon. Mr. Flynn and R. Prefontaine (mayor), of Montreal, expressing regret at their inability to be present on the occasion.

The chairman then requested Mr. A. D. Fraser to propose the health of the mayor and city council of the city of Montreal. This he did, expressing the appreciation which the association felt for the many services rendered it and its members individually by the city fathers, and called upon Ald. Turner and ex-Ald. Thos. Gauthier to reply thereto. Ald. Turner, the first to respond, said that it always afforded him pleasure to do what he could, not only as a grocer, but as a member of the city council, to advance the interests of the Grocers' Association, and he felt that he bespoke the feelings of his confreres when he said that the association and the grocers in general had and demanded the continued interest and assistance of the representatives of the city. Ex-Alds. Gauthier and Connaughton responded briefly, expressing their regret that present members of the council had not seen fit to avail themselves of the privilege of meeting the members of the grocery trade.

Mr. McCarry then amused and interested the assembly by reciting, in his own peculiar style, a couple of Dr. Drummond's French dialect poems.

"Our Guests" was then proposed in an amusing speech by Thomas Gauthier, who coupled with it the names of Mr. Ethier, of Laporte, Martin & Co.; Mr. Chaput, jr., of Chaput, Fils & Cie; Mr. Richard, of P. Richard, of Cognac, France. Mr. Ethier responded, followed by Mr. Chaput, jr., whose remarks were most enthusiastically received, as were also those of Mr. Richard. Mr. Duckworth also responded in an interesting speech, expressing, on behalf of himself and other travelers, his thanks for the pleasure afforded them in being permitted to attend this outing.

"The Press" was then proposed by Mr. Dixon, who said that the press was considered by the association as most important in furthering the interests of the trade, and expressed the association's thanks for the repeated assistance afforded it. The toast was responded to by representatives of THE CANADIAN GROCER, Le Prix Courant, La Patrie, Star, and Gazette.

After "Our Past Presidents" had been duly honored, the "Travelers" was proposed by the president, and responded to by Mr. Raby.

The "President of the Montreal Grocers' Association" was proposed by the mayor of Iberville, and replied to by Mr. Scanlan in a few well-chosen remarks.

J. O. Levesque proposed "The Ladies," which was responded to by Mr. Robertson.

Merrick ; J. R. Clogg & Co., Wm. Clogg ; J. Luttrell & Co., Mr. Watkins ; Bell, King & McLaren, Wm. Bell ; D. H. Renoldson, Mr. Carrignan,

To N. Chartrand and E. Manning is due the financial success of the picnic. Through their efforts the sum of $700.00 in cash was collected. This, together with profits of picnic raises the total receipts to over $900.00 in cash besides all the prizes.

J. P. Dixon has shown that he is not only a hustler in business, but as a runner he never comes in second.

The chairmen of the several committees were indefatigable in their efforts to make the picnic a success.

During the banquet each guest was presented with a bottle of Richard's Brandy and a street car ticket holder with the compliments of Laporte, Martin & Cie.

Chase & Sanborn's guessing contest was one of the features of the picnic. The successful quessers were : J. E. Manning, 1st ; R. Walsh, 2nd ; Mr. Russell, 3rd.

There were three prizes for this contest : 1st prize, silver pitcher; 2nd prize, silver watch ; 3rd prize, silver fruit bowl.

The Christie, Brown Co., of Toronto, donated seven prizes, all of the very best quality.

After the banquet J. O. Dumas took a photo of the members of the different committees.

Splendid music was furnished for dancing by Plosi's orchestra.

W. Duckworth was seriously injured by trying to lift E. Manning. In the scramble both fell and Mr. Duckworth came underneath.

FRENCH SARDINE SITUATION.

Private advices from Bordeaux, France, in regard to sardines, state : "The packing season for sardines is now on, but so far very little has been done in the smaller tins on account of the size of fish, which have been more suitable for large tins, and boneless packing. It looks very much as if buyers will have to be satisfied with 7s. 8d. fish for the small quarter, and 8s. 10d. to 9s. 10d. for the ordinary quarter. Prices are quoted as follows : Small quarters, $7.50 to $8 ; ordinary, $7.75 to $8.25 ; full quarters, $10.50 to $11 ; American quarters, $13.50 to $14 ; boneless, high halves, $22 to $23 ; low halves, $18.50 to $19.50 ; high quarters, $16 to $17 ; and low quarters, $10.50 to $11.50."

W. J. CLARK SELLS OUT.

The grocers of Toronto are a healthy body of men. Rarely one has to retire from business because of ill-health. One of their number has had to retire lately, though. W. J. Clark, who opened a grocery at 311 Huron street about three months ago, has been compelled to sell out on account of ill-health. The purchaser was James R. Powell, a native of Toronto, who is making his initial attempt at running a grocery store.

SULPHITE FIBRE WANTED.

A heavy demand is being experienced for sulphite fibre, and those who have any to sell will likely find buyers by addressing The E. B. Eddy Co., Limited, Hull, Que.

C. E. Archibald, of the Empire Tobacco Co., Montreal, is spending two weeks rest a Saco, Maine.

M. J. McKinnon, junior partner of the firm of Murdock & McKinnon, Hepworth, Ont., has opened a store in Parry Sound. He will carry a stock of groceries, boots and shoes, and flour and feed.

W. A. Shackell, city traveler for Frank Magor & Co., was in Quebec this week showing the Xmas samples of Cadbury's fancy goods, Carr's biscuits and several other lines controlled by them.

The inspector of fisheries on the lower Fraser has made the discovery that the meshes of a great many of the salmon nets used in those waters are fully an eighth of an inch too small. He has wired the Fisheries Department at Ottawa, asking for instructions. The decision of the Department is awaited with anxiety, as the destruction or prohibition of the use of these nets would mean serious loss to the fishers.

THE WINNIPEG EXHIBITION.

THE great Industrial Exhibition at Winnipeg closed on Saturday, and in attendance and profit broke the record of all previous Fairs. The weather has been absolutely perfect — warm, but a fresh breeze each day and cool nights. The committee appointed by the city council to secure accommodation for fair visitors, worked so systematically and promptly that ample and comfortable accommodation was provided for all the thousands that crowded the city, and the loss of the Manitoba hotel was not felt as seriously as anticipated. The railway companies, this year, provided several one-day excursions, which enabled some to come in who otherwise could not have done so.

Year by year, the management have improved the grounds and buildings, and with all the gaily striped and decorated tents the sight was a pleasant one to view from any part of the grounds. The trees are now well grown and afford pleasant shade.

LIVE STOCK.

The most important feature of the fair here is the live stock, and though, owing to the fact that, this year, the C.P.R. charged freight on all animals coming in, the exhibit was smaller than before, the quality was in advance of anything yet seen. Hon. Thomas Greenway did not compete for prizes, but he had one entire stable filled with a herd from the Prairie Home farm, 35 beasts in all. This stable was prettily decorated with flags and bunting. The cattle were magnificent, and there is little doubt would have proved prize-winners had they competed. Three of the heifers, born and reared on the farm, were sold for $500 each, to go to Ontario. Another cow brought $435, and two bull calves under four months old sold for $200 each before the fair was half over. The Durhams are, of course, the most in evidence here, but the Ayrshires, Holsteins, and Jerseys were well represented. There were some very fine Herefords and Polled Angus. The exhibit of both sheep and swine was unusually small, but the quality was fully up to the mark of previous years, and, in fact, something beyond it.

POULTRY.

This exhibit was large and varied, and some splendid birds were shown in nearly every class.

DAIRY EXHIBIT.

The dairy exhibit was the finest yet shown, and received the highest praise from the judges. The exhibit was larger than it has ever been before, and the Farm Dairy was highly commended for uniformity of make and package. The creamery butter was also pronounced of superior quality, and the average number of creameries exhibiting was also good. The cheese exhibit was large and the quality fine, both in white and colored.

The display of dairy machinery and utensils was large, and, as the machinery was in motion, many useful hints were gathered by the visitors.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

Owing to the Fair being held so early and the spring having been somewhat late, the display in this department was poor.

MAIN BUILDING.

In the main building, among the local manufacturers who made good and effective displays were J. Y. Griffin & Co., pork packers; Dyson, Gibson & Co., baking powder, spices, etc.; E. L. Drewry, soft drinks, essences, pickles, sauces and relishes; "Royal Crown" Soap Co., and "Lion" Chocolate Works. The leading wholesale hardware and stove dealers had good displays.

ATTENDANCE.

Tuesday was devoted to the children, and although many grown people attended, the feature of the day was thousands of school children flitting like bright birds through the various buildings. Wednesday was farmers' day and Thursday citizens' day, when the Mayor proclaimed a civic half-holiday, and 21,000 paid their way through the gates and 9,000 into the grand stand. Friday was American day and 5,000 visitors came in from points in the Western States.

ATTRACTIONS.

The attractions were generally pronounced not up to those of other years, except in the matter of the horse races, which were particularly good. The stock parade is a feature of the Fair which, once seen, is never likely to be forgotten. All the horses and cattle are led or driven around the race track, while the hogs and sheep are carried on large drays. The president of the association and the mayor of the city head the procession, and there is always a good band. The cattle and horses are all gaily decorated and appear to like the performance quite as much as the spectators.

A RED-HAIRED GROCER.

Frank G. Sherwin, of Battle Creek, Mich., rejoices in the fact that he has red hair, and is known in the Michigan town as the "Red-haired Grocer." When Mr. Sherwin started in business several years ago, he decided that his locks could be turned to advantage, and the idea has been a decided success from the start. All the wrapping paper, bags, etc., employed by the firm are printed with flaming red ink. "Frank G. Sherwin, the Red-haired Grocer," and frequently the firm's advertising matter is signed "Ever Ready," "Always Ready," and so on.

CANADIAN-BRITISH TRADE PROSPECTS.

MR. J. M. McKIM, of London, England, manager of the branch office of THE CANADIAN GROCER in Great Britain, is visiting his relatives and friends in Canada. Mr. McKim was for some years a member of the business staff of the Toronto office, and was promoted to the management of the British branch nearly two years ago. His father was the late Robert McKim, who, as a member of the famous Light Brigade, saw service in the Crimean War, and fought in the engagements of Alma, Balaclava, Inkerman and Sebastopol.

"What are the prospects," I asked Mr. McKim, "from what you can gather in your conversation with British manufacturers and merchants for the expansion of trade between Great Britain and Canada?"

"Prospects are certainly improving. But, you know, there are a great many business men in London who do not seem concerned at all about trade outside the British Islands. I am sure, however, that there is a better feeling in regard to trade with Canada. As you know yourself, from your own observation, there are a great many more British manufacturers and merchants, or their representatives, than there used to be coming to Canada looking for business."

"Do you hear many complaints in regard to the absense of a national insolvency law in Canada?"

"I do. Some business men have told me that not until Canada has set her house in order in this particular will they make any effort to do business with her. They cannot, they tell me, understand why a nation should extend preferential tariff treatment to Great Britain, as Canada has done, and then, by refusing to enact an insolvency law, nullify to a great extent the advantages which the tariff accords. Some, on the other hand, pretend that the preferential tariff does not give British goods a preference. I was very sorry," concluded Mr. McKim, "to see the Insolvency Bill side-tracked again. I believe that a national insolvency law would do as much, if not more, for Canada in Great Britain than even the preferential tariff."

THE CANADIAN GROCER is now well known in Great Britain, and the London, England, office at 109 Fleet street, E.C., is frequently visited by British manufacturers and merchants seeking information about Canada.

A. McLeod and R. A. Martin, of Kingston, have been awarded the contract for supplying the penitentiary with groceries.

GROCERY WINDOW DISPLAYS.

By Grocer.

I WOULD like to say a few words re window dressing. It is a very rare thing to see a nicely dressed window throughout the country, although you will find some very nice stores. It is simply because of one of two things : either they don't know how or do not care. If the latter, I would advise the merchants to get out of that slovenly way. If the first, then try and cultivate a taste which will make them think more of their business. If they do so they will find they have a finer business than they ever thought they had, while they will find that they have more pleasure in doing business than they had before. Then, again, they will find that they are doing a better trade, not only in volume, but from the standpoint of profits.

A store window is like a man's face. As a man's face is an indication of a good or bad character, so is the window to a clean or dirty store. And we find a great many of the latter.

In order to be a good window-dresser one must possess natural taste, and also be methodical and a good designer, so as to be able to arrange and display goods in the best way and to good advantage.

Some people think that so long as they fill the window with goods they have dressed it. Therein is where they make a great mistake. For instance, I once saw a clerk dressing a window in a good large town with the following goods : At each end of the window a pile of soap, in the centre a box of tea, at each side of tea a box of raisins ; then some teapots. While he was still dressing the window, I remarked to him : "Would you like to have that lot mixed together for your dinner?" He looked at me in surprise, and wondered what I meant. After explaining that tea and soap would not make very palatable soup, he remarked that he never thought of it in that way. Therein is the great mistake. And there are a great many clerks and proprietors just like him. They never think, and they never use their eyes when they go out. If they did they could soon gather ideas which would make them give more attention to their store window as well as their interior decorations.

To keep your stores attractive costs little more than time, and lots have that and to spare. Then, put a little into your stores, and brighten up some of your old goods.

STRAWBERRIES IN HALIFAX.

The Halifax produce market is without special feature this week, except as regards the arrival of the strawberry crop, which has been a good one. The receipts in Halifax were large. The season began on June 26, and from that date till to-night there have come in from Annapolis Valley points 5,000 crates. On Tuesday last, the receipts amounted to 1,113 crates, the largest on record. The price that day dropped to 6c. per quart, but yesterday and to day it came up again to 8c.—Halifax Herald, July 15.

NORTHERN SALMON CANNERIES.

The Victoria Daily Colonist, of July 7, had the following : "Northern cannery business is now in full swing. Fish are running thick on Rivers Inlet and boats are making an average catch of 100 salmon a day. On the Skeena, where the fishing season started earlier, conditions are reversed. Only an average catch of from 18 to 20 fish to the boat is being taken, and the Indians, discontented with their success, have struck for higher wages. Such was the news brought from the Northern fishing grounds by the steamer Boscowitz yesterday. The Indians of the Skeena were anxious to take passage on the steamer down to Rivers Inlet, but the vessel, out of consideration for cannerymen, refused to carry them. One of the big drawbacks to fishing on the Skeena so far this year has been the dark, cloudy weather, which kept the fish to the bottom of the river. No large packs have consequently been made, the biggest put up at the time the steamer left being that of Cunningham's, consisting of 1,000 cases. The Boscowitz brought 300 cases down to Victoria, besides a quantity of furs. The steamer sailed again for the North last evening, and will call at Steveston to-day for 400 or 500 empty salmon boxes for the Brunswick cannery. She had a good load of both freight and passengers leaving here."

FOR THE GROCER'S WIFE.

Mrs. I. M, W.—"Will you give suggestions for a company of one hundred and fifty persons ?"—Your question probably refers to the refreshments. In entertaining so large a number, the "standing supper," as it is now termed, will best meet your requirements. Lay the dining-room table with a handsome cloth and a low plateau of roses as centrepiece. At convenient distances arrange piles of plates, napkins, and the necessary silver for serving. The dining-room should be open through the hours given in invitations, guests coming in and out at pleasure. They stand around the room and chat while they partake of the delicacies. Salads, croquettes, ice cream, fancy cakes and coffee is the usual reception menu. At this season of the year hot dishes seldom are served at evening companies.—Acker's Weekly.

A LESSON IN TEA.

THIS is not a made-up story, but a true narration of facts. Many readers may at once recognize the parties concerned—for my part I am under promise not to mention names.

A certain firm purchased a large quantity of tea in the foreign markets two years ago. Almost immediately after the purchase the price of tea went down, and the speculation turned out to be a failure. The firm was in a quandary, as it had over $100,000 expended in the purchase, which would not then realize more than three-fourths of that amount. The dilemma was explained to a wise man, and he said he would think over the matter and report next day. When he came back in the morning he asked the firm if they would turn over one-fourth of the stock to him and he would guarantee to get full price for it. They did so, and a large quantity of tea, which was then stored, was consigned to the wise man.

About three weeks afterwards, a new brand of tea was widely advertised. It was in pound and half-pound packages, and had a pretty and distinctive name. It was advertised at 50c. per lb., and in less than two weeks the supply was exhausted. The name of the tea and its peculiar quality were widely talked about.

Another lot was put on the market and the advertising kept up, and then a third and last lot was advertised, but, in the meantime, the firm had "smelled a rat" and had been let into the secret. They went out into the market and bought a whole lot more of the tea they had been "stuck" on, and in another month they had duplicated the order. Their failure turned out to be a howling success, and all through the machinations of the wise man, who had conveyed the idea of giving this tea—which was of the most ordinary quality and cost but 25c. per lb. in bulk—a distinctive name and putting it on the market as a package tea, well advertised to the consumer. It cost 3c. per lb. to pack it in neat shape, and about 4c. per lb. to advertise it, leaving a profit of 18c. per lb. on 400,000 lb. of tea—$72,000 profit in about nine months!

The whole scheme, be it remembered, originated in a direct loss of 25 per cent. on the first purchase, and it was only the genius of the wise man who was called into council that turned the failure into a success by the simple process of giving the goods a distinctive name, putting them up in attractive form and advertising them liberally to the public. The same tea was being sold by grocers at the time for 30c. per lb. in loose form, but the wise man rightly conjectured that in a better and more presentable shape it would sell at a better price, provided that it was properly advertised.

The same tea is being advertised and sold to-day, and that is why I cannot mention its name.

But there is a great advertising moral for consideration. To take any article that is a failure at its own price, make no change in the goods intrinsically, but merely in the outside appearance; advertise it judiciously and create a steady demand for it at twice the price in the short space of a few months, ought to be the best kind of an answer to the cranks who have the audacity to tell us, in these enlightened days, "advertising does not pay."—John C. Graham, in Printers' Ink.

The above is very suggestive of the power of advertising to create demand; that a convenient package is a great factor in securing public favor; that cutting prices is not essentially a factor in winning trade; that it is easy to humbug some of the people at some time; that grocers are forced to sacrifice a liberal profit on bulk goods for a small profit on proprietary brands of inferior quality.

We also note that this tea episode is denominated "a scheme" and that its author deliberately states that the tea sold at 50c. per lb. in packets, was the same tea that was sold in bulk, at the same time, for 30c. per lb.

The moral is plain that consumers are willing to pay more for goods put up in attractive shape than for the same articles in bulk at much lower price. This fact is clearly demonstrated by the preference given to crackers, put up in neat packages, over the same sort sold at less price in bulk; to the sale of cereals in packages at double the cost to the consumer that the same can be bought for in bulk. It is evident that package goods are most in favor with consumers, and that they are quick to pay an extra price for the more convenient service.

Is not the above narrative of "facts" also illustrative of how the consumer pays for advertising and makes it possible and profitable for plucky fellows to avoid a failure and make a "howling success?"

There is a sermon with many valuable lessons in Mr. Graham's story, which grocers should take to heart.—American Grocer.

Mr. George Yerex, of Yerexville, Ont., picked from three acres last week on his farm, in four days, and delivered them at W. Boulter & Son's canning factory, Picton, 13¾ tons of sweet wrinkled peas, "McLean's Advancer" variety. In the pod, this will bring him in $275.70, being over $90 per acre. He has still three acres to pick, equally as good, this week. Weight, 27,750 lb.; drawn in eight loads on July 4, 5, 6 and 7.—Picton Times, July 13.

Quality Wins Trade.

Price is an argument with some people, but "quality" wins trade and keeps it.

Edwardsburg Starch proves its right to be called the Starch of quality by the unequaled test of time—time tests all things. Suppose you sell a customer a Starch that is yet in the experimental stage—you take more chances in selling it than the customer does in buying it. If a customer's trade is worth having, it is worth keeping. It is a poor way to keep it by running the chances of shaking their confidence in the quality of goods you sell—truly "quality wins trade." Edwardsburg Starch is pure Starch! Edwardsburg Starch keeps trade! It pays to buy (and to sell)—

I am not a "Cutter"

I make the prices of my Cigars low; but I am not a "cutter" or a "slasher" of prices. The "cutter" usually buys a job lot of tobacco, and that generally means inferior quality to begin with. Briefly, somebody makes a mistake; and "somebody" wants you to help him out of a hole by buying his tobacco. He is willing to let it go cheap—if he can find a purchaser.

Whenever you buy cigars at a lower price than I ask for my "Pharaoh" (retails for ten cents), or my "Pebble" (retails for five cents), you may be absolutely sure that the quality is sacrificed, and, too, that the workmanship is inferior. I would like to send you samples of my "Pharaoh" and my "Pebble" Cigars.

DELINQUENT ACCOUNTS AND METHODS OF SECURING COLLECTIONS.

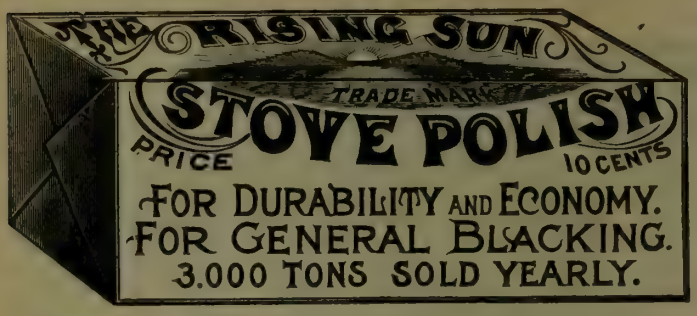
By William A. Joyce.

THE poor we always have with us ; it makes little difference whether we refer to the poor people or to our poor accounts, for, with the latter, so long as we do, and must necessarily do, a credit business, so long we are positively sure to have a certain number of delinquent accounts. They necessarily become a part, as it were, of our stock in trade, yet how little value we usually attach to them when looking over the books of some concern that has become insolvent, for, as a rule, they are sold with the other assets for little or nothing. What an ideal life for a business man if his business could be done on a strictly C.O.D. plan or a sort of a United States postal plan—that is to say, "pay before you taste the stamp," but, if this wonderful change in business would come about, what would become of us poor credit men. I see no other vocation left for us but to become the iceman—"wouldn't you like to be the iceman?" So, for our own selves, we had better encourage the existence of delinquent accounts, and then, with a wise look and a very little action, collect some small account that no one else could possibly have collected. Then our concern sees the great necessity of advancing our salary ere some other concern discovers our wonderful value and makes it an object to change for our health, and, perhaps, like the preacher, we receive a "call" where we can do more good at a little better pay. So, having settled the fact that out of necessity we must have the delinquent accounts, let us consider for a few moments how to care for some and how to keep our percentage of losses under one-half of 1 per cent. of our business sales, which, in the shoe trade, is, in my judgment, a fair estimate of what the maximum losses should be.

It has been the custom of the concern I represent to make our statements daily, keep the same arranged alphabetically, and, on the first of the following month, send them to all purchasers during the month, marking the statement, "not a dun, but sent to you for comparison, and for the purpose of correcting any errors that may have been made." In addition to this, we send at that time statements of all past due accounts and those becoming due soon, making a list of these, and then, say, after 10 days, we send another statement to all those who have failed to settle, attaching to same a colored slip calling attention to their past due matter. If this does not have the desired effect, we follow by a notice of draft. If draft is returned unpaid, we write them a pleasant letter asking for an explanation, and, at the same time, notifying them in many cases that we shall discontinue the account, and mainly for the reason that, considering the prices upon which we sell goods, we cannot afford to change our terms beyond those named upon invoice. We find that this frequently has much better effect than by sharper treatment.

We have found by years of experience that, as a rule, it does not pay to place accounts for collection in the hands of country attorneys, either through yourself or through your own attorney. Invariably, when it reaches the attorney who is to do the collecting, we find the very party against whom we have the claim is either a relative, friend, or, in some way, closely connected, and very often is the regular attorney for the party against whom we hold the claim. Our claim is then either pigeon-holed or dallied with until we have lost all patience in the matter. Our custom has been to go directly to the party in a pleasant manner, and secure by best means possible, giving ample time.

During nearly 25 years of experience our concern has never sued what is termed a live account. After a delinquent has become insolvent we have placed claims of this nature in judgments, especially where we have anticipated that in the future there might be a chance to recover some part of the amount. We have made it a rule to be lenient and at the same time firm. We have found that by kindness and forbearance we have saved many delinquent accounts. The good credit man should look up and read Alice Carey's little poem "Don't Crowd," which, for your benefit, I will read :



Don't crowd ! this world is large enough
For you as well as me ;
The doors of art are open wide—
The realm of thought is free.
Of all earth's places, you are right
To choose the best you can,
Provided that you do not try
To crowd some other man.

What matter though you scarce can count
Your piles of golden ore,
While he can hardly strive to keep
Gaunt famine from the door?
Of willing hands and honest hearts
Alone should men be proud !
Then give him all the room he needs,
And never try to crowd.

Don't crowd the good from out your heart
By fostering all that's bad ;
But give to every virtue room—
The best that may be had ;
Be each day's record such a one
That you may well be proud ;
Give each his rights, give each his room,
And never try to crowd.

We have another scheme which has taught many a delinquent to become a prompt and valuable customer. It may not always work, but our plan has been something after this fashion: We fund the present indebtedness and secure the same by a plan of guarantee or real estate security. We then insist upon the delinquent discounting all purchases whether of us or of other concerns; in addition to this, we insist on a very small weekly payment, which payment must be made on a regular date. We allow discount on all his purchases, and insist upon his paying interest upon the funded indebtedness, which interest we collect either monthly, quarterly or semi-annually. We know of a number of cases where, by careful financing for good honest and industrious men, it has enabled them to become prosperous dealers.

The question often arises, "When does a man become a delinquent?" In my judgment he becomes a delinquent the minute he commences to lose his discounts, and from that time he is in no condition to compete with his neighbor who is in the habit of looking after every cent in that direction. It is well to watch all accounts that are known as "running accounts," that is, accounts that buy indiscriminately and pay what they can afford to pay on account from time to time, and making no settlement from the first of the year to the last. The days of these accounts are past, and no good business man can afford to have them or can afford to carry them, for sooner or later the blow will come, and, unless you are securely buttoned up, you will surely have an item for the debit side of your profit and loss account.

It is somewhat of a question in my mind whether these few simple facts are of much interest to you, but if they are, you are most welcome to them, and I sincerely trust the time will arrive when delinquent accounts will continue to grow less in number, which I really think they will, for it seems to me as if we were getting closer and closer to a cash basis, necessarily so on account of the close margins upon which goods are sold.

RETAILING SUGAR IN VANCOUVER.

"Wait a moment and I will tell you what happened in our line the other day," said a grocer recently.

"You know" (I didn't, but of course I nodded wisely) said he, "the Retail Grocers' Association have been selling granulated sugar at 17 lb. for the dollar ever since the last rise in price and there is not much in it at that."

"Never is any money for your trouble in sugar," put in the grocer's clerk, sympathetically.

"We heard that a certain grocer was selling 19 lb. of sugar for $1," continued the grocer. "How he was able to do that was a mystery. So I resolved to test it. I sent a party to buy a dollar's worth of sugar. When I got it and put it on the scale, expecting, of course, to see it on the light side, it weighed 20 lb. 10 oz. full weight.

"For fear it might have been a mistake, I sent another purchaser in for a dollar's worth of the sugar. This lot was weighed and touched the beam at 19 lb. 6 oz., an evident intention to make 18 lb. fo $1, but with the error in the weighing machine it compared exactly with the previous weight. The long and the short of it was that fellow was selling sugar at less than cost and then his scales cheated him 1 lb. 10 oz. on 19 lb., and he does not know it yet.

"Can you wonder some people are unable to make it 'go' in business," concluded the grocer, with some heat.—The Province, Vancouver, B. C.

IS IT TRUE?

How to reduce the cost of doing business is the great mercantile problem of the day. Some of the retailers are trying to get around it by forming combinations to reduce the purchase price of goods, but the limit to that sort of thing is soon reached. Some dealers don't know what "cost" really means. If they met it in the street they wouldn't recognize it. Verily, they are in a parlous state. — New York Merchants' Review.

NOVEL WINDOW DISPLAY.

D. S. Coonrad, a retail grocer of Rockford, Ill., has pleased his fellow-townsmen by a unique window display, showing a "grocers' picnic train," his idea being to advertise the local grocers' picnic.

According to The Grocers' Criterion Mr. Coonrad has constructed the picnic train of the following materials:

The locomotive boiler is made of a five-gallon oil can, the smokestack is a lantern chimney and the cowcatcher is made from fly paper upon which the grocer has written truly; "No flies on this train." The wheels are the round tins in which "Sweet Burley" fine-cut tobacco is sold, and the driving rods are made of "Red Cross" macaroni boxes. These boxes are also used for rails on which the unique train runs. From the cab window of the engine a brownie's head is protruded; he is the engineer. The tender is made of a "Morgan's Sapolio" box and is laden with bottled and canned dainties suitable for a picnic lunch.

The baggage car was made from a match box and is inscribed; "C. & N.-W. Flyer —Buy picnic lunches here."

The passenger cars are made from boxes of the "'Robert A. Johnston' crackers; in no trust, buy them and you get the best; Milwaukee, Wis." The car wheels are made of salmon cans.

At every car window brownies are seated and the heathen Chinee are obliged to take to the roof. Underneath the train is the placard: "All aboard for the Grocers' Picnic," and above the display are draped the stars and stripes. The depot from which the train runs is made out of boxes of "Rockford" oats.

The display attracts great attention and will undoubtedly sell many tickets for the picnic.

HAMILTON GROCERS' PICNIC.

THE annual picnic of the Retail Grocers' Association is one of the events of the year in Hamilton. This year was no exception to the rule, as the attendance at the picnic, which was held on July 19, at Queen Victoria Park, Niagara Falls, was greater than in any previous year. Over three thousand took in the trip.

Great preparations had been made for the reception of this large crowd. In fact, representatives of the association had been sent to the park the day before, so, when the excursionists arrived, everything was ready for their reception. Tea, coffee, milk and hot water were served free to all, and by noon the three thousand were scattered everywhere in the shady places in the park, making merry at their luncheon.

The 13th Battallon band accompanied the party, and their music contributed not a little to the pleasure of the afternoon.

After luncheon the crowd scattered in all directions. As reduced rates had been provided for trips on the electric observation cars, many went up or down the Niagara. Many visited the beautiful Dufferin islands, others went under the Falls, others patronized the Maid of the Mist. Hamilton excursionists were to be seen everywhere, especially until 2.30 o'clock, when a good crowd gathered to see the programme of races, sports, etc., run off by a committee of the grocery clerks. The following were the winners :

100 Yards' Foot Race—For grocery clerks under 17 years of age.—R. Kerr, G. Clyde, E. Edwards.

100 Yards' Foot Race—Handicap, for grocers.—J. Lampman, R. Ryckman, E. H. Young.

200 Yards' Foot Race—For retail grocery clerks and drivers.—Geo. Blair, R. Kerr, J. L. Brown.

100 Yards' Sack Race—For drivers.—L. Capple, S. Ross, Geo. Blair.

200 Yards' Hurdle Race, eight hurdles — For grocery clerks and travelers.—J. L. Brown, Geo. Blair, J. Lampman.

100 Yards' Foot Race—Open to all. — Albert Newman, Niagara Falls; E. Smith, Dundas; John Garson, Hamilton.

100 Yards' Three-legged Race — For grocery clerks and drivers.—J. L. Brown and C. Hall, Geo. Blair and C. Kerr, L. Capple and John Henry.

75 Yards' Race — For lady bookkeepers and clerks.—Miss Robinson, Miss McCullough, Miss Burton.

¼ Mile Foot Race—For grocery clerks and travelers.—J. L. Brown, C. Hall, S. Ross.

Running Long Jump—For grocery clerks and drivers—John Garson, J. Lampman, John Henry.

¼ Mile Foot Race—Open to all.—E. Smith, Dundas; Albert Newman, Niagara Falls; John Garson, Hamilton.

Ladies' Soap Race.—Misses McManus, O'Neill, Walker, Galloway, Bremner, Urry, Whiteley and Athawes.

The committee of the day was : J. C. Boligan, president ; C. Bremner, treasurer ; W. R. Harvey, secretary ; Joseph Kirkpatrick, chairman ; Adam Ballantine, Andrew Bain, Wm. Smye, jr., James Main, J. O. Carpenter and John Ronan.

POTATOES SCARCE IN ROSSLAND.

There is a potato famine in Rossland, says The Vancouver World, and many restaurants have ceased to serve them on account of the price. The price last Saturday had advanced to $5 per sack or about 4½c. per lb. by the sack. The famine is chiefly caused by the fact that large quantities are being shipped from the Pacific Coast, especially in the United States, for the use of the American soldiers, in addition to which the demand for Alaska is large.

Essex is to have two tobacco factories to work up the crop of the peninsula. It is proposed to instruct growers how to cure the crop, a good deal of that hitherto offered having suffered in the process.

The value of the exports from Hamilton in the fiscal year, ending June 30, was $253,367, and in the last quarter year the exports amounted to $63,727. In hides and calfskins alone this city exported $12,000 worth in the year.

AN INTERESTING CASE.

Bank of Hamilton vs. Imperial Bank of Canada.—Judgment in action tried without a jury at Toronto. Action to recover from defendants $495 paid by plaintiff to defendants under the following circumstances: One Carl Bauer had an account with the Bank of Hamilton in Toronto, and, on January 25, 1897, there was to his credit the sum of $10.23. He drew a cheque for $5 and had it marked good at the bank. He drew it in such a way that there was room to fill in other words and figures in the cheque, and after the marking he filled it in so as to make it a cheque for $500. This cheque so altered he took to the agency of the Imperial Bank at the corner of Yonge and Queen streets, deposited it to the credit of an account which he there opened. He then drew cheques upon this new account to the extent of $485 and got the money therefor. Bauer had been for some time employed in Toronto as agent for The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and being known at the different banks, no suspicion was felt as to the genuineness of the cheque. He was subsequently prosecuted for forgery in altering the certified cheque, and sentenced to imprisonment in the Kingston Penetentiary. The cheque so deposited with the Imperial Bank was, on the morning of January 27, sent by that bank, with the other cheques drawn upon the Bank of Hamilton, and also with the bills of that bank that had been deposited on the previous day in the Imperial Bank, and was presented at the clearing house in the usual way. Held, that the fraudulent alteration of the cheque by raising it from $5 to $500 constituted a forgery, and the condition of the cheque when certified by the bank afforded ample opportunity for the commission of the crime. But, under the law as now settled by the House of Lords, a drawee bank, in certifying a cheque, would be under no duty to take precautions against fraudulent alterations in a cheque, after certifying the same, any more than an acceptor of a bill of exchange is under a duty to take precautions against fraudulent alterations in a bill after acceptance. Schofield v. Earl of Londesborough (1895), 1 Q.B., 536 and (1896), A., 514. Held also that the claim of plaintiffs against defendants in respect to the excess of the sum appearing on the cheque over the amount at which it was certified, is not in any way prejudiced by the rules of the clearing house. There was no negligence on the part of the plaintiffs, as the course they pursued in regard to the certified cheques was the one universally adopted by the banks since the establishment of the clearing house; and the holders of the cheques, the Imperial Bank, were not deprived of any rights, nor was their position altered by reason of notice of the forgery not being given until the following day. Judgment for plaintiffs for $495 and costs.

ALWAYS MAKE A MEMORANDUM.

See to the little things and the little things will take care of themselves. The only way it is really possible to attend to little things properly, that is, if one desires to attend to them, is, not to trust to the memory in doing the work, no matter how good it may be.

A pad should be carried in the pocket; on this mark down whatever you may think of as soon as it occurs to you. One by one attend to the things recorded, and whenever something on the list has been attended to run a pencil through the memorandum.

The little pad and prompt and proper attention to the memoranda on them, will not only aid you in making things better, but will also rid you of many a troublesome hour.

Make use of the pad and this suggestion. You will find them to work well.—Alfred Meyer, in The Shoe Retailer.

CURING OF TOBACCO.

"WHEN the leaves of the tobacco plant are mature and ready for harvest they are gathered and first laid on the ground to wilt—that is, to wither and lose their brittleness," says The Contemporary Review. "This done, they are collected into bundles and packed, top upwards, into moderate-sized heaps to sweat. Matting is placed over the heaps, and a gradual rise of temperature begins. The increase in temperature is due to certain processes which are taking place within the leaves, whereby, as the leaves dry, their more complex contents become broken down into simpler ones, with an evolution of heat and water. The water thus given off is in vapor form, but it condenses again on the cooler matting covering, and it is the presence of this water which gives rise to the idea of the heaps 'sweating.' Care and attention are needed at this time to prevent overheating, for, did the temperature rise unduly, there would be darkening of the leaves and injurious drying. When the 'sweating' is completed the leaves are dried, either slowly, by simple exposure to currents of air, or rapidly, by artificial heat. Moldiness and consequent rotting must be guarded against, and then, if all the conditions are favorable, in six or eight weeks the leaves will have turned a bright warm brown color, though tobacco at this stage lacks aroma and flavor. The chief result of this process has been to effect a further alteration in the constituents of the tissues of the leaves. After it is completed moist air is again brought into play to soften the leaves and render them pliant, and it is not till then that they are ready for the great process of fermentation in which, it is now asserted, the bacteria play so crucial a part.

"Fermentation has always been looked upon as a very important stage in the preparation of tobacco, but, if bacteriologists are right, even greater stress must be laid upon it, for it is the keystone of the whole and of paramount importance. As a preliminary to it, the brown leaves are sorted and made up into hands, or small bundles, containing, perhaps, from six to 10 leaves apiece. All these separate bundles are collected and piled up into great heaps or solid stacks—a stack containing sometimes as much as 50 tons of tobacco. Directly the stacks are completed fermentation begins, encouraged by the warmth and moisture within, and now, too, begins the production of aroma and flavor. And this is the work of the bacteria which inhabit these heaps, for it is conclusively shown that these stacks are the homes and breeding places of myriads of bacteria—in fact, a complete flora of fungus life is to be found within them, for side by side with the bacteria are members from many other parts of the great group of fungi of which the microbe life is only a small section."

"These teas" write the firm, "were bought at the lowest point in the market, and, as we are introducing this brand to the trade, we are prepared to accept very low prices considering the high quality of the tea. We ask the trade to get samples before buying as we intend to offer special value."

"Yes," say Lucas, Steele & Bristol, "we have handled Burnham's 'Jellycon' for years, and can confidently recommend it as a first-class article. Their 'Custard Powder' is also a good one."

The F. F. Dalley Co., Limited, write that they have sold more "Tiger" stove polish this year than in any three years combined, and still they have not reached the ten car lots a week that some claim.

Since the big addition to their warehouse, giving them extra shipping facilities, Lucas, Steele & Bristol are more than ever prepared to ship same day as received all orders sent by mail, wire or phone.

"The total sales of 'Salada' tea last week from the Toronto office," said Mr. Larkin, of the "Salada" Tea Co., to a representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER, "were rather larger than the sales of all our offices during the corresponding week of 1898. As, besides the Toronto office, we have branches in Montreal, Buffalo, Pittsburg, Detroit and Boston, you may have some idea how large the increase in business must be."

CURRANTS AND RETENTION LAW.

IN a recent issue it was stated that the Greek Government had passed a bill in regard to the retention of currants which was to have a life of 10 years. Since then further details in regard to the bill have been received.

Although the bill has a life of 10 years, the percentage of currants to be retained by the Government is to be fixed from year to year by a commission composed of growers, packers and municipal representatives. This commission will meet about August 12 of each year.

The percentage to be retained is not altogether left in the hands of the commission, the law fixing a maximum of 25 per cent. and a minimum of 10 per cent. Under the annual laws which have been adopted during each of the last three or four years, the quantity to be retained was fixed at 15 per cent.

Mr. Wood, of Hancock & Wood, Patras, Greece, when in Toronto a few days ago, expressed the opinion that the quantity retained for the current year would probably be 25 per cent.

The percentage retained comes from the shipper, and is, therefore, a tax, but it, of course, ultimately comes out of the consumer.

One of the difficulties under the previous Retention laws has been in regard to the disposal of the quantity of currants held by the Government, for the only purpose to which they could be applied under the law was distillation.

It is thought that under the ten-year Retention law this difficulty can be greatly minimized by British capital being induced to embark in the manufacture of spirits from the currants which have been retained.

The strength which the passage of the bill imparted to the currant market has further increased during the last few days, according to the cable despatches.

CANNED CORN IN MONTREAL.

The situation in regard to new pack canned corn is becoming highly interesting to some jobbers, who would not be at all averse if they could get some firm offers from packers. This cannot be done this week, for buyers who bid 75c. were again turned down this week, and if the situation is not modified they stand to lose money on canned corn this fall.

The reason is simple. When the market opened five or six weeks ago at 65c., several jobbing houses accepted orders from retailers at 70c. for futures. Some oversold themselves at this basis, and, now the first cost of the article having advanced beyond where they sold at fully 5c. per dozen, their position is not a pleasant one. They are hoping that prices will not go higher; in fact, they are anxious to book at 75c., but packers are in no hurry to sell.

APPLES FOR MONTREAL.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has already been favored with two replies to its inquiry of two weeks ago for persons in the Maritime Provinces wishing to ship apples to Montreal, both of which were handed over to the correspondent seeking the information. The firm inquiring is a responsible one and does a large fruit business.

THE SUGAR AGREEMENT IN MONTREAL.

AS a result of the disagreement between Montreal jobbers, referred to last week, the refined sugar situation is again in an unsatisfactory state. It is quite true that, so far, the trouble is only a local one, but now another leading firm, L. Quintal & Sons, Montreal, have announced their intention of selling at an open price. This means that three of the largest firms in the trade in Canada, Hudon, Hebert & Co., L. Chaput & Sons, and L. Quintal & Sons, decline to observe the agreement, and that they can exert a material influence on values cannot be denied.

So far, the remainder of the jobbers in Montreal have not given any indication of falling away, but it remains to be seen how long the present state of affairs can last.

Naturally, the firms who sell sugar at an open figure do not get the benefit of the refiners' rebate, but that fact does not seem to bother them very much, for it is understood that they have offered granulated at $4.40, which, of course, is 10c. less per 100 lb. than the refiners' price.

President Laporte, of The Guild, is at present consulting with firms who observe the agreement in Montreal and elsewhere, and something may come from it.

DENIA RAISIN PROSPECTS.

There is a distinctly firm tone prevalent in regard to Valencia raisins, owing to the very light stocks held by jobbers generally in Canada.

With regard to new fruit, Denia advices to hand this week state that the quality of the fruit this season is finer and larger than for the past two years, and that raisins will be ready to ship by August 1.

The new treaty between Spain and Germany, under which the duty on raisins entering Germany is considerably reduced, is expected to materially influence European consumptive requirements.

As there have been practically little or no exports to Germany during the last decade, owing to the high rate of duty, the demand from that country under the new conditions may have an important bearing on prices. If the crop turns out as good as expected, however, it is estimated that there will be an abundance of raisins to go around.

BUSINESS MEN AND POLITICAL CORRUPTION.

BOAST as men may of their political independence, there is scarcely one who does not lean towards one or other of the two great parties which have in turn ruled this country.

This is natural. To find a man who can say with truth that there is nothing in the tenets of the Liberal or of the Conservative party that does not arrange his sympathy on the side of the one or the other, we do not believe is possible. The sympathy may not be very pronounced, but it exists to some extent, nevertheless, and to an extent at times sufficient to influence him.

Proof of this is frequently seen in the actions of men who embrace some fad which requires legislation to give it effect. They one and all vow they will not support the candidate of any party which does not promise to fall in with their views; yet, when the test comes, the "independents" dissolve as a party and each marches to the poll under the banner of his respective political party.

What is wanted is not that men shall have no political affinity, but that their affinity for right shall be greater than their affinity for party.

As long as men refuse to do this we may expect to see repeated such disgracefully corrupt acts as those which characterized South Ontario during the general and bye-elections and West Elgin during the bye-election.

What is wanted is not necessarily that men shall forsake party, but the determination that unless the party sets its face decidedly against corrupt acts it cannot have their support, and, in pursuance of this, outsiders must be kept out of the constituencies who are known to be there for no good purpose. Furthermore, party leaders in constituencies, who are honest themselves, must not purposely shut their eyes to what the unscrupulous are doing for political ends.

Not long since the head of a certain local political organization, in a constituency where a great deal of bribery has been practised, told THE CANADIAN GROCER that when a certain worker with a questionable reputation politically came into his constituency to aid his party he had requested him not to acquaint him with what he was doing. "You know," he explained, "I knew that he had not come into our constituency for any good purpose, so I did not want to be mixed up with him. He did this. Consequently, if they put me into the witness box they cannot get anything out of me, for I know nothing."

If, instead of following this course, the local party leader had told this political crook to get out of the constituency, what corruption might not he have prevented.

There is no class that should be more interested in honest elections than the business men of the country. Corrupt elections do not tend to the creation of efficient representatives. Where there is not the latter efficient laws cannot in turn be expected. And what class suffer more as a result of inefficient laws than the business class? None.

Self interest should alone, therefore, be sufficient to stir them up to a sense of their duty.

OVERBUYING.

An interesting article on the question of overbuying, from the pen of F. C. Brunhouse, appeared in a recent issue of The Grocery World. The successful buyer, says the writer, is one who is conversant with his business and who is likewise a man of resolute character. He is one who keeps close tab on his stock and who can tell you in a moment just what amount of stock he has on hand of every grade. He is one who studies his trade and the requirements of his customers. As a result, he knows what novelties he can sell and to what extent. He is always in a position to regulate his purchase, and thereby keep his stock in proper condition. He is always wide-awake and well-informed on what is being offered in the market. Does he read? Yes. He carefully scans every trade journal that is issued touching the line of goods that he buys, and thereby he attains new ideas, and very frequently secures most valuable information. In a word, he is a thoroughly-posted man.

More failures can be attributed to overbuying than to any other one cause, with, perhaps, the exception of incompetency and lack of capital. Overbuying is to be avoided only by close application, constant vigilance, and all-round information. To disregard possible overstocking is to invite embarrassment. The judicious purchasing of goods, in quantity as well as in kind, is one of the corner stones of success.

WHEN A MAN IS AT HIS BEST.

A MAN is at his best when comfortable. This is a big thing for the grocer who sells cigars—especially in hot weather. You can't change a man's sense of taste. Not one man in fifty can give up smoking after he has acquired the habit, and the one man who does give it up makes life unbearable for his friends and his family, because he feels the loss of the restful, soothing influence of "the weed that brings content and peace to body and mind."

It is a singular fact that there is no race prejudice against tobacco in its many forms. History simply repeats itself whenever the anti-tobacconists begin a crusade. The cigar has come to stay.

Nothing jars upon the sensibilities of the ordinary man so much as disappointment in the quality of the cigar he buys—the sun has set upon the day of inferior quality in cigar-making. If a "man is at his best when comfortable," then is there any reason under the sun why a grocer should expect to win trade from the man who is disappointed in the cigars he buys at that grocer's store? You can't fool the ordinary man more than once, but you can lose a lot of cigar trade by attempting to do it.

It is worse than foolish for a grocer to attempt to endanger his family trade by advising the man of the house to buy cigars whose quality he is not able to stand back of. If the grocer has the name of a reliable cigarmaker back of him, he has something tangible to fall back upon in case of a possible complaint.

As Shakespeare says, "'Tis true, 'tis pity, and pity 'tis true," but the fact remains that the number of reliable cigar manufacturers in Canada is limited. There are a number of "mushroom" concerns that have sprung up in a night, so to speak, who trade upon the incredulity of the grocer, and who expect to make large profits only for a short time, or until their methods are shown up in the plain light of day.

We certainly advise caution in the choosing of the cigar manufacturer that the grocer buys from—do not forget that a "Man is at his best when comfortable." It pays to try to make him so.

STRONG CANNED SALMON SITUATION.

CANNED salmon conditions on the Coast continue to be of an unfavorable nature.

The run is still small, the great proportion of the salmon running up the United States side of the river, which is practically covered with traps, gill nets, etc.

Correspondence from New Westminster, under date of July 19, stated that some of the fishermen the night before had only caught on an average one salmon per boat.

The Province, Vancouver, in its issue of July 19, contained the following :

To the many who are anxiously watching the run of salmon the slacking off in numbers of fish after the first rush was not any great surprise, as it was expected before any more would come. But the news that the "humpbacks" have begun to appear in the Fraser will be received as bad news by the many who are interested in the industry. It has always been the rule in the salmon run that the appearance of the humpbacks indicates the end of the sockeyes, as they are supposed to follow the latter. It was so last year, and when the humpbacks came the fishermen and canners alike made up their minds to quit the season. That is the sentiment which is gaining ground in salmon circles now, as the humpbacks were seen quite frequently yesterday and Sunday. Should the indications turn out correct that would be the end of the prosperous year which everyone seems to have been expecting.

And not only is the run poor, but the competition among the packers for the fish is daily becoming more aggravated. Thirty cents per fish is still being regularly paid, and The News-Advertiser states that as high as 35c. has been paid.

Telegrams which were received in Toronto this week state that there is no improvement in the condition, while private letters state that the unsatisfactory conditions are likely to result in the formation of a combination next year.

One thing which proved of some benefit to the packers on the Fraser was the fact that the Fisheries Department extended the time by one week for the registration of fishermen, in regard to which The New Westminster Columbian, on the day the time for registration finally expired, had the following to say : "About 75 per cent., or 54 in number, of the licenses issued, from Monday morning until yesterday morning, were obtained by fishermen who availed themselves of the extension, making a declaration, giving satisfactory reasons for their inability to register before July 1. In the majority of cases, the applicants were men who had been away lumbering or mining, and were unable to register at the appointed places."

Packing on the northern rivers, as well as on the Fraser, appears to be unsatisfactory, the run of salmon not being up to expectation. And one correspondent writes that so unpromising is the situation that a lot of canned salmon, which was to have been shipped to France has been withdrawn.

A well-known packer on the Coast claims that, based upon the price which is now being paid for salmon, Fraser river fish costs $5.50 per case to put up in tall tins.

The agents of some of the canneries have been instructed to make no further offers. And, while the situation is undoubtedly stronger than it was a week ago, packers who are offering are strong at $4.50 for Fraser river pack, and at $4 for Lowe Inlet, f.o.b. the Coast.

THE WHOLESALE PURCHASING COMPANY.

A MEETING of wholesalers interested in the formation of the purchasing company, referred to in previous issues of THE CANADIAN GROCER, was held in Toronto on Tuesday. There were two sessions, one in the forenoon and the other in the afternoon.

Among those present were : Mr. A. M. Smith, of London ; Mr. H. Beckett, of W. H. Gillard & Co., Hamilton ; Mr. Bristol, of Lucas, Steele & Bristol, Hamilton ; Messrs. Turner and Newman, of James Turner & Co., Hamilton ; Mr. Sutherland, of Balfour & Co., Hamilton ; Mr. J. F. Eby, of Eby, Blain & Co., Limited, Toronto ; Col. J. I. Davidson, of The Davidson & Hay, Limited, Toronto ; Mr. John Sloan, of John Sloan & Co., Toronto.

The company is to be a joint stock affair, with a capital stock of $40,000. The style under which incorporation has been sought is The Trading Agency of Canada, Limited, and this is the name under which letters patent will be granted, unless it is found that a company already exists bearing a similar style.

The firms which compose the company are 11 in all and are as follows : A. M. Smith & Co., London ; James Turner & Co., Lucas, Steele & Bristol, Balfour & Co., W. H. Gillard & Co. and Macpherson, Glassco & Co., Hamilton ; John Sloan & Co., T. Kinnear & Co., Perkins, Ince & Co., The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, and The Davidson & Hay, Limited, Toronto.

The purchases of the company will be chiefly the various lines of imported groceries, although staples of domestic manufacture and production will not be altogether neglected. The purchasing of teas will be nearly, if not altogether, left with each wholesaler.

Mr. Thomas Wilson, the official buyer, is not only well informed in regard to the requirements of the wholesale trade, but is decidedly popular with the trade. At present he has an office in the warehouse of The Davidson & Hay, Limited, but later he will occupy a suite of rooms in the Board of Trade building.

TURN ON THE LIGHT.

He who thinks that because he has something to sell which people will want there is no need to advertise is not wise.

People will traverse in search of gold regions where never the foot of white man trod, but no man was ever known to make a tour of factories, warehouses and stores in search of something he never heard of before.

It is only after he has seen a thing advertised that he wants it, and if he wants it, he gets it, provided he has the means, and the price is right.

If you have a good thing in your factory, warehouse, or store, do not put it under a bushel ; turn the light of advertising upon it.

ALMONDS WILL BE PLENTIFUL.

Almonds are likely to be fairly plentiful the coming season.

The Sicily crop is estimated to be about 100,000 bags and that of Apulia (Bari), 120,000 to 130,000 bags, an increase of 50 to 75 per cent. in the former, and of 100 per cent. in the latter.

Crop reports from Spain are also of a favorable nature.

THE SECRET OF STILTON CHEESE

VARIOUS attempts have been made during the last 100 years, and especially within the last quarter of a century, remarks an English paper, to discover the secret of success in the making of Stilton cheese, in itself a characteristic English product, superior when properly made and cured to everything else of its kind. In the making of, for example, Cheddar cheese, there is no secret involved. The process of manufacture is well known and understood, and the product can be as creditably turned out in the Galloway district of Scotland and in the cheese factories of Canada as in the Somerset vale from which the Cheddar cheese takes its name. Around the aristocratic Stilton, the native home of which is in Leicestershire, some degree of mystery has, on the other hand, always lingered.

To penetrate, if possible, more deeply into this mystery than anyone had ever done before, J. Marshall Dugdale, who combines the skill of the expert with the energy of the enthusiast, accepted a commission from the Royal Agricultural Society to visit the Stilton district in order to report on the present method of making Stilton cheese. The result of Mr. Dugdale's inquiries appears in the new quarterly number of the society's journal (Vol. X., No. 36), and it may safely be said that it advances our knowledge of the subject to a higher level than has previously been attained. Yet, at the outset, Mr. Dugdale tells us that, as his visit of inspection proceeded, it became more and more evident that the task upon which he had entered was a most difficult one. Every cheesemaker seemed to work upon different lines, and he was unable to find any two cases where all the details were carried out in the same manner.

Whether the dairy and the buildings for the manufacture of the cheese were convenient and well fitted-up, or were inconvenient and made the most of, the fact remains that, owing to the skill and attention of each maker, at all the different dairies he visited he tasted excellent cheese. Illustrations are given of Stilton cheese-rooms and of the methods of manipulating the curd—a most important matter. It does not appear possible to enunciate a single series of rules for the making of the kind of cheeses. There is a fair degree of uniformity up to the time when the curd is ladled into the straining cloths, but, at this stage, and in the treatment of the curd before salting, diversity sets in, and as many as three different methods in successful current use are described in detail. Most of the cheese is made from two curds, as making from one curd is very risky.

Great divergence of opinion prevails as to the degree of tightening of the straining cloths. No test for acidity was used at any of the farms, the degree of acidity being judged by the taste, feel, and smell of the curd. When the right amount of acidity has developed the curd is broken by hand to the size of small walnuts, and salt is added at the rate of about 1 oz. to 4 lb. of dry curd, or 1 oz. to 3½ lb. of wet curd, care being taken not to get the curd pasty. For further technical details, and for information as to curing the cheese, the paper itself should be consulted by makers. It is significant, however, to read that the more the author inquired into the subject the more were the variations in methods of working that came under his notice. He therefore concludes that at the present time it is impossible to lay down any definite and precise rules for the making of Stilton cheese so as to suit every case.

What he has accomplished is to describe certain methods of making and to indicate certain causes of failure. He is convinced that nothing but practical experience on each farm will show the best method of making really first-rate cheese from milk obtained on the farm. The secret of success in Stilton cheesemaking appears to be the possession of a thorough knowledge of the subject, and the capability of applying that knowledge with effect on whatever farm the maker may reside. If a maker knows how to rennet the milk properly, and how to get the right amount of acidity at the time of hooping, he has acquired, probably, two of the most important details in the process of manufacturing Stilton cheese.

CANADA'S GREATEST FAIR.

This year will mark the coming of age of Canada's Great Fair and Industrial Exposition, which will be held in Toronto from August 28 to September 9. It is just 21 years since Toronto Exhibition was established as an annual institution under the present management. During that time it has increased five fold in every direction, and to-day can fairly lay claim to have assumed a national character. Last year upwards of 300,000 people attended, and this year such arrangements are being made as will warrant the expectation of a still larger attendance. Many entirely new features will be presented, while the exhibits, with an increased amount given in prizes (totaling $35,000), will undoubtedly crowd the 600,000 dollars' worth of buildings to their utmost. The usual brilliant military spectacles will be given, illustrating recent famous feats of arms on land and sea by both England and America, and arrangements have been made for an illustration of wireless telegraphy, wireless telephoning and the improved X rays. In short, the Exhibition will be more than ever up-to-date.

CALIFORNIAN APRICOT CROP.

The Los Angeles Times says: "The apricot season is pretty nearly over. The crop, as a general rule, has been a good one, and growers have had a prosperous year. Here in Southern California there will be harvested a total of about 7,000 tons of the fruit, perhaps 1,000 tons more. Buyers began by taking the whole orchards at $20, and, little by little, prices crept up, until growers got $30 per ton, the buyer taking everything. At these prices, the growers got $40 to $60 per acre from their crops. Canners have run night and day to handle the fruit. The soft fruit has gone to make pulp, for which fruit there is an active demand. It is thought that the apricot crop of the State will be 50 per cent. greater than the average. But the amount of dried fruit will be smaller. Southern California may not turn out over 300 carloads, and the North 100. At $20 per ton dried apricots pay a good profit at 7½c. At $30 they must bring 10c. to let the dryer out. They are being bought now at 9½c. as fast as offered, and most holders want 10c. Buyers insist the market will sag after 50 to 75 cars are shipped."

MARMALADE MANUFACTURING IN SCOTLAND.

The manufacture of marmalade forms a considerable industry in Dundee. It is made in two kinds—known to the trade as "marmalade" and "home-made marmalade." In the former case, all the white substance adhering to the skin is retained, while in the quality known as "home-made" this is carefully removed, and the outer skin but sparingly used, giving the preserve the appearance of a jelly. The skins are cut in quarters by hand, and parboiled in barrels arranged in a line and having a steam pipe running along the top, from which branches pass down the centre of the barrels. Seeds and fibrous matter are removed by machinery. Bitter oranges only are used, and come from Spain. In the best qualities pure sugar is used; in the cheaper varieties inferior sugar mixed with glucose in a proportion varying from 3½ lb. to 7 lb. for every 100 lb. of sugar. The cost of a 15 h.p. boiler is $973. This will supply heat to six pans, from which five or six tons a day can be turned out. Jam-boiling pans of 60 lb. pressure cost $67; of 90 lb. and 120 lb. pressure $76 and $85 respectively. These are of the same size, the additional cost being due to the heavier copper for the high pressure. A small horizontal engine with governor costs $171; chipping machine for skins, $124; pulping machine, $110; machine for "home-made" marmalade, $124; shafting, hangers, and drums, $42. These prices are on board steamer at Dundee.—United States Consul at Dundee.

ONTARIO MARKETS

TORONTO, July 27, 1899.

GROCERIES.

FOR this time of the year the wholesale trade in Toronto is good. Of course, orders which are being shipped are largely of a sorting-up character. The condition of the market as to prices is, as a rule, steady to strong. There is not as much doing in canned goods as there was. In view of the fact that large sales have been made for future delivery, together with the more favorable weather, this is only to be expected. The general tone of the canned goods market is strong, particularly in regard to canned salmon and peas. Quotations on canned meats are higher. The spice market is steady and quiet. The sugar market continues active, with prices locally unchanged. Syrups and molasses continue quiet. There is very little doing in the tea trade, either on wholesale or retail account. The general tone of the tea market is strong. The currant market is still strong abroad, and the same can be said of Valencia raisins. Locally, no new features have developed.

CANNED GOODS.

Advices to hand this week from the Coast show that the same strong tone which obtained last week in regard to new pack canned salmon still exists. Up to the time of writing, no higher prices, however, have been quoted. There have been some sales during the week as high as $4.75 f.o.b. the Coast and round lots to the wholesale trade, but, as a rule, $4.50 is the idea as to price.

The favorable crop weather is giving the trade more confidence in regard to the pack of canned tomatoes. However, the market is still firm, although very little business is now being done, transactions having fallen off considerably. This, of course, is only to be expected, particularly in view of the fact that during the last few weeks a great many orders for future delivery have been placed. However, there is a disposition to await further developments as to the probable size of the pack before making contracts for new business. The ruling quotation for canned tomatoes for future delivery is 75c., although the range runs as high as 80c., but wholesalers report that they are not doing any business at the latter figure. For prompt shipment 80c. is the idea as to price. The packers are still holding their figures firm at 75c. In canned vegetables, the strongest line is canned peas, in regard to which more confidence has developed during the past week. Prices have not, however, so far been affected, and wholesalers are still asking 70c. upwards. Corn is firm and unchanged, wholesalers quoting 95c. to $1. for prompt shipment and 70 to 75c. for future delivery, although for some brands 5c. more is demanded than the outside figure named.

Manufacturers of canned meats have again advanced their prices. The increase is 5 per cent. We now quote as follows: 1's, $1.50 to $1.60; 2's, $2.65 to $2.75; 4's, $5.25 to $5.50; 6's, $8.25 to $8.75; 14's, $18.50 to $19.50.

COFFEE.

The market for Rio coffee has ruled easy until the last day or so, when a slightly steadier turn was taken in regard to prices, but the volume of business is still light. The European markets are also, at the time of writing, fairly steady. Locally, there is a moderate business being done at unchanged prices. There is a little more doing on the local market for importation, the recent reduction in price being some attraction to buyers.

See pages 31 and 32 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SUGARS.

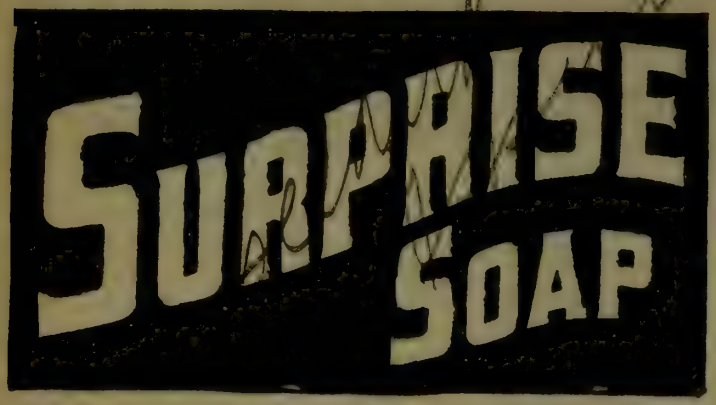
Up to Tuesday last, the European markets showed considerable strength, there having been several advances. On Tuesday, however, beet sugar was cabled ¼d. lower. This, however, has not, so far, had any effect upon the markets on this side of the Atlantic, for New York has, up to the time of writing, ruled firm. On the Canadian market prices rule unchanged at quotations, and the demand is fairly good, both on wholesale and retail account. The demand for the new low grade sugar placed upon the market last week to meet American competition has not, so far, been up to expectations, as far as can be learned.

The total stocks of raw sugar in Europe and America at the end of last week, according to Willett & Gray's Sugar Trade Journal, were 1,470,587 tons, against 1,671,028 tons the previous week and 1,699,960 tons the corresponding week last year.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The market continues to rule quiet, both in regard to syrups and molasses. Advices from the primary market in regard to New Orleans molasses state that the market is a strong one, owing to the formation of a trust in New York, and that prices are pretty sure to advance.

SPICES.



The market rules quiet. Pepper has recovered slightly and a firm market is anticipated.

TEAS.

Mail advices from Japan state that the purchases of tea up to the end of June were 4,000,000 lb. in excess of last year. The demand is largely on United States account. Second-quality leaf was then coming forward, but the quality was said to be poor. Cables received in Toronto this week state that the market continues firm, with every likelihood of it continuing so. On the Toronto market, trade is quiet. There is still an inquiry for teas at about 16c., but the quality of teas shown at this price is not attractive enough to wholesalers for much business to be done.

Mail advices from Colombo, Ceylon, under date of June 22, state that 11,800 packages were offered at the auction on June 14, and 10,394 were sold at an average price of 37c., against an average price of 31c. per lb. the same time last year. The total number of packages offered in Colombo up to that date this season was 224,742, as against 230,467 packages up to the same time in 1898. On the Toronto market buyers are holding off in anticipation of securing lower prices, and are consequently unwilling to pay the current rates. Generally speaking, the tea trade in Toronto is quiet.

Mail advices in regard to Moning teas state that the crop is, on the whole, good, with the exception of the first pack of Keemuns. Supplies of second crop are reported to be coming forward slowly, owing to unfavorable weather. The quality, however, is good so far, the teas being stronger in cup than is usual with the second crop.

NUTS.

Mail advices to hand this week state, in regard to almonds, that the Sicily crop will be 50 to 75 per cent. and the Apulia crop 100 per cent. larger than in 1898. Reports from Spain are also favorable. The crop of Sicily filberts will be inferior, as far as quantity is concerned, to that of last year.

PRUNES.—The demand keeps fairly good for this time of the year, with prices unchanged.

SULTANA RAISINS.—Advices to hand this week estimate the crop at 4,000 tons in excess of last year, and it is expected that prices will be correspondingly lower.

FIGS.—The crop is estimated to be more than double that of last year. At the same time, however, it will be a short one compared with that of previous years. Prices are likely to rule high.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—No particularly new developments are to be noted this week. The volume of business is fair, and advices from the primary market state that the market continues firm.

VALENCIA RAISINS— Advices from Mr. Arguimbau, of Denia, to his Toronto agents, P. L. Mason & Co., state that the prospects for the new crop are very favorable, and that the crop is likely to be larger and the quality finer than that of last year. First shipments will be made about the first week in August. The primary market is strong, particularly in view of the fact that a treaty has been made by Spain with Germany whereby this fruit will enter that market at a much lower rate of duty than during the past twenty years. Locally, there is nothing new to note in regard to the situation.

GREEN FRUITS.

On Tuesday, this week, the receipts were the heaviest of the season. Raspberries, tomatoes and plums were in greatest evidence. The shipments of rasps to the market here have increased greatly, and, though the demand is improved, prices are ½ to 1c. lower than last week; they are now selling at 6½ to 7½c. per quart. The increased shipments of tomatoes have brought the price down from the $1 to $1.25 per basket noted last week to 60 to 75c. this week. Though apples are much more plentiful than a week ago, prices are unchanged. Canadian peaches are arriving on the market in liberal quantities and in fairly good condition at 50c. to $1 per basket. Lawtonberries are arriving in moderate quantities and are selling at from 7 to 9c. per quart. Cherries are practically done. Red currants will also soon be out. Black currants are plentiful, but in moderate demand. Prices are 10c. lower than last week. Huckleberries are arriving in large quantities, but, as the demand keeps active, prices are unchanged. Watermelons are in as good demand as ever, but the arrival of some unusually large melons has put up the top price 5c. Ordinary stock still moves readily at 20 to 25c. A few Canadian have been offered on the market; also some pears. The pears, however, are of very inferior quality. There is a brisk demand for bananas, which are arriving freely at steady prices. Oranges are quiet. Lemons are in good demand, and prices are firm at the advanced prices.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Prices are unchanged, yet there is an easier feeling. One buyer, who has been pretty aggressive until recently, told THE CANADIAN GROCER that he is not at all anxious to buy a present figures. This seems to be the general feeling. The local trade is steady, but the movement of stock for export is light. We quote locally 13½ to 14c.

POTATOES—The arrivals of new stock are increasing, though sizes are still small. Though the demand is good, prices have fallen to 50c. per bushel.

BEANS—Trade is dull. There is no change. Hand-picked are selling at $1 to $1.10, and medium grades at 75 to 80c.

VEGETABLES—New beets are 10c. cheaper. Otherwise, prices are unchanged, though celery, cauliflower, and cabbages are more plentiful. We quote: Cauliflower, 75c. to $1.25 per doz.; Rhubarb, 15 to 20c.; radishes, 15c. per dozen bunches; spinach, 30 to 40c. per bush.; green onions, 5 to 10c. per doz.; asparagus, 30 to 50c. per doz.; celery, 75c. to $1 per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz., 30 to 50c.; parsley, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; green cucumbers, 40 to 60c. per doz.; new beets, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; parsnips, $1 per bag; carrots, 20 to 30c. per doz. bunches; green peas, $1 to $1.10 per bag. Butter beans, $1.25 per bushel.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

speak of lower prices. There is little doing in an export way on the market just now. The local and shipping trade is brisk. Dairy butter of all makes is unchanged in price. Creamery pound prints are ½ cent dearer, but tubs and boxes are unchanged.

CHEESE—Prices continue to stiffen in spite of many protests from exporters that conditions do not warrant the prices now asked so early in the season. Stocks, however, are not accumulating, and the local trade freely pays from 9 to 9½c. for their purchases.

PROVISIONS.

The packers here are still advancing the prices. Long clear and breakfast bacon, hams, backs, and rolls are all raised ½c. this week. Stocks are very light, and, though prices are likely to go above a figure that will make sales to British Columbia possible, the Ontario and export demand is expected to fully absorb all provisions packed before the opening of the next season in September or October.

FISH.

There is a good supply, but the demand fully absorbs receipts. Prices are virtually unchanged. We quote: Saguenay salmon, 20c.; speckled trout, 25c.; salmon trout, 7½ to 8c.; whitefish, 8 to 9c.; pickerel, 7c.; maskinonge, 8 to 9c.; black bass, 9 to 10c.; halibut, 10 to 12c.; perch, 5c.; herrings (Erie), 3½ to 4c.; cod, in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Prices are practically unchanged. Millers are bidding 68c. outside for Ontario red and white, but there is no wheat offering. The local street market is dull. Prices are unchanged. We quote: Wheat, white and red, 71c.; goose, 68c.; peas, 60 to 62c.; oats, 35 to 36c.; barley, 44 to 45c.; rye, 53 to 55c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat has declined 2c. and is now offering at 81c. Toronto.

FLOUR—The market is dull this week. Ontario grades are unchanged, but Manitoba grades are 10 to 20c. easier, in sympathy with the decline in Manitoba wheat. We quote: Manitoba patents, $3.90; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.60; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—There is no change.

GROCERIES.

THE general grocery situation has not changed materially during the week, but there are several interesting features that promise to develop. Notable in this respect is the local war between some of the jobbing houses here in regard to refined sugar. Houses not in the agreement have cut prices 10c. per 100 lb., and threaten to go even further. The houses in the agreement have not taken any steps yet, but may be forced to do so later. Syrups and molasses continue the same. Dried fruits, especially raisins, are firm, and salmon canners have lately turned down bids, asking 25c. per case advance. Packers still refuse to quote on corn futures, and altogether the canned vegetable situation is buoyant. Rice, coffee and spices are steady, and there has been a fair movement in tea.

SUGAR.

Irregularity in regard to the jobbing value of refined sugar is still the leading feature of the sugar market. In some cases prices have been cut 10c. per 100 lb., and threats have been made to mark prices still lower. Up to the present the action of the jobbers has not affected prices at the refineries, but there is no telling whether it will or not if long continued. At present, demand is quite active for sugar, and a good movement is in progress. At the factory, prices are quoted the same as before. Outside markets have not shown much change. Cane in London is cabled dull with little demand, Java being quoted at 12s. 6d., and fair refining, 11s. 6d. Beet has been dull and easier lately with present month at 10s. 7½d. and next month 10s. 8¼d. Raw sugar is steady at New York, fair refining, 3 7/16c.; centrifugal, 96 test, 4 7-16c., and molasses sugar, 3¾c. Refined stock is also steady.

SYRUPS.

Inquiry for syrup is slow, and the market dull and featureles, at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., as to quality, at the factory.

MOLASSES.

The season for new crop Barbadoes molasses is now virtually over at the Island, the last sales for Montreal account being at 16c. first cost. Prices, as already pointed out, have fluctuated more than usual this summer. Opening at 12c., values declined to 11c., which was the lowest point, then they advanced to 17c., but again reacted, declining to 14c., and finally went back again to 16c. and, lately, 17c. has been asked first cost in some instances. Inquiry on spot for round lots during the past few days has been slow at 33½ to 34c. ex wharf, but a fairly active jobbing trade is noted at 35c. in car lots, and 36c. in single puncheons.

DRIED FRUITS.

There has been considerable demand for dried fruits on spot during the week, but with the light supplies available business has been light in the aggregate. No selected or layer raisins are to be had here, and little, if any, fine off-stalk. As a result, holders are disposed to ask more for their goods, and sales of 2,000 boxes of fine off-stalk are noted at 4c., and 500 of off-stalk at 3½c. Late advices from Denia state that the fruit this season promises to be of fine quailty.

CANNED GOODS.

Business in futures in new pack canned salmon has been one of the leading features of the week, and bids of $4.25 f.o.b. Coast have been turned down for "Horseshoe" brand, with the exception of one lot, and now $4.50 f.o.b. Coast is asked for salmon, subject to confirmation at the canneries. Lowe Inlet and similar brands have been sold for forward delivery at $4, while 1,000 cases of Fraser river sockeye have been closed at $4.75 f.o.b. Coast. There is the some uncertainty regarding corn, as it is impossible to get firm offers on the vegetable, while tomatoes in round lots for future delivery have sold at 75c.; peas and beans at the same figure. A fair forward business is also noted for mixed lots of new pack fruits.

RICE.

There is a quiet but steady inquiry for rice, and prices are held firm. We quote as follows: B standard, $3.40 to $3.50; Patnas, $4.12½ to $4.75; Japans, $4.50 to $5, and Carolina, $6 to $7.

COFFEES.

The coffee market remains dull and featureless. A few lots of Maracaibo have moved at 12c,, and low-grade Santos and Jamaica at 8c. for the green bean in bags.

SPICES.

Inquiry for black Singapore pepper has been a feature, and prices are firmly held. We quote: Singapore black pepper, 12½ to 13c., and Singapore white, 19½ to 20c. Penang pepper, 17½ to 18c., and West Coast, 12 to 13c. Pimento, 11 to 12c. Nutmegs, 28 to 44c., as to quality. Cassia, 9 to 10c.; Jamaica ginger, 19½ to 20c.; Cochin tips ginger, 6 to 6½c.; Zanzibar cloves, 9 to 10c.; nutmegs, 40 to 55c., and mace, 45 to 50c.

TEAS.

There has been a fair inquiry for all grades of teas during the week, but the actual volume of business doing is light. New crop Congous are scarce and high, as compared with former years, and none can be laid down under 13c. New crop pingsueys are as yet generally too dear for this market, while Japan stock is unchanged at 13 to 14c. for old crop. The outlook is considered encouraging for low and medium grades of this tea, as the market in the United States keeps firm for such descriptions.

GREEN FRUITS.

Business has been active in green fruits generally during the past week. The strawberry season just closed has been a fairly profitable one, prices realized being fully 50 per cent. above the bottom price made last year. The same can be said of cherries. Raspberries have ruled pretty steady, and now 8 to 8½c. per box is the range. Red currants are selling at 40 to 50c. per basket, and black 60 to 75c. Gooseberries meet a quiet sale at 35 to 40c. per basket. Watermelons are quoted the same as last week, viz., 15 to 20c. each. Tomatoes show very little change at 75c. to $1 per basket. Supplies of bananas are equal to the demand, and prices range from 70c. to $1.60 per bunch according to quality. Fresh receipts of oranges and a light demand have led to a decline of 50c. per box to $3 to $4. Lemons show no change, and trade is moving at $2 to $3.50 per box. Receipts of Californian fruits have been heavier lately, and pears are selling at $3.75 for finest down to $3.25. Crawford peaches range from $1.25 to $1.60, and plums are easier at $1 to $1.25 per crate.

FISH.

The market for salt fish is purely nominal and there is only a quiet trade noted in fresh or prepared fish. We quote as follows: Fresh haddock and cod at 3 to 4c. for haddock, and 3 to 3½c. for cod; British Columbia salmon, 12 to 13c.; halibut, 13 to 14c.; salt fish: Green cod, $4.25 to $4.50 for No. 1, and $5 for No. 1 large per barrel; dry cod, $4; Nova Scotia herring, $4.25 to $4.50 in barrels; Cape Breton, $4.75 in barrels; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $14 to $15; sea trout, $9.50 to $10; lake trout, $4.25 to $4.50 per keg of 100 lb.; No. 1 green haddock, $4 to $4.25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was an improved demand for small lots, and a more active business, was done at firm prices. Choice candled stock sold at 14c.; ordinary at 12c., and No. 2 at 9 to 10c. per doz.

MAPLE PRODUCT—The market for maple product is quiet without any change to note. We quote: Syrup, in wood, 6½ to 7c. per lb., and at 85 to 90c. per tin. Sugar, at 8½ to 9c. per lb.

HONEY — In honey, trade is quiet, sales being chiefly in small lots to fill actual wants. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 9 to 10c.; dark, 7 to 8c.; white extracted, 7½ to 8c., and dark, 4½ to 5c.

BEANS — The demand for beans is limited at steady prices. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

POTATOES — There is an improved demand for round lots of new potatoes, and sales have taken place at $1.30 to $1.35 per barrel.

ASHES—There is nothing new in ashes. The demand is slow and market quiet. We quote: First sorts, $3.70 to $3.75; seconds, $3.60, and first pearls, $5.50 per 100 lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—A fair amount of business was reported in flour in a jobbing way, but the market, on the whole, was quiet and featureless. We quote as follows: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4; straight rollers, $3.40 to $3.50; in bags, $1.65 to $1.70; Manitoba patents, $4.10 to $4.30; strong bakers', $3.70 to $3.90.

GRAIN—There was a better demand over the cable from continental and United Kingdom buyers for Manitoba wheat, and as bids were in line, a fair amount of business was put through. There was a stronger feeling in Manitoba wheat, and prices advanced ½ to 1c. per bushel, with sales of No. 1 hard at 69½c. and No. 1 northern at 66 to 66½c. afloat Fort William. The position of the market for peas at present is pretty strong, and higher prices are anticipated in the near future, owing to the fact that the stock in store is only 46,401 bushels, as against 235,421 at this date last year. Supplies at country points are also exceedingly small and any lots coming forward are bought up by the pea-millers at 70c. f.o.b. cars west, which figure is equal to 80c. here. A moderate amount of business is reported in oats on local account at 33½ to 34c. ex store.

MEAL—The meal market was quiet and unsettled. The demand for rolled oats is slow at $3.67½ per bbl., and at $1.72 per bag.

FEED—There was no change in the situation of the feed market. A fair trade is reported at steady prices. We quote as follows: Ontario bran, in bulk, $13 to $13.50; shorts, $14.50 per ton; Manitoba bran, $12.50 to $13; shorts, $15 to $16; mouille, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY—The demand for baled hay is fair, and the market rules moderately active and steady. We quote: Choice No. 1, $7.50 to $8; No. 2, $5.50 to $6, and clover, $4.75 to $5.25 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

An active trade continues in all lines of cured meats, and the tone of the market is firm, with an upward tendency. The demand for lard is fair, but the movement of pork is still slow. We quote as follows: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7c. to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined 5½c. to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11c. to 12½c. per lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—Excitement has developed in cheese during the past week, and transactions lately imply that the top price has not yet been reached by any means. At the wharf, Monday, 7,000 Quebec cheese were offered, and all were sold at a range of 9⅞ to 9¼c., which is a clean jump of ¾c. per lb. on last Monday's basis. For Ontario cheese and finest Townships, 9½c. is the very inside figure to-day, and ideas run as high as 9¾c., while holders are not urging sales at all.

BUTTER — Butter continues to show activity, and the strength of the market is retained, buyers freely bidding 18¼ to 18½c. for finest creamery, with sellers independent at the range. Undergrades are quoted down to 17c., as to condition. Dairy butter ranges from 14¼ to 14½c., as to grade.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Values for finest creamery butter are ¼ to ½c. per pound higher than last week.

The first arrivals of Crawford peaches were received the other day. They are selling at fair prices.

The price of cheese, as a result of excited speculation, has been advanced fully ½c. per pound for all grades.

Canners on the Coast have recently turned down bids for salmon, asking an an advance of 25c. per case.

The average prices for strawberries and cherries during the season just closed averaged 50 per cent. above the lowest price last year.

Through an error the prize donated for the special race at the grocer's picnic was credited to Heinz & Co., instead of W. P. Downey, for Hire's rootbeer.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 27, 1899.

FUTURES continue to occupy considerable attention. Dried fruits are taking the place, to a large extent, of canned goods, though the latter are still a matter of interest. Spot goods are held at advanced figures. Corn is particularly scarce. There is a fair business in all lines. Flour has shown rather more movement than for some time. In spices, the tendency is downward. This is the more noticeable in ginger, particularly Jamaica ginger and pimento. In teas, there is a fair interest manifested. Low-priced teas are still in demand. In general, values tend lower. Very little China tea is now bought on the London market.

OIL—Dealers are very active looking after future orders in burning oil. There is no change in prices. Lubricating shows a fair trade at even figures. Paint oils are still high, and continue to have upward tendency. Cod oil comes in slowly, and price is still low.

SALT—Another cargo is due. The demand for Liverpool coarse salt is a fairly steady one at this season. Prices show little change. Smaller direct cargoes are also due at other points, such as Summerside, Prince Edward Island, and the north shore of New Brunswick. Factory-filled is a steady business, but the Canadian, in barrels and boxes, has very much interfered with this trade. Considerable American in small packages is imported for table use. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—Corn is almost out of this market, and wholesale dealers are picking up small lots from among the retail trade. Price is high. Tomatoes are also a light stock here. New peas are expected soon. In futures our dealers are quite well supplied, buying early. In salmon, the market has been supplied from a car arriving a short time ago. Before its arrival the market was quite bare. Prices are held very firm, as futures are quoted high compared with the opening prices of late years, and prospects are for continued high figures. In gallon apples, the past season has shown a good demand. Local New Brunswick factories are quoting lower prices than western packers. Canned oysters are rather higher, but little demand noted. In meats, particularly ox tongue, higher values rule, which tends to increase the sale of Canadian goods. Peaches tend higher. There is a good demand in this market. Pineapples are quite scarce and rather higher in price.

GREEN FRUITS—There is continued active sales. Bananas are hardly as large sale owing to other fruits offering, particularly Californian fruit. The first direct car was to hand this week. Grapes, peaches and plums are a fair price. Pears keep high, which is rather a matter of regret as they are favorites here. Oranges have a fair demand. In lemons a rather smaller business is being done at quite full figures. At this season there is considerable waste. Strawberries have been very plentiful and low, and of good quality. Considerable quantities have been shipped to Boston and Montreal. Raspberries and blueberries are now freely received. Pines are about out of the market. Melons have been fairly active at even figures. Rhubarb is dull. American apples are freely received, and are now of quite good quality. Prices, though lower, are still quite high.

DRIED FRUITS—Futures have considerable attention. In peels there is quite a little competition, not only between English peels, but between English and American. Prices are rather lower than last year. There is little of the best grade brought here. In figs, such prices as have been quoted are below last season, but still quite high. In some cases, a few orders have been given. In Valencia raisins, no prices are yet to hand. A few orders at open figures for small lots for early shipment have been given. There is nothing yet done in regard to Californian raisins, and the trade is anxious to know what rebate the association intend to allow Canadian buyers, for this will very much affect the buying. In prunes, the outlook for French and Austrian is high figures, and, as the prospect for Californian is quite good, large quantities of these are likely to come to our market. It is said the crop will run to large sizes; 90 to 100 are favorites here. Apricots and peaches will both be lower than last season. In currants, our trade is not inclined to buy till prices are quoted. A considerable quantity is likely to be imported, cleaned, this season. This will save much labor here, and considerably reduce the cost. All nuts are high. Peanuts, which are active at the season, have advanced almost 100 per cent.

PRODUCE—Eggs are still high and in light supply, with a good demand. Butter is very plentiful with some very good quality to hand, but still there is much, too much, of poorer grade, prices being very low. Cheese are lower here than at outside points. Local demand is for small cheese, particularly twins. There is more competition for the cheese from the factories this year. Large cheese are wanted, and our factories, to get best results, need to increase the size of their cheese, and to have a better way of selling, namely, more on the line of the Western Cheese Boards.

SUGAR—There is an active business. The market is chiefly supplied by the Lower Province refinery. While prices of refined tend firmer, raw sugar seems easy and dealers only buy to supply needs. There is some little West Indian sugar here. Some American yellows were offered this week.

MOLASSES—Stock here is not large. There is very much less Barbadoes here than for a number of years, the rapid advance in price catching our buyers, and they would not advance their limits. Price is very near that of Porto Rico. There was a cargo of Porto Rico received this week, and a ready sale is expected. The outlook points to higher figures. There is no sale for syrup.

FISH—Prices are still high. In dry cod, receipts are still light, and full figures asked. There is a strong demand. Pollock is held firm, being very scarce. Smoked herring are firm, but there is only a limited sale. Pickled herring are still in light receipt. Quantity is good and full figures are asked. In fresh shad, what is called the fall catch is now being received. The fish, while not large, are fat. In salmon, fish are scarce and rather higher, but of nice quality. In boneless fish, price is firm with fair sales. We quote: Large and medium dry cod, $3.75 to $4; small, $2.50; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6¼ to 7½c.; halibut, 10 to 12c. per lb.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; shad, 10c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $1.85 to $1.90 per 100; salmon, 15 to 16c.; pickled herring, $1.75 per half bbl.

PROVISIONS—There is a fair business. In pork, rather higher prices rule. Beef shows little change, and there is but small business. Hams and rolls have rather less sale. Lard is still low.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour, there is rather an easier feeling, and somewhat more inquiry than for some little time. Stocks are not large. Millers all report that the outlook is for higher figures later; in fact, there is a firmer outlook than for some time. In cornmeal, the burning of one of the mills here has resulted in a slight advance in price. Oatmeal is firm. In oats, there is a light sale at even figures. In beans, rather higher prices rule, and the tendency is towards a firmer market. They have been a dull line here for some time. Barley is somewhat easier; the sale at this season is light. Blue peas are scarce and high. We quote: Manitoba flour, $4.65 to $4.80; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.10; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $4.00 to $4.10; cornmeal, $2.20 to $2.25; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; handpicked beans, $1.05 to $1.10; prime, 95 to $1.00; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50 to $1.75; do., Canadian, $1.80 to $2.25; mammoth clover, 7½ to 8c.; alsike, 7½ to 8c.; red, 7¼ to 7¾c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Mr. C. A. Chouillou, of C. A. Chouillou & Cie., of Montreal, called on the trade this week.

Geo. E. Barbour, of the South wharf, is landing a cargo of choice Porto Rico molasses this week.

Thos. H. Fleming, a prominent grocer, of Woodstock, died very suddenly at St. Stephen this week.

The board of trade has decided on the holding of a merchants' meeting here during the week from August 14 to 19, and every effort will be made to make it a success.

The grocers have decided to divide the net proceeds from their picnic between the sufferers of the late Indiantown fire and the park fund.

The law requiring canned lobsters to have a Government stamp on the case is being strictly enforced. A shipment was stopped this week, the law not being complied with.

The latest thing in insurance is a company to pay clerks a fixed amount of money while they are out of work, and to endeavor to get them another situation. The head office is in Philadelphia.

A number of St. John wholesale grocers are particularly interested in gold mining stock, particularly the mines known as Gold King and Bear Gulch. Mr. A. Jardine, for many years a wholesale grocer here, is manager of the latter. At an auction of stock this week, Bear Gulch sold at 85 per cent. and Gold King at $2.28. Both show large profit over cost, and the latter pays from 1 to 1½ per cent. per month.

One Ton Per Day!

The popularity of . . .

CELLULOID STARCH

is evidenced by the fact that the demand has now reached the above figure.

Though extensively imitated by envious packers, under similarly sounding names, it holds its place as in the market to-day.

It is on the shelves of 90 per cent. of the grocers of Ontario.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF IT?

It is claimed by members of the sugar agreement "as they call it" (not combine), that they have the full sympathy of the trade. Well! we tried to live on that at one time and gave it up in despair.

Let them take the sympathy, we will take the orders.

This week we still keep at it with a nice Redpath Yellow at $3.50 and Standard Granulated at $4.45, less 1 per cent. 10 days or 30 days net. It does not leave us 2 per cent., nor any little shavings from the difference in freight paid and the smooth equalized rate charges, but, as we are remembered by our loving friends in all the goods they want, we are satisfied to be free and independent sellers.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

IT was learned that within about the past six weeks one large concern has purchased 1,500 bbls spot Jamaica ginger in New York and 400 to 600 bbls in London market, for new and special purposes.

French peas are very scarce and tending upwards owing to the short crop. There is an active demand for the low grades as a result of the short pack of Southern domestic peas, but there seems to be none obtainable.—New York Journal of Commerce.

TEA IN NEW YORK.

According to the talk of some of the trade, sentiment in the market appears to be slowly changing for the better. There is a disposition shown by a number of the trade to look upon the prices at which tea has sold the past month the lowest of the season, and they also anticipate a gradual revival of demand during the next two months. The market for invoices showed a steady tone, and here and there buyers were reported as showing a trifle more interest. A sale was reported of 600 packages Formosa, made at the close of business last week. The auction sale to be held on Wednesday, it was thought by some, would show a better undertone to the market. No cable advices of importance were reported received.—N.Y. Journal of Commerce, July 25.

CANNED SALMON IN ENGLAND.

The inquiry for salmon shows a slight improvement, especially for flat tins, which are appreciably dearer. The consumptive demand for both Alaska and Fraser river talls is reported to be well up to the average. The prices already fixed for the 1899 pack are slightly above those that holders are willing to accept for spot parcels, and, unless the pack should prove to be a much larger one than is anticipated, buyers will scarcely find a more favorable time than the present for filling their requirements to the end of the season which is really only just beginning.—Grocers' Journal, London.

CALIFORNIAN RAISIN SITUATION.

There has been a steady hardening of the spot market for the cheaper sorts of Californian loose muscatel raisins of late, due to the cleaning up of the stocks of this description. At the present writing, from the best information, the market is bare of ungraded, and there are very few two-crowns left in first hands. This is somewhat unusual at this time of the year and is attributed to the steady demands of consumption in Eastern markets throughout the spring and up to the present time, which has had to be supplied largely from this centre, owing to the fact that for the first time in years no general consignments were made this season.

There is reported to be some speculative demand and buyers are trying to secure supplies of two-crowns from second hands, but, so far, it is understood, they have been unable to secure more than 100 or 200 boxes from an individual holder. Philadelphia also is said to have been in this market for supplies, which have been purchased from jobbers, but the Quaker City people seemed to want the stock to cover actual consuming requirements, and were apparently satisfied with the small lots they were able to secure.

The supply of three and four-crowns are understood to be pretty good, but are not wanted, though, as ungraded and two's are becoming so scarce and are advancing in price, holders look to have consumers and seeders turn their attention to three-crowns in the near future. Late advices from the Coast indicate that the stock remaining in the hands of the Raisin Growers' Association is about 400 cars, the bulk of which consists of four-crowns and the balance of threes, two-crowns and ungraded having been exhausted some time ago. According to some reports these goods are spoiling on the association and ultimately will have to be disposed of to the wineries. — N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

COLUMBIA SALMON PACK.

Letters received in New York say that the total pack of Columbia River salmon to July 20, was 188,200 cases, of which the Columbia River Packers' Association packed 82,000 cases, the Fishermen's Cooperative Association 20,000, Booth 18,000, McGowan's several factories 12,000, Everding & Farrell 9,000, Megler 14,000 and Warren 215,000. This is said to be very much less than was packed during the corresponding period last year.

SITUATION IN CALIFORNIAN PRUNES.

There has been developed a considerable speculative interest in future prunes within the past few days, and we understand that sales of a considerable quantity of the three large sizes have been made to both home and export buyers. Definite information as to the particulars of these transactions are not obtainable at the present time. The reports current vary with reference to the quantity that has been placed, some stating that it does not exceed eight cars all told, while others make the total fully 20 cars, equally divided Santa Clara and Healdsburg fruit. According to some reports the bulk of the stock sold was taken by exporters, while according to others little if any of this particular quantity will go abroad. The only thing upon which our informants are united is that there have been sales of the three large sizes of Californian prunes in 25-lb. boxes for forward shipment from the Coast.

Latest information from Seattle, Wash., by mail is to the effect that the crop of Oregon prunes promises to turn out larger than was at first expected, but at most will not be over 5,000,000 lb. Southern Idaho will have but a third of an average crop, and of this it is expected about one-half will be marketed in fresh condition.—New York Journal of Commerce.

THE CONDITION OF GINGER.

The London Commercial Record, commenting on the general dulness of markets, remarks that there is one article which, although still unripe for a boom, shows unmistakable signs of slow recovery, and which is quite worthy of being carefully watched. This article is ginger, and to be more correct, rough ginger. Our contemporary says: "This year's season, which we may now consider closed, has been an exceptionally unsatisfactory one, for the boom which used to visit our market annually, has, this year, been conspicuous by its absence. True, we have seen some sort of spurt, but it has hardly been deserving of the name of boom, and nothing like the usual quantities of ginger have changed hands. Prices have risen a few shillings, and not being supported, have declined to almost the lowest point they touched last year. Business has almost entirely been confined to cut assortments, very little rough unassorted Calicut and next to no Cochin washed being bought. The result is an appreciable decline in our stock of bag ginger and some increase in cut descriptions. Deliveries on the other hand, show a most satisfactory increase, and without laying ourselves open to the reproach of being sanguine, we feel convinced that if deliveries continue on the present liberal scale for a little while longer, our stock of rough ginger will be reduced to as low a level as we have witnessed for a long time, for any large increase of our stocks by unexpected supplies in the shape of native consignments is practically excluded. There has been nothing tempting in our market this year to induce Bombay dealers to buy up large quantities of ginger for the purpose of trying the London market, and we may take it for granted that very little more will come forward. The recent heavy rains have greatly interfered with the preparation of ginger, and this fact, together with the low prices ruling here, have a deterring effect on Bombay consignors. If, a little later, the statistical position of ginger improves, the article will be worth the attention of speculators."

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' PICNIC.

"IT seems the grocers can't help having a successful picnic," said a city traveler late Wednesday evening, on board the steamer Garden City, as it was bringing home the 500 or so excursionists who went with the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association to Hamilton to attend the annual picnic.

The facts seem to bear out this observation, for, with the exception of one picnic, held in the almost dim past, each annual holiday trip of the association has been voted a success. The trip on Wednesday was more, however. Besides the opportunities for pleasure-making it offered, it afforded a means by which the officers of the Toronto and Hamilton associations got together and had a talk over matters "associational," a talk which may yet result in more than was thought of when the trip was proposed.

Soon after eight o'clock Wednesday morning the Garden City started on a delightful sail to Hamilton. The water was smooth ; the day clear and bright, and everybody was in excellent spirits. A first-class orchestra was aboard, and their services were soon called into requisition for the dancers, who helped much to make the time pass gladly both for themselves and for the onlookers at the stern of the boat. At the bow were many parties of twos, threes or fours, who seemed to enjoy the tune of "Just One Girl," which seemed the favorite with the singers who had taken possession of the stateroom. On the lower deck the card-tables were well patronized, and many an old rival had an opportunity to retrieve some past defeat, or to again suffer humiliation.

About 11 o'clock Hamilton was reached. As the boat was being moored at the dock the Hamilton grocers tacked up a large streamer giving a royal welcome to their brethren from the "Queen City." The officers of the association were there, too, and emphasized the good-will intended by giving a personal welcome to the Toronto executive.

The excursionists soon scattered throughout the city for dinner, after which they gathered at Mountain View Park to carry out their programme of sports and games.

The baseball match was the first attraction. It was, of course, between the Toronto grocers and city travelers. It was the most exciting contest these two teams have played. The travelers got what baseball cranks call "their batting clothes" on first, and, at the end of the second innings, were away ahead of their old rivals. The grocers, however, "located" the ball in the remaining innings, while "Bob" Davies got in his nice work, and prevented any fancy scores such as were made in the second innings. Time would not permit a nine-innings game, and when the umpire called time the grocers were ahead five runs, the score being 20 to 15.

In another part of the field much interest was taken in the quoit contest between members of the Toronto association. After a spirited tussle for championship honors, J. S. Bond was declared winner, R. B. Snow securing next highest figures.

After this contest, a game was played between representatives from Toronto and Hamilton, Ballintine and Duncan, and the winners of the contest, Bond and Snow. The Hamilton men proved the better shots, winning handily by a score of 15 to 12.

The most interesting contests were the soap races and the boys' scramble races. In one of the soap races there were in the neighborhoood of 40 contestants, necessitating five preliminaries and a final heat. The prizes were won principally by Toronto ladies.

THE PRIZE WINNERS.

The following were the prize-winners :

100 Yards' Foot Race for Hamilton Grocers only. — 1st, J. L. Brown; 2nd, H. Doyle; 3rd, C. Lampman.

Throwing Ball, for Ladies.— 1st, Miss Bailey, Toronto ; 2nd, Mrs. Guy, Toronto ; 3rd, Mrs. Downing, Toronto.

Three Legged Race—Open.—1st, Boulton and Paterson, Toronto ; 2nd, Copewell and Kerr, Hamilton ; 3rd, Panter and Thorne, Toronto.

Foot Race—Open to Toronto and Hamilton grocers.—1st, W. Paterson, Toronto ; 2nd, F. Thorne, Toronto ; 3rd, J. Burrows, Hamilton ; 4th, C. Lampman, Hamilton.

Quoit Contest—Members only.—1st, J. S. Bond ; 2nd, R. B. Snow ; 3rd, W. H. Marmion ; 4th, A. R. Williamson.

Ladies' Soap Race—Open to all ladies.—1st, Miss Annie Bailey, Toronto ; 2nd, Mrs. Guy, Toronto ; 3rd, Miss Fitzpatrick, Hamilton ; 4th, Mrs. Downing, Toronto.

The guessing contest for charter and older members ; the hop, step and jump ; the broad jump ; the foot race for the lady grocery clerks, and the foot race for Toronto clerks, had to be postponed on account of lack of time to run them off.

Great interest was centred in the tug-of-war between Hamilton and Toronto grocery teams. Word had gone around among the Toronto grocers that the Hamilton men had an unusually good team, so they were prepared for a good contest. At least four of the Toronto men weighed over 200 lb. The Hamilton men were lighter, and in the first pull they were quickly pulled over the line. In the second, however, they got right down to it, and it required the full three minutes of hard work before the Toronto team could claim this pull also.

Luncheon was to have been the next attraction. The caterer on the grounds had promised to have a good luncheon ready and to have the tables so arranged that the orators of the Hamilton and Toronto associations could do some speaking.

Grocers, as a rule, believe in having only the best of luncheons, and as they did not consider the meal offered them up to the standard, it was decided to have the speaking in the grounds.

J. C. Boligan, president of the Hamilton association expressed his pleasure in welcoming the Toronto grocers to their city, and read an address to the Toronto association, which expressed the hope that this pleasant trip, which was an honor to Hamilton, would result in permanent good-will between the two associations.

Mayor Teetzel intended to have been present, but as he had to be out of Hamilton on Wednesday, Alderman W. Findlay acted as his representative in wishing the visitors a splendid time, and giving them the freedom of the city. Alderman Findlay was greeted with "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

President F.W. Johnson, in reply, thanked President Boligan and Alderman Findlay for the warmth of their welcomes, and hoped that it would not be long before the two associations met again. He also expressed pleasure that the day had passed off so harmoniously, and that such an enjoyable day had been spent.

Adam Ballintine, Hamilton association's orator, was the next speaker. After expressing his delight with the friendly feeling that was manifested between the grocers from the two cities, he hoped that the day would result in the two associations coming closer together. Their interests were identical, and closer sympathy might result in mutual benefit.

J. D. Kelly, vice-president of the Toronto association, echoed this wish. He thought the two associations should have got together years ago, and believed this meeting would result in a better and closer feeling between the two bodies.

Wm. R. Harvey, secretary of the Hamilton association, thought that the conditions demanded that the two bodies should use their united efforts for their mutual benefit.

"God Save the Queen" was royally sung, and the party left for the city.

The Hamilton association officers gave a dinner to the Toronto committee at the Waldorf hotel.

On account of the length of time taken to run off the games, the boat was delayed in starting home till 8 o'clock. As she left the wharf it was amply manifested that the visitors had made many friends, for the dock was crowded with ladies and gentlemen, who, as she moved away, sent a hearty cheer after her. It was replied to with great vigor by those on the boat, and three cheers were given for President Boligan and for Hamilton.

The trip home was even more enjoyable than the outward voyage, for, in addition to the orchestral music in the stern, a first-class concert was given by the jovial city travelers. As the boat reached home about 11 o'clock, the excursionists were rather tired, but not too much so to lustily sing "God Save the Queen."

NOTES OF THE DAY.

Adam Ballintine did much towards the success of the day.

W. H. Marmion is a great success in "picking the winner."

David Bell surprised William Kindree and his friends by the speed he showed.

Honors are even between Hamilton and Toronto. Toronto won the tug-of-war, but they could not find a match for Hamilton's quoit experts.

J. W. Sanderson can play ball yet. He steadied "Bob" Davies down at the right time.

"Hamilton grocers are a crowd of decent fellows," was voted unanimously by the Toronto retailers.

"Jerry" Burns has still faith in his team. He has already challenged the grocers for a nine-innings game.

The new blood in the association, Thorne and Paterson, add considerably to the athletic prowess of that body.

J. Nolan is an old-time sprinter, having won several medals and other prizes in his day. He can still make good time.

It would be hard to find a better crowd than the Toronto grocers, their wives, daughters and friends make when they get together.

There are some crooks in Hamilton. One Toronto grocer lost a good watch, another a purse containing over $15, and others smaller articles.

The committee of the day were: F. W. Johnson, president; D. J. Kelly, chairman; D. Bell, treasurer; Ed. Hawes, secretary; A. G. Booth, R. W. Davies, D. W. Clark, J. S. Bond, W. Massen, T. Holmes, J. A. Johnson, F. S. Roberts, A. White, J. Nolan, B. Panter, A. R. Williamson, W. H. Marmion, T. Clark, F. Thorne, J. T. Schoales, R. H. Stewart.

A NEW PACKAGE TEA.

The Ozo Co., one of our newest packet tea houses, is putting up a Japan packet tea. There will be two grades, to retail at 25c. and 38c. per lb. It is packed in ¼, ½, and 1 lb. packages. The company is also packing Ceylon teas under the same brand. Its Ceylon teas, however, will be packed in canisters.

The Ozo Company intends shortly to add coffee and spices to its list, and, later on, cocoa and chocolate.

Mr. Carsley, the manager of the firm, is a practical teaman, he having spent several years with one of the oldest tea houses in London, England, studying tea and the tea business in all its branches, and now has started out to put his knowledge to the practical test.

VISIT FROM A CURRANT-SHIPPER.

Mr. F. B. Wood, of Hancock & Wood, shippers of currants, etc., Patras, Greece, has been making a tour of the principal business centres in Canada. Last week, he was in Toronto, Hamilton, and London, calling, in company with Major Mason, his firm's Canadian representative, on the importers in those cities.

It is 23 years since Mr. Wood visited Canada, and he said he was surprised at the development which the country had made in that time.

Mr. Wood is the British consul at Patras, and it is interesting to note that the British consulate has been for several generations in the firm of which he is a member.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, July 24, 1899.

BUSINESS is good in all lines. Many merchants remained in town for a few days after the fair and more purchasing was done than was anticipated. There is an absence of news however. Trade may be said to flow steady and in an unbroken current.

CANNED GOODS — The situation is a quandary. It appears that a syndicate are endeavoring to buy up all the corn, and have already secured a considerable quantity. Whether the object of their outlay will be obtained is a question. There is no doubt, however, that corn will demand a good price. The situation in tomatoes remains about the same as it has been for the past two weeks. Peas seem to be scarce. Of course everything depends on the yield. Outside of strawberries and raspberries no new fruits are offering, but reports indicate a full crop of peaches and pears. It would appear as if few if any heavy sales have been effected as buyers are fully conversant with the state of affairs in Ontario.

CURED MEATS—This market is a little firm and shows a slight additional advance in hams with indication of a possible further advance : Long clear dry salt 8c. ; smoked 9c. ; short clear dry salt 9c. ; hams 13 to 13½c.; spiced rolls 9½c. New mess pork is quotod at $16 per barrel.

CANNED MEATS—Are also slightly firmer the advance amounting to about 15c. per case this week. Buyers here do not pay as much attention to fluctuation in this market as they do in other lines. Because competition is so keen brokers invariably cut the price on round lots.

CEREALS—Rolled oats are firmer, and are hard to obtain. The quality on this market at present is not considered as good stock as that of previous years, which has been milled either here or in Ontario. Rolled oats are quoted at $1.85 ; pot barley $2.25 ; peas $2.35.

EVAPORATED FRUITS. —A car of new apricots will arrive within the next day or two, and the price will be about 15½c. Californian unpeeled peaches are being offered at considerably lower price than was anticipated. It is at present a question as to what the price will be. No peeled peaches have as yet offered and no quotation can be obtained. Evaporated apples and dried apples are scarce and high with little or nothing doing. The fig market is bare, and new table figs will not arrive for some months yet. No quotations are given, the Smyrna market not yet having given prices on futures. For new raisins and currants definite figures cannot yet be obtained. The first shipments of Denia fruit will come via Liverpool, and will, of course, be about 1c. higher than direct shipments to Montreal.

TEA—Advices to-day from China state that the demand is increasing for common teas. The season is a hard one, and exceptionally low limits are out of the question.

COFFEE—The movement is very slow and prices are without change.

CHOCOLATES AND CONFECTIONERY—The Hudson's Bay Co. have accepted the agency of Rowntree, of York, for Manitoba, Northwest Territories and British Columbia, and for the future all goods from this firm will be distributed from the Winnipeg depot.

BUTTER—Market is on the whole a little firmer, and creamery butter shows an advance of ½c. the quotation being 15½c. factories. Dairy butter continues to drag, and is quoted 10c. at country points with a possible ½c. advance on round lots of very choice.

CHEESE—Is firmer and sales were made during the week at 8½c. The quality has also improved and the cheese now coming in is in fine shape.

EGGS—Supply has increased since exhibition is over and the market is weaker, though 13c. country points is still quoted.

GREEN FRUITS — Oranges, lemons and bananas are without change for the week. The new feature of the green fruit market is the arrival of blueberries from Rat Portage. The first shipment is selling at 10c., but this price will drop in a day or two. The crop is a very heavy one. Watermelons are $3.50 per doz. for choice ; Hale's early peaches $1.50 per crate ; pineapples $2 per doz. ; plums $1.50 to $1.75 according to variety ; pears $4 per crate; red currants $2; raspberries $2.25.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. H. W. Rowntree, of Rowntree & Co., Limited, York, Eng., paid a flying visit to Montreal on Saturday to meet Mr. Gyde on business, and left the same evening for home via New York.

Mr. Charles Gyde is taking a well earned rest of a week at Metis, after which he goes on a business trip to British Columbia.

Mr. Mann, of The "Salada" Tea Co., has just returned from a business trip to their American agencies, and reports business flourishing.

A DIVIDEND OF 45c.

E. R. C. Clarkson has declared an interim dividend of 45c. on the dollar in connection with The Grange Wholesale Supply Company assignment. The liabilities of the company were in the neighborhood of $18,500, with assets nominally the same.

A COOD TRADE IN MINCE MEAT.

Mr. J. H. Wethey, the mince meat manufacturer of St. Catharines, was in Toronto a few days ago. Mr. Wethey has, lately, been sending forward some good shipments to Manitoba and British Columbia, while the total output of his factory is 30 per cent. larger than last year.

HAMILTON COFFEE & SPICE CO.

ABOUT 14 years ago, The Hamilton Coffee & Spice Co., Limited, was established on Main street east, Hamilton, back of the post office, and came under the control of the McLaren Bros. about two years later. The business in those days was conducted on a small and conservative basis, but has grown into one of the most important of its kind in Canada. The company deals extensively in coffees, spices, baking powders and extracts, its "Ocean Wave" baking powder and other lines having acquired an enviable reputation for their purity throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion.

Last year, the company acquired the property at 25-27 MacNab street south, and erected the handsome four-storey brick and stone building where its business has been conducted for some months past. The building was designed especially for the company's business, with separate departments for each branch. It is equipped with the most modern machinery for roasting, grading, and cleaning coffee, grinding spices, and for the manufacturing of fine extracts and pure fruit syrups. The company is among the leading importers of high-grade coffees from Java, Arabia, Central and South America. Its products are in general demand, from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

CANADIAN PRODUCTS WANTED.

The following inquiries were received at the High Commissioner's office, London, Eng., recently for Canadian products :

A firm in London, who do a large business in all kinds of fruit pulps, canned goods, etc., desire to have the names of Canadian exporters of the first-named class of goods.

An inquiry has been received for the names of hosiery manufacturers who have hosiery waste to dispose of.

The addresses of Canadian exporters of evaporated fruit rings are asked for.

[Information in regard to any of the above, sent to THE CANADIAN GROCER, will be forwarded to destination.—THE EDITOR.]

TRADE CHAT.

STIRRETT & CO., general merchants, Petrolia, Ont., have announced that they will close their store early in August, and are now selling out.

A Dunnville, Ont., man intends starting an evaporator in New Hamburg, Ont., this fall.

The Nova Scotia Furnishing Co., Limited, Halifax, intend opening a branch in Sydney, Cape Breton.

J. B. Orser & Sons, Chisholm, Ont., have shipped over 8,000 quarts of raspberries to Montreal this season.

J. D. McKenzie, grocer and liquor dealer, Woodstock, Ont., was fined $20 and costs last week for keeping liquor in his grocery store.

A severe hailstorm damaged crops and fruit in the vicinity of Chatham recently. Several farmers lost all their barley and fall wheat.

An association to supply the citizens of Quebec city with sterlized milk and cream is now being organized under the title of The Sterilized Milk Supply Company of Canada, with a proposed capital of $100,000.

The Northern Elevator Co., The Manitoba Elevator Co., and Bready, Love & Tryon, elevator owners in Manitoba and the Northwest, have formed a combine to reduce the cost of handling grain, and prevent needless duplication of elevators.

J. L. P. Gordanier, Morven, Ont., one of the largest fruit growers in the Napanee district, was in Kingston recently. He has over 6,000 apple trees, 900 plum trees and 700 cherry trees set out. The fruit is intended for the English market.

The imports into Brantford, Ont., for the year ending June 30 were $1,262,188 as compared with $1,140,163, showing an increase of $122,025 in the year. The exports for the past year were $1,014,885 as compared with $1,017,597 in the year previous, a decrease of $2,712.

Work on the pork-packing factories at Palmerston and Harriston, Ont., is progressing favorably. The latter is the larger building of the two. Palmerston factory has been offered $25,000 capital by an English firm, on condition that the firm be employed as sole selling agents of the factory in Great Britain.

ONE DAY AT A TIME.

THE beggar who said, "Madam, I have been without food three days—yesterday, to-day and to-morrow," expressed a far-reaching human failing. There are many men in business and social life who mix up the past, present and future in just that same way. Through fretting and worry, yesterday, to-day and to-morrow become so closely connected in thought with them, that the separation in time is practically obliterated.

To live many days in one is a sure way to escape success. Life is so arranged that each day in itself is a full circle, and if we crowd other days in upon it, we simply distort its symmetry. We never enlarge a day or increase its value by bringing yesterday and to-morrow into it. On the contrary, we greatly dwarf its possibilities for achievement.

Wrongfully used, through vain regrets and worry, the past and future are like two great forces bearing heavily towards each other. As they come closer together the space between them must necessarily lessen, until the present is crushed out entirely.

The present is the only supreme time in our lives, and it is jealous of that supremacy. It will not serve us well unless we give all our thought and action, all our work to it. Fretting and worry sap the energies, waste time and prevent progress. Living each day by itself is the only true working spirit.

Calm planning, "sitting down to count the cost," systematizing and arranging to meet the demads and needs of the future are all a part of the work of the present. They mold causes so as to produce right and successful effects. But worry is not forethought. Forethought fertilizes the present. Worry blights it.

Sorrow for past error and the desire to correct past mistakes are also part of the present's work. But fretting and repining are not sorrow. They do not produce action. They are purely passive, yet they are powerful in creating despair. A wholesome regard for the past sees in it only those things that enrich the present. Everything else should be kept in the background of life.

In the present we create our future and mend the past. But we can't do this successfully unless we occupy the present to its full capacity. Making the best use of to-day is the surest way to give yesterday and to-morrow their right relations to life.

Then don't repine; don't look back with a long face upon your yesterdays; don't dwell upon the might-have-beens.

Don't worry over the outcome of your work; don't crowd time and try to live to-morrow before the due course of hours has elapsed; don't sour to-day's milk with the fear of to-morrow's thunder; don't borrow trouble and care; don't be anxious.

Don't fret at circumstances and conditions; don't "fuss and stew"; don't be blue.

Emerson said, "He is only rich who owns the day." And to be thus rich is every man's privilege. Are you making the most of it? Do you own the day so that the hours of work and rest all adjust themselves to the best scheme of life; so that at the end of every twenty-four hours you can write a positive "Finis," and start out fair and fresh on the next with no vain regrets and no anxious forebodings?

Live one day at a time and live it well! —The Chameleon.

URGES DRIED-TEA SHIPMENTS.

We give a review of the past year by the leading trade paper of the Dominion, and on the whole we consider it far more favorable for Ceylon and India than for China and Japan. We know that the importation of British-grown tea has continued to increase; and the falling off has been, and will be, at the expense of China. We have recently published extracts showing the scarcity of tea and the rise in price of the common kinds in the Toronto and Montreal markets; and a paper published in the latter city accentuates this greatly in an extract given elsewhere.

The remedy is for Ceylon to ship direct, and our enterprise should be sufficient to supply the great demand quick enough to prevent such reexportations described from doing harm. If so, such events will be nothing more than an excellent advertisement for our staple.—Times, Colombo, Ceylon.

"Good Starch"

The word "good" has lost its meaning when applied to starch—it has become commonplace from frequent use. Pure Starch must be something more than simply "good" now-a-days to enable a grocer to hold his trade, and, because our oldest customers are the best ones we have to-day, we believe that Edwardsburg Starch can safely claim the right to use the word "best."

Look at it from any point of view—it is still best. The experience of over 40 years of Starch making counts when "quality" is at stake—it counts in your profits, your new business and your upward progress. It pays to sell the "best"—simply "good" won't do.

VOL. XIII. TORONTO AND MONTREAL, AUGUST 4, 1899. NO. 31

A MESSAGE TO GARCIA.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has time and again pointed out that, notwithstanding the alleged overcrowding of the various vocations in life, there was still room at the top ; room for those with ability, industry, independence and sobriety. It is, therefore, with more than usual pleasure that the following is printed :

In all this Cuban business there is one man stands out on the horizon of my memory like Mars at perihelion. When war broke out between Spain and the United States, it was very necessary to communicate quickly with the leader of the insurgents. Garcia was somewhere in the mountain fastnesses of Cuba—no one knew where. No mail nor telegraph message could reach him. The President must secure his co-operation, and quickly.

What to do !

Someone said to the President: "There's a fellow by the name of Rowan will find Garcia for you, if anybody can."

Rowan was sent for and given a letter to be delivered to Garcia. How "the fellow by the name of Rowan" took the letter, sealed it up in an oil-skin pouch, strapped it over his heart, in four days landed by night off the coast of Cuba from an open boat, disappeared into the jungle, and in three weeks came out on the other side of the Island, having traversed a hostile country on foot, and delivered his letter to Garcia, are things I have no special desire now to tell in detail.

The point I wish to make is this : McKinley gave Rowan a letter to be delivered to Garcia ; Rowan took the letter and did not ask, "Where is he at?" By the Eternal ! there is a man whose form should be cast in deathless bronze and the statue placed in every college of the land. It is not book learning young men need, nor instruction about this and that, but a stiffening of the vertebræ which will cause them to be loyal to a trust, to act promptly, concentrate their energies ; do the thing—"Carry a message to Garcia !"

General Garcia is dead now, but there are other Garcias.

No man has endeavored to carry out an enterprise where many hands were needed but has been well-nigh appalled at times by the imbecility of the average man—the inability or unwillingness to concentrate on a thing and do it. Slipshod assistance, foolish inattention, dowdy indifference, and half-hearted work seem the rule ; and no man succeeds, unless, by hook or crook, or threats, he forces or bribes other men to assist him ; or, mayhap, God in His goodness performs a miracle, and sends him an angel of light for an assistant. You, reader, put this matter to a test : You are sitting now in your office—six clerks are within call. Summon any one and make this request, "Please look in the encyclopædia and make a brief memorandum for me concerning the life of Correggio."

Will the clerk quietly say "Yes, sir" and go and do the task ?

On your life he will not. He will look at you out of a fishy eye and ask one or more of the following questions :

"Who was he ?"

"Which encyclopædia ?"

"Where is the encyclopædia ?"

"Was I hired for that ?"

"Don't you mean Bismarck ?"

"What's the matter with Charlie doing it ?"

"Is he dead ?"

"Is there any hurry ?"

"Shan't I bring you the book and let you look it up for yourself ?"

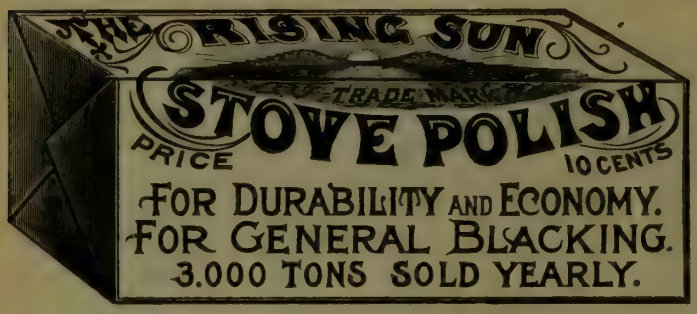
"What do you want to know for ?"

And I will lay you 10 to one that, after you have answered the questions and explained how to find the information and why you want it, the clerk will go off and get one of the other clerks to help him try and find Garcia, and then come back and tell you there is no such man. Of course, I may lose my bet, but, according to the law of the average, I will not.

Now, If you are wise, you will not bother to explain to your "assistant" that Correggio is indexed under the C's, and not in the K's, but you will smile sweetly and say "Never mind," and go and look it up yourself.

And the incapacity for independent action, this moral stupidity, this infirmity of the will, this unwillingness to cheerfully catch hold and lift, are the things that put pure socialism far into the future. If men will not act for themselves, what will they do when the benefit of their effort is for all ? A first mate with knotted club seems necessary ; and the dread of getting "the bounce" Saturday night holds many a worker to his place.

Advertise for a stenographer, and 9 out of 10 who apply can neither spell nor punctuate—and do not think it necessary to.



Can such a one write a letter to Garcia ?

"You see that bookkeeper ?" said the foreman to me in a large factory.

"Yes, what about him ?"

"Well, he's a fine accountant, but if I'd send him up town on an errand, he might accomplish the errand all right, and, on the other hand, might stop at four saloons on the way, and when he got to Main street would forget what he had been sent for."

Can such a man be entrusted to carry a message to Garcia?

We have recently been hearing much maudlin sympathy expressed for the "down-trodden denizen of the sweat-shop" and the "homeless wanderer searching for honest employment," and with it all often goes many hard words for the men in power.

Nothing is said of the employer who grows old before his time in a vain attempt to get frowzy ne'er-do-wells to do intelligent work, and his long, patient striving with "help" that does nothing but loaf when his back is turned. In every store and factory there is a constant weeding-out process going on. The employer is constantly sending away "help" that have shown their incapacity to further the interests of the business, and others are being taken on. No matter how good times are this sorting continues, only if times are hard and work is scarce, the sorting is done finer — but out and forever out the incompetent and unworthy go. It is the survival of the fittest. Self-interest prompts every employer to keep the best—those who can carry a message to Garcia.

I know one man of really brilliant parts who has not the ability to manage a business of his own, and yet who is absolutely worthless to anyone else, because he carries with him constantly the insane suspicion that his employer is oppressing or intending to oppress him. He cannot give orders, and he will not receive them. Should a message be given him to take to Garcia, his answer would probably be, "Take it yourself."

To-night, this man walks the streets looking for work, the wind whistling through his threadbare coat. No one who knows him dare employ him, for he is a regular firebrand of discontent. He is impervious to reason, and the only thing that can impress him is the toe of a thick-soled No. 9 boot.

Of course, I know that one so morally deformed is no less to be pitied than a physical cripple; but, in our pitying, let us drop a tear, too, for the men who are striving to carry on a great enterprise, whose working hours are not limited by the whistle, and whose hair is fast turning white through the struggle to hold in line dowdy indifference, slipshod imbecility and heartless ingratitude, which, but for their enterprise, would be both hungry and homeless.

Have I put the matter too strongly? Possibly I have; but when all the world has gone a-slumming I wish to speak a word of sympathy for the man who succeeds—the man who, against great odds, has directed the efforts of others, and, having succeeded, finds there's nothing in it; nothing but bare board and clothes.

I have carried a dinner pail and worked for day's wages, and I have also been an employer of labor, and I know there is something to be said on both sides. There is no excellence, per se in poverty; rags are no recommendation; and all employers are not rapacious and high-handed, any more than all poor men are virtuous.

My heart goes out to the man who does his work when the "boss" is away as well as when he is at home. And the man who, when given a letter for Garcia, quietly takes the missive without asking any idiotic questions, and with no lurking intention of chucking it into the nearest sewer, or of doing aught else but deliver it, never gets "laid off," nor has to go on a strike for higher wages. Civilization is one long anxious search for just such individuals. Anything such a man asks shall be granted; his kind is so rare that no employer can afford to let him go. He is wanted in every city, town and village—in every office, shop, store and factory. The world cries out for such; he is needed, and needed badly—the man who can carry a message to Garcia.

Ed. Note.—The above very interesting article has a history of its own. It was originally written by Elbert Hubbard, editor of The Philistine, appearing in March, 1899. Mr. George H. Daniels, general passenger agent of the New York Central railroad, pronounced it one of the best things he had ever read, and backed up his opinion by at once ordering a large edition, which order he repeated, until to-day the printers are at work upon the fifth hundred thousand in booklet form for distribution.

Mr. Daniels explains the matter thus:

Having received so many requests from clergymen, teachers, and others interested in the education of the young for copies of "A Message to Garcia," we decided, after securing the kind permission of the author, to make it one of our "Four-Track Series," which is an educational as well as a travel series, and to print it in editions of one hundred thousand until the demand is supplied, if it takes the entire 20th century to accomplish it.

MUSTARD CASES FOR COFFINS.

A missionary from South Africa recently lectured in the provinces upon his work among the natives of that part of the world. He stated that on one occasion he officiated at the funeral of a white settler. In a country where wood was scarce the sorrowing relatives had utilized the discarded boards of packing cases wherewith to make the coffin. The reverend lecturer stated that he found it hard to do justice to the solemnity of the occasion, seeing that the coffin lid had been made of one of Colman's mustard cases, and bore these words: "This side up. Stow away from boiler." It is, perhaps, needless to say that these special instructions were printed upon the cases at Carrow works solely for the benefit of the shipper and to insure the mustard reaching its destination in good condition.

CALIFORNIA'S ORANGE YIELD.

The orange season is now about closed there remaining in Southern California probably less than 100 acres of the fruit. The shipments of oranges and lemons to date since November 1, 1898, aggregate about 9,900 cars, leaving the total output of the year to the close of the orange season a trifle less than 10,000 carloads. To complete the showing of citrus fruit shipments, however, there must be added to the above the lemon output of the next four months, which will probably be in the neighborhood of 500 cars, making a total citrus fruit output for the State for the fruit year of 10,500 cars, or over 3,500,000 boxes.—Fruit World.

DON'T BE UNJUST TO THE JOBBER.

By G. S. Mann.

NOW that we are entering upon a new era of prosperity, we should not forget the lessons of the depression through which we have recently passed. In perpetuating our enforced economies lie the possibilities of future success. To sell closely and quickly, to credit carefully, to discount purchases and to collect promptly are going to be the rules, from this time forward, of the majority of those who have weathered the storm. In some lines of trade, the discounts for cash will amount to enough to pay the expenses of the business. In such lines, therefore, one should never never fail to take advantage of the discounts offered.

Some retail dealers appear to think that a few days later than the terms stated will make no difference. In such conclusions they are greatly mistaken. "Two per cent. 10 days" means just what it says, and the purchaser ratifies the contract of sale, of which this is an important part, whenever he accepts the goods. He should, therefore, be as scrupulous to observe that part of the agreement as any other.

The clause above quoted does not mean: "Send the money when you get ready and take off your discount," but, instead, it is: "If your remittance reaches us within 10 days from date of invoice, we will give you 2 per cent. discount."

Does the retail merchant ever realize that anything less than this is not a payment in full? The amount of the discount or the delay beyond the date may be trifling, but the times through which we have been passing have been of the kind to demonstrate that it is trifles which make or mar business. As a fact, the aggregate of such trifles is a considerable amount.

Certainly, no fair-minded and honorable business man would continue the practice of varying from the letter of the contract after once giving the matter careful thought.

The practice of exceeding the discount limit on invoices is an indication of a desire to get the best of the jobber in little things that often proves a forerunner of worse to come. Hence, in part, the attention that the jobber is likely to pay to such matters, and hence, in part also, the reason why the merchant should refrain from such things in the sense of avoiding the appearance of evil.

While in an individual case slightly exceeding the discount limit seems a matter too small to notice, the aggregate of many items is a considerable loss to the jobber. A delay in payment, or a discount unjustly deducted, both of which are breaches of the contract of sale, are, in fact, large factors that must be considered by the jobber and carefully covered in his calculations. He must have a margin of profit sufficiently large to take care of these expenses without loss. The universal compliance with the contract of sale by the customers of a jobber would enable him to lower his prices.—Grocery World.

A GROCER WITH GOLD DUST.

Mr. William Braid, the well-known wholesale grocer and liquor dealer, arrived in town the other day from Dawson City with tangible evidence of the fact that business is good in the North, in the shape of 280 lb. of gold dust, valued at over $50,000. Mr. Braid went to Dawson three months ago, taking with him a large quantity of liquors and grocery supplies. The dust he brought back represents in part the proceeds of the branch establishment he has in Dawson City and which fortunately was not destroyed by the destructive fire which took place in May. Mr. Braid reported that Dawson is forging ahead rapidly and that it is gradually beginning to assume the appearance of a city. His gold was deposited in the vaults of a local bank and may go to the local Government assay office to be valued and cast into bricks.—The Province, Vancouver.

HOW CANADIANS LOSE TRADE.

Some people wonder how it is that Canadians do not get more of the Boundary Country trade, especially when a corporation like the C. P. R. is transporting the goods.

Firms have shipped goods six and eight months ago, and they had not, up to a short time ago, arrived.

At Penticton, at the time I was there, no less than 18 carloads of goods, a warehouse full, were waiting to be forwarded.

Merchants in that country who had bought goods from Canadian dealers were forced to buy from American, who could or would give them a better delivery, while the goods they had already ordered were waylaid.

This not only means a loss to the Canadian dealer at present, but there will be a future loss as well, and the American is getting a start which he is likely to retain.

A firm in Vernon told me that they were losing about $1,000 worth of business a week by not being able to get their goods delivered. M.

TRADE WITH ATLIN AND BENNETT

Perhaps it is only a coincidence, but business men do not call it so, that the shipments of merchandise to Skagway for Bennett and Atlin have largely increased in the past few days. The recent satisfactory returns from that much maligned district and the certainty of continued returns have had a decided effect in warming up interest, and, as a result, enterprise is at once being displayed in getting things under way for greatly extended business and mining operations in the Atlin country. To-day large shipments of provisions, groceries and general merchandise were shipped by leading local wholesale houses for the British America Corporation, Parsons Produce Company, McLennan, McFeely & Co., Thos. Dunn & Co., Limited, and others, who have established business there. From now on, shipments will be made much more freely than for some months past. Vancouver merchants are anticipating a good trade from the new northern district, and the prospect is giving an encouraging impetus to trade generally. There are some propositions for hydraulic machinery that will also develop a little later and cause heavy shipments to Atlin. —The Province, Vancouver.

BIG MONEY IN BUTTER.

THE course of the butter market this year must be highly satisfactory to Canadian producers, for, not only have better prices been realized, but a much larger quantity of butter has been marketed in Montreal than was the case last year. For instance, the receipts to date at Montreal have been 238,159 packages, against 138,909 for the same period in 1898.

This butter has averaged about 1c. per lb. higher than the price realized for 1898.

Roughly speaking, therefore, butter producers at the average market price have received $2,500,000 for their butter sold to date in Montreal, as against $1,400,000 odd for the same period in 1898.

This increase of $1,000,000 is by no means an inconsiderable item, so that factorymen have every reason to be pleased with the season's results, so far.

The export business, also, which has been doubling itself each season for the past five years, continues to do so, and, if the present rate of increase is continued to the end of the season, our exports of butter may be trebled.

Up to last Saturday night, there were exported from Montreal 128,256 pkgs. of butter, against 57,405 for the same period in 1898, an increase of 70,800 odd.

The cool weather, so far, this summer has resulted in an output of creamery of exceptionally fine quality, and it has found a ready market, for each week factorymens' shelves were cleared. Our butter also has been laid down in Great Britain in first-class condition, owing to the improved cold storage facilities, and the British consumer is beginning to find out that there is no butter sweeter than a fine fresh Canadian creamery.

There is practically unlimited room for expansion in this line of dairy produce, if the factorymen will sternly frown down all careless, dirty work at the factories.

APPLE SHIPPERS IN CONVENTION

The National Apple Shippers' Association of the United States is holding convention in Detroit this week, the convention days being Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The programme will probably include among other things discussions as to the best methods of handling apples; the mutual interchange of information regarding the crop outlook; papers and discussions on the subject of cold storage and the keeping of apples; the latest applied methods in preserving fruit, and new methods in various branches of the trade.

The New York State Legislature recently, at the request of the association, passed a law stating that a barrel of apples shall be of the following dimensions: "Head diameter, 17¼ inches; length of stave, 28½ inches; bulge not less than 64 inches outside measurement." The standard size of a barrel of pears, quinces or potatoes is placed at 100 quarts grain or dry measure.

An effort will be made to have committees appointed from the various States to endeavor to secure the enactment of a similar standard in the various States.

Representatives of Liverpool, London, Glasgow and Hamburg firms are expected to be present.

Messrs. H. W. Dawson, of The Dawson Commission Co., Limited, and Geo. McWilliam, of McWilliam & Everist, Toronto, are attending the meetings.

THE NEED OF CAPABLE MEN.

EVERYBODY should read "A Message to Garcia," printed in another column. The article should be an inspiration, particularly to young men. Those who it will not inspire are to be pitied, for they must be dead to all stimulating influences.

The trouble to-day is not that there are too many seeking a livelihood, but that there are not enough ready to pick up at once the thread of duty and follow it intelligently and expeditiously.

Success in life is not a lottery. It is an assured fact as long as certain laws are obeyed.

If a young man only does his best when the eyes of his employer are upon him; if when he has opportunity to improve his mind and his knowledge of his vocation he wastes it; if when he has a duty to perform he procrastinates; if the time he owes to his employer is of more importance to him than the proper performance of his duty, how in the world can he be successful?

There never was a time in the history of the world when there were so many people for which employment had to be found; and there never was a time when there was more need of really first-class men in business, in the professions and in the various other vocations than now.

He who is ready to carry a message to Garcia is ready to pilot himself to success.

THE APPLE CROP.

Mr. E. MacIntyre, Niagara, has just closed contracts for apples for delivery this fall amounting to 15,000 bbls. They are to fill an order he took from a British import house.

Speaking of the crop, he said to THE CANADIAN GROCER that in some districts the crop was undoubtedly short, but, taking the Province of Ontario as a whole, the crop would be larger and of better quality than last year.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

Time spent in taking a holiday is well invested provided the holiday is wisely spent. There is nothing that is surer in the long run to give better results. Mind and body are invigorated and the days lengthened for earning more dollars. What more could be asked for?

THE CANNED SALMON SITUATION.

WHILE the salmon canning situation in British Columbia is a little more satisfactory than it was, it is still far from being what it should be.

British Columbian newspapers of the middle of last week state that fishing on the Fraser was then a little better, although still poor. On the night of July 25 some of the fishermen caught as many as 175 and 200 fish, and, although some only caught one or two, the average showed an improvement. The improvement in the run began, it appears, on the previous Saturday.

The Province, of July 26, said: "The fish are coming from the north. So say well-posted authorities at Steveston. While the usual way for the run to come is around Vancouver Island, entering the Gulf by way of the Straits, it is said by fishermen to be no new thing for them to come down the Gulf, as they appear to be commencing to run to-day."

Neither the exchanges nor the private advices to hand, up to the time of writing, indicate that the run is yet anything better than poor on the Fraser.

Probably the most satisfactory feature of the situation on the river, as far as the canneries are concerned, is the fact that the price being paid to the fishermen is 5c. lower, now being 25c. instead of 30c. per fish. But even at this price the packers declare that it costs them about $5 per case to put up "talls." This is the price that was paid at the beginning of the fishing season, and it is asserted that so far the packers have lost money on every case of salmon they have put up.

Although up to the time of writing no advance has been made in prices, most of the shippers have instructed their representatives to withdraw quotations on Fraser river canned salmon. Where quotations are to be obtained $4.50 f.o.b. the Coast is the lowest figure named. Lowe Inlet packs are still quoted as low as $4.

Fishing began on the Fraser this season on July 1, about 15 days earlier than usual, but, up to the end of July, the pack was estimated to be only 60,000 cases. The season ends August 15.

The New York Journal of Commerce, of August 1, had the following: "We give below," says that paper, "a table compiled from authentic figures, giving a comparison between the pack last year of all kinds of salmon with the outside estimates of the probable output this season, based on the present rate of packing:

	1898.	1899.
Columbia river	360,000	250,000
Puget Sound	425 000	425,000
Fraser river	250,000	125,000
Alaska	900,000	900,000
Sacramento river	13,000	15,000
Outside rivers and bays (fall pack)	400,000	400,000
	2,348,000	2,115,000

It will be noticed from this table that The New York Journal of Commerce only gives the Fraser 125,000 cases for the whole season's pack.

Although the pack on the Fraser has, so far, been so poor, that on the Northern rivers was, up to the latest advices, good. At Rivers Inlet the run was poor up to July 16, but on that date there was an improvement, and the last reports from there stated that the boats were taking 300 to 400 fish each per day.

Up to July 15, the pack at the various northern canneries was as follows:

Cannery.	Cases.
Naas—
Naas Harbor Cannery	3,700
Mill Bay	2,800
Skeena—
Inverness	5,000
North Pacific	5,000
British America	5,800
Windsor	4,500
Cunningham's	5,200
Carlisle s	5,200
Claxton	2,800
Standard	3,200
Lowe Inlet—
Lowe Inlet Cannery	4,300
Rivers Inlet—
Vancouver Packing Company	4,500
Brunswick	5,000
Wannuck	6,200
B. C. Canning Co. (two canneries) approximately	6,000
Good Hope	1,700
Wadham's	6,300
Alert Bay—
Spencer's	1,500
Total	78,700

Here is a total of 78,700 cases up to three weeks ago, or, with the Fraser added, 203,700 cases for British Columbia. What the end of the season will bring forth cannot, of course, be stated, but the outlook is certainly for a small pack. The total pack in British Columbia last year was 431,000 cases.

A COMPARISION OF PRODUCE PRICES.

THE prices that are ruling this year for butter, cheese, and eggs are generally recognized as being satisfactory, but it is only those who are acquainted with the prices that have ruled in past years who can appreciate the unusual values that are now ruling.

Eggs have been, for over two months, higher in price than at a similar time in any of the ten previous years.

The advance of ½c. in cheese put the price of this product higher than has ruled in the first week in August since 1894. In that year the same price as that now ruling, 9¾ to 10c., was the market quotation.

This week has witnessed an advance of 1c. in both dairy and creamery prints. Tubs have not advanced, but are firm at prices which are much the highest in four years.

The following table gives a fair idea of the comparatively high prices now ruling:

	1899.	1898.	1897.	1896.	1895.	1894.
Eggs, per doz	12½ to 13	10 to 11½	9½ to 10½	8½ to 9	11	10 to 10½
Cheese per lb	9¾ to 10	7¼ to 8¼	8½ to 8¾	7 to 7½	8 to 8½	9¾ to 10
Butter, dairy per lb	13½ to 14	11 to 11½	10½ to 12	10 to 12	14 to 15	17
" creamery "	18	15 to 15½	16½ to 17½	15 to 16	18	19 to 20

What makes all this the more satisfactory is that the high values are not a result of limited production, but are because of an increased demand for the various kinds of products.

The production and export of butter this season is very much greater than it was ever before. Our exports of cheese are much greater than last year, and will likely be close up to that of 1897, the record year. The production of eggs may be less than has been the case in some former years, but it is large, and the high prices that have been ruling have been caused by brisk competition on the part of buyers.

The year 1899 is proving a good one for the Ontario farmer.

MIDSUMMER STORE WINDOWS.

Because it is more difficult during midsummer, owing to the aggressiveness of the common house fly and the prevalence of street dust, to keep the store window clean and attractive, is no reason why laxness should be allowed to develop. On the contrary, it is all the more reason why double vigilance should be exercised in the care of the window.

A PROVINCIAL RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE visit of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association to Hamilton, on Wednesday of last week, their reception by the executive of the Hamilton association, and the spirit of fraternity that developed between the two bodies, prompts a query as to why there is no body to bring the retail grocers of Ontario closer together.

Why is there no Provincial grocers' association? Surely no one would give as an answer that there is no need of one!

It is true that a grocer's business is one that causes success or failure to depend on the character, the ability and industry of the individual. But there are, nevertheless, many questions continually arising that could be settled, many difficulties that could be met by the united action of the various associations in the Province.

At the present moment there are several matters that a Provincial association could best handle.

In another column will be noticed a report from Kingston, which states that a large number of the leading grocers of that city have agreed to discontinue giving trading stamps. This matter has at one time or another engrossed the attention of every grocers' association in Ontario.

At the last session of the Provincial Legislature, an attempt was made by the grocers to have the promoters of the system bear a proper share of taxation. The attempt was defeated in the last hours of the session, but if it had been supported by an association representing the grocers of the Province, there is every probability that it would have been successful.

The Weights and Measures Inspection Act, and the exemption of civil servants' salaries from garnishment are detrimental to the interests of grocers generally, yet, efforts in the past have not brought any relief.

In addition to this, an annual convention could not fail to be instructive and interesting to all attending it. The business, or art, or science of retailing has made much progress of late years, and at a meeting of representatives of different cities all would gather fresh ideas and new inspiration for the carrying on of business.

At present there are associations in Toronto, Hamilton, London, Ottawa, and other places, but a Provincial association could be made to include, in addition to these, members from all the cities and large towns in the Province.

TRADING STAMPS IN KINGSTON.

THE retail grocers of Kingston have come to the conclusion that trading stamps are a delusion and a snare. At a meeting held in that city the other evening, at which were present Messrs. J. Gilbert, D. A. Shaw, N. E. Runians, D. Couper, E. F. Sears, T. R. Carnovsky, J. Hiscock, D. McRae, T. J. Leahy, W. H. Keene, J. Halligan, P. F. Lawless and J. S. Henderson, all retail grocers, many hard things were said of the trading-stamp system.

After a discussion, in which all present took part, the following resolution was introduced by Mr. Gilbert, and signed by all but Mr. Keene: "We, the undersigned retail grocers of the city of Kingston, do hereby promise to discontinue using trading stamps or cash coupons, or have anything to do with the same on and after———."

The date was not settled, as it is hoped many more merchants will sign the resolution, but it will likely be fixed at September 1, in order to give those who have books time to redeem their stamps.

THE SMALL GROCERY.

THE advent of the departmental and its effect on various branches of retailing have attracted much attention and been the inspiration of many an interesting article in recent years. One phase of the question has, however, to my knowledge, always escaped notice, or, at least, comment. It is the comparatively little effect that these institutions have had on the small grocery stores of the city. Mention has frequently been made of the number of large houses, especially dry goods retailers, which have been crowded to the wall by the mammoths. Yet, the small grocer continues to carry on his business within a few miles from his giant competitor, and never seems to feel its hurtful influence.

There have been changes in the mode of management of the small grocery which may, in some degree, be due to the advent of the departmental. For instance, business is now done on the cash basis to a much larger extent than in years past. The system of taking orders has also been largely developed recently. The stores are, in many instances, more attractive and cleanly. But the forces that have enabled the small grocery to withstand the encroachment of its big rival are apparent to-day as they were 10 years ago. The first of these is personal influence over and sympathy with his patrons.

On Saturday evening last, I had occasion to be in what I would term a model grocery of the type I refer to. The store portion is not much more than 24 x 12 feet, and at the back of this is an office, 6 x 6 feet. Behind the counter were the grocer, his wife and his delivery boy. In the hour I was in the store, from 9.30 to 10.30 o'clock, there were not less than three customers in the store, and sometimes there were eight or nine, at once. Both the grocer and his wife knew them all, men, women and children—and the children seemed as numerous and as large and as shrewd buyers as did the men and women. From first to last, though the grocer covered a lot of ground and served many people, he kept up a running stream of conversation with one or another of his customers. A laugh or a joke with some, a kind inquiry after some sick friend or a word of sympathy with others—but some word for all; all of which showed me that this man had a grasp on the trade of these people that it would take a lot of bargains to loosen.

Some paid cash for their purchases. Others whispered a word or two, and their purchases were charged to them with a hearty: "That'll be all right, Mrs. ——." Others did not even ask that their goods be charged. They just bought them and went out, the charging being an understood thing. A subsequent conversation brought out the fact that this grocer does about $600 business in a week, an amount that would satisfy the ambition of many a large storekeeper. Of course, the average small grocer does not turn over anything like this amount of goods, but what trade he possesses he holds by the same power of personality that enables this man to keep what he has.

THE RAMBLER.

THEY BELIEVE IN THEIR TOWN.

The business people of Elkhorn, Man., believe in advertising their town. They have had a photograph of the place taken, and a cut made from the same. This has been printed on envelopes, so that any person to whom they are sent will be able to see what kind of a town Elkhorn is.

ABOUT SUGAR.

WRITING on the origin of sugar, a contributor to The North American Review observes that sugar is a constituent of most plants, in greater or less degree, at some period of their growth. Its exact position or function in the metabolism of plant tissue is still a matter of theory among chemists, but its wide distribution is becoming more and more evident as time goes on. Even the cereal grains, formerly supposed to be merely storehouses for starch, have lately been found to contain notable quantities of sucrose and saccharose, the specific name used by chemists to distinguish the substance in question from its congener carbo-hydrates possessing a sweet taste. The popular name for this substance, however, cane sugar, indicates the plant containing it in sufficient abundance to first attract the attention of mankind. This plant, saccharum officinarium, probably originated in Asia, whence it has spread gradually to all tropical regions, its easy propagation from eyes on the cane itself assisting materially in its dissemination. The cultivation of this plant for its sweet qualities stretches far back into the past, "sweet canes" being mentioned in the Hebrew Scriptures, and its use in China probably antedated even this mention; yet the extraction of sugar from its juice, and, especially the use of the substance as a special article of food, is a matter of comparatively recent date. For centuries is was used in Europe only as a confection or a medicine, and it was not until the beginning of the 17th century, a hundred or more years after it was first cultivated in the Eastern Hemisphere, that it began to be an article of commerce and was imported to any extent into Europe. Once begun, however, its modern development down to the present day, when it constitutes one of the world's greatest industries, the product of which reaches the consumer for the greater part as a chemically pure article, is little short of marvelous; in truth, its history cannot be surpassed in interest by any line of human endeavor.

THE MAN WHO SUCCEEDS.

Success in business is not to be reached nowadays in the easy-going methods that obtained a generation or two ago, says Geyer's stationer. Times have changed, and the people have changed with them. Push is the only thing that will carry a man ahead, and it is the liveliest pusher that gets there first. He mustn't sit down and wait for business to come to him, or he may sit until the seat of his pants wears out, and be that much the poorer. The chronic pusher, the dyed-in-the-wool hustler, he is the man that lets other fellows wait while he rushes ahead and pockets what they are after. What is the manner of his pushing? How does he do it? Well, in two or three ways, but here is one in which he puts implicit faith. As a general rule, the chronic pusher is a chronic advertiser. Printers' ink is the lubricating oil of his business wheels, and he never allows them to lag or creak for the want of it. He may pinch and economize in other directions, but he would look upon "cutting his ad." as only another phase for cutting his throat. Hard times and poor business are incentives to increase his advertising, rather than any argument to him for cutting it down—upon the principle that it needs more power to drag a cart up than down hill. It will pay the semi-occasional advertiser to ponder over the pusher's success, and he may possibly find in the cause of it some cause for the lack of his own.

FIRST SHIPMENT OF "EIFFEL TOWER."

C. E. Colson & Son advise that they have received their first shipment of "Eiffel Tower" lemonade, and are now in a position to fill all orders promptly. They also have a large stock of samples, which will be sent out to anyone asking for them.

The Messrs. Colson are confident that this article will give every satisfaction, as G. Foster Clarke, the manufacturer, as well as the originator of these goods, has placed them in all the principal markets of the world, and wherever placed they have had a phenomenal sale.

The demand for these goods in the United States has proven so large that they have had to equip a branch factory in New York, and they think the Canadian market should prove equally as good.

"Eiffel Tower" lemonade is put in the form of crystals, in sealed bottles, each bottle containing enough crystals to make two gallons of home-made lemonade. These goods are guaranteed to keep in any climate and for an indefinite period without losing the true flavor of the lemon.

This firm also manufacture a fine line of special winter drinks, including ginger, punch, cloves, peppermint and black currant, put up in the same form as the lemonade, and as easily prepared for use. Any of these flavors will be found, upon trial, to make a delicious, refreshing and palatable drink.

C. E. Colson & Son have been appointed sole agents for Canada for these goods. It is their intention to thoroughly test the Canadian market, and there is no doubt they will be as successful with this line as they have been with others.

DIXI H. ROSS, VICTORIA, DEAD.

Dixi H. Ross, of D. H. Ross & Co., grocers and liquor dealers, Victoria, died at his home in that city on Thursday, July 20, after a short illness. Mr. Ross was born in the United States 47 years ago, but in 1870 went to Cariboo, B. C., during the time of gold excitement there. As soon as the excitement had subsided he went to Victoria, where, in partnership with J. Cameron, he started in the retail grocery business. Until his death he continued as head of this business, building up one of the largest retail trades in the Province.

As, besides being enterprising in business, he was of a genial and charitable disposition. Mr. Ross leaves behind a large number of friends, besides his wife, one son and one daughter.

Deceased had been suffering from kidney trouble, and complications developing an operation was decided upon. His death took place the day following the operation.

In commenting upon his death, The Victoria Colonist said: "A business man first, last and all the time, he declined all overtures looking towards his engagement in public affairs, being at the time of his demise the head of the business he had created and developed into one of the largest retail concerns of the city and Province. His loss will be keenly felt by many outside of the relatives immediately bereaved by his demise, for he was a man of large and unostentatious charity—a man of deeds, not words—whose heart was always warm to the cry of distress, and whose pocket answered its demands."

THE PRODUCTION OF HARD SOAP.

In the production of the well-known English hair-soaps of high repute, the manufacturers, according to a contemporary, use hard animal or vegetable fats and weak solutions of soda, these being generally boiled together until the thin paste is saponified, when the soap and the glycerine remain suspended in water, and they are next separated by brine or common salt, in which soap is not soluble. Any excess of alkali, all the glycerine, and the water combine with the salt and so throw the soap up to the top in a granulated mass. The spent lye containing the glycerine is withdrawn through a tap placed at the bottom of the boiler, and the soap curd, after being melted, may be run direct into wooden or iron frames to cool and harden, or it may be further treated with alkali, and again salted and melted. By means of the cold process medium may be produced; that is, at a temperature below the boiling point of water the proper proportion of hard fat being then sufficient to liquefy it, and a suitable caustic alkaline lye is stirred in.

ONTARIO MARKETS

TORONTO, August 3, 1899.

GROCERIES.

PROBABLY the most interesting feature in connection with the wholesale grocery trade during the past week is the advance of 5c. per 100 lb. in the price of sugar. The general wholesale trade is fairly brisk, with sugar the most active line. Canned goods are quiet, both for prompt shipment and future delivery. The price of canned goods rules firm, particularly in regard to canned salmon. The coffee trade is quiet. Wholesalers report a little better demand for tea, but the brokers are doing very little business. In foreign dried fruits there is a fair demand for currants, but business in other lines is quite uninteresting. Taking it all around, this is probably the least interesting week we have had in the wholesale grocery trade for some time. Trade is, however, of a healthy character, and payments are, on the whole, good.

CANNED GOODS.

Canned salmon is the most interesting line in the list of canned goods. The situation on the Coast appears to have improved little, if anything. The run of fish on the Fraser, according to latest advices, was still poor, although the canneries were paying 25c. per fish, instead of 30c. But, at this price, they declare that it costs about $5 per case to put up talls. None of the local agents of canneries have put their prices up, but several of them have been instructed to withdraw quotations. Where quotations are to be had, $4.50 f.o.b. the Coast is the lowest figure obtainable for Fraser river fish, and $4 for Lowe Inlet. Local wholesalers are not much disposed to do business in futures, except at open figures, but $1.35 to $1.50 represents their idea as to what prices to the retail trade should be for Fraser river fish. There is a fair demand for canned salmon for prompt shipment.

There is very little doing in canned vegetables. As far as futures are concerned, there is an all-round disposition to await further crop developments before doing any more business. Some of the wholesalers are still practically refusing to quote futures. Those who are quoting ask 75 to 80c. for tomatoes and 75c. for corn. Some wholesalers will not accept less than 80c. for tomatoes, one house refusing an order for 100 cases at 75c. For prompt shipment 80c. is the ruling idea as to price. Corn is quoted at 95c. to $1 for prompt shipment. The inside figure is not, however, quoted as frequently as it was a few weeks ago. Peas are firm at 70 to 75c. per doz.

Canned fruits are meeting with a fair demand for shipment to the northern part of Ontario, but generally speaking trade in canned fruits is quiet. Prices are, however, decidedly firm.

Canned meats are meeting with a fairly good demand.

COFFEE.

There is very little doing, but the demand for Rio coffee is fair for the season. Prices are easier in the outside markets on account of large crop movement.

See pages 31 and 32 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SUGARS.

The feature of the sugar market is an advance in the price, all sugars being advanced 5c. per 100 lb. The higher figures went into effect at 5.30 o'clock on Tuesday evening. The advance is in sympathy with the outside raw markets, which are higher than they were a week ago. The price of granulated is now $4.65 Toronto for St. Lawrence and Redpath granulated and $4.60 for Acadia. Yellows range from $3.75 for No. 1 to $4.25 for "extra bright." The demand is good and fully equal to that of last week.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Trade continues dull in regard to both syrups and molasses. Crop reports from Louisiana are of a favorable nature this week, denoting a large yield.

SPICES.

Cable advices report a firm market for pepper. Mace and nutmeg are also advised firm. Locally, trade is quiet and featureless.

TEAS.

Local wholesalers report a rather better demand for Ceylon, Indian and Japan teas. The brokers are doing very little business. Importers have enough Ceylon and Indian teas to keep them going for a while, and as they think prices may be lower in England after the difficulty with the growers is settled, and the auctions in London have again resumed their normal condition.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—A fairly good trade for this time of the year is being experienced by the wholesale houses. Three-fourths of the demand is for cleaned currants at from 5½c. per lb. upwards. The primary market continues firm.

VALENCIA RAISINS — A fair inquiry is being experienced by the wholesale trade, but the demand is easing off.

PRUNES—There is very little doing.

GREEN FRUITS.

Early peaches are arriving in much larger quantities than they were expected, and, as the quality is not nearly as good as is that of later varieties, prices are low, 25 to 40c. now being quoted. Harvest pears are arriving freely at 25 to 40c. per basket. Canadian plums are commencing to come in. They sell readily at 60 to 75c. Raspberries and blackcaps, lawtonberries and black currants continue to arrive in liberal quantities, and, as the demand keeps active, prices are unchanged. Canadian tomatoes are steadily becoming more plentiful, so prices have dropped to 25 to 30c. per basket. Huckleberries are offering freely at 65 to 80c., a decline of 20c. There are no grapes in yet. They are expected in a few weeks. The crop this year is likely to be a record one. Bananas are about 25c. per bunch cheaper, and, as the supply is abundant, a big trade is being done in this fruit. There is not much doing in oranges, but lemons are in good demand at firm prices. There is a good movement of Californian fruits. Plums are selling at from $2 to $3 per case; pears at $2.50 to $2.75 per case; peaches at $1.25 to $1.50 per case.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The easeir feeling has resulted in a decline of 1c. per dozen this week. Picklers have nearly all quit for the season, and accumulations of stock are reported, notwithstanding a brisk local demand. From 12½ to 13c. per dozen is now quoted.

POTATOES—Larger and better stock is now offering, yet the supply is increasing so steadily that prices continue easy at 50 to 60c. per bushel.

BEANS — There is nothing doing. We quote nominally $1 to $1.10 per bag for hand-picked, and 75 to 80c. per bag for ordinary stock.

VEGETABLES—Spinach and asparagus are done. Corn is in at 10 to 15c. per dozen, and vegetable marrow at 40 to 60c. per dozen. Celery is 25c. cheaper. New turnips are in, and are being sold by the bunch now instead of by the bag. Cucumbers are selling readily at 10 to 20c. per dozen. We quote: Cauliflower, 75c. to $1.25 per doz.; Rhubarb, 15 to 20c.; radishes, 15c. per dozen bunches; corn, 10 to 15c. per doz.; vegetable marrow, 40 to 60c. per doz.; green onions, 5 to 10c. per doz.; celery, 50c. to 75c. per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz., 30 to 50c.; parsley, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; green cucumbers, 10 to 20c. per doz.; new beets, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; parsnips, 40 to 60c. per dozen bunches; carrots, 20 to 30c. per doz. bunches; green peas, $1 to $1.10 per bag; butter beans, $1.25 per bushel; tomatoes, 25 to 30c. per basket.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The feeling, especially for both dairy and creamery prints, is decidedly firm. There are not enough dairy prints offering to meet the demand. This has naturally increased the sale of creamery prints, and has resulted in an advance of 1c. per lb. in both lines. Creamery tubs and boxes are also rather stiffer in price, but no change in the price of dairy tubs is noted. The quality of the latter, which has been better than usual this summer, has fallen off considerably in the last two weeks, and a much greater proportion of inferior stuff is coming in. Reports from several sections state that the milk supply has fallen off considerably lately, so the production is likely to be reduced. The demand, both local and export, continues excellent.

CHEESE—The strong feeling continues. The export demand keeps so brisk that buyers have been forced to pay 9⅜ to 9 9-16c. per lb. at country boards this week. The local demand is good, at 9¼ to 10c. per lb.

FISH.

There is a good general demand. Trout and whitefish are scarce and firm. We quote: Trout, 7½ to 8c.; whitefish, 7 to 8c.; maskinonge, 8c.; pickerel, 7½c.; perch, 4c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 6c.; cod in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—The price of Ontario wheat is unchanged at 68c. outside for both red and white. The local street market is moderately busy. There is a good demand for goose wheat and peas. Oats are dull, and the other grains are inactive. We quote: Wheat, white and red, 71c.; goose, 68c.; peas, 62 to 65c.; oats, 35 to 36c.; barley, 44 to 45c.; rye, 51 to 53c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat has declined 1c. and is now moving quietly at 80c. Toronto.

FLOUR—The only business being done is of a general jobbing nature. A few buyers seem to have reached the conclusion that prices are now at the bottom, but they have not done any speculative buying as yet. Prices are unchanged We quote as follows: Manitoba patents, $3.90; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.60; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—There is no change. We quote as follows: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.75 in bags and $3.85 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—The demand is brisk, causing an advance of ¼c. in No. 1 and No. 2 cowhides. Deliveries continue large. We quote cowhides: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9c.

SKINS—Lambskins are 5 to 10c. dearer. All skins are in good demand. We quote: No. veal, 8-lb. and up, 9c. per lb.; No. 2, 7c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheepskins are worth 90c. to $1, and lambskins, 35 to 40c.

WOOL—A good movement is reported. Prices are unchanged. We quote fleece at 14 to 14¼c., and unwashed at 8 to 9c.

SALT.

A good demand is reported, with prices unaltered. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote F.O.B., barrels, 70c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English coarse salt 47 to 49c. Toronto per sack of 154 lb.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, August 3, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been a fair movement in general groceries for the season. The only unsatisfactory feature is the unsettled position in regard to sugar values, owing to the cutting in prices between jobbers. Syrups and molasses contribute nothing striking, while there is a fair inquiry for Valencia raisins and some large forward contracts have been closed for both new pack canned vegetables and fruit. Buyers are also anxious to order salmon, but sellers are not quoting. Rice, coffee and spices are firm but featureless. The tea market has ruled quiet, but some movement has been noted in new crop Japans. New crop teas of all sorts are coming forward very slowly, and the fact is causing buyers to hold back.

SUGAR.

The local sugar market is still unsatisfactory as regards jobbing sales, for the reasons mentioned last week, the cutting in values by houses not in the agreement continuing. Cuts of 30c. per 100 lb. are spoken of on yellow sugar. The Guild price is 5c. per 100 lb. higher, granulated being quoted at $4.55 and yellows at from $3.65 up. The raw article has recorded very little change on outside markets. Cables from London state that the market is quiet for cane, with prices steady. Java, 12s. 7½d.; fair refining, 11s. 6d. Beet is reported inactive, both present and next month's shipment being quoted at 10s. 9d. In New York, raw has ruled firm this week, and is held higher under a good demand: Fair refining, 3 15-16c.; centrifugal, 96 test, 4½c., and molasses sugar, 3 13-16c.

SYRUPS.

There is nothing to report in the syrup market. Demand continues slow and prices steady at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., as to quality at the factory.

MOLASSES.

The situation of this staple is unchanged from a week ago. Trading is light in a wholesale way, as buyers generally seem to be well supplied for the immediate future, and want to work down stocks a little before assuming new obligations. Prices, however, are held steady ex wharf at 32½ to 34c. in round lots. In a jobbing way a fair movement is noted in car lots at 35c. and in single puncheons at 36c.

DRIED FRUITS.

The demand for raisins noted last week is maintained and still continues, several thousand boxes of the fruit changing hands since last report, on the basis of 4c. for fine off-stalk, and 3½c. for off-stalk. Selected fruit are purely nominal in the absence of anything to trade in. Of course, the above prices are for wholesale lots between first and second hands.

CANNED GOODS.

An active business in canned vegetable futures has been noted since last report, and round lots of corn, peas and tomatoes, have been placed, aggregating in all 12,000 cases. For these forward sales the feeling is strong, if prices on these sales are any criterion, for they all show advances on values realized by packers' agents earlier in the season. There is a steady demand for spot goods. Sales of tomatoes are noted at 75c., corn, 90c., and peas, at 75 to 77½c.

A fair lot of orders came forward for new crop fruits, and prices on these show no material change from the opening figures. Prices range: Apples, 3 lb., 75c.; preserved, $1.40; 1 gal. tins, $2; pears, 3 lb., $1.80; plums, 3 lb., $1.60; greengages, 3 lb., $1.75; yellow peaches, 3 lb., $2.25; pumpkins, 3 lb., $3.65; strawberries, preserved, $1.35; do., in syrup, $1.15; raspberries, preserved, $1.40; do., in syrup, $1.15.

A steady demand continues for new pack salmon, and further sales of round lots are noted for future delivery, but business in this respect has been restricted by the refusal of canners to consider bids at present. Sales of "Clover Leaf" brand have been made on local account at $4.75 f.o.b. Coast, though it is reported that Western buyers have placed orders for the same brand at $4.50. Some good-sized sales of Lowe Inlet are also noted at $4 f.o.b. Coast.

RICE.

There is a fair business in rice for the season, and the tone of the market is steady. We quote: B standard, $3.40 to $3.50; Patnas, $4.12½ to $4.75; Japans, $4.50 to $5, and Caroline, $6 to $7.

COFFEES.

There is no change to note in the coffee market, demand being slow, while the tone is easy. Maracaibo is quoted nominal at 12c.; Santos and Jamaica, 8c., and Rio, 7 to 9c., as to grade, for the green coffee in the bean.

SPICES.

There is a fair business doing in spices, and the market is steady to firm in its tone. We quote: Singapore black pepper, 12½ to 13c., and Singapore white, 19½ to 20c. Penang pepper, 17½ to 18c., and West Coast, 12 to 13c. Pimento, 11 to 12c. Nutmegs, 28 to 44c., as to quality. Cassia, 9 to 10c.; Jamaica ginger, 19½ to 20c.; Cochin tips ginger, 6 to 6½c.; Zanzibar cloves, 9 to 10c.; nutmegs, 40 to 55c., and mace, 45 to 50c.

TEAS.

Business in tea has been quiet, buyers waiting generally until new crop goods arrive more freely. There have been few arrivals of new crop Japans, possibly 700 to 800 packages having arrived and changed hands in the past 10 days at 16 to 19½c. Some small lots of old crop goods are offering, but buyers show little disposition to operate in them. Late mail advices from Yokohama state that the market is very strong for low grades, and that settlements show a large increase over last year. In black teas, the few new crop Congous coming to hand have sold at 10 per cent. advance on last year's prices at this time. No more Pingsueys seem obtainable at 9c., and now 10c. is asked as the inside figure, some 500 packages being turned over at 10 to 14½c., as to grade. Advices from Shanghai state that fine lines of Pingsueys are particularly cheap, but that low grades are high. Young Hysons are reported in active request at primary markets, with prices very high.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been very little change in the fruit market since last report, business ruling fair, both on country and local account. Domestic fruits have been rather scarce all week, the demand for raspberries being equal to the supply at 8c. per box. Red currants are scarce and steady at 35 to 40c. per basket. Very few gooseberries have been arriving, and they sell at 35 to 50c. per basket. There is a good demand for watermelons, and, with light receipts, prices are steady at 12½ to 18c. There have been heavy receipts of Mississippi tomatoes, and, with a limited demand, prices have fallen to 30 to 50c. per crate, while Canadian stock, which made their first appearance on the market, are commanding 50 to 60c. per basket. Bananas are selling at $1.25 to $1.50 for firsts, and 75 to 80c. for seconds. There has been no change in oranges. Sales are limited at $3.50 to $4 for 200's, and $3 to $3 50 for 160's. Demand for lemons is fair at $2 to $3 per box. The first receipts of Canadian peaches came to hand Friday last and are selling at 50 to 75c. per basket. Canadian pears are also arriving now, and range from 40 to 50c., demand being slow, because the offerings, so far, have been very green. There have been heavy receipts of all sorts of Californian fruit, but demand was good as follows: Pears, $2.25 to $2.75; peaches, $1.25 to $1.50, and plums, $1.40 to $2.25 per crate.

FISH.

There is no change in the fish market. We quote: Fresh haddock and cod at 3 to 4c. for haddock, and 3 to 3½c. for cod; British Columbia salmon, 12 to13c.; halibut, 13 to 14c.; salt fish: Green cod, $4.25 to $4.50 for No. 1, and $5 for No. 1 large per barrel; dry cod, $4; Nova Scotia herring, $4.25 to $4.50 in barrels; Cape Breton, $4.75 in barrels; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $14 to $15; sea trout, $9.50 to $10; lake trout, $4.25 to $4.50 per keg of 100 lb.; No. 1 green haddock, $4 to $4.25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was no material change in the situation of the market. The tone is firm, with a fair jobbing business doing. We quote choice candled stock at 14½ to 15c.; ordinary at 12½ to 13c.; and No. 2 at 10 to 11c. per doz.

MAPLE PRODUCT — Supplies of maple product are small and prices rule firm. We quote: Syrup, in wood, 6½ to 7c. per lb., and at 85 to 90c. per tin. Sugar, at 8½ to 9c. per lb.

HONEY — There is no change in honey to note. The demand is slow, We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 9 to 10c.; dark, 7 to 8c.; white extracted, 7½ to 8c., and dark, 4½ to 5c.

BEANS — Only a small jobbing trade is passing in beans. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

POTATOES—A fair trade is reported in new potatoes, but the tone of the market is easy, and prices have a downward tendency. Round lots have sold at $1.10 to $1.20 per barrel.

ASHES—The market for ashes is quiet and featureless. We quote: First sorts, $3.70 to $3.75; seconds, $3.50, and first pearls, $5.25 to $5.50 per 100 lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—The tone of the flour market was weak in sympathy with the decline in wheat, and prices were marked down 10c. per bbl. all round to-day. The demand is still slow, and trade chiefly of a small jobbing character. We quote as follows: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.30 to $3.40; in bags, $1.60 to $1.65; Manitoba patents, $4 to $4.20; strong bakers', $3.60 to $3.80.

GRAIN—Locally, business was quiet in all lines, there being no demand whatever from shippers for coarse grains on account of the discouraging cable advices. A barge load of 8,000 bushels of oats was offered without meeting with a buyer. Carload lots for local consumption sold at 33 to 34c. ex store. Peas are neglected.

OATMEAL—There was no change in the situation of the market for rolled oats. The demand is slow and prices about steady at $3.67½ per bbl. and at $1.72½ per bag.

FEED—There was an improved demand for feed, and millers, in some cases, state that they are heavily oversold; consequently, the tone of the market is firm. We quote as follows: Ontario bran, in bulk, $13 to $13.50; shorts, $14.50 per ton; Manitoba bran, $12.50 to $13; shorts, $15 to $16; mouillie, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY — There is no change to note in baled hay. The demand is good, both on spot and at country points. We quote: Choice No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $5.50 to $6, and clover, $4.75 to $5.25 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

Trade in all lines of cured meats was fairly active, there being a good demand for small lots, and, as supplies are large, prices rule firm. Lard is moving fairly well, but pork rules quiet. We quote as follows: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7c. to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined 5½c. to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11¼c. to 12½c. per lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE — Continues firm, and, though buyers on the other side are reluctant purchasers, they have evidently been compelled lately to buy to cover their actual necessities. In fact, no reaction seems likely for the very good reason that factorymen's shelves are cleaner than they ever have been at this time of the year, so that they are in a position to stubbornly resist any decline. Business was reported over the wire to-day at better than 9¾c., and it is claimed that 9 15-16c. was actually realized for one large lot. Offers are being made to-day of 47s. c.i.f. Bristol and London, on which basis the shipper could afford to pay 9⅝c., but no more. These offers are very likely part Ontario and part Quebec, for it is undoubted that the former cannot be bought separately for less than 9¾c. At the wharf, Monday morning, 7,000 boxes Quebec sold at 9¼c., which is a better average price than the previous Monday's range, 9⅜ to 9¼c.

BUTTER—The market rules very firm, and both exporters and domestic jobbers are still free buyers, as stocks are generally admitted to be very small. In an export way, creamery is selling at 18¾ to 19c., and dairy at 14 to 14½c. The jobbing trade is good, and 19 to 19½c. is paid for creamery, 15c. for western dairy, 16 to 16½c. Townships dairy, and 12 to 12½c. for old western. Naturally, the payment of these full figures by jobbers, coupled with small stocks, tends to make factorymen ask more from exporters.

MONTREAL NOTES.

The price of cheese has advanced ¼ to ⅜c. per pound on last week.

Butter continues to stiffen, being ½c. per lb. higher for finest creamery at 18½ to 19c.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., August 3, 1899.

THE general report is "improved business," and a good fall is confidently looked forward to. There are continued complaints in reference to the Customs regulations, and many importers have been very much delayed in getting goods entered. It would seem to be the policy of the Government to keep down imports, not only by the duty charged, but by the putting of every obstacle possible in the way of the importer in the shape of troublesome regulations. It is certainly a discouragen ent to business. In markets, there is little change to note. Spices continue to show rather lower values. Canned goods tend higher ; spot stock is light. In hops, the demand during the summer has been very light. It might almost be said that they are going out of consumption. The molasses trade is rather quiet. The stock of Porto Rico, while not large, is equal to all present demands.

OIL—Except that orders are being taken for later delivery, everything in oil is quiet. Burning oils show no change in price, but there is rather improved demand. Lubricating oils are quiet. In cod oil a little is coming forward, but fishermen are holding back for better prices, demand at present being very light. Paint oils are very high and firm, with rather light sale.

SALT—While there were no receipts of Liverpool coarse salt during the week, a small cargo by steamer is daily expected. There is a fair stock in store here of both coarse and factory filled. In English bottled salt trade is almost gone, Canadian and American having taken its place for table use. We quote : Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag ; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl. ; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each ; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—Values are very firmly held. New peas and strawberries are to hand. In corn, there is practically none here. Packers have about all withdrawn, refusing to sell further lots till crop is further advanced. Tomatoes are held firm. There has been considerable interest in gallon apples during the week, and dealers have largely bought from a Nova Scotian packer at prices rather under those quoted from the West. They are looked on as good stock. In canned meats high prices rule, and there is a fair, steady sale. Salmon are a light stock, and futures are held very firm, some packers having withdrawn prices. Lobsters are higher than ever ; in fact, are about out of the market, as packers get better prices for export than the trade here will pay.

GREEN FRUITS—Apples begin to have quite a large sale. Market is being supplied from Boston. Quality is now fair. In Californian fruits, pears are lower, but still quite high. In all lines there is just a fair sale. Peaches are rather higher, and are better quality. Grapes are but fair quality, and as yet there is light business. Demand for fruit increases very much each year. Oranges have a fair sale at even figures, chiefly for out-of-town trade. Lemons are dull. There is considerable poor stock held. Pines are high. In melons, a fair sale at even figures is reported. Bananas are plentiful. Some native tomatoes have been received, and also some from Ontario. Native cucumbers are also to hand. Strawberries are about done. Raspberries are quite plentiful, as are blueberries. There are large shipments going West. There was quite a large quantity of West Indian limes received by the West Indian steamer this week.

DRIED FRUITS — The sale of spot goods is very light. There is not enough movement in very many lines to make prices. Orders for peels have largely been given. In other lines, except in a few cases, where orders have been given for small lots for early shipment, dealers are advertising prices. In raisins, the prospect is for good crops, particularly is this true of Malaga fruit. This line is not a large one with the trade here, and they are inclined to buy even more lightly. After Christmas they find it very hard to move any large quantity, and so often have stocks left on which they lose money. The trade are well pleased at the idea of being able to buy cleaned currants direct. Evaporated apples are scarce. In onions, even prices rule except for Burmudas, which are offered very low; quality but fair. Peanuts are high. In prunes, the outlook is for high figures. Californian prunes will largely have to be depended upon, Oregon and European prunes being high and scarce.

SUGAR—These is a good steady sale. In granulated, rather firmer figures rule, and the wholesale trade have paid a shade higher for supplies. In yellows, any change was the other way. One or two cars of American were sold, but the slight shade was at once met by the local refinery.

MOLASSES—Just at this season, demand is light. Of the Porto Rico lately received sales from the wharf are but fair, but holders prefer to put into warehouse rather than cut prices. It is looked on as good stock. Very little Barbadoes and other grades are held here.

PRODUCE—Eggs are in light receipt and held high, but price is still too low to tempt shippers to send freely here. There is a good demand at a price. Butter is very plentiful and dull, only best finding any sale. Cheese here are lower than at outside points ; in fact, this a particularly poor market. Twins are chiefly used.

FISH—All grades of fresh fish are very scarce. It is an off season. Shad are very nice, but receipts so far are small. Salmon are about done for the year. In smoked herring, quite firm prices rule. Kippers and finnan haddies are scarce. Dry cod come to hand very slowly, and high prices are the order of the day. Pollock are also marked up. In pickled herrings, sale is light as season is early; fair prices rule. Some very nice pickled shad are offered. We quote as follows : Large and medium dry cod, $3.75 to $4 ; small, $2.50 ; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb. ; smoked herring, 6½ to 7½c. ; halibut, 10 to 12c. per lb. ; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; shad, 10c.;

AMERICAN SUGAR.

We quote in car loads (mixed cars if you wish), Standard Granulated and Bright Yellow Sugars, FREIGHT and DUTY PREPAID, as follows:

Brockville, Berlin, Belleville, Brampton, Brantford, Chatham, Cobourg, Delhi, Guelph, Lindsay, Napanee, Peterboro', Prescott, Port Hope, Port Perry, Simcoe, Sarnia, Stratford, St. Catharines, St. Marys, St. Thomas, Woodstock.—Standard Granulated, $4.55 per hundred ; Bright Yellow, $3.65 per hundred.

Barrie, Collingwood, Goderich, Listowel, Meaford, Orillia, Owen Sound.—Standard Granulated, $4.57½ per hundred ; Bright Yellow, $3.67½ per hundred.

Dundalk, Markdale, Orangeville, Pembroke, Renfrew, Shelburne, Sault Ste. Marie.—Standard Granulated, $4.60 per hundred ; Bright Yellow, $3.70 per hundred.

We will be pleased to quote any other point not mentioned above.

We quote Macdonald's Tobaccos, f.o.b. Toronto, as follows : Brier, 8's, at 61 cents per pound ; Prince of Wales, 8's or 16's, at 63 cents per pound.

boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $2.25 per 100; salmon, 15 to 16c.; pickled herring, $1.75 per half bbl.

PROVISIONS—Pork is rather higher, and beef is firm; sales light. In smoked meats prices are also very strongly held. Lard is rather firmer, but still low. Quite large stocks are held.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—While there has been a rather easier feeling in flour, the week closes with a rather firmer tendency. There has been quite an active sale. Feed keeps very scarce and high. Oatmeal is firmer. In cornmeal, the advance reported last week holds. The local mill is making a better profit than for some time, as, owing to the fire, there is no competing mill and little effective competition from outside. In spite of the firmer position of beans, our trade are not inclined to buy. Sales for sometime have been very quiet. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.65 to $4.80; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.10; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $4.00 to $4.10; cornmeal, $2.25 to $2.30; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10; prime, 95 to $1.00; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50 to $1.75; do., Canadian, $1.80 to $2.25; mammoth clover, 7½ to 8c.; alsike, 7½ to 8c.; red, 7¼ to 7¾c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

C. & E. Macmichael have received another shipment of White's English pickles.

Hart & Greenlow, retail grocers at St. Andrew's, are about to move into enlarged and improved quarters.

The Tourist Association have issued a very handsome illustrated booklet setting forth the attractions of our part of Canada.

The right shad to pickle are the fall shad. They are really caught in the late summer. The first receipts of pickled in ½-bbls. are now being offered by James Patterson.

Two schooners were seized this week by the Customs for smuggling liquor. It was brought from the West Indies by one schooner, and, near the New Brunswick coast, was transferred to another.

THE GROCER is much pleased to note that a cheese board has been organized on Prince Edward Island. Sales are held at Charlottetown. At a sale held last week 3,000 boxes were boarded and sold at from 8¼ to 8 11-16c.

Quite large catches of lobsters are reported at Prince Edward Island, and canners are very busy. The tall tins go to the American market and the flats to England and the continent. It is said the talls are held at about $11 per case.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, July 31, 1899.

TRADE in staple and fancy groceries is good, and demand steady. From week to week the amount of change is small. Sorting orders are good at present, as country houses are preparing for the heavy buying which usually precedes harvest.

CANNED GOODS—The situation continues without change. Buyers are still shy, as many of them think factories will have futures to offer as soon as the contracts made before the association was formed are filled, more especially as the supply of vegetables in particular promises to be large. In the meantime, Winnipeg wholesale men are constantly confronted with quotations from eastern houses to the retail trade here at lower figures than the association are now offering to them. The truth is, the canned goods situation is a sore subject just at present. There is a famine in gem jars. Practically, wholesale houses cannot fill orders for jars which are pouring in upon them.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—New peaches are offering at prices which will warrant their sale here at 12c. The market for apricots has practically advanced ½c. since the opening, and new apricots cannot be sold here for less than from 15½ to 16c. This is, of course, lower than last year's fruit, but it is high for opening, especially as the crop was reported good. This report, however, appears to be incorrect. Evaporated cherries and pitted plums are not yet offering.

CURRANTS — There really is nothing definite in this market, though an advance is still anticipated. No one at present seems to have any very exact information about the Retention bill.

SUGAR—There is no change in price during week although the demand is large and increasing as the preserving season advances: Granulated, 5⅛c.; bright yellow, 4½c.

RICE—Japan is lower in price and of better quality than last year. This will have a tendency to lower the price of other grades. Japan is quoted 4½ to 4⅝c.; B rice, 4⅛ to 4¼c. Sago continues firm, at 4½ to 5c.; tapioca, 5¼ to 5½c.

CEREALS—Rolled oats, $1.85 to $1.90 for 80's; pot barley, $2.25; peas, $2.35.

FLOUR—The demand is not quite so active as it was, and both big milling companies are quoting level prices this week.

BUTTER—The market for creamery is firmer this week. Most of this butter is going to British Columbia. Dealers are quoting 15½c., factories, and, in some odd cases, 16c. has been paid to secure a special lot. The situation of dairy butter has not changed. There is little demand, except for city table use, and the bulk is going into cold storage; 10 to 11c. for very choice dairy is being paid at country points. Nothing but the best will meet with any sale.

CHEESE — The cheese market is firmer and fairly active. Offerings are bought readily at 8 to 8½c. for first-class cheese, but as low as 7c. has been paid for inferior grades.

EGGS—This market is much easier, the demand having very visibly declined. There is some complaint among buyers that the eggs now offering are not up to the standard of the earlier part of the season; 13c. net at country points is the quotation for this week.

GREEN FRUITS—The market was rather bare during the latter half of the week, but with Saturday an improvement in supply was noticeable. The feature of the week was the arrival of one entire car of tomatoes from Illinois. The tomatoes were in fine condition and found ready sale. Blueberries are arriving plentifully, and the price has gone down in proportion. New grapes are also on the market. Messina lemons are almost exhausted, and the market is now depending on the Californian stock. Quotations are $4.50 to $5; oranges, $5.50 to $6. Bananas are arriving in better shape than two weeks ago, and are selling at $2 to $2.50. Watermelons are in most abundant supply at $2.50 to $3.50 per doz., according to weight. Georgia grapes, 75c. per basket; peaches, $1.50 per crate; plums $1.50; pears, $3 to $3.50; apples, $5 per bbl. and $2 per box; blueberries, 7c. per lb.; tomatoes, $1 per crate of four baskets.; new potatoes 75c. per cwt. Very fair supply of native-grown potatoes are now on this market.

PERSONAL MENTION.

One Ton Per Day!

The popularity of . . .

CELLULOID STARCH

is evidenced by the fact that the demand has now reached the above figure.

Though extensively imitated by envious packers, under similarly sounding names, it holds its place as in the market to-day.

It is on the shelves of 90 per cent. of the grocers of Ontario.

NOTE.—In order to put all our Ontario customers on an equal footing as to freight, we have decided to equalize freight with Toronto for towns West of Belleville and West and North of Toronto.

TO DEALERS who bought too hastily in previous seasons we wish to tender a timely word of advice—WAIT till our representative calls on you in a few days with our interesting range of samples, or if YOU CANNOT WAIT write or wire us, and we will arrange to give you an early opportunity to inspect our offering.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

ACCORDING to a report received in New York from one source, cable advices were received saying that the Foo-chow Oolong tea crop is 30 to 40 per cent. less than last year.

Sicilian advices to July 1 state that the weather has not been favorable for blooming, and in several producing districts the prospects of a good olive crop have been spoiled.

Mail advices from Messina state that, notwithstanding the absence of interest from the consuming markets, prices on almonds have gained strength, and, judging by the little disposition shown to make forward sales, the rise is likely to make further progress.

A letter received by a commission house in New York says that there will probably not be over half a pack of corn in the counties between Rochester and Buffalo. Corn less than two feet high has tasselled, from lack of rain. In the vicinity of Utica, however, the prospects are very good.

CANNED SALMON IN LONDON.

Alaska salmon is in better demand, and the market is certainly firmer than during the previous week, although there is no quotable change. There are plenty of inquiries for Fraser river fish at prices slightly below holders' ideas, but as the latter show no signs of giving way the actual business has been disappointingly small. Half-flats have sold more freely at full prices.—Grocers' Journal, July 22.

CALIFORNIAN DRIED APRICOTS.

Regarding dried apricots The California Fruit Grower of July 22 reported new crop to be in very light supply at present, the early districts being about done and the fruit all sold. "The late districts," our contemporary adds, "are hard at it but the demand from canners continues to attract those who have not sold, as $40 to $55 per ton is better than cure cots at present prices, 9½ to 10c. for choice Royals. In the interior buyers bid 8½ to 8¾c. in the sweatbox. The local market is firm at 9¾ to 10c. for shipment, but very little fruit is moving at these prices. The situation is a waiting one. Buyers are waiting for the supply to increase, naturally looking for lower prices. Growers are firm holders, being fully satisfied that the supply is short and higher prices will rule. The East is taking apricots sparingly at present, the heaviest movement being from Southern California, where the crop is an average one and is largely cut and cured. Canners have bought freely in the south, taking whole orchards at $17.50 at the start, gradually running the price up to $30 per ton. Prices paid in the north for fresh apricots, where the crop is very short, have ruled much higher than in the south. Cured apricot shipments from Southern California for the past week amounted to 21 cars."

NEW YORK TEA AUCTION.

At the auction sale held on Wednesday there was only a small offering. Considering the size of the offering, there was a fair attendance of the trade and the average of the prices realized showed a small fractional improvement. The volume of business transacted on the private market has continued of only very moderate proportions; still, dealers in some instances have reported some improvement in the line business, the country trade showing slightly more interest. The market for invoices has been steady, and the general report has been that buyers have been more disposed to make bids, although still naming prices rather low to attract sellers.—New York Journal of Commerce, July 29.

SHORT SALMON PACK ON THE COLUMBIA.

Information given to The Trade Register, of Seattle, Wash., by The Puget Sound Packers' Association indicates that all prices of $1.10 for sockeye have been withdrawn, after selling of limited quantities. The price situation now is exceedingly firm. The Trade Register says: "It is accepted by local brokers and canners that Columbia river is short 125,000 to 200,000 cases, and there it may remain. Fraser river will be very short; its pack to date at the maximum estimate is only 40,000 cases. There is a little fear now that the pack will be short on Puget Sound; to date 100,000 cases is the amount of the pack, and while this is in excess of the pack at this date last year, the end of the second spurt of fish, of the three in the season, is practically over, and the third and last spurt, as usual, is very problematical. This latter is now the only factor in the situation, but as the two first have been so small the final must be unusually heavy to make an ordinary pack. On August 5, of 1898, 150,000 cases had been packed, or, making allowance for earlier date of run this year, slightly in excess of the pack for the present season. It must be borne in mind that 1898's spring pack was only 261,400 cases, against an expected or normal pack of 500,000 cases. Some of the canneries have been practically idle so far, and must rely on their luck until August 14, when the sockeye run by all calculation should end. The matter of prices should be finally settled by that date, also. An important item in this connection is the clean state of the present Pacific Coast spot market against the 600,000 cases spot stocks of the 1897 pack held in the spring of 1898."

MUST PAY NOW.

The wholesale produce dealers of Vancouver, in order to even things up a little and put shipping affairs on the same basis as elsewhere have united in issuing the following circular to the trade:

"Owing to the slender margin of profit upon which the wholesale produce and provision trade is conducted, it becomes necessary for those engaged in the trade to make a charge for the items of cartage and wharfage necessary to place the goods on cars and various steamers. At all other points these charges are included in the rates of freight. This charge will amount for wharfage, 50c. per ton, with a minimum of 15c., and cartage 50c. per ton, with a minimum of 15c. Where both services are performed, the charge will be $1 per ton, with a minimum charge of 30c. The practice of dating ahead is hereby discontinued; all goods will be dated from the time of shipment."

MR. EDDY, OF HULL.

E. B. Eddy, the well-known paper manufacturer of Hull, Que., and Mrs. Eddy, are on their way to the Coast. Eddy is a character. He is a shrewd business man and possesses a strong sense of humor which crops out in the most unexpected places. Once when he was in Italy his works caught fire and the manager cabled him: "Factory on fire. Impossible to save it. What shall we do?" Eddy cabled back: "Let it burn."—The Province, Vancouver.

MANITOBA'S GRAIN FIELDS.

One can gain a good idea of the extensive grain fields of Manitoba by a drive from Brandon to Souris, a distance of about 30 miles. Wheat fields extend away as far as the eye can reach on either side of the trail the whole distance, and, as there are no fences in the district, it looks like one immense field. The crops in this district, it is estimated, will yield, at least, 35 bushels per acre, if the present favorable conditions continue until harvest.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

PROFIT-PAYING GOODS.

IN the last issue of The American Grocer, an advertiser indicated how a profit of 50 per cent. could be made on a staple article, and, at the same time, give the buyer entire satisfaction and increase the reputation of the store. This brings up the question of the retailer's profit, which we desire to discuss in its bearings upon the neighborhood store. The service of the local store is one peculiar to itself. It is, as a rule, of a settled, rather than a transient character. It seeks to meet the desires of a neighborhood or section, and unlike the larger stores does not seek to influence trade from every direction. And yet the trade of the small store is subject to the influence of the big store; the great department octopus, that slaughters prices on well-known proprietrry goods, but exacts a very large profit on their own special lines.

How is this competition to be met? The answer has been given by a number of successful retailers and may be summed up in a sentence: Render a perfect service; keep a neat store; resolve to give your trade satisfaction; pay no attention to the big competitor, and sell profitable goods.

Almost every intelligent grocer can educate his trade to take such goods as he keeps in stock, rather than "everything asked for." That is the policy of every large retailer in New York. If the representative stores are studied, it will be found that each has a distinctive character, and caters for special classes. As one of the largest said: "We cater for the masses; other stores for classes." The aim of the neighborhood store should be to keep every article its trade requires, but not every brand of every article.

For that service the dealer is entitled to a liberal profit, which, in most instances, the people are willing to pay. Why, then, throw a liberal profit, and take the chances of ignoring trade by selling cheap and unprofitable goods? Why cultivate a trade for low-grade goods at a small profit when it is easier to sell high-class goods at a liberal profit? Consumers are more apt to find fault with quality than price, and, if the palate is satisfied will not stop to quibble about cost. Let the rule be to seek to please the taste of consumers; to give satisfaction in quality. In carrying out this policy some retailers advertise: "We guarantee everything we sell to be as represented"; or, "Money returned if goods are not satisfactory."

In that policy is the secret of profit-getting. Have your own standards, and if, perchance, your trade is not inclined to buy first-class articles, study to educate patrons into an appreciation of the differences in quality.

Cheap goods without merit do more damage than can be easily mended. The poorest consumers desire to get value received, and with these traits dominant, there are no good reasons why a retail grocer should not make liberal profits. Be master and not the slave of non-profit-paying goods.—American Grocer.

FARMERS' TEAMS IN NEEPAWA.

I do not know of a better sight than is to be seen in Neepawa, Man., on a Saturday, when the two main streets are crowded with farmers' turnouts. One would travel a long time before he would come to a town where farmers have such good horses. This speaks well for the prosperous condition of the country. It is like a country fair to see the number of people in town. In fact, while the 'bus was carrying me from the station to the hotel, I thought something of the sort must be going on. It must be remembered that the Manitoba and Northwestern railway tried to side-track the town by erecting the station about half a mile away from the town. While driving through the district around Neepawa, I was struck with the richness of the soil and the healthy condition of the wheat, in spite of the vast amount of rain that had fallen.

COULDN'T TELL WHY HE FAILED.

An old-fashioned merchant who had done business in one of the interior towns had failed, according to The Michigan Tradesman. When one of the creditors reached the place it was to find the merchant working hard to figure it all out.

"Lands! but I don't see why I should fail," he kept on saying. "Mebbe, though I didn't collect sharp enough."

"You have a heap of goods here," said the agent, as he looked around.

"Yes, more or less."

"When did you take the last inventory?"

"Inventory? Take everything down?"

"Yes."

"And make out a list?"

"Yes."

"And dust off the shelves and mop the floor?"

"That's it."

"And clean the windows and paint the front of the store?"

"Yes."

"I never went into that. I was going to one day about 15 years ago, but they had a wrestling match in town, and I left the inventory. Mercy on me! but I can't understand why I should fail."

A family of six, in Windsor, Ont., was almost fatally poisoned by eating canned salmon one day last week.

TEA PROSPECTS IN CALCUTTA.

Tea has lately been somewhat of a disappointment to its numerous supporters, chiefly because London has failed to follow the lead here. All reports and figures show that the new crop, which, at the opening sales here, realized such full rates, has not met an encouraging reception at home. This may, to an extent, be owing to the fact that exports to date are so largely in excess of last year—some 5,000,000 lb. ahead; but no doubt too sanguine a view of the situation was taken here, and, as usual, it looks as if Calcutta will suffer and London benefit, for, from the present outlook, the early purchases here will show a smart loss to the operators. All round the weather in the districts has not been favorable for manufacture, and quantity or quality, or both, are likely to suffer.—Correspondent of The Pioneer.

THE CHILD'S LIFE WAS SAVED.

Fliegende Blaetter tells this: "One day I was riding alongside the railroad," said a traveler who had just returned from America, "when an express train came along. Just ahead, a little two-year-old child was standing on the track picking flowers. In a few seconds, the child would be crushed to death by the train. What should I do? Quickly taking my lasso, which I was in the habit of using to catch wild cattle, I whirled it in the air, and, a second later, the locomotive was caught by the trusty rope. One strong pull, and the locomotive lay on its side in the ditch. To be sure, 200 lives were lost, but the child was saved!"

THE THINKING GROCER.

An old, rich, up-town ex-grocer said to me the other day: "When I was in business I would allow no clerk to be without pencil and knife." He furnished them with the pencils, which he bought by the gross, and ofttimes he gave a knife as a present. If a clerk has a knife in his pocket he will not use the cheese or the meat knife to cut the soup greens or trim the cabbage.—Retail Grocers' Advocate.

Verily, these are the kind of grocers who retire with riches. Blessed is the grocer who is also a thinker.—Grocery World.

And a good thing to set a grocer thinking along right lines is his trade paper.

It is proposed by Halifax citizens to purchase the Trent mills, at Chatham, Ont., and the Blenheim mills near there also, with the head office of the company in Halifax. The capital of the company is to be $300,000. W. H. Stevens, president of the Kent mills, has offered to take $100,000 in stock for the Chatham property. The enterprise is expected to go through successfully.

WILL CHARGE CARTAGE.

POOR B.C. HOP CROP.

The late season has had a detrimental effect upon British Columbia's hop crop, which last year resulted so satisfactorily both to growers and shippers. The quality of hops grown in this Province is rated very high, and the numerous areas suitable for their production make hop-growing an interesting subject to those whose efforts are in the line of developing and extending the products of the Province. The fact that hops can be grown so easily is a great point in their favor—they seem to adapt themselves to climate and soil very readily. This spring one rancher put in his cuttings and has a very creditable showing although the season has not been favorable to a successful crop, especially for a first. At Agassiz, where there are some extensive hop gardens, some of the crops are very poor, though one large ranche has an especially good crop.—The Province, Vancouver.

DANISH EGGS AND BACON.

A CONSULAR report on the trade of Denmark in 1898 says: "The export of eggs in 1898 was £110,000, and it is stated in official statistics that Denmark has been able to compete successfully with Russia and Canada on the English market. All efforts have been made, and are being made, to insure delivery of eggs as fresh as possible, and great attention is paid to the packing. Formerly inferior eggs were bought from other countries and repacked, and this caused great damage to the Danish trade, but of late years this pernicious habit has, I may say, been given up.

"The export of bacon has hardly been as profitable, and it is stated to be about 300,000 lb. less than in 1897, partly on account of about 2,000,000 lb. less sale and partly because competition with Irish and Canadian bacon has brought down the prices a good deal lower than they were in 1897. About the same number of pigs were slaughtered as in 1897—about 1,000,000—and prices were steady all the year, except just at the end, when there was an extraordinary fall on the English market, and the slaughtering yards in December sustained great losses. The quality of bacon has been good. Two new slaughtering establishments were opened during 1898 at Viborg and Thisted.

"The bacon salted on the 'Autocure' method, mentioned in 1897, was introduced with success on the English market, and was acknowledged to be one of the best Danish brands. The trial laboratory in Copenhagen has been, and is still, carrying out experiments in the above-mentioned method, and in a second one as well, invented by M. Fjelstrup, the chief point of which is, so it is said, that while the carcase is being emptied of all blood, at the same time a solution of salt is injected to replace it. The export of meat (especially fresh beef) and sausages amounted to £514,000 more than in 1897, and greater efforts are being made to increase the production and improve the quality. The Danish Government sent two delegates in 1898 to the United States to study the various methods employed in slaughtering and curing. The bacon and hams exported were £2,802,555 in value, of which £2,700,000 went to Great Britain."

AN ANOMALOUS CONDITION.

The arrival at Esquimalt of two carloads of stores for H.M.S. Warspite is noted by The Victoria Colonist, partly because the stores consist of tea, Alaska canned salmon and Chicago beef which have been shipped to London and sold by The Lipton Company to be reshipped to the North Pacific station of Her Majesty's navy. To aggravate the case the goods came by rail through the United States, as The Colonist remarks, "by way of drawing closer the bond between the Mother Country and the colonies." The goods could undoubtedly have been bought better in British Columbia. Imperialism, like charity, should begin at home, and the action of the Admiralty in this matter very justly deserves criticism. On three counts the charge could be laid; the goods were largely United States manufacture; they were shipped to England, and then shipped back, and were transferred over a United States railway in preference to a more expeditious Canadian line. British Columbia wholesale merchants would be pleased to tender in competition for the supply of just such provisions for Her Majesty's battleships, and, being patriotic of the heart, not of the mouth, there would be no chance of "embalmed beef" such as "loyal" United States merchants supplied to their soldier boys in Cuba. Heavy transportation charges twice across the Atlantic and continent would also be eliminated, so that, leaving out the question of fostering Imperialism and talking straight business, it would seem as if the Lords of the Admiralty (reputed to be business men) had made a mistake. The caterers of the British Columbian coast cities supply the bread and other articles which Jack consumes, and no complaints have been made. Why not give them a chance to supply other lines as well?—The Province, Vancouver.

A DRAWBACK TO BUSINESS.

"WHAT do you consider the greatest drawback a grocer can have?" was asked of a prominent merchant recently.

"The greatest drawback," he replied, "that any retail or wholesale man can have is to believe that the world does not move; in other words, to have it firmly implanted in his mind that the way business was done 10, 20 or 50 years ago must necessarily be the way it should be done to-day. As a matter of fact, the smart American or the progressive Englishman knows that the world does move, and there is lots of absolute proof that the man who is going to conduct his business on the same lines pursued by his father will die of dry rot. There are too many people in business to-day who are very anxious to stem the flowing tide, who wish to keep back the tide with a broom, and, if a demand is created for a certain article, they look on that article with enmity. It may pay them a fair profit—a reasonable profit—but not the profit that was obtained very many years ago, when the consumption was small, but a profit that is warranted by the circumstances of to-day. Still, he keeps looking back to old times and old methods, and, instead of supplying the consumer cheerfully with what he demands, he does so with reluctance. It appears in his manner and is very visible to the purchaser, although he himself may not be aware of it. If a merchant shows disapproval of any kind of goods before his clerks, then they will show the same disapproval before customers. The merchant may be diplomat enough to conceal his dissatisfaction when selling, but the clerk is not. The consumer soon finds out that the grocer does not like selling the article, and goes to another place for it. To meet with success to-day, the grocer has got to supply the demand and do so cheerfully, and put no obstacle in the way of the goods that meet with popular approbation.

"A young clerk in a prominent store the other day was asked: 'Well, how is so-and-so going?' 'Oh,' he replied, 'We are selling all we want to of it.' There is no doubt he took this tone from his employer and he felt that it was his duty to prevent the sale of the article. Therefore, this young man was an obstacle in the way of that business, because that business was there to supply the demand of the people and not to show approval or disapproval of goods the consumer asked for. Business cannot be done successfully with that spirit. See the amount of time that is wasted by opposing the sale of an article which meets with favor. If the same energy was put into increasing the business it would make the man successful. And, after all, this is only the old-fashioned notion; the notion that gets into some people's heads that business should be conducted the same way to-day as it was 50 years ago. There are some general principles in business that, if deviated from, are sure to bring disaster. but the methods under which goods are sold have changed and are changing. To be up with the times the retail or wholesale man must devote his attention to serving the public with what they want. The men who pursue this course will meet with success, where the old fogie wears out his broom in trying to stem the tide that is resistless."

THE INDIFFERENT GROCER.

THE indifferent grocer, remarks The American Grocer, lacketh the chief element of success—enthusiasm. He goeth about his work without having his heart enlisted in his work. He waiteth for the public to come, regarding it folly to make any effort for patronage. Is it not enough he asks, that I have bought such things the people need; stored them in a convenient place, and remain here to distribute as may be required? His standard of quality is not influenced by consumers who must accept such goods as he selects and offers or go without. The tea, coffee, butter, and other foods which are deemed good enough for his use, are, in his eyes, good enough for anybody else. His avowed policy finds expression in the oft repeated saying: "If they don't like my stuff, they can leave it alone." His stock may take care of itself, it being a matter of indifference whether it is damaged by dirt, insects, excessive heat or cold.

He is equally indifferent to appearances whether it pertains to his person, his helpers or his store.

He lacks method or system, and the result is a wretched service which he allows to worry no one but his customers.

His indifference to meeting his obligations is quite as pronounced as in other matters. His idea of maintaining a good credit finds expression in such sayings, as "Let them wait for their money until I get ready to pay it."

He never studies markets; has no use for a trade paper; never takes an inventory; is careless about insurance; in short, is indifferent to every feature of business life and drags along until the sheriff closes his doors, or he is forced to quit because the community has become as indifferent to his success as himself. The indifferent grocer is a barnacle; an evil that attaches itself upon the commercial world and the only remedy for which is arbitrary removal.

ST. JOHN, N.B., GROCERS' PICNIC.

THE grocers of St. John, N.B., held their annual picnic on July 25 to Nauwigewauk, and it was the largest and most successful ever held under the auspices of the association.

In the morning, two trains, carrying about 900 people, left the city, accompanied by the City Cornet Band. A huge tent, 150 x 50 feet, was made into a comfortable dining-room, while, here and there over the grounds, booths were set up, from which refreshments of all kinds were dispensed.

The large dancing pavilion was well patronized from the commencement. Suitable music was provided in the morning by the City Cornet Band. The crowd, which was supplemented by a stream of visitors from the surrounding districts, wandered over the grounds until dinner-time, when there was a general scramble for places in the large refreshment tent, or for suitable places on the grounds where private lunches could be disposed of.

Shortly after noon, the committee in charge understood that certain parties outside of the grounds were offering for sale beverages which would inebriate, as well as cheer. Fearing that this would lead to a disturbance, a message was sent to St. John asking for extra police force. So, when the afternoon train left for the picnic grounds, it had on board, besides the 1,100 picnickers, a small squad of police. The fact was, of course, noticed, and quickly spread around, and it evidently lost nothing in being retold. Rumors of riot and destruction were afloat all the afternoon. C. W. Weyman, Scott Act inspector for King's county, heard that intoxicating liquors were being sold at or near Nauwigewauk, and with several constables appeared on the scene, but nothing was found out of the way.

When the afternoon delegation arrived, there were altogether on the grounds about 2,500 people, and in handling them not a hitch occurred, other than several mild scraps.

The baseball game which was to have been played between the Primroses and a Hampton team proved a fizzle, and the Hamptons were pitted against a picked nine, which they took into camp without much difficulty. A long list of sports was carried out.

At 25 minutes past 7 o'clock the first contingent, consisting of a train of 15 cars, reached the city, where it was met by a large crowd, probably influenced by the stories afloat of a disturbance. The pacific news brought down by the picnicers seemed rather to be disappointing than otherwise.

As the time for the arrival of the second train drew near, the depot and shed became crowded with people. In fact, such a number has not been seen there for years, About 10 o'clock the second train arrived, having 20 passenger coaches completely filled.

The train service was in charge of Robt. Ross, station agent, and there is a great deal of credit due him and his associates for the admirable manner in which the huge crowd was handled. It was the largest picnic that has gone any distance from St. John in 15 years.

The chairmen of the different committees who had the affair in charge were: T. McPherson, general chairman; J. Sinclair, of the ticket committee; W. G. Estabrooks, of the refreshment committee; John Case, of the police committee, and Frank Potts, of the sports committee.

PICNIC OF THE LONDON GROCERS.

The excursion of the Retail Grocers' Association, of London, Ont., to the Falls, on July 26, was a decided success. The attendance was large, the weather delightful, and nothing occurred to mar the day's pleasure. Much credit is due the energetic president, Mr. J. C. Trebilcock, and the untiring secretary, Mr. E. Sutton, and the committee for the splendid arrangements for the day's outing. The train left the M.C.R. station at 7 a.m., and returning, reached London at midnight. In addition to the 533 passengers from London, were 125 from St. Thomas.

JAM MAKING IN GREAT BRITAIN.

It is estimated that in jam making and the allied industry of confectionery manufacture, and those cognate branches of condiment production which result in the output of pickles and preserved meats and fish, some millions of capital have been invested. The various kinds of business are frequently carried on, partly side by side, partly by a kind of in-and-out arrangement, in the same establishments. While some large fortunes have, doubtless, been made by men engaged in these combined trades, there does not seem to be any reason to suppose that the rates of profit are excessively high. But they enjoy some special advantages. In the first place must be mentioned the immense home demand for their goods—increasing, probably, even more than in proportion to the growth of the population—and a high degree of exemption from the danger of foreign competition. To these considerations must be added the fact that British jam, confectionery, and preserved animal foods find an extensive sale in many parts of the world, so much so that some of our large houses manufacture almost entirely for export, and others have special factories devoted to the supply of the foreign market. This condition of things is probably due in no small measure to the good quality of the products of those whom we may call the British sweet and savory manufacturers, and to the cheapness with which they are enabled to dispose of the first branch of their wares, by reason of the low price they pay for sugar. Whatever may be the effect of the Indian tariff, there seems not much likelihood of any fiscal changes in this country by which the position will be injured.—Grocers' Journal, London.

Capital and Surplus, $1,500,000. Offices throughout the civilized world.

Executive Offices: Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway, New York City, U.S.A.

THE BRADSTREET COMPANY gathers information that reflects the financial condition and the controlling circumstances of every seeker of mercantile credit. Its business may be defined as of the merchants, by the merchants, for the merchants. In procuring, verifying, and promulgating information, no effort is spared and no reasonable expense considered too great, that the results may justify its claim as an authority on all matters affecting commercial affairs and mercantile credit. Its offices and connections have been steadily extended, and it furnishes information concerning mercantile persons throughout the civilized world. Subscriptions are based on the service furnished, and are available only by reputable wholesale, jobbing and manufacturing concerns, and by respectable and worthy financial, fiduciary and business corporations. Specific terms may be obtained by addressing the Company at any of its Offices. Correspondence invited.

Your Profit in Selling Salt

depends for its real value upon the length of time that you hold the trade of the customer who buys it of you. The permanent customer pays you the biggest profit in the end. Salt is a small item, but it is just one of these "small items" that holds a customer's trade.

Windsor Salt

is absolutely free from all impurities—it is a free-running, white, perfectly crystalized Salt that never varies from the one high standard that has made it famous as the "Salt of Quality." With it you can hold the trade of the most particular woman that ever lived. Leading wholesalers sell it.

MUSHROOM BRUSHMAKERS.

It would be interesting to learn what has become of the number of Mushroom Brushmakers who have of late years come and gone like the "Ships that pass in the night." They make their appearance, flooding the market with a lot of inferior goods, demoralizing trade, and then disappear —usually sadder but wiser for their experience. Notwithstanding this they still spring up like the proverbial mushroom and with sublime assurance call themselves Brush Manufacturers.

Real Brushmaking requires a technical knowledge gained only by years of experience, and a safe rule to follow is to buy your Brushes from old-established manufacturers who are in the business to stay.

An idea of what real Brushmaking means may be gained from our catalogue of goods showing the large variety of qualities and sizes required to meet the demands of the public. Every dealer of experience knows that he must have a large assortment of brushes for his customers to choose from, as what will suit one will not suit another.

Our works have been established in Toronto for over 43 years, we have a personal knowledge of every detail of manufacturing Brushes, our employees are thoroughly experienced in their various departments, we have ample capital for the requirements of our business, and through long years of practical buying in the world's best markets we are in a position to secure the highest possible value in our raw materials.

We therefore caution the trade not to be misled by high-sounding claims of Mushroom Brushmakers and accumulate a lot of stock which is not suited to the demands of the trade and which they may have to dispose of at a loss later on.

Every Brush we turn out we guarantee to be exactly as represented and our name and brand is a guarantee to all dealers handling them.

Dollars and Cents!

Sentiment doesn't go in business—it's the dollars and cents profit that you are after. You can't make a permanent profit unless you hold your trade—quality counts more than quantity. I believe that the fact that my oldest cigar customers are my best ones goes a long way in proving that they are making PERMANENT profits, because they are holding their trade and adding to it constantly.

When I speak of

Payne's Cigars

I refer particularly to my "Pharaoh" ten-cent cigar and my "Pebble" five-cent cigar, because I believe they are leaders in their lines. But I make many other brands, too—let me quote you prices or send you samples.

THE BARGAIN COUNTER DELUSION.

A LOCAL organization, known as the Consumers' League of Chicago, has undertaken to show to the buying public the real conditions which exist in department stores.

Recently, Miss Annie Marion MacLean, of the University of Chicago, took a place as saleswoman in two such institutions, and her observations were published in the last number of The American Journal of Sociology.

Amongst other things said in this article, which speaks for itself, are these :

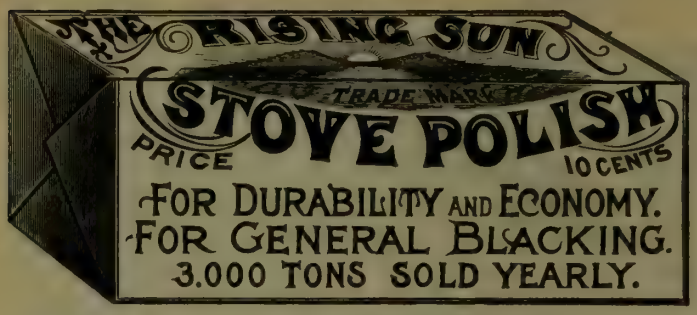
"The difficulty of finding employment was not so great as might be supposed. Owing to the holiday rush and the consequent need of large reinforcements to the original help, the employers were not insistent on experience as a requisite for the successful applicant. However, it was not until several visits had been made that I was promised a position at $3 a week. Work was to begin the following Monday, which would give me just two weeks of the Christmas trade. Employment being promised, it seemed desirable to engage board in some home for workingwomen ; for the environment which such a place would provide gave promise of the best results. I was fortunate in finding a most satisfactory place not far from the heart of the city, and there I went as a workingwoman.

"This home is deserving of more than passing mention. It provides board and lodging, together with the use of pleasant parlors and library, to workingwomen under 30 years of age for $2.50 per week, if they are content to occupy a single bed in a dormitory. These dormitories are thoughtfully planned and accommodate from 10 to 15 each. A large proportion of the 65 residents were saleswomen, and they, in the course of conversation, gave me much useful information. All classes of girls were there, and most of them received very low wages."

On beginning work Monday morning, Miss MacLean found that one of the difficult things was keeping track of the prices, which were frequently changed during the day. The penalty for selling under price was immediate discharge, while selling above price met with no disapproval.

"Every morning there were special sales. Sometimes articles that had sold for $1 would be reduced to 98c., with much blowing of trumpets, while, again 25c. articles would be offered at a bargain for 40c. 'to-day only.' But we soon learned what things were to be 'leaders' from day to day, and the manager's brief instructions each morning were sufficient to keep us posted on the bargains. The charms of the bargain counter vanish when one has been behind the scenes and learned something of its history. The humor of it seemed to impress the clerks, for often knowing winks would be exchanged when some unwary customer was being victimized."

In this store no seats were provided for the employes.



"Oh, the weariness of the first morning ! The hours seemed days. 'Can I possibly stand up all day ?' was the thought uppermost in my mind, for I soon learned from my companions that abusive language was the share of the one who was found sitting down. Later in the week I found this to be true. One of the girls who was well nigh exhausted sat a moment on a little table that was for sale—there was not a seat of any kind in the room, and the only way one could get a moment's rest was to sit on the children's furniture that was for sale on one part of the floor. The manager came along and found the poor girl resting. The only sympathy he manifested was to call out in rough tones : 'Get up out of that, you lazy huzzy ! I don't pay you to sit around all day !' Under such circumstances it is small wonder that the stolen rests were few. By night, the men as well as women, were limping wearily across the floor, and many sales were made under positive physical agony.

"The days in the store were much the same, with their endless fatigue. At times the rush would be great ; then again we would have nothing to do but stand around and talk. Thus we became surprisingly well acquainted in a short time. We talked about our wages and compared index sheets on every possible occasion. Some sold very little, and at the end of the week had no more than $3. The mental anguish of some of the girls, when they saw at night how small their sales had been, is impossible to describe. One may elect to become a worker, and endure the hardships of the toil, and live the life of the laborer, and receive the same starvation wages, but he can never experience the abject wretchedness of not knowing where to turn when the last dollar is gone. Three dollars a week to a girl alone in the city means starvation or shame."

Miss MacLean emphasizes the importance of bringing the saleswoman's wages "up to a point where she can live without the wages of sin."

"All the hardships of the shop girl's life fade into insignificance before this grave danger she has to face. Adequate support is the first necessity. Improved sanitary conditions and opportunity for rest may well take a second place. They can be secured by legislation ; the other must come from united action on the part of the buyers and the organization of the saleswomen themselves. The trades' union spirit should be fostered and the workingwomen taught the power of united effort."

FISHERIES OF NORWAY.

AMONG the cod and herring fisheries in the Lofoden Islands, off the northwest coast of Norway, it is said that as many as 7,000 vessels and 35,000 or 40,000 men are frequently engaged during the busiest time, which is during the latter part of March. About $175,000 or $200,000 worth of fishing tackle of various kinds is lost or rendered useless each year in these fisheries. There are a number of very unusual practices followed among the Lofoden fishermen. One of these is their provision for medical care. There are generally seven doctors appointed each year to look after the men engaged in this trade. These physicians attend about 8,000 or 9,000 patients every year, and there are often between 500 and 600 in the hospitals. Medical attendance is supplied to these fishermen free of charge, the doctors being paid out of the medical fund, which is kept up by levying a tax on all fish and fish products exported. There are several clergymen stationed permanently in different parts of this district, and four State chaplains are in attendance during the fishing season. Five libraries have been established, as well as four night schools, and, during the last few years, many fisherermen's homes have been opened in different places. There is an insurance company in the Lofoden Islands, and upon the payment of about 25 cents a year, a fisherman can have his life insured for $53 or $54 (200 kroner). The estimated number of fish caught among these islands every year is 15,000,000 to 18,000.000 cod, and 25,000,000 medium-sized fish, the value of which when bought from the fishermen, is $1,500,000 to $2,000,000.—Commerce.

CANNED TOMATOES IN THE U. S.

The Baltimore Trade says : "On account of the favorable prices now quoted for tomatoes, and the general belief among packers and brokers that the market is almost entirely cleaned up of spot goods, packers are making every effort to begin the canning of tomatoes, but we believe that the amount that they will thus secure will be very small and obtained at high cost. It is worthy of note that even with the offering of these new goods upon the market, the general tone of the quotations have strengthened for tomatoes ; it has proven conclusively that the call for canned tomatoes is for consumption, which is depending upon an empty market. The anomaly in peaches apparently continues. While there is virtually no fruit upon the trees in the known peach regions there still come to town daily odds and ends of baskets of fruit to this market, which, on account of their small size and half ripe condition, bring only fair prices, but serve to make a quotation that would indicate that there is a peach crop in sight. Some of the packers have picked up what they could of these arrivals, and have been putting up seconds and pies with them. We would not be surprised if some ambitious dealers were willing to furnish labels and accept them as standards, when peeled and having a little syrup on them ; but even in the years of the best peach yield the peaches that come to market in baskets in July, in this section of the world, are never fit for anything but very ordinary seconds."

AGREED ON ONE THING.

A representative of The "Salada" Tea Company, while on the way to Halifax by boat the other day, became acquainted with a commercial traveler representing a large hardware concern in the Maritime Provinces, and was asked what firm he was representing. He answered : "Salada."

"Well," his acquaintance said, "that tea is all right ; we use it at home. Why I know we use it is rather curious. Last summer, our family, with several other families, made up a party and went camping on one of the islands near Chester. When they came to unpack the provisions, was found that each family had brought a supply of 'Salada' tea. It caused much amusement at all of them making the same choice, and it was remarked that if they all agreed on everything else as they did in regard to 'Salada,' there would not be much quarreling."

STARTING IN VANCOUVER.

The advance of the season does not seem to lessen the procession of business men from other towns and cities of the Dominion and elsewhere who are making their way to Vancouver to establish themselves on the ground floor and grow up with the city. There will soon be no possibility of getting in on the third storey, much less on the ground floor.

Among the many new firms which have been announced during recent weeks as about to commence business in Vancouver in a short time are the wholesale firm of Gault Bros., of Montreal, and the British Columbia Stationery Co., Limited, a new wholesale firm. A number of other wholesale warehouses have opened this season including a branch of the house of G. F. & J. Galt, Winnipeg, one of the best wholesale firms not only in the West but in Canada.

New retail firms are numerous also and while it might be thought that business did not require any further increase, all seem to to find room and to make things go.

The most recent announcement of an addition to the retail firms of the city is that of Geo. Clements, merchant tailor, Winnipeg, who will shortly establish a branch in this city, having secured premises in the new Johnston & Kerfoot block on Hastings street. The firm, which have a first-class reputation in Winnipeg where they have been in business for many years, will open in their newly acquired premises just as soon as they are completed.— The Province.

CUTTING PRICES IN VANCOUVER.

THE same old trouble agitates the retail grocers of the city just at present. Someone began to cut prices, and now the fat is in the fire again. All sorts of ridiculous prices are quoted, and the very worst trouble of the whole situation is that those who wish to continue the sensible policy of selling a fair article at a fair price are compelled to fall in line, or lose trade. For instance, 20 lb. of granulated sugar for $1 is practically a current quotation by retailers, and customers are not slow to avail themselves of the price. The wholesale quotation by the sugar refinery is $5.25 per cwt., so that a very simple operation of arithmetic will show how big a fool the grocer is who sells at the price quoted and pretends to try and do a fair business.

It may be asked unthinkingly why grocers should not cut prices or quote any price they choose, as dry goods merchants and those in other lines are in the habit of quoting and advertising slaughter sales at rates that would give the grocers fits. The explanation is simple. Prices on staple dry goods and similar lines are not nearly so subject to fluctuation as the goods sold by grocers and provision merchants. Then, too, it is popularly believed, whether true or not, that other lines have a much better margin of profit than groceries. Many of the articles sold for food are subject to frequent market changes, and, as a consequence, a fixed price is difficult to obtain—the price must vary with the cost. The problem of living has no greater factor than the food supply, and its cost is, of course, a question of serious import to the masses of the people. Add to this the keen competition in the grocery and provision trade and it will readily be believed that there is not a princely fortune to be made as a retail grocer.

These considerations have made it necessary for grocers always to try and have uniform prices. In Vancouver, the Retail Grocers' Association has fought a hard battle in the struggle to have business conducted on a fair basis—no attempt has been made to put prices up, but merely to prevent the absurd and unbusinesslike practices that are now going on. The association is to meet again and see if it is possible, out of the present condition of wreck, to build a structure that will stand.—The Province, Vancouver.

AN IDEAL DRINK.

Under this heading, The West End states that barley water made with Robinson's patent barley is obtainable at the leading London clubs gratuitously, and this authority argues that if aristocratic clubmen can call for barley water it is good enough for anyone. Hitherto barley water took hours to make, but by using Robinson's patent barley it is made in five minutes, hence its popularity. It has always been known as a splendid nutritious drink for invalids, but the great army of cyclists recognize it as the most cooling drink, hence it is equally acceptable for lawn tennis parties, golf meetings, cricket matches, etc. Keen, Robinson & Co. having ascertained that barley water made with Robinson's patent barley is a specific for stone have presented a quantity of their preparation to the Stone Hospital, which has been thankfully accepted. Considering that it is pleasant, nutritious and cooling, it should be the drink for general adoption in summer and after.

Samples of the Robinson's patent barley can be obtained of Frank Magor & Co., Montreal, sole agents for Canada.

The Kaslo correspondent of The Province, Vancouver, says: "S. McEachern and A. P. McDonald have gone to Moyle City with a general stock of merchandise, and will establish a store at that place in the expectation of doing considerable business."

THE TEA PORT OF HANKOW.

HANKOW, so long the chief source of supply of British tea-drinkers, with 15 or 20 tea steamers in port at a time loading for London, has undergone a change in this decade. As Chinese teas deteriorated in quality and tea farmers became more careless and dishonest, Indian and Ceylon teas began to win favor, and, with the enormous increase of production in those two British dependencies, Chinese tea has lost its place in the British market, furnishing only one-ninth of England's import in 1896. At that same time began the general awakening of Russia. At Hankow the Russian has come, and to stay, and the shadow of the Muscovite is over it all. The Russian is not only established at the gates of China, but also at its very heart, the invasion and absorption being as remarkable in this British settlement at Hankow as anywhere in Korea or Manchuria. Hankow is fast becoming a Russian city or outpost, a foothold soon to be a stronghold in the valley of the Yangtsze, which China has given her word shall never be alienated to any power but England. Some alarmists may even view the Siberian merchants at Hankow as emissaries, like those armed Russian monks who first established themselves in Caucasus and Asia Minor in stronghold monasteries. Although the Russians have their own concession at Hankow, they do not care to build upon it and live there, amenable then to Russian laws and consular jurisdiction, to Russian restrictions and espionage, and the consulate and a few warehouses were the only buildings on the Russian concession in 1896. The Russians prefer the laws and the order of the British concession, crowding in upon it at every opportunity, competing for any house that comes into the market, and building closely over former lawns and garden space. They compete with and outbid the few British tea merchants who remain in these days of active Russian trade aggression. Only one tea steamer took a cargo to London in 1896; two more British firms closed out and left Hankow that year; and, still more significant, only one pony showed the colors of the one British racing stable at the autumn races. In the retail shops prices are quoted and bills made out as often in rubles as in taels or dollars, and the Russians have gradually assumed an air of ownership, of seigniorial rights, as complete as if they held the lease or diplomatic deeds to the place for 99 years.

This great tea market of foreign Hankow is a city of six weeks, only the heads of the great hongs, or their managers, occupying their residences from May 1 to the middle of June each year. Leaf teas are fired and shipped until September, and even later, and brick tea is made until January, but the choice tea is all looked to in those few weeks. * * * With all the machines invented and used on tea plantations in India and Ceylon, a drier has only once been used in China. All attempts towards greater care and cleanliness in preparation have been as vain as attempts towards introducing machinery at the tea farms themselves. Not declining trade or prices —for the tea trade is not nearly what it was eight years ago—can stimulate the tea growers to any change, and only when the whole country is open to foreign trade and residence will each village or valley have its own tea factory to cure and pack the tea for final shipment on the spot.—Century.

TWO RED-HEADED GROCERS.

A couple of retail grocers in the West are quarreling in print over the point as to which one is entitled to the honor of being called the "Red-headed Grocer." There are red-haired grocers elsewhere, but they are not so proud of their auburn locks that they want to fight with people who are envious of the coloring of the locks.—New York Merchants' Review.

THE PRESERVATION OF EGGS.

The results of a series of experiments on the preservation of eggs are published in The Berliner Markthallen Zeitung. Fresh eggs were treated by 20 different methods in June, and, after being allowed to remain eight months, were examined at the end of February. In only three of the methods employed did all the eggs remain sound. These were (1) covering with vaseline, (2) preserving in lime water, (3) preserving in a solution of silicate of potash. The treatment with vaseline, however, is a tedious business ; submersion in lime water induces a disagreeable flavor, and the use of silicate of potash renders the shell extremely brittle, so that it is expedient to pierce it with a needle before putting it into boiling water for cooking. Whichever be the process employed, it is desirable that only non-fertile eggs should be subjected to the process of preservation. Twenty per cent. of the eggs went bad that had been (1) covered with lard, (2) preserved in wood ashes, (3) varnished with shellac, (4) put in a mixture of boric acid and silicate of potash, or (5) treated with permanganate of potash. Of eggs varnished with silicate of potash, or with collodion, 40 per cent. turned out bad. Of eggs that had been plunged for 12 to 15 seconds in boiling water, or immersed in a solution of alum, or in a solution of salicylic acid, 50 per cent. were found to be bad. Of eggs rubbed with salt, or preserved in bran, or covered with paraffin, or treated with a mixture of salicylic acid and glycerine, 70 per cent. went bad. Of eggs wrapped in paper 80 per cent., and of eggs kept in salt water 100 per cent. were found to be bad.

CANADIAN BUTTER IN ENGLAND.

In an article in The Grocers' Journal, London, England, dealing with the importation of butter into Great Britain, appears the following: "Canada has put forth great efforts this season to establish a firm hold on British estimation, and, with prices on a paying basis, is placing herself in line with those clients who are among the giants of the trade. The market has been favorable to the seller for a little while now, but the disappearance of Australian is not so keenly felt as it might be had this country not so many other sources to go to."

A GOOD WASHING TABLET.

There are many washing compounds on the market—some good ; some bad. One of the really good ones is the new "Queen City" tablets, which The Queen City Oil Co., Limited, Toronto, is putting on the market. In addition to their labor and wear saving qualities, these tablets have the quality of imparting to the clothes a soft smooth finish that makes ironing easier.

Full directions for their use are given with all tablets, and dealers should make it a point to always impress buyers with the fact that the best results cannot be obtained unless these directions are followed to the letter.

TEN-CENT CHEESE.

THE advancing tendency in cheese has continued with increased strength during the past week, and at this writing prices are from ⅜ to ½c. per lb. above where they were eight or ten days ago, 10c. having been paid at country points for cheese.

While the conservative ones admit that the situation warrants a higher price for cheese this year than last, they are inclined to doubt if the change in conditions is sufficient to warrant a difference of 2½c. per lb. between the two years, which is what the present cost price in the country represents.

The most bullish factor in the situation is the admitted shortage of the home production in Great Britain, which is estimated to be 5 per cent. shorter than last year. This would mean 240,000 boxes at the very least, and when it is considered that there is no stock of old imported cheese to be consumed in Great Britain, as was the case last year, the statistical position will be seen to be very strong. But whether the future course of the market will warrant the above advance in the cost price this year is difficult to say. It is worthy of note in this connection that the rate of consumption has been steady, for, despite higher prices and heavy shipments, there has been no accumulation of stock at leading centres in Great Britain. The stock declared in Liverpool on July 31 last makes this perfectly clear, the figure on that date being only 42,000 boxes, against 49,000 for the same date in 1898.

The exports to date from Canada are 880,912 boxes, against 693,297 for the same period in 1898, an increase of 187,615, or almost 25 per cent.

That, in the face of this enormous increase in imports, there should be less accumulation of stock at Liverpool and other leading points testifies that the movement into consumption has been steady and uninterrupted by the higher prices. Whether it will continue so with cheese costing 10c. and more at the factory in Canada is another matter, which only the future course of the market will demonstrate.

But, whether it will or not, the factorymen are so closely sold up that it will take strong reasons to make them let go of cheese at any material concession from current cost until more stock has gathered on their shelves.

This means that, unless they get their own figures, there will be a deadlock between buyers and sellers during the course of the next fortnight or three weeks.

CEYLON TEA SHIPMENTS TO AMERICA.

Direct shipments of tea from Ceylon to the American continent continue to increase.

From a tea circular dated Colombo, June 24, it is learned that the shipments to America from January 1 to that date aggregated 1,085,451 lb., against 800,010 for the same period last year.

The total to all countries was also larger, being 55,971,424 lb. for 1899, and 55,400,573 lb. for 1898. Of the total, 45,233,566 lb. went to Great Britain, against 44,604,546 lb. for the same period in 1898. Germany increased her purchases from 131,831 lb. in 1898 to 196,843 lb. in 1899; Russia, from 1,198,555 lb. to 1,700,164 lb.; China, from 402,112 lb. to 450,188 lb. Australia, Africa and "other countries" showed decreases.

THE PRICE-CUTTING EVIL.

IT is the height of folly for merchants, either wholesalers or retailers, to cut prices. When at stocktaking, or any other time, there is a line of goods or the balance of a line of goods which promises to remain on the shelves, a merchant is warranted in reducing his figures to a price which will induce its sale. Indeed, it is the wisest thing he can do. But that is not cutting prices. It is only putting the market price on the goods, for the market price of an article is the figure at which it can be sold, whether the reduction made to reach that condition be 10 or 50 per cent.

Cutting prices is marking the selling price below the market value.

Grocers sell sugar, hardwaremen nails, drygoodsmen cottons at or below cost when the condition of the market demands that they should do otherwise.

But the trouble is that it is not the condition of the market that is their chart or compass.

It is the selfish desire to do all the business themselves and compel their competitors to go out of business.

The result is not only bad feeling, but bad profits for all concerned. You cannot plant thorns and produce grapes.

Instead of cutting prices to get business it would be infinitely better if merchants, both wholesalers and retailers, would stand together for better prices.

It is not necessary to have elaborate machinery for doing this. All that is wanted is that there shall be an understanding as to the margin of the selling price above the buying price.

Such an agreement would not make competition any the less; but it would prevent or diminish illegitimate competition.

Competition proper is the life of trade, for it brightens and sharpens business and induces improved methods therein. It is competition improper, like cutting prices, which kills business.

THE CURRANT MARKET OPENS.

A cable advice received on Wednesday announced the opening of the currant market in Greece. The first shipment of new fruit, it was stated, would be made on August 18.

The price of new fruit is about ½c. per lb. above the 1898 product.

THE CANNED SALMON SITUATION UNCHANGED.

A MOST unsatisfactory condition of affairs still exists in regard to the salmon canning industry on the Fraser river.

Malcolm & Windsor, Limited, Steveston, B.C., write THE CANADIAN GROCER, under date of August 2, as follows: "No change for the better in the salmon situation has taken place since we last addressed you. The run—if, indeed, the salmon may be said to be running at all, is still very poor, and the only item of encouraging news is the fact that the price has been reduced to 25c. per fish, by the canners utilizing the small amount of common sense seemingly left them still. The opinion is freely expressed on the American side, both in the papers and otherwise, that the sockeye run for this season is over. * * * Though the season is well advanced, there are not wanting both canners and fishermen who think a fair run is still within the range of possibility, though, even if this should turn out correct, the total pack of the river is bound to be a small one. There are only 17 days left in this season for fishing, and the chances of a really heavy run now are somewhat remote. Taking the present situation, buyers of Fraser river sockeye at anything like $4.50 are to be congratulated on their purchases."

The Province, Vancouver, under date of August 3, is equally positive in regard to the failure of the salmon canning industry on the Fraser. It says:

"Up to this date, indications are that the sockeye salmon run of 1899 is to be recorded as another dismal failure. Last night's catch did not average over 20 to the boat and for some time the actual average all over the river has been very low, varying slightly day to day, but never rising to even a fairly good catch.

"Many fishermen, even old-timers, are thoroughly discouraged and are talking of throwing up the sponge in disgust, while some have already quit the river. These do not hesitate to say that the season is practically over and that there is no chance of any salmon run now. Even with a good run, say they, the catch would not be great for the fish would never get into the Fraser, the salmon traps and seines in the Gulf just off the mouth of the river and south of the international boundary being an effective fence through which it is almost a physical impossibility for the fish to break."

A Puget Sound paper has the following to say in regard to the situation on the Fraser:

"The usually immense Fraser river pack is, this year, represented by a row of ciphers, and a cloud of bankruptcy and debt and discouragement hangs over the great canning establishments of British Columbia. Early in the season they hoped for the best, but their lawmakers had made war on the big industry in some respects and gave it a start down hill; labor was scarce and high-priced, and fishermen could not be found to attend the nets as in other years, and then the salmon refused to appear in any numbers, and the cup of financial woe of the Canadian cannerymen was running over. They sent steamers down here, one after another, offering 25 to 30c., and even more, for salmon, but there were none for sale. Their canneries were closed and the pack amounts to nothing."

A fisherman is authority for the statement that traps on the Gulf off Point Roberts number 300. One Seattle firm has so many traps that it employs five tugs to attend to them and take away the fish.

Some doubt has arisen, however, as to whether the traps on the United States side of the Gulf are the only cause of the poor catch on the Fraser, for it seems that the creeks tributary to the Fraser are teeming with salmon. In regard to this particular feature, it is worth while quoting from The Province, Vancouver, of August 5:

"Passengers arriving from the east on to-day's Imperial Limited," says The Province, "were very much surprised to hear that the mouth of the river was not teeming with millions of fish, for they say that all the small streams tributary to the Fraser are so full of salmon that a man could walk across them without wetting his feet. One passenger stated that on several of the streams crossed by the train the salmon were so numerous that hundreds of fish were forced out of the water and were lying on the banks. * * * Somehow or other, the salmon have evaded the nets, and proceeded on their way rejoicing, much to the unfeigned sorrow of the fishermen, whose annual incomes depend, to a very large extent, upon their catches during the season, when the elusive salmon are seeking the creeks in which they were spawned. As it is now, those which have been sighted in the creeks along the line of the C.P.R. are perfectly safe from the nets and the canners."

On the Skeena river the fishing is said to be excellent, and mail advices state that up to July 28 the pack of salmon in British Columbia was as follows: Fraser river, 80,000 cases; Naas river, 6,500 cases; Skeena river, 35,000 cases; Lowe Inlet, 4,500 cases; Rivers Inlet, 29,500 cases, and Alert Bay, 1,500; a total of 157,000 cases.

According to the New York Journal of Commerce, there is now no question that the pack in the United States "will fall far short of the last year's output, some estimates placing the shortage at 200,000 cases, including both spring and fall packs."

That paper has also this to say regarding the Fraser river pack: "Later advices from the Fraser river indicate that conditions there are even worse than at first reported, the canneries in operation not being able to avail themselves of all even of the light run of salmon owing to the lack of fishing boats in commission this season, this being the result of the operation of a law passed last year, which makes residence in British Columbia necessary for the procuring of a license to fish, and thus excluding American fishermen."

ADVANCE IN SICILY FILBERTS.

Sicily filberts, according to advices received in Toronto on Wednesday, are expected to be only about one-half last year's yield.

In consequence of this, prices have advanced in the primary market and the tendency is still upwards.

In New York, there has been a sharp advance in the price of 1898 crop nuts, in sympathy with the appreciation of the value of the coming crop. As a result of this advance, it would cost ½c. per lb. more for old nuts in New York than it would to import new at to-day's figures.

A COMMISSION MAN'S SORROWS.

WHEN an oversupply of fruit brings prices away down the commission man earns all the profits he gets out of his sales.

An experience of one dealer last week will illustrate. He had received on consignment 10 baskets of red currants, and the supply and demand were such that no more than 35c. per basket could be got for the fruit. The commission charged is 10 per cent., which, on the 10 baskets, meant 35c. A carter had to be engaged to deliver them, at a cost of 25c. The postage and cost of sending the shipper his money brought the charges up to 31c., leaving 4c. to pay for handling and profit.

The price, however, was so low that he received soon after a hot letter from the shipper, who indignantly asked how he "dared" to sell his currants at such a price, and stating that he should have telephoned to inquire whether to sell or not at such a figure.

The idea of paying for telephone messages regarding a shipment that netted 4c. profit strikes this particular commission man as unsatisfactory, to say the least.

The commission man's troubles do not all come from this side, however. The peaches coming in just now are providing another source of annoyance. They are treacherous—very deceptive in appearance. Sometimes a basket sent out early in the morning in good shape arrives at some country point in bad condition. Then, the retailer will make a request for an allowance of perhaps 25 or even 50 per cent., because of the bad condition of his fruit, whereas the commission man only received 10 per cent. of the price.

Thus, placed between buyer and seller, the commission men deserve, at least, considerate treatment.

THE APPLE CROP.

The National Convention of the Apple-shippers of the United States, which met at Detroit on Friday and Saturday last, was well attended, there being over 250 delegates, many of them being from Canada. Every State of the Union was represented.

The number of crop reports given to the convention may be judged by the fact that there were reports from 150 districts in Canada.

The gist of the reports is that the United States will have about double the number of apples for export that they had last year. The Canadian crop of fall apples is light, which is satisfactory to shippers, as the British crop is so good that the export demand will be light. Canada's crop of winter apples, however, is expected to be above the average, but prices are not expected to be high, on account of the anticipated large export from the United States.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

Displaying Bananas.

There are many grocers in Toronto who handle bananas as a convenience for their customers rather than as a source of profit for themselves. The competition of the itinerant Italian has resulted in such close prices, and the waste is so great that the profits from the sale of this fruit aggregate very little. And from indications there is little hope for a better condition of things. This season there has been a greater percentage of second-class fruit sold in Toronto than ever before. This has been imported by the Italians themselves. They, last season, commenced importing in a small way, but this season have gone into the business in earnest. And most of their importations have been second qualities. Yet, the average Italian cartload of bananas one sees compares favorably with the average bunch found in a grocery store. The reason is simply that the grocer presents to the public the worst side of the banana, while the Italian presents the best side. The grocer may take cold comfort that the buyer often makes a mistake in buying from the Italian, but the average buyer is not attracted to bad-looking fruit by the knowledge that it is better than it looks. I believe the Italian method of display is the best. He will take a bunch ; cut from it all the bad and small stock, which he puts in one corner of his cart at 5c. or so per dozen; then he cuts off the moderately good stock, which he turns best side up, and tickets at 10c. a dozen. This leaves a small remnant of good stock for which he charges 15c. a dozen. The customer thus has a choice. Why should not the grocers follow this system? There cannot be the same objection to an outdoor display of bananas that there is to such displays of berries. On the other hand, there is something gained by showing bananas this way that cannot be claimed in the case of other fruit.

The privilege of choice is always a consideration, and where bananas are offered at 10, 15 and 20c., it is but fair that a customer should take risks in buying the 10c. article. Almost any manner of display, however, would be better than hanging them up in bunches with all the bad spots showing.

Another Base Ball Match.

The city travelers were not satisfied with the result of the game of base ball they played with the retail grocers' team at the picnic two weeks ago. The grocers were ahead at he call of time, and so won the match, but the travelers had not by any means given up the match. The grocers intend, on Wednesday next, to run off at Toronto Island the events which were left over at the picnic because of lack of time, so it has been arranged to have then a full nine-innings' game. The teams to play will be almost the same as those which played at Hamilton.

THE RAMBLER.

BACK FROM A TRIP TO EUROPE.

Mr. Henry Wright, of A. F. MacLaren & Co., manufacturers of "Imperial" cheese, Toronto, returned on Sunday last from a trip to Great Britain and France. Mr. Wright had a most enjoyable trip, and, judging from his appearance, it was a healthy one too.

"I noticed, he said in reply to a question, "that the merchants in Great Britain are giving more attention to Canadian products; in fact, they are eager to get information in regard to the requirements of the Dominion. The great trouble in the past is that goods have been sent forward from Canada as first-class which were really not so. The English people will only take products on their merits."

Mr. Wright brought back with him the agency for Maconochie Bros., manufacturers of pickles, preserves, etc.

Mr. J. E. Ganong, of "Surprise" soap fame, was Mr. Wright's companion in his travels through Great Britain and France.

HAMILTON GROCERS' ASSOCIATION

At the regular monthly meeting of The Hamilton Retail Grocers' Association, held in the association's rooms, King street west, J. Fortin and Parkin Bros. were admitted to membership by President J. E. Boligan.

Various members of the association made reference during the meeting to the Toronto grocers' picnic which was held in Hamilton on July 26, and expressed pleasure at having met such a fine, orderly and pleasant crowd of people, and were much pleased that the trouble that occurred in Mountain-view Park was all after the last of the Toronto people and their Hamilton grocer friends had departed.

ONTARIO MARKETS

TORONTO, August 10, 1899.

GROCERIES.

NO strikingly new features have developed on the local market during the last week. The civic holiday somewhat interfered with local trade, and, generally speaking, business, while fair for this time of the year, is quiet. As per agreement, the different wholesale houses in the Guild have withdrawn their travelers from western Ontario for a couple of weeks, but those travelers whose territory lies east of Manitoulin Island and west of North Bay are still "on the road." Canned goods are quiet, but firm. The demand for sugar has fallen off a little, although there is still quite a little movement. The tone of the sugar market is decidedly firm. Teas are quiet and firm. Foreign dried fruits are firm. The most interesting feature in connection with this line is the opening of the currant and Sultana raisin market.

CANNED GOODS.

There is a decidedly all-round strong feeling in regard to canned goods, although the volume of business is not large. Advices from the Coast are still most unsatisfactory, as far as the salmon pack on the Fraser river is concerned, and practically none of the canneries are offering. On the Northern rivers the packing industry is more satisfactory than on the Fraser. Where quotations are named the idea is $4.50 to $4.75 f.o.b. the Coast for Fraser river fish. Local wholesalers are doing a little business in canned salmon for future delivery at $1.20 to $1.25 for Northern packs, and $1.35 to $1.40 for Fraser river packs. For prompt shipment a fair sorting-up trade is being done in sockeye at $1.30 to $1.50, and there is a good business being done in cohoes at $1.05 to $1.10.

The condition of the market for canned vegetables is in much the same position as it was a week ago. If there is any tendency to change, it is in the direction of greater firmness. This is particularly true of peas and corn, although the talk of damage to the tomato vine by drought, etc., has a tendency to strengthen prices in canned tomatoes. There are not at the moment many transactions between packers and wholesalers, and those reported are at pretty firm figures. We hear of 500 cases of corn changing hands at 77½c. f.o.b. the factory. The purchaser was a Montreal firm. Wholesalers are, as a rule, quoting corn at 75 to 80c. for future delivery. For present delivery, 95c. to $1 is still the idea. The very lowest packer's quotation we hear of for canned peas is now 70c. Wholesalers are still quoting 70 to 75c. per dozen.

Canned meats of all kinds are still meeting with a fairly active sorting-up demand at firm and unchanged prices.

Lobsters are meeting with a ready sale, at $1.65 to $1.75 for ½-lb. flats; $2.65 to $2.75 for 1-lb. talls, and $3 to $3.25 for 1-lb. flats.

COFFEE.

Deliveries of Brazilian coffee continue heavy in the primary market, but prices are firmer both in Europe and America. Locally, a quiet trade is being done at steady and unchanged prices.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SUGARS.

The sugar market is decidedly firm. In New York the buyers of raw exceed the sellers, and an advance of 1-16c. per lb. has been paid, while another 1-16c. is being asked. The statistical position is strong, stocks in Europe and America at the end of last week being 1,404,265 tons, against 1,664,040 tons the corresponding period of 1898. On the local market the demand is not as brisk as it was a week ago, but prices are firmer with an improved tendency. The Guild price is $4.65 Toronto for St. Lawrence and Redpath refined sugars and $4.60 for Acadia. Foreign granulated is quoted at $4.60 Toronto.

TEAS.

The situation of the tea market is strong. Cable advices from Colombo, Ceylon, say that supplies are coming in very slowly and that low-grade teas are ½d. per lb. higher. Samples of low-grade Ceylon teas from London now being shown on this market are of poor quality, and the prices asked are above the parity of prices quoted for teas on spot. Teas are coming forward a little more freely, and a little more business is being done by the brokers. Cables from Japan show a further upward tendency in the market there. Local brokers report a little more doing in Japan teas, but the volume of business is still light. The little business in Indian and Ceylon teas which has been done at the auctions in England is at firm prices. Pending the negotiations between the buyers and sellers in London, England, over the tea draft question, the Indian and Ceylon tea associations have withdrawn for a fortnight their new regulations refusing a continuance of the one-pound draft.

NUTS.

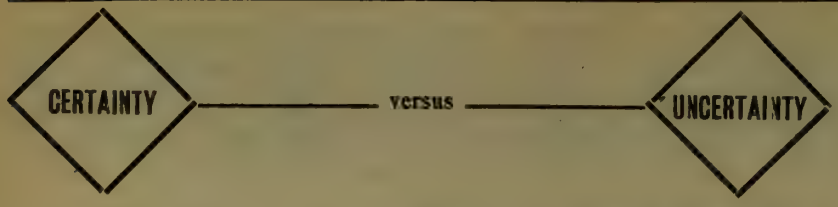
Cable advices received in Toronto on Wednesday stated that the crop of Sicily filberts will be one-half the average, and that prices are, in consequence, higher for the new crop.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—Cable advices received in Toronto on Wednesday state that the currant market has opened in Greece. The quotations named are about ½c. above those now being asked for old fruit. The first shipment will be made about August 15.

SULTANA RAISINS—A Smyrna cable of Wednesday reports the opening of the market for Sultana raisins at prices slightly higher than the opening figures of last year.

VALENCIA RAISINS—Trade is quiet with prices firm.



FIGS—The market has opened for Eleme figs, and layers in boxes will cost about 12½c. to import. The yield is estimated to be about 30,000 loads, against 12,000 loads last year.

CALIFORNIAN APRICOTS—Advices from California state that prices are high, with supplies scarce, the canners having taken a large part of the stock.

PRUNES — Small sizes of Californian prunes are scarce, according to advices received from the Coast. The crop is running to the larger sizes.

GREEN FRUITS.

A brisk trade is being done at the fruit market. There is a glut of muskmelons, and prices have been forced down to 25 to 50c. per basket. Early peaches and pears are offering in larger quantities than are wanted, and it is frequently necessary to cut prices to clear out accumulations. Harvest and red astrachan apples are about as plentiful as the demand would absorb.

There's bound to be a certain amount of uncertainty in handling a soap that hasn't prestige and "pull" with your customers.

SURPRISE

has this, and it's CERTAIN to please them, for they know it is the purest and highest grade laundry soap on the market. A cake at 5 cents yields you a good profit and pleases the laundress. Freight paid on 5 box lots.

ST. STEPHEN, N.B.

Plums are offering more liberally, and prices are 10c. lower than a week ago. Lawtonberries are still very plentiful, and move freely at 5 to 6c. The sale of native tomatoes is constantly increasing as prices are 5c. lower, and the supply is growing. Sales of bananas are very large. There has been a brisk demand for lemons lately. Last week a small boom was noted, but this week the demand has fallen somewhat, but is now active. There are very few oranges on the market, but there is enough, as the demand is very quiet.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The receipts are larger than the demand, and to clear out accumulations it is often necessary to sell below the ruling price. A decline of ½c. has brought the price this week to 12 to 12½c. per doz.

BEANS—There is little doing. Prices are nominally $1 to $1.10 for hand-picked and 80 to 90c. for ordinary stock.

POTATOES—New potatoes are offering more freely, and what is coming is of better size than lately noted. Prices are steady at 50 to 55c. per bushel.

VEGETABLES — Cauliflower is 25c. cheaper. Tomatoes have declined 5c. We quote: Cauliflower, 75c. to $1 per doz.; Rhubarb, 15 to 20c.; radishes, 15c. per dozen bunches; corn, 10 to 15c. per doz.; vegetable marrow, 40 to 60c. per doz.; green onions, 5 to 10c. per doz.; celery, 50c. to 75c. per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz., 30 to 50c.; parsley, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; green cucumbers, 10 to 20c. per doz.; new beets, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; parsnips, 40 to 60c. per dozen bunches; carrots, 20 to 30c. per doz. bunches; green peas, $1 to $1.10 per bag; butter beans, $1.25 per bushel; tomatoes, 20 to 25c. per basket.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The feeling throughout is decidedly firm. The export demand readily absorbs all surplus good creamery and dairy at advancing prices, and the local and shipping demand continues active. Dairy tubs are 1 to 1½c. and prints 1c. dearer. Creamery in packages is 1c. per lb. dearer. It is expected that the present high values will be maintained for some time.

CHEESE—The demand, both locally and for export, is brisk, but with prices at a basis lower than is being paid at country cheese boards this week. Though prices that are now being paid are of a speculative nature, it is not considered that a material decline can be looked for. A few weeks of rain to improve pastures, and, as a result, an increase in the supply of milk, would, however, have a tendency to check the speculative spirit which is manifesting itself. A continuance of dry weather, however, will likely cause prices to advance still further. Some dealers are talking of 12c. cheese.

PROVISIONS.

There is a brisk demand for all provisions, and, as packers' stocks are beginning to run short, prices are steadily strengthening. Canadian short and barrel pork is 50c. per cwt. dearer. There is a scarcity of suitable hogs, too, the majority offering being unfinished—too small. All suitable animals are readily picked up by exporters, who are paying $5.50 per cwt.; an advance of 25c. in the past week. The prospects are that next season's pack will show fully as great an increase in quantity as any of the previous seasons have witnessed.

FISH.

There is a general scarcity. The demand is good. We quote: Trout, 7½ to 8c.; whitefish, 7 to 8c.; maskinonge, 8c.; pickerel, 7½c.; perch, 4c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 6c.; cod in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Wheat is moving moderately at 68c. outside for both red and white. The local street market is fairly busy, a fair amount of wheat and oats offering. Peas are 2 to 3c. cheaper; barley and oats are 1c. lower. We quote as follows: Wheat, white and red, 71c.; goose, 68c.; peas, 60 to 62c.; oats, 34 to 35c.; barley, 43 to 44c.; rye, 51 to 53c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat is unchanged at 80c. Toronto.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—A good business is being done at firm prices. We quote cowhides: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6½c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9c.

SKINS—Deliveries are large. Prices are unchanged. We quote as follows: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 9c. per lb.; No. 2, 7c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheepskins are worth 90c. to $1, and lambskins, 35 to 40c.

WOOL—There is a good business still being done. Prices are unchanged. We quote fleece at 14 to 14½c., and unwashed at 8 to 9c.

SALT.

There is a good demand. Prices are unchanged. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots,

MARKET NOTES.

Canadian short cut barrel pork is 50c. per cwt. dearer.

Canadian tomatoes are now selling at 20 to 25c., a decline of 5c.

The currant, Sultana raisin and Smyrna fig markets have opened.

Low-grade teas are cabled about ½d. dearer in Colombo, Ceylon.

All makes of both dairy and creamery butter are 1 to 1½c. per lb. dearer. Eggs are ½c. per dozen cheaper.

MONTREAL, August 10, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE trade in general groceries has been fairly brisk, and prominent in this connection is the brisk demand for new pack canned goods of all sorts for forward delivery, values on these generally ruling firm. Sugar has been steady at the rise noted, and the cutting between houses has ceased, an agreement having been arrived at again. Syrups and molasses show no change, while coffee and spices furnish nothing noteworthy. Valencia raisins are not to be had here in any quantity, and advices in regard to new crop currants are rather bullish in character. Inquiry for new Japan tea is active, but old meets a dragging sale. Green teas are scarce and Ceylons are steady. Green fruits furnish nothing striking, and produce is generally strong in tone.

SUGAR.

The recent unsatisfactory position in refined sugar has been remedied by an agreement arrived at with the firms here, who have ceased to cut prices. Demand since the rise noted last week has been active, and prices are firm at $4.55 for granulated and $3 65 to $4.30 for yellows per 100 lb., as to quality at the factory. Advices from New York note brisk business in refined, while in raw sugar there the feeling is firm. The European market for beet sugar is strong, and prices for nearby options are strong, August being quoted at 10s. 11½d. The tendency, however, with regard to future options is downward, as the new crop will be offering by the end of September or beginning of October, so that September delivery is quoted easier at 10s. 9d.

SYRUPS.

Business in syrups continues very slow with prices nominally quoted at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb at the factory.

MOLASSES.

There has been some inquiry for round lots of Barbadoes molasses during the past few days, but little business has resulted because buyers and sellers are apart in their views. To arrive, round lots have been placed at 34½c., but, possibly, goods on spot could be had for less money. Demand in a jobbing way is active, and several car lots have been moved at 35c., and single puncheons at 36c. Offers of Porto Rico have been made at 31½ to 32½c.

DRIED FRUITS.

The stock of Valencia raisins on spot is now completely exhausted, only a few small lots beng held in first hands, and, as a result, holders are very firm, though no quotable change is to report. Sales of fine off-stalk are noted at 4c. and undergrades at 3¾c. Mail advices in regard to currants state that the crop is estimated to be 20 per cent. short of last year, and that prices are firm in consequence at 11s. 6d. c.i.f. for provincials, Montreal.

CANNED GOODS.

An active inquiry is experienced for new pack vegetables, especially for corn, which is strong, packers in some cases asking an advance of 5c. per dozen, and nothing is obtainable under 75c. Fair-sized sales of tomatoes are noted at 75c., peas at 70c. and beans at 65 to 70c. These prices are, of course, to arrive in round lots. On spot, tomatoes sell at 75c., corn at 90c. and peas and beans at 75 to 77½c. per dozen, in a jobbing way.

There has been no change in new pack canned fruits. Business is fair, and prices are steady as follows: Apples, 3 lb., 75c.; preserved, $1.40; 1 gal. tins, $2; pears, 3 lb., $1.80; plums, 3 lb., $1.60; greengages, 3 lb., $1.75; yellow peaches, 3 lb., $2.25; pumpkins, 3 lb., $3.65; strawberries, preserved, $1.35; do., in syrup, $1.15; raspberries, preserved, $1.40; do., in syrup, $1.15.

There is nothing new to report in new pack canned salmon. A fair trade continues, and prices are firmly held at $4.75 for "Clover Leaf" and $4 for Lowe Inlet f.o.b. Coast. There has been some inquiry for new French sardines, and several good orders have been booked. Prices are: Small quarters, $7.50 to $8; ordinary, $7.75 to $8.25; full quarters, $10.50 to $11; American do., $13.50 to $14; boneless, high halves, $22 to $23; low do., $18.50 to $19.50; high quarters, $16 to $17, and low do., $10.50 to $11.50.

RICE.

There is a fair demand for rice, and prices are steady. We quote: B standard, $3.40 to $3.50; Patnas, $4.12½ to $4.75; Japans, $4.50 to $5, and Caroline, $6 to $7.

COFFEES.

The market continues quiet, with a few sales reported of Maracaibo at prices ranging from 8½ to 9½c., and some Santos at 7¼c. for the green bean in bags.

SPICES.

There is a small jobbing trade reported in spices, and values are firm but unchanged. We quote: Singapore black pepper, 12½ to 13c., and Singapore white, 19½ to 20c. Penang pepper, 17½ to 18c., and West Coast, 12 to 13c. Pimento, 11 to 12c. Nutmegs, 28 to 44c., as to quality. Cassia, 9 to 10c.; Jamaica ginger, 19½ to 20c.; Cochin tips ginger, 6 to 6½c.; Zanzibar cloves, 9 to 10c.; nutmegs, 40 to 55c., and mace, 45 to 50c.

TEAS.

The tendency with regard to new crop teas is very firm, in sympathy with the strong advices from abroad. Cables from Shanghai state that Congous are firmer, the advance since July 18 being 2c. per lb. Business is active in new crop Japans, and several 300 and 400 package lots have changed hands lately at 16 to 17c. The scarcity already noted in Pingsueys continues, and the lowest price at which they are obtainable is 11c. Old Japan tea meets with a rather slow sale, and round lots have been offered at 11½ to 12c. here. Ceylons are quiet but steady.

GREEN FRUITS.

The green fruit business has been fairly active. Domestic fruits have been in limited supply and raspberries have been readily purchased at 7½ to 8½c. Domestic tomatoes are now coming on the market and are offered at 50c. Western tomatoes command 35 to 40c. per basket. There have been few Mississippi tomatoes offering this week. Arrivals of bananas are light and there is a good demand at 90c. to $1.50 per bunch, as to quality. The orange market is about the same as last week. Sales range all the way from $3.25 to $4. Lemons are quoted at $2 to $3 per box, as to quality. There is very little sale for Canadian pears, peaches, and plums, as they are of the early varieties, and traders do not care to handle them when there are lots of other fruits on the market. Prices range between 40 to 50c. per basket for pears, 35 to 50c. for peaches, and 50 to 60c. for plums. Receipts of Californian fruit have been heavy, but, as there is a good demand, supplies are rapidly cleared at $2.50 to $2.75 for pears, $1.10 to $1.40 for peaches, and $1.25 to $2 for plums.

FISH.

The fish market is largely nominal at present. We quote: Fresh haddock and cod at 3 to 4c. for haddock, and 3 to 3½c. for cod; British Columbia salmon, 12 to 13c.; halibut, 13 to 14c.; salt fish: Green cod, $4.25 to $4.50 for No. 1, and $5 for No. 1 large per barrel; dry cod, $4; Nova Scotia herring, $4.25 to $4.50 in barrels; Cape Breton, $4.75 in barrels; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $14 to $15; sea trout, $9.50 to $10; lake trout, $4.25 to $4.50 per keg of 100 lb.; No. 1 green haddock, $4 to $4.25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was a better local demand for small lots and a moderately active trade was done at firm prices. We quote: choice candled stock at 15 to 15½c.; ordinary at 12½ to 13c.; and No. 2 at 10 to 11c. per dozen.

MAPLE PRODUCT—There was no change in maple product. Supplies are small and the tone is firm. We quote: Syrup, in wood, 6½ to 7c. per lb., and at 85 to 90c. per tin. Sugar, at 8½ to 9c. per lb.

HONEY — Business in honey continues very quiet and prices are unchanged. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 9 to 10c.; dark, 7 to 8c.; white extracted, 7½ to 8c., and dark, 4½ to 5c.

BEANS — In beans the feeling is steady, but the demand is still slow. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

POTATOES—Receipts of new potatoes are more liberal, and the tone of the market is easier. The demand is fair, and sales are reported at $1 to $1.05 per bbl.

ASHES — There were no changes in the market for ashes. The demand is slow and business quiet. We quote: First sorts, $3.70 to $3.75; seconds, $3.50, and first pearls, $5.25 to $5.50 per 100 lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—A fair jobbing trade was transacted in flour on local and country account, but buyers show no disposition to lay in large stocks. The tone of the market is steady and prices show no change. We quote as follows: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.30 to $3.40; in bags, $1.60 to $1.65; Manitoba patents, $4 to $4.20; strong bakers', $3.60 to $3.80.

GRAIN—There was nothing new in the situation of the local grain market to-day. Business in all lines was exceedingly quiet. A small trade was done in oats on local account at 33¼ to 33½c. ex store. The feeling in Manitoba wheat in Winnipeg was weaker and prices closed ½c. lower on the day.

MEAL—The demand for meal is slow and the market is featureless. Rolled oats are quoted at $3.67½ per bbl., and at $1.72½ per bag.

FEED—The tone of the feed market is firm for bran, and prices are fully maintained at the recent advance. The demand continues good, but the offerings are still light. We quote: Ontario bran, in bulk, $13 to $13.50, and shorts, $14.50 per ton; Manitoba bran, $12.50 to $13; shorts, $15 to $16; mouille, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY—In baled hay a fairly active trade continues to be done, and as supplies are just about equal to the demand prices are firmly held. We quote: Choice No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $5.50 to $6, and clover, $4.75 to $5.25 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

There is nothing new to note in this branch of the trade. The demand for all lines is somewhat limited at present; in consequence, the market is quiet, but the undertone is firm. We quote as follows: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7c. to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined 5½c. to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11¼c. to 12½c. per lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—The market maintains its firm tone, and, naturally, with last week's high cost at country points, sellers want the advance to-day and will not hear of concession. In fact, nominally it was a 10 to 10¼c. market for finest Western, though buyers are reluctant to concede that range, while Eastern makes were 9⅝ to 9⅞c. At the wharf, this morning, between 6,000 and 7,000 boxes were sold, the ruling price being 9¾c., but a fraction more was realized in some cases. The public Liverpool cables was unchanged at 46s.

BUTTER—The butter market continues strong in tone, and buyers have to meet sellers if they want to secure supplies. Private cables are noted from Glasgow offering 94s. for a round lot of finest creamery, but the shipper could not work it as the limit was too low for this market. Finest creamery in round lots for export is quoted at 20 to 20½c., and Western dairy, 14½ to 15c. In a jobbing way finest creamery fetches 21c.; seconds, 20 to 20½c., and Township dairy, 16½c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

A denial has been received from headquarters of the report that "Clover Leaf" canned salmon was sold in the West at $4.50. They give $4.75 as the inside price.

Domestic Canadian fruit of the early varieties meets a very slow sale here.

The cutting between jobbing houses on refined sugar has ceased in this market.

There has been another distinct advance this week both in the price of cheese and butter.

New Labrador salmon have been offered at $11 to $12 for No. 1, but, so far, we hear of no business.

There is an active inquiry experienced for new Japan tea, but old Japan stock has a dragging sale.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., August 10, 1899.

JULY and August are always considered two quiet months, and there is nothing happening to change this general opinion. There is no particular activity. In staples, markets are steady. Flour, after rather lower figures, seems to be in a firmer position. The condition of lumber rather makes the times here either good or bad, there being nothing that so affects the entire Province or brings as much money to the people, and it is of particular advantage, as the returns are distributed among such a large number in a direct way, to say nothing of those affected indirectly, which, it might be said, includes all. While there is a good price ruling in England, the high freight charged at present affects the export. In the American market, there is but a fair demand. Holders here are inclined to hold for higher figures. First shipments of China tea for this season have just been received via C.P.R.

OIL—In burning oil increased demand is noticed. There has been no change in price for some time, there being little competition. The new company is pushing forward its new warehouse, and promises to make it warm for the Imperial people. Cod oil is still very low, and the fishermen are inclined to hold back in hopes of better prices, so that, at present, receipts are light. Lubricating oils keep low, while in paint oil, unusually high prices continue to be the order of the day.

SALT—Expected arrivals of Liverpool coarse salt are not to hand this week, but are daily expected. Stocks are ample for present needs. The demand at this season continues quite active. There is increased demand noticed for Canadian fine salt. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—The particular interest which has attached itself to this line for some weeks has somewhat fallen off. Considering the general condition of the market, retailers have bought at low prices, the wholesale trade being satisfied with very small margins. Corn has been resold at less than the packers' last price. I say last price, as it is about impossible at present to buy any. In spot corn, the market is very bare. A small quantity of old was received from the West this week, which somewhat relieved matters. New peas, strawberries and pumpkins continue to arrive. In spot goods, gallon apples and peaches are scarce. All lines seem pointing upwards. Meats are higher. Salmon is hard to buy, many packers having withdrawn quotations. Lobsters are so high as to be out of this market. Baltimore packers are short on oysters. Prices are higher, and some packers are entirely out of stock. Pineapples are in the same condition, and prices have been advanced.

GREEN FRUITS—The demand for bananas has kept up rather better than was expected, which has resulted in rather light stocks. California fruits are active, particularly pears. Prices are quite high. Grapes, so far, to hand are of but fair quality. In apples there is an improved demand, as the quality improves; price is still quite high. Oranges are quiet and of but fair quality. Lemons now here are also of but fair quality. With the receipt of new lots higher prices will rule. Melons are quiet, weather being too cool for active sales. Cherries about done. Raspberries and blueberries are quite plentiful. Shipments west continue large. Fair prices are being received, the dry season across the line helping the market. Market is now being supplied with native tomatoes and cucumbers.

DRIED FRUITS — Increased interest is shown, but few prices have yet been received. Raisins are a light stock. Prices are likely to rule about as last season. In Californians, it is thought they will be landed rather below last season's figures, the market there opening high. In prunes, the report from California is that there will be a good crop, and prices on new goods that have been received are quite low, but as foreign and Oregon prunes are expected to rule high, being a very short crop, it will likely mean a firm market throughout. Currants, it is thought, will open rather higher than last season. Evaporated apples are scarce, and higher figures are quoted. Onions have a good sale at even figures. All nuts are high, and full figures are likely to be asked for new goods. In figs, the outlook is firm. Few Californians are used here, last season seeing the first.

SUGAR—If there is any change values are higher. The sale of yellows is reported small, granulated being more largely used than ever. Local refinery has practically all the business.

MOLASSES—Just at present there is little doing. Conditions point to higher figures. Market is a very firm one, stocks being light, particularly Barbadoes. That chiefly held is Porto Rico.

PRODUCE—It is very satisfactory to see the prices our cheese factories are getting for their early cheese. In both June and July they are well cleaned up at good prices, though better results would have obtained had cheese been sold in open competition, as in the West. Prices here have ruled well under Western figures, but there is increased cost to get to point of shipment. The city market is dull. In eggs, the price is well maintained. Receipts are not large, and sales are fair. Butter is dull ; receipts exceed the demand, and only best will bring fair returns.

FISH—Fresh fish continues scarce, but salmon, halibut, and mackerel are received in a retail way. Cod, haddock, and shad are rather more plentiful. In dry cod, firm figures rule. There is but a fair movement, either in receipts or sales. Quality is fair. It is difficult, if not impossible, to get extra price for extra quality. Smoked herring are slow sellers, the rather higher price affecting the demand. There have been some very nice kippers received. Pollock are firm at the price quoted. In pickled shad there is light business. We quote : Large and medium dry cod, $3.75 to $4 ; small, $2.50 ; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb. ; smoked herring, 6¼ to 7½c. ; halibut, 10 to 12c. per lb. ; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; shad, 10c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c. ; pollock, $2.25 per 100 ; salmon, 15 to 16c. ; pickled herring, $2.25 per half bbl.

PROVISIONS—In pork, there is a fair sale at about even figures. The increased number of grades makes it the more difficult to gauge values. Beef is firm with sales light. Little is being done in smoked meats. Lard has fair sale at rather firmer figures.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL — In flour, a rather improved business is noticed. While values have ruled low, a somewhat firmer feeling developed at the close of the week, and higher prices would not be altogether a surprise. Feed is still scarce and high. Beans seem to have gone back to old figures, the little flurry not being sustained. Oats are firm, and oatmeal shows no change, though tendency is lower. There is but a fair business doing. Hay is rather improved in value, and the outlook is for better figures. This will be most welcome and have a good effect throughout the country, as for some time price has been very low. We quote as follows : Manitoba flour, $4.65 to $4.80 ; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.10 ; medium, $3.60 to $3.75 ; oatmeal, $4.00 to $4.10 ; cornmeal, $2.25 to $2.30; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10 ; prime, 95 to $1.00; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2 ; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15 ; round, $3.25 to $3.40 ; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15 ; hay, $7 to $7.50 ; timothy seed, American, $1.50 to $1.75 ; do., Canadian, $1.80 to $2.25; mammoth clover, 7½ to 8c.; alsike, 7½ to 8c.; red, 7¼ to 7¾c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Thos. Gorman received some particularly fine dry cod this week.

Mr. A. L. Goodwin received a large shipment this week of "Diamond G" brand of peanuts shipped by The Gwattney-Bunkley Peanut Co.

Mr. J. M. Wiley, representing Armour & Co., Chicago, called on the trade this week. Armour & Co. are making Boston the headquarters for all eastern business, with Mr. Wiley as manager of the office there.

Mr. Robert Meighen, president of The Lake of the Woods Milling Co., called on the trade this week in company with the local representative, Mr. Hastings. This company is doing an increasing business in this section. Mr. Meighen's particular business east was to attend the annual meeting of the New Brunswick Railway Company, of which he is president.

Mr. J. Hunter White, representing Aram Hamparzum, Smyrna, has the following regarding the coming fig crop : "Our crop shows better results than that of last year, which was ruinous. Even the new one will not be considerable, as can now be seen more accurately. Quantity will be between 30,000 and 35,000 loads, or the half of a regular crop."

Mr. F. J. Blackburn, of H. P. Eckardt & Co.'s traveling staff, left on Thursday for a holiday trip to Atlantic City.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

LUCAS, STEELE & BRISTOL'S travelers have been off the road all week, and will also be off next week. They pay no business calls anywhere.

Don't forget that Lucas, Steele & Bristol control "Empire" brand of teas, coffees, spices, baking powders, etc.

The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, have passed another shipment of "Anglo-Saxon" condensed milk into stock.

Don't forget Lucas, Steele & Bristol's fast freight service when in a hurry. If you haven't a time table, write for one.

T. B. Escott & Co. have an assortment of fruit jars on hand, which they are offering to the trade at reasonable prices.

The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, report large sales of Hecker's Farina, Hill's Manioca and Fruit Puddine, with glass dish premiums.

"Grape Nuts and Postum Cereal have come to stay," say The Eby, Blain Co., Limited. "Every case brings a repeat order."

"We have any number of inquiries for gem jars," say The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, "and we strongly advise any who have not bought to send for quotations at once."

"Our travelers will take their holidays until August 21, and we shall be glad to hear from our customers by mail or wire. We have some special bargains for the next two weeks," write T. B. Escott & Co.

T. B. Escott & Co. write : "The demand for 'Grand Mogul' goods has been very large, the handsome profit reaped by the retail grocer in pushing the sale of these goods, together with the advertising, explains the immense sale. Our Mr. Hazard, now in British Columbia, is meeting with splendid success. Mr. McBain, late of Listowel, will represent us permanently in that territory."

TRAINING STORE ASSISTANTS.

THERE is no way of procuring competent successors of the present generation of grocers except by practical training of the present generation of clerks under the eyes of their present employers, says New York Grocers' Review. Thus it is that the methods usually employed for that purpose ought to assume considerable importance in the eyes of the public, for it is useless to expect good service from people insufficiently prepared for their duties.

It is the badly-trained and ill-informed class of dealers who are responsible for much of the reckless cutting and the pushing of inferior goods that are so common, and also for many of the failures that threaten the entire business edifice, and which could have been prevented if the victims had been properly equipped for the arduous struggle. It is the well-trained class of grocers whom the public may thank for improvements of stores, methods and service, and for the maintenance of the standard of quality.

If the latter class are less numerous than the other, who can wonder? There is not much inducement for grocers to instruct their employes very carefully, when the clerks are liable to leave at a few hours' notice. The rudiments, and perhaps a little more, he will impart for his own sake, in order to make the newcomers of some use, but further than that the grocer cannot always afford to go. Exceptionally bright and ambitious young men may make their own way with very little assistance, but the more ordinary clerks, who greatly outnumber the others, require a good deal of boosting—and seldom get it.

In most of the countries of Europe the grocers are regarded as tradesmen, like cabinetmakers, tanners, builders, smiths, jewelers, etc., and a certain apprenticeship is served, a cash premium being paid by the boy's legal guardians. The grocer binds himself to teach the trade to his apprentice, and the latter pledges himself to abide with the master grocer until the legal term has expired.

This system may ultimately be adopted here, and then the problem of how to make grocers will find a solution.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK IN BRITAIN.

Wm. J. Marshall, of Rutherford, Marshall & Co., produce and commission merchants, Toronto, returned from his trip to Great Britain on Monday.

"The trip has been a satisfactory one, said Mr. Marshall to THE CANADIAN GROCER, "I visited London, Liverpool, Bristol, Glasgow, and the principal intermediate points. This practically covers Great Britain."

"What is the outlook for produce prices?"

"There is every reason for looking for a general firmness in prices until Christmas. In most of the industrial centres the men are working at night as as well in the daytime. In the agricultural sections, too, there is a bright outlook. From what I could see and gather I believe that Canadian cheese and butter will be in excellent demand for the rest of the year, with prices as high or higher than they are to-day."

Two burglars entered the grocery store of Shoebottom & Co., London, on Tuesday night, leaving a pal outside on guard. On the appearance of the patrolling policeman the guard decamped, but the thieves inside were caught.

GOOD STATIONERY IN BUSINESS.

IT is wonderful what good stationery will do, remarks The Keystone. A man may wear a ragged coat, have his toe kissing mother earth each time he steps, conduct his business in a "rusty" looking office, but if the letterheads and envelopes he sends to his correspondents are of excellent quality and workmanship, they immediately transform all the "realties" into broadcloth and mahogany. It cannot be otherwise.

Good stationery is sure to make good impressions. It is sure to make the man that receives it think that the man who sent it is about the right thing. Elegance in stationery means influence in business. Half the world would have confidence in the man without a cent of capital upon which to conduct business if his correspondence was done on the right kind of letterheads. The other half of the world, if they lacked confidence, would nevertheless think that there was something behind the man using such stationery.

Stationery of correct style and quality will never cover up ignorance when displayed in spelling or writing. It will, however, discount these imperfections to this extent: Bad writing or spelling on good stationery will gain attention, and that promptly. Bad spelling and writing on bad stationery give the immediate impression that the writer is a "curious boy," and, 10 to 1, the letter is turned down. Not always, but I'd dislike to count the times such is the case. You will lose by cheap stationery.

A GREAT HELP TO RETAILERS.

Nowadays, it is only those institutions in business life which have the capability of devising something out of the ordinary run of things, that achieve any pronounced success, remarks an exchange. The firm that runs along year after year, following the beaten tracks worn deep by the routine of business is reasonably sure to find its balance sheet showing an increasing deficit as time goes on, instead of a healthy growth. In other words, it is brains that move.

KEEP FLOUR OUT OF THE SUN.

Flour that has been exposed to the sun will not make good bread. It has been proved by numerous experiments that flour cannot bear the action of the sun, even when not exposed directly to its rays. When flour is exposed to the heat of the sun an alteration takes place in the gluten similar to that produced by the heating of the stones. For this reason it is advisable that the transportation of flour should take place, if possible, on cool days, or by night, as well as that flour should be stored in a cool place, says a milling paper.

A SPECIAL NUMBER

which it will pay every manufacturer and wholesale dealer to go into, and every retail dealer to read.

The Special Autumn Number of THE CANADIAN GROCER will be issued Friday, October 20. We will eclipse all past efforts in the production of this number. Those acquainted with our record will know what this means and the high standard we have set.

It will be handsomely and artistically gotten up and beautifully printed in colors. A special feature this year will be "Canada, from Ocean to Ocean," a well-written descriptive article, illustrated with a score or more engravings printed in colors, showing pastoral and industrial life in every Province.

The cover design is a beautiful pastoral scene, printed by the new three-color process, and will be by all odds the finest piece of color work ever attempted by any newspaper published in the Dominion.

It will contain valuable special articles, the usual budget of interesting trade news, and will deal fully with the products and trade of the Dominion ; articles on the Milling, Canning, Provision, Fruit and Tobacco businesses, illustrated with fine half-tone cuts of mills, factories, fruit and tobacco farms. The Dominion Government will distribute a number of copies through the High Commissioner's office in London and Emigration offices abroad, and, as we will send a large number through our own office in London to grocers and provision dealers in all the large centres of Great Britain, every product, trade and industry of Canada should be represented in the advertising pages of this progressive and representative Canadian trade paper.

ORDERS FOR ADVERTISING SPACE AND EXTRA COPIES SHOULD REACH US WITHOUT DELAY.

BAD DEBTS.

THE losses by bad debts in the retail branches of business can only be roughly estimated, and we do not mean to attempt even that, although we will hazard the suggestion that they must amount annually to a total of many millions of dollars, remarks New York Merchants' Review. For nine-tenths of these losses the retailers themselves are chiefly responsible. We admit that the collection laws are bad, that many consumers are dishonest in their dealings with retail merchants, and that the dealers, or the retail grocers at least, are generally so hard-worked that they can hardly give the time to the credit department which its importance demands.

But, admitting all these things, there remains a large burden of blame which the retailer himself must shoulder.

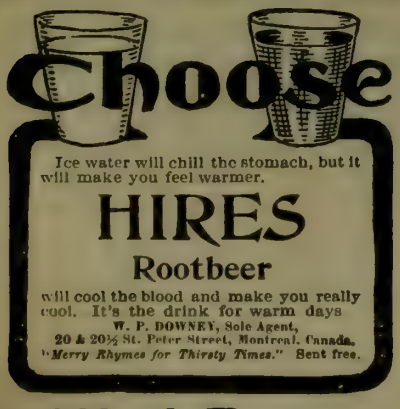
Notice the different treatment of the credit question by wholesaler and retailer. When a new applicant for credit approaches a jobbing firm, the latter will want some information regarding his ability to pay, before granting the credit desired. And when the retailer applies to a second wholesale firm, the second firm will resort to the first for information and get it. Thus the wholesalers are protected against the worst features of the credit system, and yet have no such protective organizations as the retailers.

Now, how is it with the retailers, in a great many cases? Let an empty house be taken in any city, and, at the first signs of occupancy, the local dealers will begin to call in quest of the patronage of the newcomer. They don't wait for him to call upon them and ask for credit. They go to him and offer it, and, if, as quite frequently happens, the first grocer gets bitten, the next one will be just as confiding, and go through a similar experience. Even a third dealer has been known to share the same fate without the thing getting out, for, incredible as it may appear to the uninitiated, the habit of the class of dealers who so frequently are victimized by dead beats is to keep quiet as to past experiences and never dream of asking for information of other dealers.

If the wholesale trade followed such a policy, there would either soon be an end to the credit system, or else the wholesale branch would have to be dispensed with as a distributing agency.

Why cannot the non-associated grocers help each other as the wholesalers do? Why must every member of the retail trade, in the spirit of the countryman who has been deceived by a traveling show, rather welcome the financial embarrassment of his fellow-dealer than protect him by volunteering information?

It is a question worthy of serious consideration whether the "dead beat" in his fullest effloresence is not in a great measure the creation of his creditors—a Frankenstein which owes existence to the grocer, butcher and baker, and which pursues them to their ruin. The pressing offers of credit which come to the new arrival in a neighborhood from the local dealers, tend to loosen the fibre of the most rigid honesty, and to soften the resolutions of those to whom integrity and economy are novelties tending to become irksome. Who can be surprised if the crop of dead beats increases?



BALL-BEARING DRAWERS.

The best things are very often the simple ones. Retailers all know how much trouble is often caused by drawers which stick, and when they don't stick they squeak, which means swearing and sweating—if not a church member. Sweating and swearing mean loss of energy, which may be avoided, says a contemporary, in the matter under consideration in the following simple way: "Secure a half-dozen good-sized marbles—just common playing marbles. Make three round holes in the end strip of wood supporting the drawer, one hole at each end of the strip and one in the middle. Drop your marbles into these holes. Tack a grooved strip of hardwood on the lower part of the drawer just above the marbles. You may then load your drawers down with cast iron and you will need only one handle on your drawer and two fingers on your hand to work the drawer back and forth. In fact, with ball-bearing drawers, as here described, the heavier and larger the drawer the easier it works.

THE LITTLE THINGS.

See to the little things and the big things will take care of themselves, remarks a contemporary. The only way it is really possible to attend to little things properly, that is, if one desires to attend to them, is not to trust to the memory in doing the work, no matter how good it may be. A pad should be carried in the pocket; on this mark down whatever you may think of as soon as it occurs to you. One by one attend to the things recorded, and whenever something on the list has been attended to run a pencil through the memorandum.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

MAIL advices from London state that the crop of Persian dates is large, estimated at about 650,000 boxes.

Advices from Portland state that the French Consul at that city is seeking information as to the prospect for securing supplies of Oregon French prunes this year for shipment to Berdeaux, France.

Letters just received from the other side state that the crop of Naples walnuts will be about one-third smaller than last year and that the Grenoble crop will be very short. Marbots and Cornes promise to be abundant and of fine quality.

CALIFORNIAN DRIED FRUITS.

The San Francisco Trade Journal of July 28, reviews the situation in dried fruits thus: "Fruit drying of all kinds, except prunes, is well under way, with that of apricots well advanced and peaches coming on quite fast. It is quite generally conceded that the apricot pack will be around 500 carloads; but no one has, as yet, ventured to estimate on peaches, but it seems quite reasonable to assert that it will be fully twice as much as any former season, and with reasonable figures it will all go out. The pack of apples will be from 20 to 30 per cent. more than in 1898, while that of pears will be away behind. The prune pack will be about 10 per cent. more than 1898, with the fruit running mostly to large sizes. This will naturally cause small sizes to bring, proportionately, better prices."

THE COFFEE SITUATION.

The market for Brazil grades of coffee has been quiet and unsettled. The crop movement has been large, and estimates for the entries during August at Rio and Santos were large—1,550,000 bags. Some business has been transacted with Brazil on a lower basis; still, there has been no pronounced pressure to sell, and no pronounced weakness has developed. The spot market for invoices has been dull, as there has been nothing in the situation to stimulate a demand from jobbers; prices have been without decided changes, closing at 5¾c. for Rio No. 7 and 6⅛ to 6¼c. for No. 4. Mild grades have been steady, and a moderate volume of business has been transacted at unchanged prices, closing at 7 to 7¼c. for fair Cucuta and 7¾ to 8c. for good ditto. East Indian growths have been dull and unchanged.—New York Journal of Commerce, August 5.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS 25 PER CENT. SHORT.

Fresno advices to July 27 to The California Fruit World are as follows: "The clearing of decks for handling the coming raisin crop is in progress. The outlook is for good prices, and growers and packers are not bothering themselves with this problem just yet. T. C. White said to-day that, from reports received at the association headquarters, the raisin crop will be about 25 per cent. short this year, and this is considered to be about the status of the crop."

[Telegraphic advices have since confirmed the above reference to the shortness of the crop.—Editor GROCER.]

TEA IN NEW YORK.

The tone of the market has held steady. There has been a limited amount of activity to the line business, the country trade in some instances showing more of a disposition to anticipate their wants. The market for invoices has been steady and some business has been transacted at fair prices. The offerings for next week's auction sale are small.—New York Journal of Commerce.

CURRANTS IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Business in currants on the spot has been confined to very narrow limits, but there are not lacking signs that stocks in both dealers' and retailers' hands are as light as they can conveniently be, and, in face of the well authenticated reports of a good crop, both as regards quality and quantity, it would obviously be bad policy to overstock even at the present very moderate prices. Under the circumstances, it is somewhat difficult to understand the object the holders of 1898 crop of provincial fruit in Greece have in view in advancing their prices, unless they hope by approximating rates more nearly to those asked for new fruit to create a demand for the latter. Up to the present, no sales of 1899 crop have been reported in London, but merchants show some disposition to slightly modify their ideas of value, and, instead of a difference of 3s. per cwt. between old and new Provincial, there is now only about 1s. 6d. to 2s.—Produce Markets' Review, London, July 29.

SALMON AND LOBSTERS IN LONDON.

There is very little change to report in the salmon market, and trade has been quite of a hand-to-mouth character. This is so far satisfactory, as it shows that retailers are working with very small stocks, and sooner or later an improvement in the demand may be looked for. Prices in first hands are very firm, and few parcels are to be found under market value. From advices just to hand the pack of lobsters is estimated to be about half what it was in 1898, and talls are exceptionally scarce; flat and ½-lb. tins are in fair supply, but holders are not at all anxious sellers, as they feel assured that sooner or later higher prices will be realized. The unsatisfactory part about this trade is that the goods in many instances are badly packed, and it behoves buyers to be very careful in selecting, and to look with distrust on any parcels that are offered below market rates.—Produce Markets' Review, July 29.

THE PRICE OF SALMON.

The great scarcity of salmon so far this season has been marked by unprecedented high prices paid to fishermen for fish. But, as in all things, there is a limit, and with salmon it seems to be 25c. per fish. Beyond that, it would seem as if it were impossible for canners to go. Not that even that price can be paid and money made. As a matter of fact, the canners have lost money on every case of fish that have been put up this year. The attitude of the canners is very well illustrated by an incident which occurred recently at one cannery on the Fraser. Some of the men who are operating under the licenses held by the cannery in question, and who also use boats and nets belonging to the cannery, came to their employers and said that there were other canneries paying 30 and 35c. a fish, and that they would like to get the same. "All right," was the reply, "take the fish where you can get most for them." When it was to their own men the canners were forced to speak, it can readily be seen that canning salmon at 35c. is not at all profitable.

are pronounced by those who have used them to be without an equal. They are made by a new process and will outlast any other kind on the market.

We intend to push this Branch of our Business vigorously, and it will be to the best interests of our friends in the Trade to see that they are fully stocked with Brushes of our make.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, August 7, 1899.

GREAT preparations are going forward for the annual picnic of the Caterers' Association, which will be held on Thursday next, to Rat Portage. No less than five trains will leave Winnipeg at hours between midnight on Wednesday and 8 o'clock on Thursday morning. The town of Rat Portage has offered very special inducements to the association, and all are looking forward to a delightful outing. As the distance is a long one, sleepers are provided, so that, for a small additional cost, those who wish can go to bed in Rat Portage and wake up in Winnipeg, ready for the next day's work. This is the only holiday of the year for many of the trades —such as bakers, milkmen, fruiterers and the like. The president of the association this year is Mr. W. H. Stone, one of the most progressive of the retail grocers of the city. Mr. Stone is a Somerset man, and learned his business thoroughly in England; he has been some 12 years in Winnipeg, and is a man who believes firmly in advertising, is in favor of union among men of like business, and is strongly opposed to trading stamps and like inventions. His election was a unanimous one, in his absence from the meeting.

Business is steady. Retail trade is somewhat quiet owing to the absence from the city of many households. There are a few changes for the week, but very few.

Mr. David Brown English, representative of Jos. Tetley & Sons' package teas, left for home Friday evening, after a three weeks' visit to the West. He expressed himself as highly satisfied with the general conditions of things in the West.

Sugar has advanced 5c. per cwt. during the week. It is questionable, however, whether jobbers will realize that addition. The market is fairly active at the present time.

CANNED GOODS—This situation has not altered in the least during the week. The whole question is unsatisfactory in the extreme, and salmon seems to have joined the fruit and vegetables in that particular. Some factories are quoting an advance on salmon and inability to fill orders, while others have lowered the price 25c. per case. No one, at present, seems to know "where they are at."

CURED MEATS—This market has been a rapidly-advancing one. Within the last week small meats have advanced 1c. per lb. and it appears as though there would be a still further advance in breakfast bacon. This article, in the eyes of those who should know, is too low for the price of hams. Some appear to think that hams have reached their limit, and, although scarce, the demand will not be so great at the higher price as it was at the lower. Side meat is very firm and slightly advanced. Taking everything into consideration, it is not likely there will be any decline before November at earliest, and many consider the advance likely to be permanent. Lard, owing to the low price of dairy butter, is low and fluctuating. Latest quotations are $1.50 to $1.60 for 20-lb. pails.

TEAS—New China teas will arrive next week. The crops appear to be exceedingly good and the price will probably be about the same as last year for opening.

EVAPORATED FRUITS — Apricots have advanced from ¼ to ½c., according to quality, but it is not certain that this advance will be maintained. Peaches, on the other hand, are comparatively cheap, and the offerings are heavy. Peeled peaches are not yet offering. Prunes are at about the same figure as they have been for the last six weeks, prices ranging from 5 to 9½c.; for instance, 110's are worth 5c. and 40 to 50's, 9½c.

BUTTER—The position of dairy butter has not altered during the week. The bulk is still going into cold storage, and the price ranges from 10 to 12c. at country points; 12c. has been paid for occasional lots of choice dairy for immediate resale. In creamery butter the market has improved. There has been an advance of ½c., and the tone of the market is firmer. The quotations are now 16c. factories, with 16½c. for small lots in 28-lb. packages.

CHEESE—This market is good. The price has advanced ½c., and there would appear a good demand for the make, which is larger than in former years. The quality, on the whole, is improving, although some of the factories are still putting cheese on the market before it is cured.

EGGS—This market dropped during the week to 12½ per doz., but has again stiffened, and 13c. is being paid to-day. The supply is abundant.

GREEN FRUITS—This market has been short during the week, but is again fully supplied. New Ontario apples will arrive about Tuesday. Californian plums and peaches are quoted at from $1.45 to $1.50. Bananas are scarce and the quality not up to the mark. Price ranges from $2.25 to $2.50, according to size of bunch. Apples are $4.25 per barrel; muskmelons, 75c. per basket; watermelons, $2.75 per dozen; grapes, 75c. per basket; blueberries, 6c. per lb.; tomatoes, 75c. per crate. Lemons and oranges are without change.

A FRONTIER GROCER.

Mr. G. R. Morden, representing The John Calder Co., Hamilton, has given THE GROCER the interesting cut herewith shown, which gives an idea of a successful frontier store. The proprietor, Old John Black, is a regular reader of THE CANADIAN GROCER, and, in short, an up-to-date business man. The sign itself is a bright idea, and the successful dealer in "groceries and guff" stands in the picture between the North-West Mounted Policeman and his horse.

Old John has given the following interesting facts regarding his career. He has lived in the Northwest for 42 years, and is now well-known through that vast tract of country. For a number of years he was in the employ of the Hudson's Bay Co., but in 1885 he decided to start store for himself in Fort Macleod.

With a self-satisfied smile on his face, John remarked that he himself had hewed and placed the logs of his first little store, with a frontage of 12 feet. "Now," he said, "our store extends just seven times as far along the street, and our business has grown in proportion." Indeed Old John Black's store is one of the prominent features of Fort Macleod to-day. He is a self-made man, has a steadily increasing business, and THE GROCER sincerely wishes that it may continue to grow.

HOW A TRADE PAPER HELPS.

Some time ago one of our successful business men in the supply line, when asked why he patronized trade papers so largely, to the neglect of other methods, made the following reply: "Men who do not read their trade papers are usually poor customers. If I sell them a lot of machinery they do not know how to use it, and report a failure, or we have to run after them, lose time and money to get them agoing, and make the sale stick. But those who read and are posted know how and succeed. Such men would not read circulars, if I were to mail circulars to them. They see my ad. regularly in the trade paper, and know I have an established business, and when they want anything in my line write me, and don't whine about prices, or what time they can get from others, buy, try, and have no trouble and pay the bill. Give me such a class of customers as I get by such judicious advertising all the time."—National Baker.

SPOILING A GOOD FARMER.

A Chicago business man, according to an exchange, recently utilized a rather unique method of dismissing an employe. His bookkeeper had formerly been a farmer and had come to Chicago to enter the business world. His employer had thought him promising, but after a month's trial discovered his mistake. Then he wondered how he could get rid of him.

"John," said he one day, "you never let anyone beat you at plowing while you were on the farm, did you?"

"No, sir," replied John.

"And no one ever got ahead of you at hoeing potatoes?"

"No, sir."

"Well, I think my conscience won't let me keep you here, John. I'm afraid I am spoiling a mighty good farmer."

CANNED SALMON ON A DOG'S TAIL.

Cheap advertisement is not always effective, and the salmon canner who hoped to bring his pack into demand by tying a labeled can to a spaniel's tail for coursing purposes on Cordova, Abbott and Water streets has learned his mistake. The canine traveled too fast to allow passers-by to catch the brand.—World, Vancouver.

Quality Wins Trade

Price is an argument with some people, but "quality" wins trade and keeps it.

Edwardsburg Starch proves its right to be called the Starch of quality by the unequaled test of time—time tests all things. Suppose you sell a customer a Starch that is yet in the experimental stage—you take more chances in selling it than the customer does in buying it. If a customer's trade is worth having, it is worth keeping. It is a poor way to keep it by running the chances of shaking their confidence in the quality of goods you sell—truly "quality wins trade." Edwardsburg Starch is pure starch! Edwardsburg Starch keeps trade! It pays to buy (and to sell)—

...BRADSTREET'S...

Capital and Surplus, $1,500,000. Offices throughout the civilized world.

Executive Offices: Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway, New York City, U.S.A.

THE BRADSTREET COMPANY gathers information that reflects the financial condition and the controlling circumstances of every seeker of mercantile credit. Its business may be defined as of the merchants, by the merchants, for the merchants. In procuring, verifying, and promulgating information, no effort is spared and no reasonable expense considered too great, that the results may justify its claim as an authority on all matters affecting commercial affairs and mercantile credit. Its offices and connections have been steadily extended, and it furnishes information concerning mercantile persons throughout the civilized world. Subscriptions are based on the service furnished, and are available only by reputable wholesale, jobbing and manufacturing concerns, and by respectable and worthy financial, fiduciary and business corporations. Specific terms may be obtained by addressing the Company at any of its Offices. Correspondence invited.

Nothing succeeds like success!

Why are we successful?

Why is it our business is increasing?

Because we know what people want and we are in a position to supply the demand.

THE PUBLIC are realizing that such standard brands of Table and Dairy Salt as "Coleman's" and "Rice's" can always be relied upon, and DEALERS are correspondingly becoming aware that to be up to the mark they must keep these brands of Salt for sale.

Absolutely pure, do not harden like inferior brands, and cost no more. Try them and be convinced.

R. & J. Ransford, Clinton, Ont.

CHEAP---AND NASTY.

They mostly go together, and it is better in the long run to stick to STANDARD goods.

A party recently bought some canned Haddies at $2.60 a case---he has them on hand yet.

They were NOT the reliable "THISTLE" BRAND which are highest quality that can be.

Another party bought cheap French Macaroni, and wondered why his customers ordered no more until he tasted it and found it sour.

It was NOT that well-known brand "CODOU" which is made only from Russian Wheat.

Perhaps the greatest disappointment has been to those who bought PICKLES labelled to imitate LAZENBY'S, which have a flavor all their own, and are the choicest goods packed in the British Empire.

LAZENBY'S now have their own Registered Trade Mark on all their goods, and imitation is no longer possible.

Thinking and Acting!

There is no question about it, my Cigars stimulate trade. The grocer who sits down and thinks about this without acting will lose money, and good money, too.

The Cigars I particularly refer to are my "Pharaoh" 10-cent Cigar and my "Pebble" 5-cent Cigar—if a smoker knows what a good cigar is and how good one can be for 10 cents and for 5 cents, you can count upon selling that man these two brands of

PLAN OF INCREASING PROFITS.

IT has occurred to me that a method I use with my clerks in inducing them to put forth their best efforts to sell such goods as make a profit, instead of those which pay a less profit, may be of interest, writes "M" in Grocery World. The method has been very successful, and I have no objection to giving it to the other readers of The Grocery World.

In a nutshell, the plan is to offer the clerks an extra commission when they sell the goods which I select. All of my clerks are paid a salary, and it alone furnishes a fair compensation for their work. The commission is extra.

The way I go about the matter is this: Every Monday morning I make out a list of goods that I want to have especially pushed during the coming week. Often this list will contain the same goods week after week, but in addition to these there will often be new goods on which I desire a special effort made.

This list, or a copy of it, is given to each of my three clerks, and they are told that those are the goods that they are expected to push during the coming week. They are also told what their commission will be. This percentage is not always the same.

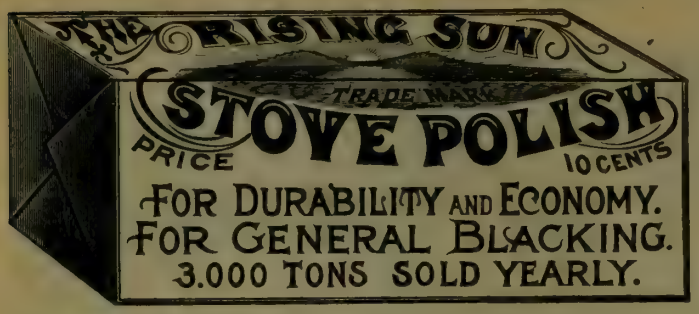
As an illustration of the method, I will use a familiar line of goods, viz., baking powder. I sell six brands, of which "Royal" is the leader. Besides "Royal" there is another cream of tartar powder, one alum, one phosphate and one cheap "scheme" powder. Several months ago I had a baking powder put up under my own brand. It is a pure cream of tartar powder, and just as good in every respect as the "Royal." Still, I had considerable difficulty in selling it, as it was not known at all.

My own powder cost me about 30c. per lb., and I sell it at 40c., which is a nice gross profit of 33⅓ per cent. This is the best-paying baking powder I sell, and very naturally, it is the one I wish to sell the most of. Besides this motive, however, I have another motive in pushing another powder than the "Royal." I am an enemy of the trusts, and I believe every grocer must be also if he is to stay in business. But that, as Rudyard Kipling says, is another story.

My clerks are told that they will be paid an extra commission of 6¼ per cent. on every pound of our own baking powder which they sell. This figures up about 2c. per lb. They are also offered a good per cent. on a long list of other goods. Two cents on a pound of baking powder seems little, but in our business it amounts to something in the course of a week or a month.

The total commissions a clerk can make by pushing the whole list of preferred goods become a sum worth making when the month's totals are footed up. The commissions are usually paid monthly, as the clerks prefer it. One of my clerks will make, as an extra commission during July, somewhat over $8, which is equivalent to an increase of $2 per week. This is unusually good, and scarcely represents the sums usually made. The large extras this month come from three or four well-bought drives that I cleared a big profit on.

My clerks are made to understand that they are not to nag customers. The minute the customer shows that she cannot be persuaded to take the preferred article, the clerk has positive instructions to drop the subject. There seem to be surprisingly few cases of this kind, however. It is astonishing what an influence three courteous clerks can exert when they are all working for the same goods. I find that when there were, say, 10 customers who did not respond willingly when the plan was first tried, there are not over five now. They are all coming around slowly.



This plan has worked a great change in my net profits. The plan was first put into operation in February, 1898. My business in 1898 was only 8 per cent. greater than in 1897, but my net profits were 15 per cent. greater, which I credit entirely to the plan. And in 1898 it was not working anywhere near so well as it is so far this year. The increase in the ratio of profits year, in proportion to the increase in business, will be much more marked than it was last year.

And a still greater advantage about this plan is that my business belongs to me, and not to the trusts and big advertisers.

CANNED CRABS.

A novel industry is being developed on the Eastern Shore, Md., according to an exchange. A packing company of Crisfield has discovered through their foreman, a process of canning soft crabs. This process has had a great effect on the crab business, and crabbers have had better markets this summer, and have made more money than for a number of years before. Restaurants and hotels find the canned soft-shell crabs much more convenient than the live goods. Green turtles and diamond-back terrapins are also being canned. Each can contains one Chesapeake diamond-back terrapin and the soup offered for sale is the excess from filling cans that contain terrapin. Hard-shell crab meat is also being canned, but this industry has been carried on for a number of years.

CHEAPER THAN THE HORSE.

How soon will the grocer discard his horse for the automobile. The Scientific American says that, at a cost of 5c. for power, the total cost for 42 miles of one wagon, one driver and one boy, including interest on wagon, interest on stable rent, etc., is 387.77c., as against 428.54c. for the horse-drawn vehicle with two horses. Hence, the cost per pound of delivery is 0.017c. less than the figures for the horse. But, in connection with these figures, it must be remembered that, while the horse averages 21 miles per day at 7 miles per hour, the automobile covers 42 miles at the rate of 9 miles per hour. Hence, the automobile can do the work of two horses in 1.34 hours less time, with a saving of 40.75c. per day on each 2,400 lb.

COMMON SOURCES OF LOSS.

At the recent grocery exhibition at London, England, a prize was offered for the best list of the 12 most common sources of depreciation in a grocer's stock. The winning essay read as follows :

Causes of waste and depreciation : 1, overbuying of perishable goods ; 2, unsalable goods are always depreciating ; 3, bacon cut up by inexperienced hands regardless of cost ; 4, eggs are being kept too long in original, damp or musty packing ; 5, oranges, lemons, etc., left in original cases ; 6, bad stockkeeping is a source of great loss ; 7, overbuying causes much depreciation and waste ; 8, paper thrown away as useless ; 9, string received with goods ; 10, goods exposed in windows to sun ; 11, sensitive dried goods allowed to remain in bags ; 12, paraffin kept in barrel for use evaporates very much.

Means of prevention : 1, Be more careful in buying ; 2, only buy actual salable goods ; 3, only a man understanding bacon should be allowed to serve it ; 4, should always be unpacked on arrival, and cracks sold at once ; 5, these should be repacked immediately upon arrival ; 6, keep a responsible man to look after it ; 7, buy only present necessities ; 8, all paper that arrives with goods it pays to string up again ; 10, should be guarded with blinds, and not allowed to stay in too long ; 11, should be kept in proper stock tins ; 12, should be put into proper cisterns.—Exchange.

ABOUT CLERKS.

THE following opinions, written for an exchange by a merchant, are well worthy the attention of not only the clerks, but employers generally:

Help.—It is a mistake to employ clerks who do not properly look after their employer's interest. A customer gets his impressions of the house by the treatment he receives from its clerks. He may be repelled or drawn towards them.

Attracting Trade.—A business, to be successful, must have power to attract and hold custom. A clerk who fails to do his share in this direction is a positive injury, and should be dismissed.

Elements of Success. — The success of many men in business has not been solely their shrewdness, but ability to correctly read human nature and surround themselves with efficient and reliable help.

Qualifications.—Some of the qualities of the good clerk are loyalty to his employer, alertness in attending to the wants of customers, politeness and geniality of manner, honesty and industry.

Disloyal Clerks. — The disloyal clerk should be promptly discharged. He may be bright, intelligent and industrious, but he will do his employer harm. He will be continually making unfavorable comparisons between his employer's business and others in the town, sparing no pains to inform those who will listen to his twaddle how much better the business might be run. Nothing suits him about the store and he scatters the seeds of discontent among his fellows.

Artful Dodgers.— The clerk who dodges out of sight when a customer enters, instead of approaching him with a smile and pleasant word, is also a hindrance.

Bashful Clerks.—It may be diffidence or natural disposition which keeps him in the background and allows his less experienced comrade to go to the front, but the employer should keep his eye on his men and encourage the timid ones to throw off their modesty and always be prepared to greet people promptly.

Courteousness—Politeness and geniality go a long way in holding trade, but with it the clerk must be well informed and qualified to intelligently explain the goods he attempts to sell. Gruffness and curtness are calculated to repel buyers.

Punctuality.—Promptness in sending out parcels has much to do with the welfare of a business.

An Instance in Point.—A party bought some goods at a store and asked that they be delivered that evening. Through carelessness of the clerk, however, who waited upon the lady the goods were not sent as requested. The next day was very rainy in the morning and it was supposed that noon would do. But before that time the customer, who probably thought the establishment considered her unworthy of credit, called and informed the salesman that he need not trouble to send her parcel, adding that there were other hardware stores in town, leaving the store without waiting for explanations.

THE ESSEX, ONT., TOBACCO CROP.

Latest estimates as to the acreage of tobacco in South Essex this year place the crop at 30 per cent. of last year's growth, but the turnout will probably reach somewhat over one-half of that grown last year.

Most of last year's tobacco is being picked up through South Essex by the different buyers. D. A. Wilson, tobacco expert, of Detroit, representing Mr. Riley, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., is purchasing this week in Gosfield South, and has managed to secure all the dark heavy tobacco in the township. He bought chiefly from Dr. King and Darius Wigle, the quality being Blue Prior. The St. Lawrence Tobacco Co. are among the new concerns making a VARIED OPINIONS OF TEA.

How very ridiculous to us of the present day seem the early prejudices and opinions of some of those men who lived but a century ago, and whose professions and social position enabled them to regulate public opinion, writes J. A. Willison in The New England Grocer. The Dutch claim to have introduced tea into Europe early in the seventeenth century, and it seems hardly credible to us that the innovation of this innocent and refreshing beverage should have caused so much opposition and dismay among the people of the Old World.

Many virulent pamphlets were published against its use. Hollanders dubbed it "hay-water"; Patin called it "the impertinent novelty of the age"; Hanneman, in Germany, looked upon tea dealers as immoral men, lying in wait for men's purses and lives, and men of science advanced the most absurd theories regarding this harmless shrub.

"The progress of this famous plant, however," says an ingenious writer, "has been something like the progress of truth, suspected at first, though very palatable to those who had the courage to taste it, resisted as it encroached, abused as its popularity seemed to spread, and established its triumph at last, in cheering the whole land from the palace to the cottage, only by the slow and resistless efforts of time and its own virtues."

In China, the native home of the plant, poets never tire of its praises. "Drink tea," says one, "and the animal spirits will be lively and clear." That this shrub has some quality which highly recommends it, is shown by its general use. The "bubbling and loud hissing urn" daily throws up its "steaming column" from nearly every American table as the liquor is poured into the cups. It is said that tea is drunk by more than half the population of the globe, and that millions of pounds are grown, sold and consumed every year.

Benjamin Franklin tells an amusing story of the queer notions some people of his day had of the manner of preparing tea. A family of his acquaintance received a small quantity of it as a Christmas present. They had heard of tea, but knew nothing of how it should be used. In the first place, a portion of it was boiled in a pot, salted and peppered, and then the family attempted to eat the leaves. These they found very bitter and determined to try another method of cooking; so they put them into a pan and fried them. This was no better. Other ways were tried, but unsuccessfully, so the tea was laid aside as useless.

Thomas Garway, who first sold and retailed tea in England, as early as 1660, recommended it for the cure of all disorders. Many nobles, physicians, and others sent to Garway for the article and his method of preparing it. When first introduced into England, it sold as high as 60s. per lb., but now a fairly good tea can be bought at 60c. per lb., thus enabling other than the rich to enjoy "the cup that cheers, but does not inebriate."

COLLECTING OLD ACCOUNTS.

IT appears that an unpaid bill of long standing keeps the debtor away from the creditor's store as effectively as though a plague were raging there, says The Dry-goodsman.

How unfortunate it is that debtors who may be unable to pay, have not got the gumption to tell a merchant plainly that they are unable to pay their bills, that they will do so just as soon as they are able, and that until they are able they will continue to trade with their creditor and pay cash for what they buy. Action of this nature would rob bad bills and losses of their sting.

When a person fails to meet his bills, and through this cause ceases to deal with his creditors, the creditor should not hesitate to speak to the debtor regarding the matter, and say: "Mr. Can't Pay, you know you owe me for some goods bought of me. I realize the fact that you cannot pay me just now, but I know that you will do so just as soon as you are able. Now, I want you to keep on trading with me. Your cash trade is just as good to me as anybody else, and I believe I am entitled to it. I won't bother you about that bill. I know it will be all right some time."

If you succeed in getting their trade back, just treat them as though they didn't owe you a penny. You may find it profitable.

Business rivalry in a town should not prevent the merchants in a town from having a little credit bureau of their own. They should exchange confidential reports to each other regarding the accounts and standing of the people in the community, but the privilege should not be abused by anyone.

When mortgages on crops are taken as security for goods sold it can hardly be considered a credit transaction, although many losses are entailed when crops prove failures. It would be advisable when a doubt exists as to the quality of such security to have an extension clause in the mortgage covering crops for two or more successive years. In this way a merchant continues his protection at least a year longer.

Many merchants cannot afford to give credit even though they may feel disposed to do so, because of their limited capital.

The refusal of credit should always be made in such a way as to give no offence to the person asking it.

Refusing credit in a cold or harsh manner reacts strongly to the disadvantage of a merchant, as those who are refused may speak ill of a merchant who refuses them, and being spoken badly of is not conductive to the profit or progress of any man, be he a merchant or not.

A very safe plan for a merchant beginning business, or even an old established one, to pursue is to limit his credit to an amount that will approximate his net profit on cash sales. By closely following this rule, he will be always in a position to keep up very satisfactory communication with his own bases of supply, and, should a merchant's creditors press him hard occasionally, he will find it very convenient to be able to show a stock of goods equal or excessive in value to the amount of their claims. A merchant will find this to be a splendid implement to extend the patience of his creditors should it be necessary.

Summing up the credit question, it may be likened unto a business tonic, which, used according to the directions of prudence and wisdom, proves very healthy to business, but used without much consideration and in an uncautious manner, proves very disastrous and destructive.

WHAT IS VINEGAR?

The word vinegar is derived from the French "vinaigre," which literally means sour wine. The vinegars of commerce are divided into two classes, says an exchange. In one class, the sugar of various substances is changed by fermentation into alcohol, and the latter is again changed into acetic acid by another ferment.

mycoderma aceti. The vinegars from wine, malt, cider and sugar belong to this class. The other kind, pyroligneous acid, is obtained by the distillation of wood. When wood is heated in iron retorts, out of contact with air, gases are evolved, and water, tar and other products are collected in receivers, while the coke or charcoal remains behind. From the liquor, on rectifying, acetone, wood alcohol and acetic acid are separated and purified. The wood vinegar, or spurious vinegar of commerce, is made by diluting this acetic acid with water, and coloring it with caramel, to match the appearance of malt and other standard vinegars.

SNOBBERY IN TRADE.

A Boston daily recently asked: "Why is it the grocerymen show undisguised contempt for each other in the presence of a customer?" This question might be capped by another, in the following form: Why do many grocers invite popular contempt for their business by showing symptoms of being ashamed of it?

The word "grosser," the original form of "grocer," explains New York Merchants' Review, meant a dealer in gross lots—a large dealer—and if any business ought to inspire pride in those belonging to it and respect in outsiders, surely it is a business with such an origin.

An elderly farmer of considerable means, having disposed of his farm and bought out a local grocer—because he thought the grocery business was easy and remunerative—was as successful as his most sanguine friends could expect, but still did not seem to be happy. One day, an old neighbor, meeting the ex-farmer in the street, asked him how he liked the grocery business. "Don't like it at all," was the reply. "When I had my farm, everybody in the place was glad to see me, and if I called upon them I was received at the front door and ushered in with welcome words. When I call now, I have to go to the back door, for a visit at the main entrance wouldn't be relished, and, moreover, would set all the necks acraning in the supposition that I was on a dunning trip."

The ex-farmer, indeed, could not be consoled; before, he had been somebody; now, he was only a grocer—the haunter of back doors and the butt of popular satire regarding the surreptitious uses of building material as an ingredient of sugar.

The ex-farmer, it has been seen, took too gloomy a view of his position, and yet it must be admitted that in the newest circles of society the credentials of a grocer would not insure the applicant a very warm reception, unless he could point to a heavy bank balance.

For the existence of this feeling, however, the grocers themselves are answerable, because so many of them have shown a disposition to look contemptuously upon their means of livelihood and to leave it as soon as an opportunity in a more "genteel" occupation presents itself.

WINNIPEG'S JULY TRADE.

During July last Winnipeg exported goods to the value of $167,859, as compared with $112,015 in 1898, showing an increase of $55,844, almost 50 per cent.

In the same month the imports of that city amounted to $766,279, as compared with $698,927 last year, showing an increase of $67,352, or about 10 per cent.

SCOTCH HERRING FISHING.

ACCORDING to recent advices from Aberdeen, the Scotch herring fishing at the various stations on the coast of Scotland was prosecuted under very adverse conditions, and, as a consequence, the results are very discouraging to the fishermen, curers and all concerned. Indeed, the herring catch on the east coast so far is described as a failure, and not since the poor year of 1888 have matters been as bad as they are at present. The first week of July only made a total of 6,000 crans for the east coast, exclusive of Orkney and Shetland. The second week was better, yet the result came to the small total of 13,000 crans. It is estimated that the decrease will amount to over 250,000 crans. At the P.A.F. stations alone the decrease comes to about 190,000 crans. It can hardly, however, be said that the failure is due to the scarcity of fish, for the conditions have never been the least favorable to prove their scarcity or not. The calm weather alone is to blame for the disastrous results, for, if the boats had got to the desired fishing ground, they would have never been able to return with their catches. For days, if not for weeks, the experience along the coast has practically been "no stir in the sea," and what the fishermen desiderate is not only wind for their sails, but that the sea itself should be stirred up.

While, as yet, things have not taken definite shape along the east coast, but have proved, so far, a failure, it must be tantalizing to fishermen and curers to see such good fishing being experienced at Stornoway and Shetland. The week's fishing in Shetland ran up to the splendid total of 21,700 crans, which now makes the catch to date 154,670. A large number of east coast boats, learning of the success which had attended the fishing in Shetland during the week, were induced to return to Lerwick, and have since been doing well. Peterhead and Wick curers have also commenced operations there. Since it has become known in Germany that the Shetland full herrings have been so plentiful, a reduction in price has followed, but mediums and matties are obtaining former rates, or nearly so. The latest quotations from Stettin and other important centres are: Fulls, 28 to 30 marks per barrel; mediums, 26 to 27, and matties, 24 to 26. At the end of the week, a considerable number of the east coast boats left for home, and they will make a start at the fishing during the present week.

As a result of this condition of affairs, the packers in Scotland look for high prices on Scotch fish delicacies, and some of them have advised their agents that offers will only be accepted subject to confirmation at the date of shipment.

A CANNED CORN SYNDICATE.

According to sales agents in Montreal, a syndicate has been formed in Western Ontario which now controls over 100,000 cases of this season's pack of canned corn, the latest purchases being on the basis of 72½c. per dozen. Of course, if they are successful in controlling the output, higher prices will rule, but buyers and jobbers generally say that the scheme has been tried before and that the effects were only temporary, the range of artificially stimulated prices being of short duration. Accordingly, though willing to operate at a reasonable level, they will not concede extreme prices.

UNITED STATES BUTTER EXPORTS.

THE Agricultural Department of the United States has been devoting considerable attention to the export butter trade of that country. This trade has not developed; in fact, it has retrograded in the past three years.

In 1880 the United States, according to The New York Journal of Commerce, exported 39,000,000 lb. of butter. Since then these figures have never been equalled, and rarely approached. The highest figure of recent years was that of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, when 31,690,025 lb. were exported. This fell in 1898 to 25,690,025 lb., and in 1899 to 20,247,997 lb.

The British market is, of course, the greatest consumer of butter. That country, in 1897, the big export year of the United States, imported 3,217,801 cwt. of butter. Of this, 1,334,728 cwt. were brought from Denmark; 154,196 cwt. from the United States; 109,402 cwt. from Canada, and 1,619,475 cwt. from all other countries.

These figures are conclusive evidence that exports from this side of the Atlantic are a very small percentage of the total import of Great Britain, the United States sending but 5 per cent. and Canada but 3 per cent. of the whole importation in that year.

While the exports from the United States have fallen off over 30 per cent. in the two fiscal years since 1897, the exports from Canada have much increased. Last year we sent a few thousand dollars worth less than in 1897, but the exports from Montreal from the opening of navigation to August 9, have been 162,559 packages, as compared with 73,276 packages up to the same time last year, showing an increase of 121 per cent. for the period.

From the inquiry made by the United States Agricultural Department, the conclusion is drawn that the reason the United States export butter trade does not grow is that the butter producers are indifferent to the trade, and, as a consequence, there is neither a continuous supply for export nor good refrigerator service between United States ports and Great Britain.

BRIGHT TRADE CONDITIONS IN CANADA.

IT is no exaggeration to say that never in the history of the Dominion were the trade conditions so good or the auguries for the future so promising.

The manufacturing industries have certainly never before reached such a high state of development, and they were certainly never so busy.

The difficulty with them now is not the securing of orders, but the filling of them. This is true of every branch of the manufacturing trades. Then merchants, wholesale and retail, have not much cause for complaint. They have, for some months, been experiencing a brisk trade, while payments have been as satisfactory as they have probably ever been.

The agricultural industry, which is after all the chief industry in the country, is in a better condition than for many years. The price of wheat is 1c. per bushel lower than it was a year ago, but cheese, butter, eggs and bacon are dearer than they have been in August during the last six years. In fact, one of the best evidences as to the condition of the farmer is the general manner in which he is repairing old buildings and constructing new.

The lumber industry is perhaps not as brisk relatively as most of the other staple industries of the country, but a good business, and one that is decidedly the best for some years, is being done. The demand, both at home and abroad, is better. Mail advices from Liverpool show that from January, up to July, the aggregate tonnage of lumber received from British North America was about 27,000 tons in excess of the same period last year. The exports of lumber the produce of Canada during the fiscal year ending June 30 last were $28,025,487, compared with $26,533,060 the preceding year, an increase of $1,492,427, or nearly 5¼ per cent.

Turning to the mining industries, they are beyond all peradventure in a more active condition than ever. This is particularly true of the gold, coal and copper mines.

One of the best barometers as to the commercial condition of a country like Canada is its railways. And in the reading of these we again find food for satisfaction.

The gross earnings of the two great systems in the country aggregated, for the seven months ending July 31, $29,171,761, against $26,887,880 for the same period in 1898. The earnings of the Grand Trunk were $14,116,398, against $13,240,498, and of the Canadian Pacific, $15,055,363, against $13,647,382.

Still another reliable trade barometer is the bank clearings. Leaving out of the comparison the cities of Victoria and Vancouver, which in 1898 had no clearing houses, we find that the aggregate clearings for the seven months ending July 31 were $874,737,024, an increase of 9.5 per cent. over the same period in 1898, and of 26.5 per cent. over 1897.

Turning to the exports of goods, the product of the Dominion, for the fiscal year ending June 30 last, the aggregate figures are not as favorable as those of the preceding year, being $6,726,588. But when one comes to analyze the figures there is more in them for congratulation than for commiseration. Here is a table showing the exports, for the two years, of home products, exclusive of bullion and coin:

	1898.	1899.
Mine	$13,998,655	$13,351,064
Fisheries	10,793,852	9,947,957
Forest	26,533,060	28,025,487
Animals and their products	44,242,825	46,688,229
Agricultural products	33 234,004	23,014,314
Manufactures	10,455,289	11,457,162
Miscellaneous	146,894	201,478
Total	$139,402,279	$132,675,691

The decrease, it will be noted, is more than accounted for by the falling off in "agricultural products." And the depreciation in the latter is neither due to the want of a market abroad or the want of the material to export: It was due to the activity of the home demand and to the fact that farmers were in a better position to hold their wheat and did so. And many of them are holding it yet. The increase of over $2,400,000 in animals and their products, of $1,500,000 in products of the forest, and of over $1,000,000 in manufactured goods may be accounted pretty good salve for the decrease in other particulars. But if that should not be sufficient it might be pointed out that the total export trade of the United States also fell off during the past fiscal year. And yet we know that the commercial activity experienced by that country during the fiscal year 1899 was the greatest in its history.

AN UNBUSINESSLIKE HOUSE.

IF the business transacted during the session of the Dominion Parliament just closed, was in proportion to the length of the session, the country would scarcely suffer if the House did not meet again for two or three years. But, unfortunately, there was no such proportion.

The House was in session five months, and the solid business transacted during that time could easily be crowded into five weeks.

The members were sent there to transact business, but business was the exception and party strife the rule. And in the party combats some of the members managed to keep their tongues going as many hours a day as a laborer is expected to wield his pickaxe.

The average member seems to have about as little concern for the business interests of the country as he has for the welfare of the party on the other side of the House.

The people of this country do not send representatives to Ottawa to rehash stump speeches which have already probably been rehashed a score or more of times. Neither do they send them to pass resolutions to prove the loyalty of this country to the Empire. The Empire is already possessed of the proof of this. Nor did they send them to the capital to libel each other in a way that would land them in goal if uttered outside the precincts of the House. They sent them there to do business. Because they did those things which they ought not to have done and left undone the things they ought to have done they are deserving of the strongest censure. And the business men in every constituency throughout the country should not hesitate to express to their respeciive representatives their displeasure at the unbusinesslike practices which were so characteristic of the last session of Parliament.

DECLINE IN RAW SUGAR.

THERE has been a heavy and abrupt decline in the price of raw beet sugar in London during the past ten days. On Wednesday, of last week, beet was quoted at 10s. 9¾d. for August, and 10s. 6¾d. for September delivery, these figures representing a decline of 1½d. to 2¼d. on the previous week. Since then prices have slumped off still further, cables on Tuesday quoting August 4½d., and September 3d. lower, at 10s. 5¼d., and 10s. 3¾d. respectively. The aggregate decline, therefore, since the easiness set in has been from 6d. to 6¾d. This easiness has, however, been solely confined to beet stock, for raw cane sugar has ruled steady all along in London, while beet was falling. On Tuesday, Java was cabled at 12s 9d., and fair refining, 11s. 9d., the identical prices at which they stood ten days ago. The refined article, both in Canada and the United States, has as yet been unaffected by the easiness in beet at London. In fact, the Montreal refiners are holding prices firm at the former rise, and assert that if the demand is maintained in its present volume at any length, the trade need not be surprised if another advance in price is made. This independence on their part is due to the fact that their stock of refined is unusually low. The cutting between jobbers in Montreal has also been abandoned, and the market generally is in a more satisfactory condition than it was two weeks ago.

A SAFE VOTING MACHINE.

THE revelations at recent election trials have helped to bring into prominence the voting machine invented by John Waddell, grocer, Harriston, Ont.

This machine is a numerical recorder, the voter pulling out a handle under the designated name of whom he wishes to vote for. The pulling out of the handle moves a drum which displays one consecutive number for each time the handle is pulled out, and the drum will not move again or change its number, however often the handle may be pulled in or out, until the returning officer has moved a lever at the back or end of the box. In fact, the returning officer has, by this lever, to set the mechanism of the box for each vote recorded, and a voter can only operate one handle at a time, as the fact of pulling out one handle, locks all the rest of the handles of the box.

Special committees of the House of Commons have examined this machine, but, though the reports were all favorable to it, the box has never been adopted, as it would necessitate a complete change in the mode of voting.

The number of those who believe it would be beneficial to change our mode of voting, if by so doing ballot-stuffing would be made impossible, has increased greatly of late.

BETTER THAN THE KLONDYKE.

Two years ago the wheat crop of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories was placed at 16,000,000 bushels. Last year it was about 25,000,000 bushels.

This year, it is estimated by competent authorities, such as W. W. Ogilvie, the Montreal flour miller, that the crop will be at least 40,000,000 bushels, and, if favorable weather continues throughout the next few weeks — the harvesting period, the production will be fully 50,000,000 bushels.

The wonderful wealth of the Klondyke has often been extolled of late. This year the clean-up is estimated at between $12,000,000 and $20,000,000.

It can be seen at a glance that the wealth of the wheat areas of the Northwest is still greater than the golden regions in the valley of the Yukon.

What this remarkable development of our wheat areas means to the business men of both Western and Eastern Canada will be harder to figure out. One of the first results of good crops is always increased demand for the necessities and luxuries of home life. And this case is not likely to be an exception.

LIVE HOGS DEARER.

In the past ten days the price of live hogs has advanced from $5.25 per cwt. to $5.62½, an advance of 37½c. This advance has been made possible by the strengthening tone of the British provision market. The difficulty of securing sufficient supplies of hogs of the right size has also helped to cause prices to stiffen here.

The natural result of these advances will be a rising provision market. Hams are this week ½ to 1c. per lb. dearer than they were a week ago.

A SILLY ARGUMENT PRICKED.

AS everyone who has at all studied the matter knows, the route to China and Japan is much shorter from Vancouver than from San Francisco.

This fact has made the Canadian route to the Orient so popular as to incur the displeasure of some of the newspapers in California. Naturally, they have been looking for arguments in favor of the route from their own country. And the conclusions the Seattle and San Francisco papers have arrived at are to the effect that, while the Canadian route is the shorter geographically, this is minimized by the fogs and storms which are alleged to prevail on the northern route.

If this were so, the time occupied by the steamers, in making the respective routes, would reflect it. But figures which have recently been published show that they do not. The following table gives the average time taken by the steamers on the Canadian route during the years 1895 to 1898:

	West-bound. Hrs.	Min.	East-bound. Hrs.	Min.
1895	303	41	285	16
1896	303	30	289	32
1897	298	36	287	44
1898	302	32	287	16

Now the schedule time of the boats running from San Francisco and Yokohama via Honolulu is as follows: West-bound, 439 hours; east-bound, 363 hours. On the basis of this time and the distance via Honolulu the schedule time between San Francisco and Yokohama direct would be; West-bound, 425 hours; eastbound, 351 hours. The speed of the San Francisco lines, according to their schedule is: West-bound, 12½ knots; east-bound, 12.9 knots.

The boats running from Vancouver, which are of course owned by the C.P.R., easily maintain an average speed per annum of 14½ knots west-bound and of 15 knots east-bound.

If the Seattle and San Francisco papers want to create arguments that will tell against the Canadian route to the Orient, it is obvious they will be compelled to construct it out of better material than they have hitherto.

Perhaps we may be able to help them. Everyone knows the air of the ocean is pure and bracing, and that, therefore, the longer you are on it the better. We merely suggest this as an outline. The San Francisco and Seattle papers can do the filling in.

ONTARIO MARKETS

TORONTO, August 17, 1899.

GROCERIES.

GENERALLY speaking, there is a lull in the wholesale grocery business just now, the withdrawal of western Ontario travelers from the road causing quite a reduction in orders. After the travelers start out again, on Monday, a lively trade is looked for. Sugars are comparatively quiet, as just now is between preserving seasons. Berries are nearly all preserved, and the larger fruits have not yet commenced to arrive freely enough for preserving. There is a stiffening feeling in the canned goods market. The general opinion seems to be that the salmon pack will be considerably smaller than that of last year. The dry weather is interfering with the growth of tomatoes and corn, and is causing a stronger feeling for these vegetables. There is no change in prices. The tea market continues strong with steady business doing. The Sultana raisin market opened in Smyrna rather higher than last year, but a subsequent cable states that prices will be lower than ruled last season. The first shipments of currants will be made at a lower basis than was the case last year. Californian prunes are beginning to move in carload lots. Prices are about the same as a year ago.

CANNED GOODS.

The feeling continues to strengthen. Reports from salmon-packers at the Coast are conflicting, but the general belief is that the pack will be considerably lighter than that of last season. The hot weather is deterring the growth of corn and tomatoes and causing a stiffening in the feeling regarding futures. In many cases quotations for future delivery of tomatoes have been withdrawn, and it is doubtful if purchases could be made under 85c. Corn is unchanged, wholesalers still quoting 75 to 80c. for future and 95c. to $1 for present delivery. Peas are steady at 75 to 80c. There continues a good sale of canned meats, etc., at unchanged prices.

COFFEES.

A moderate, but steady, trade is being done. The feeling regarding price continues steady.

SUGARS.

The demand is somewhat quieter than it has been, but a general improvement is looked for when the larger fruits, apples, pears, peaches, etc., are ready for preserving. The London market shows an easier feeling in raw beet sugar. This, however, is generally thought to be due to manipulation on the part of speculators. Locally the feeling is firm, but prices are unaltered. The Guild price is $4.65 Toronto for St. Lawrence and Redpath refined sugars and $4.60 for Acadia. Foreign granulated is quoted at $4.60 Toronto.

TEAS.

A cable just received from Shanghai, states that the offerings of low-grade tea at that port are small, and that prices are higher than last year. Firsts and seconds are expected to sell at about the same price as was paid at the opening a year ago.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

Japan tea is commencing to move in moderate quantities at prices 1c. above last season's. Supplies of Ceylon tea are coming to hand slowly, with a general firmness, especially in the lower grades.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—Cable advices just received quote currants by shipment on first boats at prices rather lower than a year ago. Buyers, however, are holding off for still lower quotations.

SULTANA RAISINS — Samples of early arrivals of Sultana raisins, which are now arriving at Smyrna, have been received in Toronto. This fruit, being of the first arrivals, is somewhat immature, but was readily bought at comparatively high prices. Cable advices since received state that prices at the real "opening" of this season were just about the same as those of last year, but that lower quotations are looked for. Late advices state that recent rains and cool weather have greatly improved the crop prospects.

PRUNES — Buyers are commencing to freely operate in Californian prunes, and several carload orders have been passed at prices above last season's range.

GREEN FRUITS.

The heavy receipts of tomatoes are the feature of the market. It is estimated that between 4,000 and 5,000 baskets of tomatoes were received at the Scott street market on Tuesday. This has brought the price to 15 to 20c., a decline of 5c., which so increased sales that this large amount was well cleared out by Tuesday night. Some canners have commenced operations, and others are expected to begin in a few days. The present indications point towards a large crop this year, yet prices are likely to keep firm after the canners are purchasing freely. The dark variety of early peaches are done. The light earlies, known as "Rivers," are offering freely at 20 to 35c., a decline of 5c. from last week's quotations. Canadian Bartlett pears are starting to arrive in fair quantities, and sell readily at 40 to 50c. per basket. The most of those in are not fully ripened, however, and prices are likely to be dearer when the ripe stock arrives. Common early pears sell readily at 25 to 40c. Canadian plums are coming in large quantities, and are in good demand at 30 to 50c., a decline of 20c. The large receipts of poor bananas have brought the price of common grades to $1, a decline of 25c. Bunches of this fruit that can be shipped safely are steady at $1.50 to $1.75. Red currants and gooseberries are done. Huckleberries are coming in very large quantities, and, though the demand is good, prices have been reduced 10 to 15c. There is a glut of inferior muskmelons, but good stock sells well. Watermelons are selling in good style at 15 to 25c., a decline of 5c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The decline noted last week was but temporary, lasting but a day or two. Prices have again advanced to 13 to 13½c., though some lots are still sold at 12½c. The home demand keeps pretty good, almost absorbing all arrivals. The export trade being done is light, because of the high prices here.

BEANS—Practically nothing doing. Prices are nominally $1 to $1.10 for hand-picked and 80 to 90c. for ordinary stock.

POTATOES—The feeling is slightly firmer, because of the arrival of better stocks. The demand is good and prices are 5c. dearer for best stock, the range now being 50 to 60c. per bushel.

VEGETABLES—Cauliflower is 25c. to 50c. dearer. Cucumbers are 5c. to 10c. cheaper. Butter beans have declined 25c. per bushel. There is a good demand throughout, with tomatoes, butter beans, green cucumbers, and corn arriving more freely. We quote: Cauliflower, $1 to $1.50 per doz.; Rhubarb, 15 to 20c.; radishes, 15c. per dozen bunches; corn, 8 to 10c. per doz.; vegetable marrow, 40 to 60c. per doz.; green onions, 5 to 10c. per doz.; celery, 50c. to 75c. per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz., 30 to 50c.; parsley, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; green cucumbers, 5 to 10c. per doz.; new beets, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; parsnips, 40 to 60c. per dozen bunches; carrots, 20 to 30c. per doz. bunches; green peas, $1 to $1.10 per bag; butter beans, 75c. to $1 per bushel; tomatoes, 20 to 25c. per basket.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There seems to be no let-up in the stiffening of butter values. A better feeling and prices on the British market this week has resulted in advances of 1c. in all grades of both creamery and dairy. Prices of all grades are now at a higher basis than they have been at any time during August in six years. The home demand keeps large, and local dealers compete energetically with exporters for supplies. Dairy pound prints are now quoted at 17 to 18c.; best tubs at 16 to 17c.; second grade tubs at 12 to 14c. Creamery tubs and boxes are worth 19 to 20c., and prints and squares, 21 to 22c.

CHEESE—The cheese market also shows a steadily stiffening tendency. An advance of ½ to 1c. is noted this week, the local prices being at present 10½ to 11c. per lb. On cheese boards, from 10⅛ to 10 3-16c. is commonly paid. Some exporters are talking of 12c. September cheese, and the outlook at present seems to favor such prices. The local demand is good, considering the high prices ruling.

FISH.

The scarcity of the past few weeks is still interfering with sales. Trout and whitefish, which are especially scarce, are ½c. dearer this week. We quote: Trout, 8c.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; maskinonge, 8c.; pickerel, 7½c.; perch, 4c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; cod in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.

PROVISIONS.

The price of live hogs continues to go higher, an advance of 12½c. bringing the price now up to $5.62½ per cwt. This advance is a result of better feeling and prices in the British market, which is taking all Canadian offerings at steadily improving prices. As this clears up all surplus stock, the competition for home trade by packers is not keen, as it is difficult to secure sufficient hogs to supply demand. The price of all hog products, therefore, is firm, with an advance of ½ to 1c. in hams, which are now selling at 12½ to 13½c.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—There seems to be a rather easier feeling, yet prices are well maintained at 68c. outside for both red and white. A fair delivery is noted on the street market with prices steady. We quote as follows: Wheat, white and red, 71c.; goose, 68c.; peas, 62 to 65c.; oats, 34 to 35c.; barley, 43 to 44c.; rye, 51 to 53c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat is unchanged at 80c. Toronto.

FLOUR—There is a moderate business doing. Prices are unchanged. We quote as follows: Manitoba patents, $3.90; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.60; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—There is no change. We quote as follows: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.75 in bags and $3.85 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL

HIDES—There is a good demand at firm prices. We quote cowhides: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9c.

SKINS—Prices are firm and unchanged, and a good demand absorbs all supplies. We quote: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 9c. per lb.; No. 2, 7c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheepskins are worth 90c. to $1, and lambskins, 35 to 40c.

WOOL—The bulk of this season's clip seems to be in the hands of dealers. These find little inquiry. No sales are reported yet. We quote fleece at 14 to 14¼c., and unwashed at 8 to 9c.

SALT.

The demand continues good. Prices unchanged. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote F.O.B., barrels, 70c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English coarse salt 47 to 49c. Toronto per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Hams are ½ to 1c. per lb. dearer.

Red peppers are now selling well, at 60 to 75c. per basket. Gooseberries and red currants are done.

All grades of butter have advanced 1c.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, August 17, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE wholesale grocery market has exhibited a seasonable degree of activity during the week, but there are few striking features to report. Raw beet has been cabled much easier from London, but the fact has not affected refined here, and trade has been brisk in this staple. Molasses is firmly held, though offers to arrive are reported at a shading on prices asked for stock here. Canned goods of all sorts are firmly held. Valencia raisins are steady in tone and primary advices are of a firm nature. Rice, coffee and spices show no material change, while the tea market has exhibited a fair degree of activity.

SUGAR.

Business in sugar has been active since the recent rise in prices, and the prospects are that it will continue so, as stocks throughout the country are generally admitted to be down to a pretty low level. Cutting in prices between wholesalers is a thing of the past, making a more satisfactory condition of business. At the factory, granulated is now selling at $4.55, and yellows at from $3.65 to $4.30 per 100 lb. In London, the market on beet has been weak, and declined from 6d. to 6¾d. within the past 10 days, with trade extremely dull at the decline, August being cabled to-day at 10s. 5¼d., and September 10s. 3¾d. Cane, on the other hand, has ruled steady but quiet, with prices unchanged, Java being quoted at 12s. 9d., and fair refining at 11s. 9d. In New York, raw sugar has been easier this week and lower, fair refining selling at 4c., centrifugal, 96 test, 4 9-16c., and molasses sugar, 3⅞c. Refined sugar there is quiet, but about steady.

SYRUPS.

There is nothing new to note in syrups, business being exceedingly quiet, and prices unchanged at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., as to quality, at the factory.

Subscribers wanting goods or special quotations on anything anywhere in Canada at any time, can get them by mail or wire by corresponding with THE CANADIAN GROCER, Toronto or Montreal.

MOLASSES.

The Barbadoes molasses market is firm in tone, but the volume of business is small, as buyers and sellers are somewhat apart in their ideas of value. Holders of goods on spot are firm at 34½c. in round lots, but it is claimed that this figure would be shaded for molasses to arrive. In a jobbing way a fair trade is reported, and prices are unchanged at 35c. for carload lots and 36c. for single puncheons.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been nothing doing in new pack corn lately, because it is held too high for buyers' views. In new pack tomatoes, peas and beans there is nothing new to report, except that prices are very firmly held here. There is a fair demand for spot goods, and sales in a small way are reported at the following: Tomatoes, 75c.; corn, 90c., and peas and beans 75 to 77½c. per dozen.

A small sorting-up trade is noted this week in canned fruits, with values steady and unchanged. We quote: Apples, 3 lb., 75c.; preserved, $1.40; 1 gal. tins, $2; pears, 3 lb., $1.80; plums, 3 lb., $1.60; greengages, 3 lb., $1,75; yellow peaches, 3 lb., $2.25; pumpkins, 3 lb., $3.65; strawberries, preserved, $1.35; do., in syrup, $1,15; raspberries, preserved, $1.40; do., in syrup, $1.15.

There is no new feature in new pack salmon. Buyers generally have placed their orders, and new business is nil for the reason that the majority of packers have withdrawn from the market with the exception of one cannery, who ask $4.75 f.o.b. Coast, agents accepting orders subject to confirmation at the cannery. All estimates seem to agree that the pack will fall short of last year's, and for this reason values are firmly held. The demand for French sardines has been fair and some large orders have been booked of late at firm prices. Prices are unchanged: Small quarters, $7.50 to $8; ordinary, $7.75 to $8.25; full quarters, $10.50 to $11; American do., $13.50 to $14; boneless, high halves, $22 to $23; low do., $18.50 to $19.50; high quarters, $16 to $17, and low do., $10.50 to $11.50.

DRIED FRUITS.

There is no change in the position of this market, the tendency being strong as all fruit in first hands is completely exhausted, the last lot of 900 boxes Valencias being placed the other day at 4c. for fine off-stalk. Private cables from Denia state that the market there is strong, and quoted fine off-stalk at 16s. f.o.b. for first shipment via Liverpool, which figure is equal to a fraction over 5c. laid down here. By the first direct steamer the same quality of fruit is offered at a price equal to 4½c. here in Montreal.

RICE.

A fairly active trade is reported in rice, and prices show no change. We quote: B standard, $3.40 to $3.50; Patnas, $4.12½ to $4.75; Japans, $4.50 to $5, and Caroline, $6 to $7.

COFFEES.

The demand for coffee is slow, and the market almost motionless. Maracaibo bean, in bags, is quoted at 8 to 14c.; Mocha, 18 to 19c.; Java, 16 to 20c.; Rio, 8 to 9½c., and Santos, 8 to 9½c.

SPICES.

Business in spices is quiet, but prices are firmly held. We quote as follows: Singapore black pepper, 12½ to 13c., and Singapore white, 19½ to 20c. Penang pepper, 17½ to 18c., and West Coast, 12 to 13c. Pimento, 11 to 12c. Nutmegs, 28 to 44c., as to quality. Cassia, 9 to 10c.; Jamaica ginger, 19½ to 20c.; Cochin tips ginger, 6 to 6½c.; Zanzibar cloves, 9 to 10c.; nutmegs, 40 to 55c., and mace, 45 to 50c.

TEAS.

A moderate amount of business is noted in teas. Inquiry for old crop Japan has been better, and several fair-sized lines have been placed around 12c. Some 400 packages gunpowder also changed hands at 11 to 12½c. Several moderate-sized lots of new Japans have been turned over at prices ranging from 15½ to 20c., and other sales of new crop Japans, amounting to 500 packages, were placed at 16 to 17c. Some small parcels of Ceylons sold at 17½c., and good low-grade old medium Japans are firm at 13 to 14c.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been very little change in the green fruit business since last report. Raspberries are out of the market, and imported tomatoes have been put out of camp by the abundance of domestic stock offering. Bananas have been in more liberal receipt this week, but the supply is not more than equal to the demand. Sales range between $1 and $1.50 per bunch, as to quality. Oranges remain unchanged at $3.25 to $4 per box, with a very limited business doing. Lemons are quiet, and range all the way from $2 to $3, as to quality. Large quantities of Canadian seasonable fruits arrive daily, but, being of the early varieties, find a rather slow sale. Canadian peaches are commanding 35 to 50c. per basket, as to size; pears, 30 to 35c.; Lombard plums, 50 to 65c.; Lawtonberries, 5 to 7c. Muskmelons are very plentiful, and are offering at $1 to $1.50 per crate, as to size. The heavy arrivals of Californian fruit have made prices easier. Although the receipts have been heavy, they have been readily bought up at the following prices: Pears, $2.10 to $2.40; peaches, $1.25 to $1.40, and plums, $1.30 to $1.60. Canadian apples have been arriving more plentifully, and are offering at $2.50 to $3 per bbl.

FISH.

Prices are largely nominal on all sorts of fish. We quote: Fresh haddock and cod at 3 to 4c. for haddock, and 3 to 3½c. for cod; British Columbia salmon, 12 to 13c.; halibut, 13 to 14c.; salt fish: Green cod, $4.25 to $4.50 for No. 1, and $5 for No. 1 large per barrel; dry cod, $4; Nova Scotia herring, $4.25 to $4.50 in barrels; Cape Breton, $4.75 in barrels; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $14 to $15; sea trout, $9.50 to $10; lake trout, $4.25 to $4.50 per keg of 100 lb.; No. 1 green haddock, $4 to $4.25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The market continues unchanged as to values, through supplies are rather liberal. We quote as follows: Choice candled stock at 15 to 15½c.; ordinary at 12½ to 13c.; and No. 2 at 10 to 12c. per dozen.

MAPLE PRODUCT—Continues quiet and unchanged. We quote: Syrup, in wood, 6½ to 7c. per lb., and at 85 to 90c. per tin. Sugar, at 8½ to 9c. per lb.

HONEY—Meets a fair inquiry at steady prices. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 9 to 10c.; dark, 7 to 8c.; white extracted, 7½ to 8c., and dark at 4½ to 5c.

BEANS—Continue featureless. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

POTATOES—Are quiet and steady at 35 to 40c. per bag, and 70 to 80c. per bbl.

ASHES—Are without change. We quote: First sorts, $3.70 to $3.75; seconds, $3.50, and first pearls, $5.25 to $5.50 per 100 lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

GRAIN—The local grain market did not exhibit any activity to-day. Afloat and Fort William, No. 1 hard Manitoba is quoted at 70½c., while there was nothing to report in regard to coarse grains.

FLOUR—The flour market rules steady and export is noted which may lead to business shortly. Prices are unchanged. We quote as follows: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.30 to $3.40; in bags, $1.60 to $1.65; Manitoba patents, $4 to $4.20; strong bakers', $3.60 to $3.80.

MEAL—The oatmeal market ruled dull, but values were steady, at $3.67½ per bbl., and $1.72½ per bag.

FEED—There is a fair demand for feed and prices are well held. We quote as follows: Ontario bran, in bulk, $13.50 to $14, and shorts, $15 to $15.50 per ton; Manitoba bran, $13.50 to $14; shorts, $16 to $17; mouille, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY—Arrivals of new crop hay, so far, have shown most excellent quality. The market is quiet and steady. We quote: Choice No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $6 to $6.50, and clover, $5.50 to $6 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

There was a fair trade in smoked meats to-day, prices ruling firm. Other provisions were quiet, but also ruled steady. We quote: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7c. to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined, 5½c. to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11½c. to 12½c. per lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—The firm tone of the market was amply demonstrated at the wharf Monday morning, when 8,000 Quebec cheese were rapidly bought up at a range of 9⅞ to 10¼c., the ruling price being 10⅛c, which shows an advance of ⅜ to ½c. per lb. on the previous Monday's range. For trade over the tryer, holders asked very full prices to-day, and it is claimed that 10½c. was refused for a fair line of Western stock. However, prices may be quoted at 10⅜ to 10⅝c. for Western, and 10 to 10¼c. for Eastern cheese.

BUTTER — The advancing tendency continues, and extreme prices have again been paid in the country, figures that entail a good advance on spot prices. For export trade here, 20½ to 21¼c. is a fair range for finest creamery to-day, though a fraction more than the outside figure is known to have been made. Seconds are worth 19½c., and that figure is bid freely for them. Western dairy ranges from 15½ to 16c., having stiffened in sympathy with creamery. Business in a local way remains quiet, prices being ½c. higher than for export.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Receipts of Canadian apples are increasing at this market.

Raspberries are now off the market, no more being offered.

Butter and cheese have both advanced another ¼ to ½c. per lb. on last week.

Late cables from Denia quote Valencia raisins strong at 16s. f.o.b. for shipment via Liverpool.

It now seems to be generally conceded that the salmon pack will be much less than last season's.

Heavy receipts of local tomatoes have completely driven imported and western stock off this market.

There has been a heavy and abrupt decline in raw beet sugar in London, but local prices for refined are, as yet, unaffected thereby.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., August 17, 1899.

THERE is still a quietness in business, but dealers look confidently forward to a good fall trade. There is a firmness in all lines, and many show a tendency to much higher figures. There are less idle men in the city than usual at this season, though it is usually a busy season for the workingman. At present, there is no excuse for any man being idle. China tea continues to arrive freely. It is practically all brought via C.P.R. Indian teas are again offered by London merchants, the matter of 1 lb. allowance having been settled. It is still allowed, so the victory is with the dealers. Spices tend lower, and tapioca has been marked down—it is still high, and buyers order in limited quantities. In spice, the demand for pickling is the feature of the trade.

OIL—The only active line is burning oil, and, while there is increased demand for present consumption, the chief business is the taking of orders for future delivery. Paint oils are making a record in regard to high prices. There is but a fair demand. Lubricating oils are dull at low values. In cod oils there are freer arrivals, but prices are still low. In non-freezing oil for the drug trade the low prices tend to increased sale of the Norway oil, to the disadvantage of the Newfoundland product.

SALT—There is a good sale for Liverpool coarse, and with fairly regular arrivals. Stock held continues quite large, owing to the continued advance in freights. Price of salt is very firm and tending to higher figures. This is also true of factory-filled. In Canadian, there is no change in price, but there is good sale. A small quantity of rock salt was received this week. Demand for this grade is now very light. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—Our trade is quite well supplied. Practically all goods will come upon a bare market. This is chiefly true of salmon and corn, but for a car of the latter, which was sold here, from Montreal, there would be none here. New goods continue to arrive. Gallon apples were quoted very low by a Montreal packer this week, and also other lines. Peaches are the one active line in fruit here, and dealers are still open to buy. Prices are held firm, some packers not yet quoting. There is a fair sale for pears, but plums show very little business. Pineapple is marketed higher, and is very scarce. Oysters are firm and light stock, and higher figures are likely to rule before new goods arrive. New blueberries are being received. These goods are showing an improved demand. Sardines, clams, kippers and haddies move freely. The quality of New Brunswick sardines is steadily improving.

GREEN FRUITS—This is the season of sale. In Californian fruits, some particularly fine pears are being received. Price is still high. In peaches, there is now considerable competition from Ontario. Plums are fair sellers. Lemons still show a wide range in price, but good fruit tends to higher figures. But few oranges are being sold. Bananas have less sale and prices are unchanged. Melons show but a light business. Apples are a chief feature of the the trade, and show both improved sale and quality. In berries, raspberries are getting scarce. Berries are much missed when season is over, as during the season they are a staple. The quantity of blueberries shipped to the American market is very large this year; they stand up the best of any berries.

DRIED FRUITS—Valencia raisins are being quoted. While there is some range in the figures, they are rather above those quoted last year. Buyers are backward. They have ordered small quantities for early shipment, and are inclined to wait and see if, for later shipment, lower prices will not rule. They are also anxious to see how Californians will open. This raisin is very popular here. In Valencias, layers are about the only grade now imported, except in early shipments. Malagas, it is expected, will open low. In currants, prices are to hand, and values are quite firm. Dealers are holding off. In prunes, firm figures are expected to be the order of the day, and Californians will hold the trade. Figs are well below last year's figures. In onions, Maltas and Spanish are to hand, and Americans likely to come to hand any day. They largely hold the trade till Californians are received. Nuts will be high. Peanuts are being imported that show an advance over the early spring prices of 100 per cent. The present outlook for evaporated apples is that prices will be lower than last fall, though firm. In peels, all orders are about in. The large bulk bought is English peel.

SUGAR—There is a tendency to a further advance in price. There is a good sale, particularly for granulated. Stocks are fair, the arrivals during the week being quite free.

MOLASSES—There is a better sustained demand than was expected. Three small cargoes of Porto Rico have arrived within a short time, and another is daily expected. It has found a ready sale, so that present stock is not large. Barbadoes is scarce and there are but outside grades.

PRODUCE—Eggs are but a fair stock, and price is well maintained. Receipts are rather more free. Butter is very dull and low, and only the best will sell. Practically no creamery is being received. In cheese, our market advances slowly, and cheese are lower here than at the factories, where high prices rule for those that are fit for the English market. This leaves only the smaller cheese and the poorer grades for local trade, unless our dealers advance their offers.

FISH—This is but a fairly active line at this season, and perhaps it is well, as stock is hard to get. This is particularly true of fresh fish, very few kinds now being received. Some nice shad are on the market. Smoked shad are a particularly nice fish. Dry cod are still high; some very nice are being offered. Pollock are scarce and high. Pickled herring are becoming a feature of the trade. Owing to the liability of the pickle getting off, they are unsatisfactory to handle. Smoked herring have but a fair sale. Some nice kippers have been received, but, owing to the warm weather, the trade is largely local. We quote as follows: Large and medium dry cod, $3.75 to $4; small, $2.50; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6½ to 7½c.; halibut, 10 to 12c. per lb.;

AMERICAN SUGAR.

We quote in car loads (mixed cars if you wish), Standard Granulated and Bright Yellow Sugars, FREIGHT and DUTY PREPAID, as follows:

fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; shad, 10c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $2.25 per 100; salmon, 15 to 16c.; pickled herring, $2.25 per half bbl.

PROVISIONS—There is an increased quantity of local-packed pork and beef offered. Prices are firm. The sale is light, but shows improvement. In lard, quite low figures rule, but the feeling is towards higher values.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL — In flour, there is a tendency to higher values, but prices are still low. There is just a fair business. Manitobas have been rather lower. Oats are scarce in the West. There is but a light business here. Oatmeal is rather easier, but firm. In cornmeal, some American has been received, though costing higher than price asked by local mill, but the latter is not able to supply the demand. In beans, there is improved sale at even figures; the advance did not arrive. Hay is a good crop here, and better returns are expected than for some time, as it is thought there will be a demand from American market. We quote: Manitoba flour, $4.65 to $4.80; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.10; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $4.00 to $4.10; cornmeal, $2.25 to $2.30; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10; prime, 95 to $1.00; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50 to $1.75; do., Canadian, $1.80 to $2.25; mammoth clover, 7½ to 8c.; alsike, 7½ to 8c.; red, 7¼ to 7¾c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

The new package used by The Canada Cocoanut Co., is proving very popular here.

Mr. W. G. Cloyes, representing The Boston Molasses Co., called on the trade here this week.

A new canned meat is seen on our market, packed by The Wm. Davies Co., Limited, of Toronto.

We would advise our western friends that our Exhibition opens on September 11, and trust that many will take advantage of it to advertise their goods.

There is much dissatisfaction over the new rule the railways are enforcing, that where a car is consigned to one party it can only be delivered to him, and not to others upon his order.

Mr. Frank L. Worden, a city retail grocer, has suspended payment. Mr. Worden has been a hard worker and has kept close to his business, and his difficulty is a matter of regret.

The Maritime Board of Trade met here during the past week, but too late for any report in this number. The local board took advantage of this and got reduced rates for all dealers who would wish to visit the city, making a merchants' week. Quite a large number availed themselves of the opportunity.

CASTOR OIL AND ITS USES.

THE United States Consul-General at Calcutta writes as follows: The castor oil plant is cultivated throughout India, and the oil is frequently employed by the Indian dyers as an auxiliary in certain dye preparations. This oil has the reputation of being one of the best for dressing tanned hides and skins. The uses of the oil are many, it being the only suitable one for lubricating all sorts of machinery, clocks, watches, etc. It is the best lamp oil they have in India, and gives an excellent white light, with but little soot—almost an imperceptible amount—which quality no other oils possess. It use as a medicine is too well known to require more than mere mention. Though of considerable value as a manure, from the high amount of phosphates it contains, the castor oil cake is regarded by European cattle breeders as highly injurious to cattle; but in India a decoction prepared from the cake is given to buffalo cows to increase the flow of milk. The oil is usually extracted from the seed in two ways—by decoction and expression. The process of decoction consists in bruising the seeds, previously deprived of the husks, and then boiling them in water; the oil, rising to the surface, is skimmed off, and is afterwards again boiled with a small quantity of water to dissipate the acrid principle. To increase the product the seeds are sometimes roasted, but this makes the oil brownish and acrid. By expression, the seeds, after being thoroughly cleansed from the dust and fragments of the capsules with which they are mixed, are conveyed into a a shallow iron reservoir, where they are submitted to a gentle heat. The seeds are then subjected to long-continued pressure by hand screws. The oil is transferred to iron boilers containing a considerable quantity of water, and boiled for some time, the impurities being skimmed off as they rise to the surface. The clear oil is then carefully removed, and the process is completed by boiling it with a small quantity of water. There are two chief forms of the plant in India, of which there are many varieties.

"'Kolona' pure Ceylon tea more than ever satisfies the requirements of both dealer and consumer, who look for full value in the tea without added inducements in the shape of coupons and premiums, etc.," say The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

TKINNEAR & CO., have just to hand a shipment of fine Filiatra currants in cases and half cases.

"N. & P." pure olive oil, in 1-gal. tins, is being offered by H. P. Eckardt & Co.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. report that they expect to make delivery of their "Victor" Japan tea next week.

In spices, Lucas, Steele & Bristol are offering exceptional values in pure goods.

Futures in salmon and vegetables are worthy of attention. James Turner & Co. are offering great values.

Lorimer's lemonade crystals are in stock with The Eby, Blain Co., Limited. They exactly reproduce the flavor of the fresh fruit.

A shipment of Californian fancy evaporated pears and some extra choice evaporated apricots is in store with The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

W. G. A. Lambe, broker, Toronto, has received advices stating that the first direct steamer sailing from Madras to Montreal, will sail about August 25.

Now in store with W. H. Gillard & Co., ex ss. Cyprian Prince, a carload of exceptionally fine grades Rio coffee, which are offered at low figures in five-bag lots.

"Crushed Java and Mocha coffee steadily maintains its sale and reputation as the best low-priced coffee in the market," say The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

"As a 'sign of the times,'" writes a correspondent, "many of the better class of hotels and restaurants in the large American cities now serve some special brand of Ceylon tea, and announce this on the bill of fare. 'Salada' appears to be one of the favorites."

City grocers should prepare for Exhibition trade. The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, carry a full line of staples and specialties to tickle the palates of country visitors.

Just arrived with W. H. Gillard & Co., a shipment of Libby, McNeill & Libby goods, comprising Vienna sausage ½'s, "Sauerkraut and Sausage," 1½ lb., potted ham and tongue ½'s, and devilled ham and tongue ½'s, all in cases of two dozen, very attractive goods.

CURRENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

August 17, 1899.

This list is corrected every Thursday, and the quotations herein given are for the cities of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London, St. John, N.B., Halifax, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria. The prices are solicited for publication, and are of such quantities and qualities as are usually ordered by retail dealers on the usual terms of credit.

THROUGH FAILURE TO SUCCESS.

THE following story, told by Brains, is true from beginning to end, and it tells how one man made a success out of a failure: "A young man being compelled to leave college because his father could not afford to keep him there, took a position as office boy in his father's office. By keeping his eyes and ears open and his mouth shut, he learned many things about the inside workings of the business of which he had never dreamt. He always supposed that his father's business was making money, but he soon found that, instead of making, the business was losing. His father was borrowing on the outside for the support of the business.

"A year or so after the son began his business career, his father failed for many thousands of dollars. The strain under which the 'old man' had been laboring was too much, and his health gave way. The support of the entire family fell upon the son, but instead of looking for employment in a line of business of which he knew nothing, he went to his father's creditors and requested that he be allowed to continue the business for a short time. So earnest was his appeal and so forcible was his talk on his father's failure, the previous conduct of the business, and what he believed he could do with it that the creditors agreed to let him try his hand for a short time. The worst period of the year was just approaching, but, undaunted by the outlook, he started the work of putting the business on a paying basis. He recognized one grand principle of success, and that was to make every one of his employes earn more than his salary for the business. He insisted on strict economy, and he carried out the latter principle to almost a miserly point. But the little savings in every quarter amounted to quite a large item at the end of the month. Some of the older employes in the establishment told him in a friendly way, that he would turn out to be a slave driver and a miser if he were not careful, to which he always replied that he was doing it then so that he would not have to do it later on.

"One month after the son had taken charge of the business he went to the creditors with a detailed statement. He had lost money, but not as much as his father had during the preceding month, which, by the way, was a better month for the business. He was allowed to continue for one more month, at the end of which time the creditors declared they would quit unless he came out at least even. By cutting and shaving and saving a little more here and there, he managed to come out even at the end of the month, much to the surprise of his creditors. From that day on he made the business pay, not so much by increasing the volume of trade as by making that which he already had carry the business along.

"A small business, started in a small way, gradually pushed to the front, is far more apt to become a success than the one which is started with one grand blast of trumpets and beating drums and then left to fall back for business on the first great hurrah."

OUR TRADE WITH NEW ZEALAND.

Mr. J. S. Larke, Canadian commercial agent for Australasia, in his report to the Department of Trade and Commerce, on the trade between Canada and New Zealand, gives the exports for this colony to the Dominion for the year 1898 at $18,550, an increase of $13,400 on the previous year. The imports from Canada were $357,556, an increase for the year of $52,905.

Besides the increases, Mr. Larke says that the returns show "the introduction of small lots in many lines, showing activity and an interest in trade with Canada. Much of this was the result of the calling of the Canadian Australian steamers at Wellington. With the withdrawal of the line from that port this influence will cease, but if the Canadian manufacturers desire to continue the trade with New Zealand, what has been gained will be held and added to."

GOT AWAY WITH THE CASH.

A thief entered Hunter & Moore's general store at Clearwater, Man., about 5 o'clock Sunday morning. He took away the store's cash box containing about $100 in cash and $300 in notes. The junior clerk, who was sleeping on the premises, saw the thief leave the building through an upstair window and down the roof of a back shed, and, although he followed as quickly as possible, he was unable to track him, owing to the bush coming up to within 75 yards of the building. Although every effort has been made, no trace of the burglar has been obtained.

A GOOD BALL GAME EXPECTED.

It is a question whether there ever was a warmer interest taken in the baseball games that have been played between the Toronto grocers and the Toronto travelers than is being taken in the game to be played at Hanlan's Point on Wednesday next.

The two teams have often met, but the grocers have always finished ahead. The game at Hamilton a few weeks ago was possibly the best-contested of any of these matches. It looked at one time as if the travelers were going to win out, but fate decreed otherwise before time was called.

Both teams are making a few changes, in the hope of strengthening their teams for the game on Wednesday next, which is expected by all to prove the closest that has yet been played.

PRODUCTIVE ISLANDS.

"When I came here to Vancouver, years ago," said an old timer to The Province, the other day, "our only source of supply for fruit, vegetables, poultry, eggs and produce generally, and even fish, was the little group of islands about Plumper's Pass, and all around that part of the Gulf. There were then and are now many settlers and small farmers living on those islands, and they had an abundance of produce of all kinds.

"There is no better fruit locality in the Province," continued the old-timer. "And the potatoes we used to get from there were far better than anything I ever see now. They were fine, well-grown, mealy potatoes, and there were always plenty of them. Chickens and turkeys, too, were easily raised and are yet."

The gentleman concluded with the suggestion that there would be a capital opening for a small vessel to establish itself on a regular run to the many small landings, as the produce would be liberally shipped to Vancouver to find a market and the ranchers would get their supplies in return.

HE KNEW HOW TO ADVERTISE.

An original form of advertisement comes from Russia, where a shopkeeper posted up the following announcement:

"The reason why I have hitherto been able to sell my goods so much cheaper than anybody else is that I am a bachelor, and do not need to make a profit for the maintenance of my wife and children. It is now my duty to inform the public that this advantage will shortly be withdrawn from them, as I am about to be married. They will, therefore, do well to make their purchases at once at the old rate."

The result was that there was such a run on the shop that in the course of a few days this shopkeeper had made enough money to pay the expenses of his wedding on a very lavish scale.—Sketch.

AN IMMENSE WHEAT FIELD.

A Brandon paper says: One can gain a good idea of the extensive grain fields of Manitoba by a drive from Brandon to Souris, a distance of about 30 miles. Wheat fields extend away as far as the eye can reach on either side of the trail the whole distance, and as there are no fences in this district it looks like one immense field. The crops, in this district, it is estimated, will yield at least 35 bushels per acre, if the present favorable conditions continue until harvest.

COLUMBIA RIVER SALMON PACK.

THE Columbia river salmon-fishing season this year proved a great disappointment to the packers, who had expected a large run of fish and had made every preparation for it. The high stage of water which existed in the river for the greater part of the season, however, interfered with the fishing, and the catch was very far short of what had been expected. Had the season lasted a few days longer, it is possible that the shortage in the pack would have been largely, if not entirely, overcome, as the fish started to run freely at the time the season ended by law, on August 10. No extension of the season could be obtained, and we understand that a few individual packers made an attempt to secure an extension, knowing that such could only result through an Act of the State Legislature.

No official figures have yet been issued as to the extent of the Columbia river pack, but reliable authorities make it about 50 per cent. short, and representatives of packers here are endeavoring to get buyers to agree to the settlement of contracts on that basis.

The latest advices from Puget Sound indicate that the pack of sockeyes is about done, and that it may about equal that of last year, as, of late, the run of sockeyes has been a little better, though far from heavy, as some reports have had it. Up to August 1, the total pack on the Sound had reached 245,000 cases. Last year's spring pack was 272,000 cases, while that of 1897 amounted to 370,000. In a review of the situation, a prominent commission house says :

"The consumption of the world kept pace with the pack until 1897, then the tremendous increase demoralized the market. From the best information obtainable the world's consumption in 1897 was 2,500,000 cases, leaving a carry of almost 600,000. In 1898 the world's consumption increased to a very marked extent. It not only took the pack of 1898, but the carry over from 1897 as well. In regard to stocks in England, trade report that, while they have fair stocks on hand, they have practically ten months of consumption ahead of them before the new pack arrives, and by that time their present stock will be lower than normal. According to Government reports of exports, the United Kingdom has taken over 1,000,000 cases per year for the past four years, which shows conclusively that the market must be in fair shape, as they would not have kept on buying had it been otherwise. Now, in addition to the exports of the United Kingdom, there are a number of other countries that are large consumers of our fish, namely, South America, Australia and the far East, such as India and China. If they take their usual amount, and we have every reason to believe they will, there is no question but what the present price of red fish will rule at least 10 to 20 per cent. higher before next year's pack comes on the market."—New York Journal of Commerce.

BUSINESS EXTENSIONS IN OTTAWA

J. Bambrick, grocer, Ottawa, has found it necessary to move to larger quarters, and has secured fine premises on George street, on which he has erected a large store, fitted with every convenience to handle a greater volume of business. Mr. Bambrick makes it a point to use every one right, whether they purchase or not.

The business of S. J. Major, wholesale grocer, Ottawa, has also been extending so rapidly that a move to larger quarters was found necessary. Mr. Major was fortunate enough to secure the premises known at one time as the Canadian Institute block on York street.

This block is a four-storey stone building, with cellar, making five floors with a total floor space of 25,000 square feet.

The front part of the first floor is reserved for the sample-room, salesroom and offices.

The building is elegantly finished throughout, and is surpassed by very few wholesale houses in Canada. The entrance on York street has a fine-cut stone front.

BETTER PACKAGES NEEDED.

J. McLeod, of Port Haney, has the distinction of shipping in the first consignment of British Columbian peaches to the Vancouver market this season. They were received by The Parsons Produce Company one morning last week, and, while slightly on the green side, are well-grown fruit. They are of splendid color, the reddened side of each being worthy of a choice Californian grown Crawford.

But—Mr. McLeod shipped them in crates which, as one man remarked, looked like egg cases. They were far too deep, were nearly square instead of being narrow. The peaches were not wrapped in paper as they should have been if they were intended to make a good impression, and, to crown all, the boxes were not filled within two or three inches of the top.

Every jobber in the city who receives fruit from local ranchers would confer a distinct favor on the shipper and on the fruit industry generally if he would write to each shipper who sent in fruit packed improperly. Tell him where the faults were, and be careful to go into details, not forgetting proper labels and address tags. Every shipper would appreciate suggestions made with kindly intent. In the case mentioned here, it would be a good idea to send the shipper an empty peach crate for a sample. —The Province, Vancouver.

THE DROUGHT IN ENGLAND.

Cable despatches from London state that this has been the driest summer on record there. Only 190 tons of water per acre have fallen, instead of the usual average of 610 tons. For 25 days the thermometer has registered a temperature of over 80 degrees.

It is not surprising that such a drought would reduce the English production of butter and cheese, and, as a consequence, cause a considerable increase in the importation of those products.

HAM-SMELLING AS A BUSINESS.

ONE of the curious businesses that men engage in is ham-smelling in packing-houses, says Kansas City Star. It is a business allied with that of tea-tasting, wine-testing and the like. The ham-smeller is technically known as ham-tester. It is his business to inspect meat products and judge of their soundness. This is done before the meats leave the house, or when they are bought from other concerns to fill a shortage.

The ham-smeller's only tools are a long steel trier and his nose. It is often necessary to test hams after they come out of the sweet pickle and before they go into the smokehouse. The ham-smeller stands in a barrel to keep his clothes from being soiled by the dripping brine, and the hams are brought to him by workmen. A ham is laid before him and he plunges his sharp-pointed trier into it, withdraws it and places it swiftly beneath his nose. The trier always goes down to the knuckle joint. In testing meat in that manner the man with the trier judges by the slightest shade of difference between the smell of one piece of meat and another. The smell of the meat is almost universally sweet and that is what he smells; the slightest taint or deviation from the sweet smell is, therefore, appreciable. It is not the degree of taintedness that he expects to find, but the slightest odor that is not sweet. When he detects an odor he throws the meat aside, and if it is not unwholesome it is sold as "rejected" meat, but, if it is tainted, it goes to the rendering tank. The ham-tester smells meat from 7 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock at night, and his sense must never become jaded or inexact, or his usefulness would be at an end.

Ham-testing is not a pursuit dangerous to the health, as tea-tasting is supposed to be, but the ham-smeller with a cold in his head is like a piano player who loses his arm in a railroad wreck.

THE DAIRY INDUSTRY IN P.E.I.

The cheese and butter-making industry in Prince Edward Island has made great progress in recent years. Last year 34 factories were making cheese, the product being 2,816,045 lb., and the value $229,249. Sixteen of these factories operated butter plants during the winter, the product being 239,500 lb., valued at $43,110. Seven factories operated butter plants only, the product being 487,942 lb., and the value $88,537, while four cheese factories operated separating stations, the product being 49,102 lb., and the value $7,661. The aggregate of cheese and butter produced in the smallest Province in the Dominion in the last year was therefore 3,562,589 lb. and the value was $364,557. The exports of cheese from this Province have grown from $39,720 in 1894 to $212,194 in 1898, an increase of over 450 per cent. in four years. The exports of butter in the same period rose from $5,607 to $15,616, an increase of nearly 200 per cent. Though the population of Prince Edward Island is not large, there is still room for, and a likelihood of, still greater development of this industry in the next few years.

A DEMAND FOR GOOD GOODS.

There is no such thing as standing still in business, writes "Observer" in Grocery World. This is just as true of business as it is in all life. When vegetation stops growing it begins to decay and die. Advancement or retrogression, one of the two, is a law of business as much as a law of nature and morals. When the grocer fails to apply good business methods, neglects to keep himself thoroughly posted on the modern, approved ideas pertaining to his business, he starts on the toboggan that will eventually and quickly land him in that discredited class dubbed as chronic failures.

Of course, natural tact and adaptability have much to do with success in any enterprise, but other qualities can make up for these in the successful conduct of the grocery business. Tenacity of purpose, willingness to learn and to profit by the experience of others and a rigid adherence to the principles of right and equity are qualities, to my mind, better calculated to bring success than tact and adaptability without such sterling qualities.

I have in mind, at this writing, a young man who started in the grocery business in a large American city a few years ago, who was unusually tactful and possessed natural adaptablity for the business. His trade rapidly increased, he married an estimable young lady, and had every prospect of a happy and prosperous career. But he was lacking in moral character, and the word has just reached me that his wife had left him, his customers were rapidly drifting to other stores, and now he is face to face with social and financial ruin.

Don't theorize; don't growl; don't abuse the manufacturer, friend grocer, but apply the remedy already in your possession, that of selecting goods with a view to merit and profit combined—then push them. Show a disposition to help yourself and your customers will give their support, while you will of necessity secure new trade.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, August 14, 1899.

THE caterer's picnic has gone into history as the most successful of the many delightful outings held under the auspices of that association. The first train left Winnipeg at 1 a.m. Thursday, and was composed of three sleepers and ten passenger coaches, all full. At 6.30 and 7.30, respectively, two other long trains left the C.P.R. depot all full to repletion. In all, some 4,000 Winnipegers availed themselves of the opportunity afforded of visiting Rat Portage for the modest sum of $1. The day at Rat Portage was spent in various ways, the regatta and short excursion on the Lake of the Woods being the most popular, and a tired but happy crowd landed at Winnipeg between 1 and 2 a.m. Friday.

Thursday, August 17, will be Civic Holiday in Winnipeg, and the employes of the Hudson's Bay Company intend celebrating by a picnic at Park View, about five miles from the city. As almost everybody in connection with the Hudson's Bay Company rides a wheel there will be a grand round up at the office at 1 p.m. and the start will be made from there. Invitations have also been extended to many friends outside the company's employes and a very good time is anticipated.

There is not a great deal of change to report for the week just ended, though business for the time of year is very good. Money is not plentiful just now and no one expects it to be in an agricultural Province in August. Prices are satisfactory and well sustained, and if there are any kickers abroad in the grocery trade your correspondent has not run across them.

CANNED GOODS—The salmon market from this point looks very firm, although it is very difficult to judge exactly as to whether the present advance will be sustained or not. Many packers have advanced 25c. per case, while others are quoting "subject to pack" at the old figures. Other canned goods are without change of situation. Vegetables are being offered freely, but prices are firm. Factories that would, as a rule, be considered second choice, appear to be doing the largest business, probably on account of stiffening prices. One sale of 1,000 cases of tomatoes for immediate delivery is reported for the week just closed. No other large sales are reported.

SUGAR — The advance of 5c. per cwt. quoted last week is maintained firmly, and, from the present price of the New York market, a further advance would not be a surprise. Local prices have not advanced in the meantime.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES—Market is very dull. The crop is said to be a fairly good one, and some believe that there will be a slight decline on this account, later in the year.

CURED MEATS—The price has now gone so high on hams that there is now no question but the consumption will be curtailed. The market for many years past has not been within one-third of its present price. Breakfast bellies have advanced steadily in sympathy with hams, and, it would appear as if they might reach the same figure before long. The latest price list quoted is: Hams, smoked, 14c.; American, 14½c.; breakfast bellies, 11½c.; backs, 11c.; shoulders, 10c.; spiced rolls, 10½c.; dry salt long clear, 8½c.; extra short clear, 7¾c.; backs, 9c.; shoulders, 8½c. Business is very good in all these lines.

LARD — Pure, 20-lb. pails (Manitoba rendered), $1.70; Imported, ditto, $1.60; in cases, 3, 5 and 10-lb., $5.50; pure lard tierces, 7¾c.; pure lard, 50-lb. pails, 8c.

CEREALS — No change in this market. All houses at the present time are handling American goods, as both Manitoba and Ontario are unobtainable. This condition, however, is only temporary, as the oat crop promises to be heavy and of fine quality.

DRIED FRUITS — Evaporated apricots have again advanced ½c., and peaches have firmed up a little in sympathy. Prunes are reasonable and plentiful at last week's quotations, though many anticipate an advance in price. Nectarines are somewhat scarce, but are reasonable in price, and, in some cases, are being sent out for apricots.

TEAS—Total settlements in the Hankow market are slightly in advance of last year, to the extent of some 20,000 half chests. New China teas have arrived, but are not yet thoroughly examined, but are believed to be a very good sample. The demand for cheaper grades has been largely in excess of former years.

BUTTER—In creamery, the market has stiffened to the extent of 1c. per lb., and the quotation to-day is 16½c. factories. The supply is very fair and the quality good. Dairy butter has practically remained unchanged, the price at country points being 10 to 11c., with the bulk going into cold storage. There will, no doubt, be an improvement as creamery continues to advance, but there is no doubt buyers will hold off as long as possible, as there is a very evident desire to handle as little dairy butter as possible. All shipments of both creamery and dairy butter are going to the Coast.

CHEESE—This market has also stiffened during the week, and 9c. straight for all sizes is the quotation to-day. The demand is rather in excess of supply at present.

EGGS—This market has again advanced, and 14c. at country points is quoted, with a brisk demand. Strictly new laid are retailing in the market at 30c. per dozen, which is rather a fancy price for August.

GREEN FRUITS—This market is active. There is no change in the price of staple lines, such as oranges, bananas, and lemons. The demand for plums, peaches, and pears is increasing. Peaches are quoted at $1.50, and plums, assorted varieties, at the same figures. Bartlett pears are $3 to $3.25 per box, according to size. Muskmelons, $1 per basket; grapes, 60c.; Ontario tomatoes, a very fine shipment, $1 for 20-lb. basket. The watermelon season is practically over. The last shipment was sold at $2.50 to $2.75 per dozen. A large and choice stock of home-grown vegetables are on the market, the cauliflowers being especially fine.

LOBSTERS IN GLASS JARS.

WE do not hear so much complaint nowadays as regards improperly packed lobsters, says The Maritime Merchant, and the reason, no doubt, is due to the closer inspection and oversight exercised at the various factories. It has become the custom among the chief exporters and buyers of lobsters in Halifax to send a man well versed in the requirements of the business, on periodical visits to the canneries which have contracted ahead. His duties are to see that the instructions of his principals are carried out as to bathing and the other necessary operations. When these are carried on in a satisfactory manner the packer receives a certificate to that effect which enables him to receive his payment for the goods as shipped. There is likely to be quite a change in the manner and style in which lobsters are packed in these Provinces in a short time.

The proposed improvement consists of a glass jar to hold about the same quantity as the ordinary 1-lb. can. There can be no room for doubt as to the superiority of such a package over that of metal which is brought into such close contact with the acids and animal and chemical ferments present in the cooked fish. The chief difficulty hitherto has been the problem of how to exhaust the air from a receptacle and secure a hermetically sealed package. This we understand has been overcome by means of an ingenious attachment of rubber. The new package will be of value to the trade on account of being more attractive to the consumer. Although the cost is somewhat higher, the advantages of the glass jar over the tin can are too many to permit the use of the older package to stand in the way of the newer and more satisfactory container being adopted. The increasing price of this preserved fish from year to year is slowly placing it among the luxuries and hence a more cleanly and safer package is doubly called for.

"NEWS" IN ADVERTISING.

The trouble with most advertisers and advertising writers, says Advertising Experience, is that they have not the newspaper sense of what is "news." Items of knowledge that would be of the highest interest to the persons they are talking to are so familiar to the advertiser himself as to seem commonplace and hardly worth speaking of; yet, it is probable that the average man knows nothing regarding it, and would be thankful for the information. One advertiser of wide experience, who has been very successful in the preparation of "newsy" advertisements, makes the practice of finding out just what his friends and acquaintances know concerning his goods and their method of manufacture. Wherever he finds the slightest degree of ignorance, he promptly starts a "campaign of education."

TRADE CHAT.

THE GROCERS' JOURNAL, London, Eng., tells of a memorial tablet in St. Anne's churchyard, Manchester, in which there is much unconscious humor. The tablet reads thus: "Here lyeth the body of John Howard, who died January 2, 1800, aged 84 years; 50 years a respectable grocer, and an honest man."

A considerable quantity of smuggled cigarettes and cigars were confiscated by the Customs authorittes at Kingston, Ont., the other day.

A Montreal firm is in communication with Mayor Woods, of Aylmer, Ont., with respect to the establishment in that town of a canning factory to employ 200 men.

The Summerside, P.E.I., grocers' picnic, held on August 1, netted quite a good sum of money. Half the proceeds go to the Indiantown, N.B., fire sufferers.

Thos. Jobin, retail grocer, Winnipeg, is, according to The Manitoba Free Press, considering the erection of a large warehouse on Market street east, of that city, and starting a wholesale grocery business.

At a banquet in London, Eng., recently, every article of food and drink at the dinner was of colonial production. The olives came from South Australia, the beche de mer soup from the Bahama Islands, salmon from New Brunswick, mutton from New Zealand, whiskey from Ontario, and the cigars from British North Borneo.

G. D. Gopsill, an English gentleman, who, until recently, resided in Miles City, Montana, has purchased the Culdaffe dairy farm on the Eramosa road, belonging to the estate of the late Mrs. Parsons. He will continue to carry on the manufacture of the celebrated Stilton cheese and the dairy business conducted by Mrs. Parsons for 40 years previous to her death.—Guelph Herald.

WILL REPRESENT E. W. GILLETT.

T. T. Cartwright, who has for several years been manager of the Canadian business of The Warwick Bicycle Co., has accepted the position of the general eastern representative of The E. W. Gillett Chemical Works, Toronto and Chicago. Mr. Cartwright is at present making his first trip through his territory, which will include the Maritime Provinces, Newfoundland and the French islands, St. Pierre and Miquelon. He has not yet chosen his headquarters, but they will likely be located in Halifax or St. John, N.B.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE attendance at the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association's regular meeting, which was held in St. George's Hall on Monday, was fully up to the high average maintained this year. President Frank Johnson occupied the chair.

Two new members were admitted by ballot: Messrs. F. Mauthie, Queen street east, and J. Dempster, Dovercourt road.

The excursion committee's report regarding the Hamilton trip was read. It showed that, after all expenses were paid, a net profit of $255 was left. This will be put into the special trust funds of the association. As several events were not run off at the picnic, it was decided to have these run off at Hanlan's Point on Wednesday next, August 23. The events are the lady clerks' race, the broad jump and the clerks' race. Besides these events, a game of baseball will be played between the association's team and the team representing the Toronto city travelers.

A letter was received from the metal Polishers, Buffalo, and Platers Union of Toronto, asking for the privilege of appearing before the association to state the grievances that exist between a firm of scale manufacturers and its employes. After a warm discussion whether it would be advisable to establish such a precedent, it was decided to hear the representatives of the union, and to ask the firm in question for their side of the case.

Just before the adjournment of the meeting, O. A. J. Anderson asked that at the next meeting he be allowed to speak for a short time regarding trading stamps. Mr. Anderson is firmly opposed to these stamps, so, to make the meeting interesting, it was decided to make a debate of the matter, when at least one member will contend for the use of the much abused stamps.

VACATION TIME.

At this season of the year, grocers—except in summer resort places—expect a diminution in the volume of trade, remarks New England Grocer. Many of their regular customers are summering away from home—some, alas! leaving unpaid grocery bills to await their return in the fall. Clerk after clerk takes his vacation, and, as a result, many a grocer works harder and is more closely confined to his store than in other months. But, some time and somehow, he should take a week off—two weeks if he can. In olden times no one thought a vacation necessary, but the hurry and bustle and hurly-burly of modern business life makes these periodical respites from labor and business cares absolutely necessary. If the clerk—with no responsibility—finds a vacation essential to his wellbeing, how much more does the head of the firm need recuperation! Take your vacation now. It may save you from being compelled to take a long and enforced vacation by and bye—a vacation under the supervision of a physician. Health is more important than wealth—a trite saying, but a true one. Don't be like the man who lost his health getting wealthy, and then lost his wealth vainly trying to get healthy.

HE EXPECTS A BUSY SEASON.

Mr. Isaac Tuck, formerly of The Fruit Trade Journal, who has gone into the apple exporting trade, was in Montreal on business this week, and called on THE GROCER. He expects a very busy season during the present fall.

HE TOOK NAILS.

The owner of a general store in a Western village got married. In this little town it is the custom for the happy bridegroom to set up the cigars for all the congratulating males who drop in to wish him joy. So the bridegroom in this instance had a box on the counter, and most of his patrons were regaled from it.

Pretty soon an ancient gentleman lounged in. The storekeeper, who felt friendly to all the world just then, pushed the box towards the new-comer.

"Have a cigar, Uncle Jim," he smilingly said.

Uncle Jim looked at the box and looked at the storekeeper.

"What's this for?" he asked.

The storekeeper slightly blushed.

"Been gettin' married."

"Who? You?

"Yep. Me,"

"An' you're standin' treat, eh?

"Yep," said the storekeeper.

The old man picked up a cigar.

"How much did these seegars cost ye, Ab?" he inquired.

"Oh," replied the storekeeper, "cost me 'bout four cents. They're nickel cigars."

The old man dropped the cigar back into the box. Then his gaze wandered around the store.

"Well, Ab," he slowly drawled, "ef it's all the same to you, I'll take a pound o'nails."

And he got them.—Cleveland Plain-dealer.

"Good Starch"

The word "good" has lost its meaning when applied to starch—it has become commonplace from frequent use. Pure Starch must be something more than simply "good" now-a-days to enable a grocer to hold his trade, and, because our oldest customers are the best ones we have to-day, we believe that Edwardsburg Starch can safely claim the right to use the word "best."

Look at it from any point of view—it is still best. The experience of over 40 years of Starch making counts when "quality" is at stake—it counts in your profits, your new business and your upward progress. It pays to sell the "best"—simply "good" won't do.

THE MAKING OF A MERCHANT.

By H. N. Higinbotham.

IN discussing the entry of a young man into the retail business there are certain things which are so fundamental that they must be taken for granted. Without them there can be no permanent or substantial success in any undertaking. Among these requirements are character, integrity, and a fair "business head."

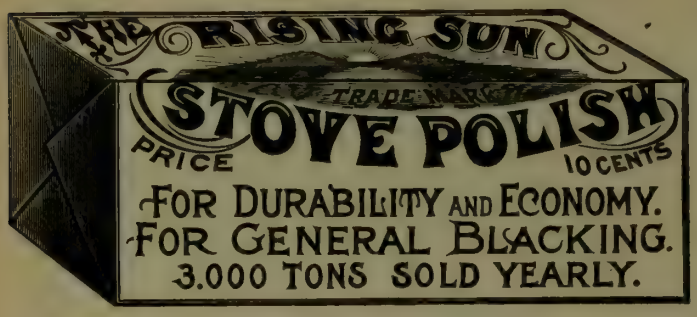
The first rule which a young merchant going into the retail trade should make for himself with heroic determination is that of doing a business consistent with his captial. Failure to observe this rule is the rock on which thousands of promising commercial undertakings have gone to pieces. Whether the capital put into the enterprise be large or small, its size should absolutely govern the volume of business.

What should we think of an architect who would start a building on a foundation 40 feet square, and then build without reference to its limitations, until the structure completely overhung the underpinning on all sides? Yet, this is precisely what thousands of young retail merchants throughout the country are attempting to do. They try to brace up their top-heavy structure with the timbers of fictitious credit. These may hold it in fair weather, but when the period of storm and stress comes—as come it surely will—this false support will come crashing down, and the enterprise tumble with it.

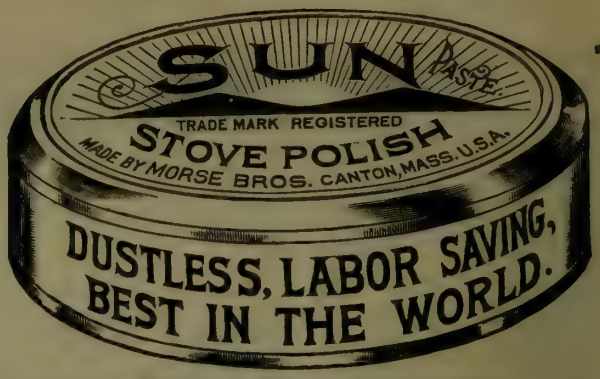
My individual conviction is that the only way in which a retail business can be conducted on lines absolutely consistent with its capital is on the cash basis. For this reason, I would not advise any young man to make a venture in retail trade on credit lines. It is too much like working in the dark. Almost inevitably, the accounts grow beyond your control, and the business structure expands at the top while the foundations weaken.

In certain communities, conditions seem to be such that it is practically impossible for the young merchant to introduce the strictly-cash method of doing business. In this event, he has but one hope of success—that is, to watch his accounts with a zealous vigilance that never relaxes, and to act with promptness and decision in the matter of credits and collections. This may require a high order of business and moral courage, but he must be able to do it, if he would avoid wreck.

In his dealings with his creditors, the wholesalers, let the young merchant keep firmly to the rule of incurring no obligation that he cannot with certainty meet in 60 days. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on his connections with the wholesale house or houses from which he obtains his goods. At the very beginning of his venture let him go to the credit man of the wholesale establishment, and state his case without reservation.



So thorough and searching are the means employed by the big wholesale houses to obtain an accurate knowledge of the standing and affairs of their debtors, that it is practically hopeless for the latter to attempt any concealment of unfavorable conditions. Again, the credit men of the wholesale houses are the keenest men in the business, and their judgment of human nature is quick and shrewd. Then, it should be constantly held in mind that the honesty of a patron seeking credit is half the battle, and that their confidence is won by an ingenuous statement of affairs that does not spare the one who is asking for credit.



The first interview of the young retail merchant with the credit man of the wholesale house is sometimes a trying ordeal in which many uncomfortable questions have to be answered. This may incline the beginner in the retail trade to avoid the credit man after the initial interview has been successfully passed. He could make no greater mistake than to allow this association with a disagreeable ordeal to alienate him from a close acquaintance with the credit man. To the contrary, he should improve every opportunity to strengthen and build up a confidential relationship with that important functionary of the wholesale house. Not once, but constantly, should he acquaint the credit man with the real condition of his affairs, and should ask and follow the advice of this counselor on all important matters. The more he does this the better will be his standing with the house and the safer will be his course. Advising patrons is one of the most important duties of the credit man. I place great emphasis on this matter because its importance is so often overlooked by young men starting in the retail trade.

Another cardinal point in the success of the retail merchant is that of having a small but frequent influx of new goods. This is founded on a universal trait of human nature which craves "something new." There is a subtle flattery, practically irresistible, in being shown goods that have not been exposed to the eyes of others in the town.

"Here are some of the latest styles," says the retailer, as he reaches into a packing-box and takes out a bolt of dress goods. "They have just come in, and no one has seen them. You may have first choice, if you wish." This argument seldom fails to effect an immediate sale. And, even if it does not do so, the woman to whom this courtesy is shown goes away with the impression that the young merchant is wide awake and thoroughly up with the times.

The dealer who puts in a small stock at the start and keeps constantly adding thereto with fresh but limited invoices has an immense advantage over the tradesman who buys in large quantities and does not freshen his stock for six months at a time. In these days women are the most numerous and important customers of the retailer, and they do not like to see the same old goods. They will trade where they can find something fresh every time they call.

All big businesses have had small beginnings. I do not know an exception to this rule. This means that a successful enterprise must have a normal, substantial and legitimate growth. If a young merchant finds himself in quarters larger than he at first demands he should change for smaller ones, or partition off a portion of his room at the back. The latter is better than attempting to put in a larger stock than his trade really demands or his resources warrant. It is really better judgment than to attempt to "spread" his stock over a large space for the mere purpose of filling up.

While the proprietor should be the first at the store in the morning and the last to leave it at night, and should be always ready to do anything that he would ask his humblest clerk to do, he should always remember that he must do the headwork of the business. He can hire a boy to candle eggs, sweep out and deliver goods, but if he does not do the thinking and planning it will not be done. That is something that the most faithful and conscientious clerk cannot do for him. If he allows the physical part of the work so to encroach on his time and energies that he does not find opportunity for a frequent and thoughtful survey of his business, he makes a great and a common mistake. This principle is stated forcibly, if uncouthly, in the old expression: "Let your head save your heels."

The young merchant who takes time at regular intervals to make a close summary and analysis of his accounts, and takes his bearings so that he knows precisely his position on the sea of business, is the man who will succeed. In other words, the mental part of the business is the most important feature. However, I hold that, at more or less frequent intervals, the storekeeper should personally do every task about the establishment for the sake of influence and example.

Let him take the broom from the hand of the boy and show the latter how to "sweep out" without stirring up a dust or leaving dirt in the corners; this will give added respect in the eyes of the boy, and the store will thereafter be cleaner by reason of the example; and so with every task, no matter how trivial or humble.

Then, the young merchant will do well always to bear in mind that courtesy is the biggest part of his capital. This does not mean that he should be obsequious and fawning, but simply and invariably attentive to all who enter his place of business.

The matter of advertising is not an unimportant detail. In the local newspaper the young retailer may wisely use a limited amount of display advertising space. This will be most advantageously occupied by a simple, dignified and modest announcement of new goods. Like his stock, the subject matter of his advertisement should be kept fresh by constant change. It should also have the individual quality both in its wording, form and type—something that expresses the personal good taste of the advertiser.

There is no doubt that a neat circular or folder sent personally to patrons is a strong method of advertising. Such announcements may be delivered by messenger or distributed through the mails. Best of all is the neat personal note written to the merchant's best customers, calling attention to fresh arrivals of goods. The spare moments of a young merchant may be put to a far less effective use than this writing of individual advertising letters.

It is scarcely possible to put too much emphasis on attractive window displays. Here, again, the element of constant freshness plays an important part. The displays should be frequently changed, and, while striking, they should never fail to have the quality of good taste. Good statuary, pictures, curios and art objects of every kind may be used to unfailing advantage in dressing windows, and they always command the attention and admiration of women. It pays the enterprising merchant to secure the loan of works of art for this purpose, and they are not difficult to obtain.

In looking after all these details, which are of importance in the general result, the young retailer should not fail to keep a proper perspective of his business as a whole. He should know just where he is sailing, and be sure that he is not drifting. In this way, he will become a safe pilot, and will bring his enterprise into the harbor of success and independence. And the prosperous retail merchant is a very independent and respected member of the community in this country, where the honest tradesman commands the regard to which he is entitled.

CATALOGUES, BOOKLETS, ETC.

MANY KINDS OF BASKETS.

John H. Grout & Co., Grimsby, Ont., have issued a brief folder describing the various styles of boxes, crates, etc., made by them. One of the latest productions is their "Ideal" crate for berries, etc. It is so constructed that there is sufficient space between the berry boxes and the intersections to prevent crushing of berries and allow lots of air space for ventilation. The "Climax" baskets made by this firm have already earned an excellent reputation. The folder, which contains a price list as well as illustrated descriptions of the various lines manufactured, can be had upon application.

DISADVANTAGE OF BARGAINS.

THE exploiting of bargains, while it may have its advantageous features, has also its detrimental ones, declares a contemporary. Thus, the selling of job lots of goods at bargains by manufacturers may be said to destroy in a great measure values which have been prevailing. For example, the customer will purchase certain articles at ridiculously low prices, and display an unwillingness to believe that the seller is losing money by the transaction. We all know from observation and experience that when buying people want to pay the lowest price which they possibly can, but that when selling they generally want the highest. And so when goods are offered at a low price the customer immediately jumps to the conclusion that that is all they are worth Though the goods are thus disposed of at a low value, and the merchant manages to get rid of them, yet the purchaser's idea of the valuation of such goods is lowered ever afterwards. There is a great deal of injustice in such a manipulation of prices. The time soon comes when regret is felt that goods were carelessly thrown upon the market at any price, in utter disregard of the interests of the business. The merchant who essays to perform a coup d'etat by lowering prices in order to sell more goods, is like the bird that fouls its own nest, if one may be pardoned for making the comparison. He may feel some satisfaction at the time, but this is soon lost in the injury which he afterwards finds that he has done himself, and indirectly others who are closely allied to him in the trade.

SECRET OF GOOD TEMPER.

Not long ago, says a writer in an exchange, I was talking to a prosperous business man who was verging on middle age, but he looked so young and well and in such good spirits, notwithstanding the fact that he was a hard and conscientious worker, that some curiosity was aroused as to how he had prolonged his youth. His explanation was that he never worried, and that he left his business at the store, or, in other words, that he did not think or worry about it after he left it. Though by no means the secret of his success—for it is quite possible for a man to do all this and never rise very high—it did, in a measure, account for his cheerfulness, zest, earnestness and the fresh zeal which he brought to his work every day. It is possible, by thinking and pondering too much after business hours about knotty problems and difficulties which have arisen during the day to develop a harassed expression, make the brain weary and bring about a general irritability which reacts detrimentally upon both customers and clerks. It is certainly very depressing for everyone who comes in contact with the merchant who is prone to worry too much and who generally makes it a point to vent his spleen upon someone else's unoffending head. When people enter a store they do not want to be glared at as if they must buy whether they want to or not. Nor are they particularly edified by exhibitions of bad temper. And if a merchant is not careful this is just what he is apt to do, if he allows himself to worry too much and fret about trifles. Many of the things which he allows his mind to dwell upon are insignificant in themselves and will soon pass away if undue importance is not given them.

A TOKEN OF ESTEEM.

John Haugh, who has just opened a grocery and confectionery business in Stratford, was, until recently, employed with The Bell Organ and Piano Co., Guelph. When severing his connection with that firm, Mr. Haugh was presented with a ring and a scarf pin, accompanied by an address expressing the esteem of his fellow-employes.

CRITICIZING COMPETITORS.

There is one fault to which merchants are too often prone, and that is deriding and criticizing their competitors, says the Stoves and Hardware Reporter. Instead of having a fraternal feeling for them and a generous desire that they may succeed, their chief wish is either to exterminate them or else to injure them in every conceivable way. The method which is most in vogue is to do everything to belittle a competitor's goods, methods of doing business and the general equipment of his store. The writer has known of instances where a prospective purchaser has made some mention to one merchant of the prices or qualities of goods prevailing at another's store, whereupon the merchant began a long tirade descriptive of his competitor's bad methods, general dishonesty and unworthiness. Now, instead of having the effect which the merchant hopes it will, it generally redounds to his own discredit, because such backbiting can only create a bad opinion of the perpetrator of it. As a rule, the listener generally sees the object the merchant has in view in criticizing a competitor. It is done in the hope that he may keep trade away from him, and, if possible, secure it himself. The old motto, "live and let live," is the best which a merchant can adopt. It is another application of the golden rule which cannot be brought to mind too frequently in a keenly competitive age like the present one, where men are jostling against one another and knocking each other down. It is far better to ignore competitors a little too much than to go to the other extreme and brood over their actions, grow jealous of them, and in watching them forget your own business.

A HINT TO EXHIBITORS.

Merchants or manufacturers intending to make exhibits at any of the various fall fairs should make a careful selection of fixtures to be used. The space generally allotted is so limited that good fixtures are a great aid to ingenuity in making a display effective. When even common lumber is used to fit up a temporary structure, the expense entailed is generally considerable. Therefore, the adjustable show and display tables, which are becoming so popular for store display, should prove of much value. These are fitted with automatic spring locks, so are easily adjusted to several angles, so that one's display could be frequently changed. Unlike the temporary structure, the value of these tables is not ended with the close of the exhibition. They are made in several different sizes and colors by Boeckh Bros. & Company, Toronto. The sale of these tables has grown so largely that this firm recently found it necessary to make an addition to their present premises at 88 York street, Toronto. A booklet, with illustrated description of these tables, can be had upon application to this firm.

PRODUCE MEN MEET.

The wholesale produce men, who have been making efforts at uniformity for some time, and who have of late had an informal association somewhat on the basis of the Wholesale Grocers' Exchange, held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of one of the firms. While the character of the proceedings was such as not to be capable of being reported so as to interest the business public, nevertheless the efforts the interested firms are making will result in distinct benefit to themselves and their customers, and will be, at the same time, instrumental in aiding the growth of this coming metropolis of commerce by laying the foundation on broad business lines, on which a vast wholesale trade will eventually be built. This is the growing time, and the live business men of Vancouver realize that it is the time to make a right beginning to insure future success and progress.—The Province, Vancouver, August 17.

THE TRAVELERS WON.

The much-talked-of game between the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association and the City Travelers' Association teams has been won and lost.

On Wednesday afternoon a party of nearly 200 of the friends of both teams gathered at the ball grounds, on Toronto Island, to watch and "root" for their favorites.

The players on the teams were :

Grocers—R. Davies, J. W. Sanderson, F. Thorne, W. J. Sykes, O. Anderson, T. Holmes, A. J. Johnson, J. D. Kelly, H. Blaylock.

Travelers—J. Humphrey, P. Parmenter, M. Muldrew, W. Anderson, Ed. Wilson, Jos.Taylor, J.Murphy, E. B. Kent, J. Burns.

During the first five innings, the grocers kept a good lead on their old rivals, but in the sixth, after two men were out, Bob. Davies went up, and enough runs were scored to even things up. This so encouraged the travelers that they worked like professionals, and, by the end of the ninth innings, they were ahead six runs, the score being 22 to 16.

This is the first defeat the grocers have suffered at the hands of the travelers, but the latter say it will not be the last.

T. O. Leonard, Detroit, agent for Kingsford's Oswego starch, was in Toronto on business this week.

C. Herbert Colson, of C. E. Colson & Son, brokers, etc., Montreal, was in Toronto on business on Tuesday.

Visitors to the exhibition will be interested in the splendid display of pickles, jams and jellies that is being made by T. A. Lytle & Co., the well-known Canadian manufacturers. Their "Sterling" brand pickles are particularly to the front of late. The exhibit is on the main floor, eastern entrance.

Messrs. H. P. Eckardt & Co. are now handling a very superior brand of tomato catsup, manufactured by The Joseph Campbell Preserving Co., of Camden, N.J., viz., "Crescent" brand. This catsup is most delicious. THE GROCER was presented with a bottle to test, and nothing but good things can be said about it. It is put up in a very attractive bottle and is well worth the trade's best attention.

A GOOD NAME.

MANY grocers claim that they do not advertise because they do not believe in it, they say. We venture to assert that there is not a single grocer in Canada to-day but advertises himself to a greater or less extent constantly. The word "advertising" naturally suggests a printed reference to something or somebody, but that is simply one method of attracting the attention of the public. Advertising "by word of mouth" is a most effective method of obtaining business—even a sign over the door is an advertisement pure and simple. The grocer who is talked about pleasantly gets a mighty good advertisement, and at practically no cost. It was only a short time ago that a representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER had proof of the value of "by word of mouth" advertising, and, too, from one of those grocers who claimed he did not advertise because advertising cost too much money. This man sold cigars as a side line, and, in the course of conversation with THE CANADIAN GROCER'S representative, he mentioned that he believed that one reason why he held his trade so well and added new trade to his business constantly, was because he kept very close to his customers through the "man of the house" or the husband who bought his cigars at his store. He thought that because he was in close touch with the one who paid the bills, that he came pretty near through his personal acquaintance with him to controling his trade absolutely. Further than this, he said that no man would send anybody to buy his cigars, because he preferred to pick them out himself, and in that way he came into the store constantly and became better and better acquainted with the stock and the methods of doing business.

Every friend that this grocer's customer had knew exactly where the man bought his cigars, and whenever cigars were mentioned, the name of the grocer who sold them was brought prominently before those friends. The grocer got some splendid advertising out of all this, and yet he claimed he did not advertise because it was too expensive. A man joins a club oftentimes because he thinks he will make new business friends—that, too, is advertising, pure and simple. A man need not necessarily go on to the house tops and proclaim his wares and prices in order to advertise—we believe that a side line of good cigars will advertise him splendidly. There is no such thing as too many business friends—the man who speaks a good word for his grocer because he buys his cigars of the grocer is a pretty good walking advertisement for that grocer's business. It is a good name for the grocer to have, namely, that of selling good cigars.

AN EXHIBIT OF SCALES.

Visitors to the Toronto Industrial Exhibition should make a visit to the Toronto warerooms of the Dayton Computing Scale Co., at 104 King street west. The value of the computing scale is becoming so generally recognized that every merchant should make a critical examination of them. It would be hard to find a more suitable time and place for such an examination than at these warerooms during Exhibition time, for there are now, and will be, fully a score of the various styles and designs of these machines manufactured by the Dayton Company, on view there. Mr. Davidson, the Canadian representative of the firm, extends an invitation to all visiting merchants to call in and examine these scales.

HAS JOINED T. H. SMITH & CO.'S STAFF.

Among the numerous changes that have recently taken place in the wholesale provision business, this one is worthy of note. Archie Love, who came into prominence with the old firm of Ramsay & Co., Front street, and more recently with H. P. Gould & Son, has joined the staff of T. H. Smith & Co., 70 Colborne street, where he will be pleased to entertain his old friends and make new acquaintences. Archie is recognized one of the best wholesale provision men in the city, and T. H. Smith & Co. are to be congratulated on securing his services.

MERCHANTS AND TOURIST ACCOMMODATION.

IN TRAVELING, one cannot help being struck with the way in which many places in Canada with natural attractions and advantages are largely deprived of their attractiveness to tourists by the passiveness of the regular residents.

When tourists visit a locality, they are not satisfied with its natural attractions, no matter how famous these attractions may be.

They want accommodation.

"God knows a man cannot work unless he ates," is the remark accredited to an Irishman. And everybody knows that people cannot go holiday touring unless they "ate," and "slape," too, might be added.

Yet, many summer resorts which are all that the heart can desire otherwise are so deficient in the essential of accommodation that not one-tenth the people visit them who otherwise might.

It is as much the duty of the business men in those summer resorts as of any other class to concern themselves in regard to accommodation for tourists at the hotels, etc., in their respective districts.

The better the tourist travel the better it is for the business men.

Every tourist that visits a town or city may not leave money directly with the merchants, but most of them do. And this is certain: There is not a dollar left in a town by a tourist but that a goodly portion of it is not subsequently distributed among the merchants doing business therein.

Wherever there is a village, town or city which has, or should have, attractions for tourists, either winter or summer, there should be an organization of business men and any others sufficiently alive to interest themselves in the matter, whose special duty should be both to induce tourists to visit their particular locality and to see that proper accommodation is provided for their entertainment.

Canada has enormous possibilities in the way of attractions to tourists. No country has probably more in either bulk or variety, but it is deplorable how little this is known. It is true that the attractiveness of the country for tourist travel is gradually becoming better known. It is largely, however, in spite of ourselves. But what might not be done if within the next few months a few hundred live tourist organizations were to spring up in Canada?

WHY BUTTER IS DEAR.

FULL prices continue to rule in the export butter business, from 21½ to 22c. having been paid at the factory for creamery last week. Since then, the tone has modified a trifle, but not to any material extent. In fact, the efforts that have been made during the past two or three years by Canadian butter producers to improve their output have met with signal success this season in the British market. During July, London alone absorbed 34,424 cwts. of Canadian butter, against 11,974 cwts. for June of this year, and 13,383 cwts. for July, 1898. This important increase shows that, in the future, Canadian butter will be an important factor in the British market. In the past fortnight, the price of choicest Canadian in London has risen from 88s. to 102s., making a clean jump of 34s. per cwt.

Drouth on the Continent and in England seems to be the fundamental basis for the remarkable strength of the butter market in England, shipments from the leading European butter-producing countries having fallen off seriously, and even in Ireland there are complaints of drought and a much diminished yield, on account of weather conditions. The shortage will have to be made up from Canada, and though the fact does not warrant as extravagant prices as some people are talking about, it seems to be reasonably assured that the price of butter this fall will rule above that of 1898, in proportion to the difference which has governed the market since the present season opened.

WATCHING THE OTHER FELLOW.

Merchants who never make a move until they see what their competitors do never lead; and because they never lead they are never really what can be termed successful.

It is the same in business as in a race: the prizes fall to the leaders.

When a man is preparing for a race, he does not concern himself about what his competitors are doing. All he is concerned about is getting himself "fit."

It is the same with bright up-to-date merchants. They want to get "fit." And in pursuance of this desire, they never cease trying to master the details of their business; they keep themselves informed as to the condition of the market, and as to new goods so that they can buy right; they read trade papers and keep their eyes open when abroad, so that they can gather ideas and enlarge those they already have; they keep their stores in good order and study window dressing and advertising.

Business is not a lottery with them; it is a success.

GRAPES ON THE MARKET.

The first grapes of the season have arrived on the Toronto fruit market. The varieties offering are the Champion, at 20 to 25c. per 10-lb. basket; Moore's early, at 40 to 50c,, and the Moyer at 50 to 60c.

The receipts are heavier than is usually the case during the first week of the season. As the crop is exceptionally large, receipts are likely to continue heavy all season. The demand at present is good, yet prices are likely to be materially reduced before long.

THE CANADIANISM OF THE MARITIME PROVINCES.

THE address of Mr. Jarvis, President of the Maritime Board of Trade, a report of which will be found in full elsewhere, should be read and digested by every Canadian.

In point of ability, in extent of information, it is exceptionally rich. But its Canadianism is one of its most striking features.

The Maritime Board of Trade, as its name implies, is a sectional organization; that is, the object of its being is to promote the commercial interests of the three Provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. Had, therefore, the address dealt with nothing but that which appertained to these three Provinces it is only what might have been expected.

But, while the Maritime Provinces received a large share of attention, an undoubted national spirit was abroad in the address. Even in the references to some of the matters appertaining to the Maritime Provinces one could read between the lines much that was gratifying to national pride.

When Confederation was consummated there was very little in the immediate prospect that was encouraging to the people of the Maritime Provinces; and this is implied in Mr. Jarvis' address. From the rest of the Dominion the Maritime Provinces were as isolated as they well could be. But the Confederationists were walking by faith, not by sight. And the references in Mr. Jarvis' address to the development of the Maritime Provinces prove that they had reason for the faith that was in them.

In the Western part of Canada there is a feeling, which is happily growing less and less every year, that the people of the Maritime Provinces are not in sympathy with them; that they have little or nothing in common nationally.

If those who are that way of thinking had been present at the convention of the Maritime Board, and listened to Mr. Jarvis' patriotic words and the enthusiasm with which they were greeted by the business men representing the three Provinces of Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick, they would have learned how unjust they were in their views.

The people of the Maritime Provinces are as much concerned in the development of the Dominion as the people of any other part of the Dominion. And if more people from Western Canada would hie themselves to the summer resorts of the Maritime Provinces, instead of to summer resorts of foreign countries, they would have an opportunity of learning this as well as of appreciating the beauty and the majesty of the scenery in that part of the Dominion.

A TIME TO APPLY PRESSURE.

IT is often said that "misery loves company." We in Canada are prone to complain that commercial interests have to play second fiddle to political interests. There is some comfort in the knowledge that even in so well-governed a country as Britain, commerce feels itself pushed aside in Parliament.

There was a meeting of the Leicester Chamber of Commerce the other day. Some plain language was used in connection with the neglect of business interests by the House of Commons. One member thought that railway influence was predominant in the House. Another argued in favor of forming a commercial party. At present, he said, they could not get commercial legislation passed.

This resembles a condition which is often deplored in Canada. Again and again such subjects as insolvency, a fast Atlantic line, railway rates, etc., are either overlooked or scamped altogether, by reason of the fact that the politicians turn to other questions —and we business men allow them to do so. They should be made to toe the mark. As long as we merchants do not insist on being attended to, why, the political managers will go on with other business.

A good time to remedy this state of things is on the eve of a general election. Governments are believed to be more pliable and more amenable to reason then than at other times. Many persons believe that a general election is at hand in the Dominion.

If, therefore, our merchants have certain legislation or reforms at heart, we would advise them to lay their heads together and make the demand now. Is it insolvency laws, Customs' regulations, or something similar which they want? Let them go in strong deputations to the Ministers and press their claims. They will be listened to.

MUSHROOMS.

Mushrooms are not a common article of diet, although many persons like them, and some epicures are known to love them. The supply is limited because few cultivate them, while those which grow in certain suitable localities are not often gathered except by individuals for their own use.

It is possible that a trade in mushrooms might prove profitable to certain merchants, especially those in populous centres. An Edinburgh potato merchant leased a disused railway tunnel and is cultivating mushrooms on a large scale in this congenial spot—congenial that is to the mushroom. A profitable industry is said to be growing up. As soon as the mushrooms were put on the market the demand for them kept pace with the supply.

Mushrooms have to be cultivated by methods almost scientific if paying results are to follow. But that is true of almost all crops. It does seem odd that the supply of an article of consumption like mushrooms, which is regarded here as a luxury and a delicacy, should be dependent on accidental circumstances rather than any definite plan. There may be a fortune for someone in Canadian mushrooms yet.

A BAD LEMON SEASON.

The season of 1898-99 has proved an unsatisfactory one to wholesale lemon dealers. The fault has not been a declining market, for prices have been pretty well maintained throughout. The advance that dealers expected to result from increased demand during the hot months did not, however, take place, for the nights this summer have been too cool for a large consumption of lemonade. The increasing popularity of other drinks has also had its effect, as the demand has not been what was looked for.

The great cause of loss, though, was the poor quality of fruit that has been received on this market this year. There has been a large proportion of inferior qualities, while the better qualities have shown greater waste than usual.

The result has been that wholesale fruitmen here declare they will be thankful if they close the season, which virtually ends this month, without loss.

HIGH PRICES PREVAILING.

AS CANADA is essentially an agricultural country, all people interested in her welfare are naturally interested in the prices that the farmer receives for his products.

It is a well understood fact (and none know it better than the country merchant), that when the farmer receives good prices his expenditures increase proportionately.

The following statistics show the prices that have prevailed during the third week in August for the past five years for butter, cheese, eggs, grain and potatoes :

	1899.	1898.	1897.	1896.	1895.
	c.	c.	c.	c.	c.
Butter, creamery tubs	21 23	17½ 18	17 17½	17 18	18 19
" dairy tubs	16 17	13 14	12 13	13 15	14 15
Cheese, per lb	10½ 11	8¼ 8½	8¾ 9	8¼ 8½	... 8½
Eggs, per dozen	12½ 13½	10 12	11 12	8 8½	10½ 11
Wheat, per bushel	71 72	70 71	... 86	63 65	... 74
Peas, per bushel	... 60	55 58	... 44	... 51	... ..
Oats, per bushel	30 34	31 33	21 22	22½ 23½	31 34
Potatoes, per bushel	50 60	... 50	50 60	25 30	... 25

It will be seen from the above that the prices of all these commodities are higher to-day than they have been at any time for five years, with the exception of wheat, which was higher in 1897, when the Leiter boom was beginning.

Creamery tub butter is 3c. higher than the highest point before recorded ; dairy is 2c. dearer ; cheese is 2¼ to 2½c. higher ; eggs are 2 to 2½c. higher ; peas are 2c. per bushel above the highest point, that of last year, and 16c. above that of the year before ; oats are the same as was paid for them in August, 1895, but 9 to 12c. higher than was paid in August, 1897 ; potatoes are just about twice as dear as they were in 1896 and 1895 at this time of year.

While these figures are interesting they are not more so than the following, which show the way our exports of these lines have grown in recent years :

	1895.	1896.	1897.	1898.
Cheese	$14,253,002	$13,956,571	$14,676,239	$17,572,763
Butter	697,476	1,052,089	2,089,173	2,046,686
Eggs	807,990	807,086	978,479	1,255,305
Wheat	5,389,109	5,771,521	5,544,197	17,313,916
Peas	1,622,919	1,131,187	2,252,673	1,709,505
Oats	320,458	273,861	2,655,130	3,041,578

It will be seen that the exportation of all these commodities has grown rapidly in the four years. The most remarkable increases are those of wheat, butter and oats.

The value of oats exported in 1898 was nearly ten times that of four years ago ; while more than three times the value of butter and wheat was exported last year as in 1895.

Flour and bacon are also classed as products of the farm. Our exports of bacon in 1895 were $3,546,107 and in 1898, $7,291,285. Our exports of flour in 1895 were $839,112 and in 1898, $5,425,760.

Our total exports of farm products and animals and their produce in 1895 were $41,665,289; in 1896, $50,591,002; in 1897, $57,227,898 and in 1898, $77,364,755, showing a total increase in the four years of $35,699,466—over 80 per cent.

When the exports of the year ending July 1900 are totalled up, it will be seen that there is no let up in the growth of our export of these articles. Already this season our exports of butter are 196,308 packages as compared with 82,999 packages up to this time last year, while our shipments of cheese amount to 970,179 boxes this season, against 867,454 boxes last season.

This growth in our export trade has taken place in the face of a steadily-growing home consumption. One instance of this is the growth of our bacon export in the face of the fact that the Northwest and British Columbia are yearly calling for more and more Ontario and Quebec provisions. This was never more the case than this summer. For the first time in six years, Ontario and Quebec packers have been able to secure orders for provisions from British Columbia, to the exclusion of United States provisions in all lines except one or two of the less important ones.

Another instance of the growing home demand is the fact that the price of eggs has been maintained, because of the home consumption, at a figure which has made exportation at a profit almost impossible.

THE LESSON OF THE SITUATION.

There is no question but that the outlook this season is exceptionally bright. Large crops and high prices are making the Canadian farmer rejoice ; manufacturers of all varieties of goods are working their men overtime at advanced wages ; our mineral resources in the Klondyke, in British Columbia, in the new Ontario and in Cape Breton are being developed at an unprecedented rate ; the value of our great spruce forests in Quebec, Ontario and New Brunswick are being recognized and utilized as never before ; not for years has there been so few unemployed in our large cities.

In fact, in whatever direction one looks ; from whatever viewpoint the matter be considered, the result is to strengthen one's belief in the brightness of the outlook for Canada in the next few years. It would be a veritable pessimist who would talk "hard times" to-day.

Yet, a word of caution would not be out of place. The greater the prosperity of the next few years, the more competition will surely be induced to enter the field ; and greater will be the reaction when it comes.

There has never yet been a boom without a panic, and exceptional prosperity is generally followed by a reaction.

While this is more true of older countries, and while the continued development of the wheat areas of the Northwest and the mineral resources of many of our Provinces may be depended on as a force to allay or lessen the reaction, yet the exceptional conditions cannot be expected to always prevail.

If, in a country town, the grocers, hardware dealers, druggists, or any class of merchants, evince unusual prosperity, there is a likelihood of new competition. Others not getting as large a share of the good times may enter this seemingly fertile field to get a share of the pasturage. They may be fitted to compete, and soon cut down the revenues of the older merchants to what they had been making before the season of unusual prosperity commenced. They may not be fitted to compete, but, by unwise cutting or giving credit, they may, in another way, hamper the older merchants, and reduce their incomes to a normal figure.

Should then, a merchant refrain from taking advantage of the good times prevailing in the fear of inciting competition? By no means. But he should never allow a year or two of exceptional profits to establish an exceptional rate of personal expenditure.

It is pleasant to increase one's home or personal expenses, but it is neither easy nor pleasant to curtail them.

The wise plan during the good years is to either put the extra earnings into the business or put it into a safe investment, so that when a few lean years come, a reserve will be in readiness for all possible obligations.

The man who lives up to his income obviously cannot ever attain to riches. But he who takes advantage of the good year to lay the foundation of a "banked reserve" may lay at the same time the foundation to a fortune.

In time of peace, prepare for war,
In time of plenty, prepare for want.

"The Side Shuffling" in terms, conditions and insane promises of those pushing the "so called," just as good substitute is positively amusing—but availeth nothing.

ONTARIO MARKETS

TORONTO, August 24, 1899.

GROCERIES.

A GREAT improvement has been manifested in the wholesale grocery trade this week. Orders are coming in liberally from the travelers who were put back on the road this week. The demand for lumber camp supplies has also opened up this week. As this demand is as large as usual, it adds considerably to the movement of general groceries. The movement of sugars has increased, as the larger fruits are in many sections ripened sufficiently for preserving. Prices here are steady and unchanged. The dry weather has greatly strengthened the feeling for future deliveries of canned tomatoes, corn, peas and beans, especially corn and tomates. Packers claim that the crop will be much below the average, and say they will have difficulty in filling orders. New teas of all grades are gradually coming into the market. China, Indian and Ceylon teas are considerably higher than a year ago, but the values of Japan teas showing are much ahead of last year.

CANNED GOODS.

Prices of the new season's pack of canned salmon which have just been issued show a decline of 5 to 10c. Futures in corn, tomatoes, peas and beans, are stiffening. For tomatoes and corn, wholesalers are now asking 30c., whereas, a few weeks ago, 75c. would have satisfied the same house. The cause of the strengthening tone of this market is the continued dry weather. During the week strawberries have advanced 10c. and gallon apples 20c. Blueberries are 5c. cheaper. The movement of all canned goods is large. Orders for future delivery have also been numerous in the past week.

COFFEES.

The price of green Rio coffees are exceptionally low. In view of the advances in other commodities, it is generally considered that prices are about the bottom, and that all purchases at the present figure would be safe.

SUGARS.

A satisfactory improvement in the demand is noted, and a brisk seasonable trade is now doing. The price of refined sugars in New York has been reduced 3-16 to ¼c., but this will in no wise affect the Canadian market. Prices here are unchanged. Raw sugars are steadier than last week, and prices remain unaltered. The Guild price is $4.65 Toronto for St. Lawrence and Redpath refined sugars and $4.60 for Acadia. Foreign granulated is quoted at $4.60 Toronto.

TEAS.

New teas of all grades are gradually coming into the market. The values of Japan teas offering this year are much ahead of last year. For China, Indian and Ceylon teas, on the other hand, the prices are considerably above those of last year.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—Cable advices note an advance of 2s. per cwt. since last issue. The market still shows a stiffening tendency. The few buyers who acted promptly on opening prices are likely to have a considerable advantage over competitors, as spot stocks are practically nil in the face of a good demand.

See pages 41 and 42 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SULTANA RAISINS—As indicated in our last week's issue the prices in Smyrna have decreased from the opening. To-day this fruit can be had 15s. per cwt. below the opening prices.

VALENCIA RAISINS—The first shipment is expected to arrive in Toronto between September 10 and 12. The price of this cargo has not yet been cabled, but prices for present shipment will likely be at a high figure.

DATES—Advices from people largely interested state that offerings of many importers have been withdrawn because of a feeling that prices have touched the lowest point for futures. Some import contracts have been made for early shipment, via Southampton, other shipments ex first tide steamers.

PRUNES—The European market is rather high for business. In Canada, some offerings have been made for shipments of Bosnia fruit by way of Montreal before the close of navigation, but these would cost about 5½c.

ELEME FIGS—The crop, while in excess of last year, is still likely to be less than half the average. Prices, therefore, while lower than last year, will still be comparatively high.

GREEN FRUITS.

The feature of this week is the commencement of the arrival of early grapes. The varieties in now are the Champion, at 20 to 25c.; the Moyer, at 50 to 60c., and Moore's Early, at 40 to 50c. per 10-qt. basket. The arrivals are large, but are expected to greatly increase in the next week or two. The demand is excellent. Oranges, raspberries and black currants are out of the market. Canadian tomatoes continue to arrive in increasing quantities, and prices are steady at 15 to 20c., last week's figure. Crawford peaches are beginning to arrive in good condition, and sell well as high as $1 to $1.25 per basket. Cheaper varieties can be had from 40c. up. Bartlett pears are also coming in more freely than last week, and, as they are in better condition, the demand is improved and prices have gone up 10c., this week's price being from 40 to 60c. Cheaper pears are plentiful at 25 to 40c. A good demand continues for plums of various varieties at from 30 to 60c. per basket. Poor qualities of muskmelons are still offering too freely. Qualities fit for shipping, however, sell well at about 75c. per basket. A few lawtonberries continue to arrive at from 5 to 7c. There is a good movement of watermelons, and prices are firm at 20 to 30c. each. There are not many small sizes offering this week. The sale of bananas locally continues very large. During the hot spell, since last issue, there has been a good demand for lemons. This has quieted down again, and prices are unchanged. Fall apples are beginning to arrive in barrels. They look very good, and sell readily at from $1 to $1.50.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Deliveries continue heavy. Owing to the extreme hot weather lately the quality has not been as good as formerly. However, with the cooler weather of the latter end of this week an improvement in this respect is noted. A number of eggs are being exported, but at the extreme prices ruling here little profit is looked for by local exporters. The consumption in Toronto is large, and is expected to considerably increase during the time of the Toronto Fair. Prices are steady and unchanged at 13 to 13½c. per doz.

BEANS—Practically nothing doing. Prices are nominally $1 to $1.10 for hand-picked, and 80 to 90c. for ordinary stock.

POTATOES—The dry weather is causing a general stiffening in prices, but last week's quotations, 50 to 60c. per bushel are well maintained.

VEGETABLES—Corn is 5 to 10c. per doz. dearer. Carrots are 10c. per doz. bunches cheaper. Otherwise there is no change. We quote: Cauliflower, $1 to $1.50 per doz.; Rhubarb, 15 to 20c.; radishes, 15c. per dozen bunches; corn, 10 to 20c. per doz.; vegetable marrow, 40 to 60c. per doz.; green onions, 5 to 10c. per doz.; celery, 50c. to 75c. per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz., 30 to 50c.; parsley, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; green cucumbers, 5 to 10c. per doz.; new beets, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; parsnips, 40 to 60c. per dozen bunches; carrots, 10 to 20c. per doz. bunches; green peas, $1 to $1.10 per bag; butter beans, 75c. to $1 per bushel; tomatoes, 15 to 20c. per basket.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The situation is unchanged, the advance of last week being well maintained. The continued reports of pastures drying up throughout the country are causing holders to be quite firm in their views. Creamery prints and squares are possibly the firmest variety on the market and in these an advance of 1c. brings the price up to 21 to 23c. Dairy prints and tubs are unchanged.

CHEESE—The abnormal advance of the last few weeks is well maintained. At most of the cheese boards not much business is being done as factorymen are all looking for top figures. The cable advices quote slight advances over last week in the British market. The local consumption is quite large considering the high price prevailing, 10½ to 11c. per lb. We quote dairy tubs at 17 to 18c.; best tubs at 16 to 17c.; second grade tubs at 12 to 14c. Creamery tubs and boxes are worth 19 to 20c., and prints and squares, 21 to 23c.

FISH.

Manitoba whitefish is scarce here at present, but a carload is expected this week. Oregon salmon is offering at 12½c. Otherwise there is no change, prices throughout continue firm. We quote: Trout, 8c.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; Oregon salmon, 12½c.; maskinonge, 8c.; pickerel, 7½c.; perch, 4c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; cod in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.

PROVISIONS.

The advnnce in the price of live hogs noted last week is well maintained, though this rise has increased deliveries somewhat. The demand for provisions generally has been very large, and, owing to the short supply, prices are quite stiff. The run has been mostly on long clear bacon and hams, and, although packers have in some instances sold long clear in large lots at 7¾c., the majority are holding for 8c., and some are asking ⅛ to ¼c. more. Even higher prices are confidently looked for by some packers on account of the small number of large hogs offered. The demand for lumbering camps is just starting and the indications are that the requirements from this source will be as large as usual. The business in hams this year has quite upset the calculations of all packers. Early in the season the indications were that a sufficient quantity of hams had been packed to last through the year, but the heavy demand, both from the West and for local consumption, has so reduced stocks that advances which were unexpected have taken place. These high prices will likely be maintained until the close of navigation. An advance af ¼c. brings the price up to 13 to 13½c. per lb.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—An advance of ½ to 1c. is noted in wheat, red and white both selling at 68½ to 69c. this week. The street market is fairly active. Goose wheat is up ½c., and red and white 1c. per bushel. New oats are starting to come in. We quote as follows: Wheat, white and red, 72c.; goose, 68½c.; peas, 60 to 61c.; oats, new, 34 to 35c.; old, 29 to 30c.; barley, 43 to 44c.; rye, 51 to 53c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat is unchanged at 80c. Toronto.

FLOUR—The advance in wheat has resulted in a stiffening of all flour values. Prices are unchanged, however. We quote: Manitoba patents, $3.90; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.60; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—There is no change. We quote as follows: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.75 in bags and $3.85 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

SALT.

An active demand is noted. Prices unchanged. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote F.O.B., barrels, 70c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English coarse salt 47 to 49c. Toronto per sack of 154 lb.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL

HIDES — A good demand continues. Prices are firm. We quote cowhides: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9c.

SKINS — A stiff feeling is manifested. Lambskins are 5 to 10c. dearer. We quote: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 9c. per lb.; No. 2, 7c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheep and lambskins are selling at 45c.

WOOL — There is practically nothing doing, holders and buyers being too far apart for business. We quote fleece at 14 to 14¼c., and unwashed at 8 to 9c.

SEEDS.

Some jobbing in small quantities is being done this week at $3 to $4 per cwt. The deliveries of clover have been light, holders keeping their stock, which was harvested rather late, until all harvesting is over. Dealers are offering $4 to $4.75 for choice to fancy lots of alsike. Extra fancy lots are worth 25c. more.

MARKET NOTES.

Creamery prints and squares are 1c. dearer.

Grapes are on the market. The price runs all the way from 20 to 60c. per 10-quart basket. Crawford peaches of fine quality are offering at $1 to $1.25 per basket.

Long clear bacon and hams have advanced ½c. per lb.

The price of "Clover Leaf" salmon for the new season's pack will be $1.45 to $1.50 for talls and $1.60 to $1.65 for flats.

Oranges, raspberries and black currants are off the local market.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, August 24, 1899.

GROCERIES.

BUSINESS in general groceries has not been specially noteworthy during the past week. Refined sugar has been fairly active here on account of preserving wants, and prices are steady. Syrup furnishes no change, and the jobbing movement has not yet commenced in Barbadoes molasses. Canned goods generally are steady, with nothing special to report this week, and the same can be said of dried fruits. Rice is quiet and coffee steady, while spices are unchanged. Some movement has been noted in tea, the tone of the staple ruling firm.

SUGAR.

With a good inquiry for refined sugar, both from country and city buyers, prices rule steady here, granulated selling at $4.55, and yellows, $3.65 to $3.75, and extra bright, $3.95 to $4.25. The announcement of another war in New York, however, where substantial cuts have been made in refined is causing some anxiety among traders, who had just commenced to thank their stars that matters were once more on a stable basis. Raw sugar has ruled quiet for beet at London, present month being steady at 10s. 4¾d., and next month 10s. 3¾d. Cane has been steady also, with little doing, Java 12s. 9d. and fair refining 11s. 9d. In New York this week raw has been more or less nominal, but with a weak undertone, fair refining, 4c.; centrifugal 96 test, 4 9-16c., and molasses sugar, 3⅞c.

SYRUPS.

The syrup market continues steady and unchanged at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., as to grade at factory.

MOLASSES.

The market is quiet for Barbadoes molasses, and will be until the jobbing movement commences. Round lots of Barbadoes are quoted at 34c., and car lots, 35c., with single puncheons, 36c. Porto Rico is offered at 31 to 32c.

CANNED GOODS.

There is little new to report in connection with canned goods. The feeling in regard to tomatoes, corn, peas, etc., continues firm, and business on spot is noted at 75c. for tomatoes, 90c. for corn, and 75 to 77½c. for peas and beans.

Canned fruits are as last noted. We quote as follows: Apples, 3 lb., 75c.; preserved, $1.40; 1 gal. tins, $2; pears, 3 lb., $1.80; plums, 3 lb., $1.60; greengages, 3 lb., $1,75; yellow peaches, 3 lb., $2.25; pumpkins, 3 lb., $3 65; strawberries, preserved, $1.35; do., in syrup, $1,15; raspberries, preserved, $1.40; do., in syrup, $1.15.

The strong feeling in regard to canned salmon is fully maintained, and little or no new business is reported, because canners are not quoting.

French sardines remain as reported. Prices are unchanged: Small quarters, $7.50 to $8; ordinary, $7.75 to $8.25; full quarters, $10.50 to $11; American do., $13.50 to $14; boneless, high halves, $22 to $23; low do., $18.50 to $19.50; high quarters, $16 to $17, and low do., $10.50 to $11.50.

DRIED FRUITS.

There is nothing special to report in dried fruits this week, the market being as last reported, both on spot and at primary centres.

RICE.

There is a seasonable trade in rice at unchanged prices. We quote: B standard, $3.40 to $3.50; Patnas, $4.12½ to $4.75; Japans, $4.50 to $5, and Caroline, $6 to $7.

COFFEES.

Under a fair demand there has been somewhat more movement in Maracaibo, and sales are noted in the bean at 8½ to 9½c in 25-bag lots, smaller quantities entailing an advance.

SPICES.

The spice market is quiet and firm. We quote: Singapore black pepper, 12½ to 13c., and Singapore white, 19½ to 20c. Penang pepper, 17½ to 18c., and West Coast, 12 to 13c. Pimento, 11 to 12c. Nutmegs, 28 to 44c., as to quality. Cassia, 9 to 10c.; Jamaica ginger, 19½ to 20c.; Cochin tips ginger, 6 to 6½c.; Zanzibar cloves, 9 to 10c.; nutmegs, 40 to 55c., and mace, 45 to 50c.

TEAS.

Some inquiry has been noted for old crop Japan, with business at 11 to 14c. as to grade. New crop has also moved at 15½ to 17c for 300 package lots, and as high as 20c. has been paid for other parcels of the same goods. In green teas trading is noted at 11½ to 14c. China blacks and Ceylons have not contributed anything special during the week.

GREEN FRUITS.

The green fruit market has shown little radical change since last report. A few lots of early apples are arriving, and are offered all the way from $2 to $3 per bbl., as to variety and condition. There have been liberal receipts of bananas, with sales at 75c. to $1.25 per bunch. Most dealers have large stocks of lemons, and sales range between $2 and $3 per box. Oranges, on the other hand, are scarce. Sales are slow, however, at $3.25 to $4 per box and $2 to $2.25 per half-box. Heavy receipts of Canadian peaches have been a feature, and are all clingstone. Prices range from 30 to 40c. per basket. Low-grade pears have been in excess of demand, and sales range from 25 to 40c. per basket. Canadian plums are moving freely at 40 to 50c. per basket. Muskmelons sell at $1 to $1.25 per crate. Receipts of Californian fruits have also been heavy. Pears sell at $2.25 to $2.40 per box; peaches, $1.25 per box, and plums, $1.20 to $1.50 per box.

FISH.

Rule steady but quiet. We quote as follows: Fresh haddock and cod at 3 to 4c. for haddock, and 3 to 3½c. for cod; British Columbia salmon, 12 to 13c.; halibut, 13 to 14c.; salt fish: Green cod, $4.25 to $4.50 for No. 1, and $5 for No. 1 large per barrel; dry cod, $4; Nova Scotia herring, $4.25 to $4.50 in barrels; Cape Breton, $4.75 in barrels; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $14 to $15; sea trout, $9.50 to $10; lake trout, $4.25 to $4.50 per keg of 100 lb.; No. 1 green haddock, $4 to $4.25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The tone of the market is strong, but the demand is rather slow owing to the very warm weather. We quote: Choice candled stock, 16 to 16½c.; straight lots, 14 to 14½c.; No. 2, 11 to 12c., and culls, 9 to 10c. per dozen.

MAPLE PRODUCT—There is no change to note in maple product. Supplies are small, and prices firm. We quote: Syrup, in wood, 6½ to 7c. per lb., and 85 to 90c. per tin. Sugar, 8½ to 9c. per lb.

HONEY—A few small lots of new clover honey in the comb keep coming forward, which meet with a ready sale. We quote: 10c. per lb., and extracted 8c.

BEANS—There was only a small jobbing trade done in beans. We quote: 95c. to $1 for choice hand-picked, and 85 to 90c. for primes.

POTATOES—Receipts of potatoes are large, and prices easy at 35 to 40c. per bag, in round lots.

ASHES—In ashes little business is doing, and the market rules dull. We quote: First sorts, $3.70 to $3.75; seconds, do., $3.50, and first pearls, $5.25 to $5.50 per 100 lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—There was a good foreign demand for Manitoba grades of flour, and, as cables in some cases showed an advance of 9d. over previous bids, millers were disposed to do business, and sales of several thousand sacks were made for prompt and future shipment. Locally, the demand was also better for small lots, in consequence, the market, on the whole, was fairly active and the tone steadier. We quote as follows: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.30 to $3.40; in bags, $1.60 to $1.65; Manitoba patents, $4 to $4.20; strong bakers', $3.60 to $3.80.

GRAIN—A fair amount of business was put through over the cable to-day, there being a good demand for both Manitoba wheat and oats, and bids were satisfactory, especially for oats, they being 3d. higher than the public cable. Locally, trade is still quiet and the trade is without any new feature to note. New crop oats for September delivery are offering at 29c. afloat, and at points west of Toronto at 24½c. f.o.b. cars. In a small way old oats are still selling at 32½ to 33c. ex store. Peas are dull and neglected. New crop rye has sold at 56½c. afloat.

MEAL—In meal, business is still quiet, and prices show no change, rolled oats being quoted at $3.67½ per bbl. and at $1.72½ per bag.

FEED—The tone of the feed market is firm. The demand for bran is good, but, owing to the small offerings, buyers find it difficult to fill their wants, and, in some cases, millers are asking higher prices. We quote: Ontario bran, in bulk, $14 to $14.50, and shorts, $15 to $15.50 per ton; Manitoba bran, $14; shorts, $16 to $17; mouille, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY—In baled hay, a good steady trade continues to be done, and the market is active and firm. We quote: Choice No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $6 to $6.50, and clover, $5.50 to $6 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

The local market is firm, but prices show no change. The demand for cured meats of all kinds has improved again on account of the extreme heat, and a fair trade is reported. We quote as follows: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7c. to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined, 5½c. to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11½c. to 12½c. per lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—The softer feeling which had its inception last week, continues, the dealings at the wharf Monday morning being an illustration. There, from 7,000 to 8,000 cheese were sold at 9¾ to 9⅞c., which shows a decline of about ¼c. per lb. on the price which ruled last Monday. Between traders there was not much doing or any material change in price, the range for western being 10⅜ to 10½c., and for eastern, 10 to 10¼c.

BUTTER—Also is somewhat easier in tone than it was last week, business in creamery being noted at 21 to 21½c., as to grade, higher figures having been refused for the same goods last week, while western dairy realized 15 to 15½c. In a local jobbing way creamery fetched 22c., and Townships dairy, 17 to 17½c. At the wharf some 500 packages of creamery sold at a range of 20¾ to 21c.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., August 24, 1899.

THE week has shown but a fair amount of general business. The effort to get dealers from out of town to take advantage of low rates secured by the local board of trade on railroad and steamboat lines running into the city, did not prove a great success. Even the extra attraction of the meeting of the Maritime Board of Trade here did not prove enough to bring many, except those who came as delegates to the board meeting, a full account of which will be found in another part of this paper. The fact is, outside dealers have little call to the city. Travelers are so numerous they are kept well stocked, often too well, and are right in touch with the market. The ladies have more call, as they like to come to do their shopping as they cannot get the variety at home. The nearness of the Exhibition worked against the full success of the effort, as many would put off their visit till that time.

OIL—Burning oil tends firmer in price. There is a large sale, chiefly for later shipment, though some orders are now being filled outside of the regular demand. In lubricating oils, prices are low, and but little doing. Paint oil continues very high, and has a very firm tendency. Demand not large. Cod oil comes to hand slowly, there being but a limited sale, even at the low figures. In wax, higher values rule, and dealers will not book orders for future delivery. Wax is very scarce, and, of course, candles are affected. The increased uses to which wax is put is said to account for the condition of the market.

SALT—There were fair receipts of Liverpool coarse salt during the week. Prices are very firmly held and the tendency is strong. Advanced freights very much affect this line. In fine salt there is no change. Canadian has the big sale. Barrel salt, to a large extent, is taking the place of bags. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—This is a somewhat more quiet line. The wholesale trade have bought enough to satisfy their needs. It is well they have as it is difficult to get orders booked at any price. While new corn will be well below present figures, the market is likely to be a very firm one. Even peas are in a stronger position. Salmon is not being as largely bought as usual owing to the high figures quoted. There will be very few lobsters in this market. Blueberries are quite plentiful; they come on a bare market. Peaches are in demand. The outlook is, as in other lines, for high prices. Gallon apples are firmly held and it is said higher prices will rule. In oysters, reports from Baltimore are that the market is about bare and upwards of two months before new goods can be shipped. Pineapple is marked higher and stocks very light. Kippered herring, haddies and bloaters are held firm.

GREEN FRUITS—This is a particularly active line. Pears and apples have the big sale. The former are plentiful, and pears in barrels, of particularly good quality, can be bought low. In apples, New Brunswick stock is now being received. Quality is good and there is a fair crop, chiefly early fruit. Both Ontario and Californian peaches are being received and there is a fair demand at even figures. Plums have improved sale. The quality of Californians received this season is very fine. In melons, there is little doing. Bananas have but a fair sale. Oranges are also slow, with quality only fair. Lemons sell freely at full figures, price showing considerable advance. Ontario tomatoes are still a factor in the market. Quality of local goods so far received shows up poorly. Grapes have but a light sale as yet. In small fruits, season is about over.

DRIED FRUITS—This is a line that is coming to the front. Spot stock of all lines is light. In Valencia raisins, first orders were small and at open prices, and dealers are inclined to hold off before placing orders for regular stock. Prices so far quoted are a little above last season, and quality is said to be very good. In Californians, opening figures have not yet been received, but are very soon expected. It is thought they will open quite high. Californian prunes have opened at rather higher prices than last season, and are firm. A good demand here is expected. In currants, prices have opened quite high, and very little business has yet been done. Prices received for figs, though below last season, are quite high. Demand is not expected to be as large as usual. Spot business in all lines of dried fruits is very light. In evaporated apples, it is thought that somewhat lower figures will rule than last season, but a firm market is expected. There is stock here for all present business. American onions are now filling the demand, and prices, though still high, tend lower. In peanuts, there is a good active sale. Prices are marked higher.

SUGAR—There is a steady sale at even figures, and values are rather higher. Very little future business is being done. Sale is very largely for granulated. In yellows, light goods have the demand.

MOLASSES—In Porto Rico, a fair stock is held here. The quality is particularly good. Prices are held firm, and sales are active. A consigned cargo landing last week found very prompt sale. Another cargo is expected soon. Some New Orleans was offered this week, and found a fair market at a price well below West Indian goods. Barbadoes is scarce, and price is high. No syrups are moving.

PRODUCE—Eggs show an active sale at good prices, the market being firm. Stocks are not large. Butter keeps very dull. It is a question what to do with stocks, particularly off-grades, and stock of this quality is large. Creamery has no demand. Cheese is higher. Stock in the city is light. Factories throughout the Province are well sold up at good prices. Local demand is still for small cheese.

FISH—Fresh fish continue scarce and in no lines are stocks large; receipts very light. The fact that dog fish are very plenty is given as one cause. Shad should be plenty but very few are to hand. Pickled herring hold their price. There is a better demand; receipts light. A few new smoked are here. Price a little higher than for old fish. The market is a fairly firm one owing to light stocks. In pollock, quantity to hand very light and full prices asked. Cod show no change and are likely to rule firm for some time. Some nice kippered herring are received, with fair sales. We quote: Large and medium dry cod, $3.75 to $4; small, $2.50; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 7 to 8c.; halibut, 10 to 12c. per lb.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; shad, 10c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $2.00 $2.10 per 100; salmon, 15 to 16c.; pickled herring, $1.65 per half bbl.

PROVISIONS—Barrelled beef and pork are rather firmer; local demand is still light but improved business expected. In lard, fair stocks held. Price rather firmer. Little doing in smoked meats.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL — There is a fairly active business in flour, and a rather firmer feeling noted. Reports of crop in Manitoba particularly favourable, much more so than those from Ontario. Feed is scarce and high. Oatmeal is a very light stock here; dealers waiting for lower figures; tendency seems downward. There is quite a range in quotations. Oats are firm and reports tend to a steady market. Cornmeal holds the advance, considerable American is here, while higher than that ground here, it is needed to supply the demand. Beans, while still low are firm and show improved sale. Barley and split peas show but a limited business. We quote: Manitoba flour, $4.65 to $4.80; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.10; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $4.00 to $4.10; cornmeal, $2.25 to $2.30; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10; prime, 95 to $1.00; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

F. C. Colwell & Co., Limited, is the style of the new candy company.

Mr. Angevine, of Bowman & Angevine is taking a well-earned vacation this week.

Heaton's pickles are having a very large sale in this market, very largely taking the place of higher priced goods.

Northrupt & Co. have some particularly nice dulse on hand. Receipts of first quality have so far been very light this season.

Jones & Schofield have received a shipment of New Orleans molasses. These goods are particularly adapted for cooking purposes.

In spite of keen competition Schepp's cocoanut has a strong hold on our market, among late receipts are shipments for J. Finley and T. B. Barker & Son.

Mr. Berryman representing The Gwattney-Bunkley Peanut Co., Southfield, Va., called on the trade this week, and though a little late in the season did a good business.

Messrs. Puddington & Merrett are always abreast of the times. They are the first and so far the only retail grocers here to handle the famous "Uneeda" biscuit.

The feature of the week has been the meeting of the Maritime Board of Trade. A representative of THE GROCER attended and his report will be found in this issue.

Dr. W. W. White, of the wholesale house of Vincent S. White & Co., has been elected a director of the Bank of New Brunswick in the place of the late W. W. Turnbull.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

MANITOBA whitefish are scarce this week. A. Booth & Co., Toronto, will have a carload next week.

"Empire" Pekoeand "Empire" Golden Tipped Pekoe, are now on sale by Lucas, Steele & Bristol, at last year's prices.

A shipment of canned beets has been received by John Sloan & Co.

Chas. Gyde is making large shipments of Rowntree's goods this week.

S. H. Ewing & Sons have a nice consignment of Ceylon teas just in and will be pleased to send samples to the wholesale trade.

A fresh supply of Anderson's concentrated soups is in stock with The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

New season's fine Penyang and Pecco Congous are to hand with The Davidson & Hay, Limited.

Fine liquoring new season's Japan teas are now in store with The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

The "Rosemary" brand of goods offered by Lucas, Steele & Bristol are most attractive in style and quality.

An extra fine selection of whole pickling spice is selling freely with The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

"Kiji" Japan tea this season is ahead of former ones in style and liquor—also lower in price.

The Davidson & Hay, Limited, are showing samples of some splendid values in cheap Japan teas—straight leaf and "nibs." Buyers would do well to look into these teas when requiring.

John Sloan & Co. have received a large shipment of Filiatra currants in cases, which show excellent value.

Ralston's cocoa, ½-lb. tins in 6-lb. boxes, is in store with The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

"Our sales for our 'Choice' and 'Extra' whole pickling spice are a fair indication of the merit of these two lines. This season we have sold over double the quantity of these spices over any previous year," report The Davidson & Hay, Limited.

The statement submitted to the creditors of F. L. Worden, grocer, St. John, N.B., at the meeting last week, showed liabilities of about $6,000 and assets about $2,000. A compromise offer of 20c. cash or 30c. by notes payable November 1 and January 1, was submitted. The offer of compromise was accepted, leaving the creditors to individually exercise their option as to which offer they would accept.

board which has the largest membership has the right to name the first subject, the next the second, and so on."

NOMINATING COMMITTEE.

The following nominating committee was named: Messrs. D. J. McLaughlin, St. John; M. G. DeWolfe, Kentville; W. S. Loggie, Chatham; J. M. Carmichael, New Glasgow; H. Hazzard, Charlottetown; John Ervin, Bridgetown; J. E. DeWolfe, Halifax; W. V. Brown, Berwick; Alex. Henderson, Woodstock; A. I. Teed, St. Stephen; W. H. Moran, St. Martin's; P. Innes, Cold Brook; J. B. McKenna, Dartmouth; F. E. Cox, Middleton; C. J. Armstrong, Sussex.

On motion of Mr. John Ervin, of Bridgetown, the members of the above committee were also appointed a committee to nominate the officers for the ensuing year.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

President Jarvis then delivered his annual address, which was as follows:

It will be five years next October since the conference to which the Board of Trade of the Maritime Provinces owes its existence was held at St. John. Upwards of 20 years ago a Dominion Board of Trade was established, and, in July, 1874, its annual meeting was held in this city, and the St. John board gladly welcomed their friends from other parts of Canada. But the difficulties of maintaining so extended a connection proved too great, for the time at least; and, finally, the meetings of the Dominion Board were discontinued.

When the conference in October, 1894, was proposed, there was very little thought of its expansion into a Maritime Board of Trade. But the president of the Halifax board was able to attend the meeting. He was warmly welcomed It was felt that benefit could not but result if such gatherings could be held from time to time. In August, 1895, the Maritime Board of Trade was organized at Halifax In 1896 a constitution and rules were formally adopted at St. John; and it has since met at Charlottetown, in 1897, and at Truro, in 1898.

MARITIME AND LOCAL BOARDS.

Perhaps it may be well at the outset to admit that even yet the Maritime Board has hardly passed beyond the experimental stage.

With the local boards it is different. Here and there some one may flag for a time, but it is unlikely that, at least in the larger centres, they will ever cease to exist. And, indeed, their existence and their vigor may be taken in some degree as an index to the life and energy of the locality in which they have their place. The scope and interests of the local board are coming to be generally understood. The first thoughts of its members are given to the well-being and prosperity of the place in which they live. It claims in return the support of the citizens whom more or less directly it represents. There is no interference with the municipal authorities as representing the people at large. But as the duties of such municipal bodies are largely administrative, the need is felt for another organization, representative in a limited sense only, composed in part perhaps of such members of the municipal bodies as can spare time for the consideration of public questions outside the administrative routine, but including also other citizens who can act with them in considering matters of public interest and suggesting measures which may promote the general good. Suggestions emanating from such a body can carry weight only in proportion to their intrinsic worth, and the arguments by which they may be sustained. The boards of trade exist as means through which information may be circulated at home and abroad, as channels through which the views of their members can be made public, criticized, approved or condemned, and as factors in the education of the public mind. If they are consulted by the governing bodies on matters of local importance, it is only because they represent and centralize the opinions of the citizens whom their membership includes.

The Maritime Board has a wider field, and that very circumstance deprives it in some degree of the interest which attaches to the local boards. It appeals to us as dwellers in the Maritime Provinces of Canada, as Acadians, shall I say? For I think that that good old word should not be left altogether to our fellow-countrymen of French descent. But the Acadian idea is in its infancy. Too often in the past have the Maritime Provinces shown a divided front, and too often, indeed, have differences appeared within the Provinces themselves. We are beginning now to realize how much we have in common, and that in union there is strength. We are being welded together as our relations became more intimate and intercourse extends. We find in the existence of this Maritime Board the expression of a desire for yet closer union. Its well-being can be threatened only if it it is found to be in advance of the general desire for such union that exists.

The Maritime Board of Trade was formed to strengthen the ties that bind these Provinces together. It furnishes a means through which questions of extended interest may be brought into more general notice by the local boards. It is intended to bring together delegates from all parts of the Maritime Provinces, and to enable them to enter into each other's circumstances and each other's wants. A legislative union of the three Provinces has often been thought of as a means of harmonizing divergent interests and enabling them to present a united front. The difficulties in the way of such a union have proved insuperable. But the Maritime Board of Trade, if it can be maintained, may furnish a field where such wider questions can be considered, information can be extended, local jealousies removed, and a more united action encouraged and even secured.

And the Maritime Board may well prove useful, too, in extending through the rest of Canada the more intimate acquaintance with the varying interests of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island, which it promotes at home. It is impossible to pay an extended visit to the Upper Provinces or the West without realizing how little is known of Maritime interests there. Our summer visitors come very largely from the United States. We gladly welcome our cousins from the South, but we have ample room, also, for our brethren from the West. Trade relations are slowly extending, but very much yet remains to be done.

This meeting, indeed, has furnished an opportunity to invite the presidents of the principal boards of trade in Ontario and Quebec to be present with us, which has been gladly welcomed. A suggestion made by the editor of The Monetary Times, at Toronto, was acted on, and invitations were sent out as soon as the necessary railway arrangements could be made.

When the Dominion of Canada was established in 1867, the

by the forests of south-eastern Quebec. Seven years passed before Prince Edward Island joined the union, and nearly ten before the thin iron line of the Intercolonial railway cut through these forests, and gave an easy access to the St. Lawrence and the West. It was nearly ten years more before the completion of the Canadian Pacific railway brought us within less than a day's journey of Montreal. Until these connecting links were established, it was not to be expected that mutual intercourse would extend. And, unfortunately, even at the present day, our fellow-subjects elsewhere in Canada seem unable to realize the resources of the Maritime Provinces, or the extent to which the well-being of all Canada is bound up with their development. Millions may be spent on the canals and other public works of the interior, on the harbors of Montreal or Quebec, or on railways in the West. But appropriations for Halifax, St. John, or some other Maritime Province point, are keenly and jealously watched.

Let us be careful that we do nothing among ourselves to increase this tendency, and let us not forget that it exists. It is natural that our claims should be thought lightly of by those who, cut off in the past from us as we have been from them, have learned to look to Boston and New York as their most convenient outlets, and who have never realized the advantages which the Maritime Provinces possess and the facilities which their ports can supply. It is unnatural when the just claims of some struggling centre are spoken lightly of, or opposed even, from a want of interest or fancied rivalry among ourselves. It is fratricidal. The Maritime interests must develop together or not at all. Whatever may be urged from any one point against another will most surely turn against its authors in the end.

It is not, I think, too much to claim that the Maritime Board of Trade has already given proof of its usefulness. Not only have several harmonious gatherings taken place, but their effect has been lasting. Warm friendships have been established. Halifax and St. John are coming to look on each other with less of rivalry and a growing desire for each other's welfare. Prince Edward Island can feel that its interests have a place in the thoughts of those on the mainland. And those who met last year at Truro were able to realize not only the hospitality, but the beauty of our inland towns, and brought away with them pleasant recollections not soon to be effaced.

Year by year, if these meetings can be maintained, the benefit must increase. We have much to interest us: The coal and iron interests of Sydney, North Sydney, New Glasgow and Pictou; the lumber industries of the Miramichi; the commercial activity and growth of Truro; the manufactories of Moncton, Woodstock and almost every other town; the wonderful recuperative power which Windsor has shown since the devastating conflagration in 1897; the summer attractions of Fredericton, Wolfville, Kentville and the many other points of beauty in a fair country which is a tourists' paradise throughout; the growing traffic at Halifax and St. John; mines being developed; factories starting into existence; fisheries prospering; agriculture and commerce extending. Such topics are coming to have more than a local interest, and, as each new development is heard of, it should be felt that, wherever within the three Provinces it may have its place, it cannot but contribute to the good of all.

THE GROWTH OF THE MARITIME PROVINCES.

We have, in these Provinces, a rich inheritance. It is a new country. Little more than a century ago it was a wilderness. Look at the contrast now. The natural features are the same. Halifax and Sydney had their magnificent harbors. The St. John river then, as now, flowed for nearly 500 miles from its head waters to the sea. But the forest wealth has been reached, though not exhausted. The fertile land is tilled, though there is an abundance for the new settler still. Mineral wealth has been found where its existence was not dreamt of. Two thousand miles of railway bring each city, town, and village, even, into close connection with others and with the world beyond. Steam vessels, furnishing every comfort to their passengers, ply, during the open season, on the River St. John, through the Bras d'Or lakes, and elsewhere. The Bay of Fundy is crossed from St. John to Digby in two hours and a half. Along the coast from St. John to Eastport and St. Andrews in one direction, and to Yarmouth, the towns on the westward shore, and Halifax in another, and from Halifax to Sydney and beyond, regular services are maintained; and to Prince Edward Island two steamship routes are open during the summer and one during the winter months.

In the cities and larger towns electric railways carry their passengers for a trifling fare. The telephone brings each house and village, even, into close connection with the rest. Coal gas and electricity furnish us with light, and, where these are not available, the earth oils are to be had at a trifling cost. Fuel, both coal and wood, is abundant, and, if we have a longer winter than more southern climes, in the warmly-built houses we have learned to construct, we scarcely feel the effects.

Factories have extended and new industries are springing up. There are the sugar refineries at Halifax; the large cotton mills at six different points; the pork factory at Charlottetown; the pulp mills at Chatham and St. John; steam sawmills and other woodworking factories, foundries and machine shops, smelting works, nail factories, paint factories, canning factories and woollen mills; the wrapper factory at Woodstock, the stamping company turning out glazed ware at Hampton, and other manufactories of almost every description steadily making good their foothold at these and other points.

Agriculture, too, in the widest sense of the term, is improving. Yearly exhibitions encourage the farmer in the production of better stock. The old staple crops—hay and potatoes—are still grown, but the tendency is towards utilizing these bulky products, not easily sent to an outside market, for the growth of stock and the manufacture of cheese and butter at home. The apple product in Nova Scotia, on the Upper St. John and elsewhere, is extending. Small fruits are produced in abundance. Some parts of the Maritime Provinces indeed, and, especially Prince Edward Island, seem intended by Nature to furnish the later garden product for the rest of Eastern Canada and the Northern States. Asparagus luxuriates in the rich Prince Edward Island soil; and where, 40 years ago, the cultivated berries were almost unknown, and the wild fruit only was to be had, we have now the garden fruit everywhere exposed for sale; while the poorer farmers have turned the wild fruit to advantage, and the strawberries, raspberries and blueberries, grown in barrens and clearings, are gathered by their children and give a ready cash return.

We speak of the poorer farmers, and yet pauperism, as it exists in older countries, is unknown. There are hospitals and there are almshouses for the suffering and the unfortunate. But a considerable proportion of those cared for at the public expense are waifs from other lands, and the remainder, almost without exception, consist of those who might have done better if they would.

And in many a country district poverty, even of this kind, is almost unknown. Our public school system furnishes a free education to all. Artizans and laborers find employment at good wages. There is a livelihood for all who will work, if not in the towns, in the country where there is ample room and to spare.

The days of wooden shipbuilding are passing away, but there is good ground for hope that before long iron shipbuilding in the Maritime Provinces may take its place. The iron and steel works now under construction at Sydney will bring its noble harbor to the front. Halifax, long the headquarters for the North American station of the Imperial Navy, has now its dry docks, and furnishes not merely an Atlantic seaport, but a safe retreat for vessels disabled or in distress. St. John hopes to have its dry dock too, and the two cities are striving side by side to secure their due share of the great and growing traffic coming from the rich farming lands of the interior. Their rivals in the United States, Boston and Portland, supported by the Central Government at Washington, are straining every nerve to keep to the front. But for four winters regular ocean freight services have been carried on by steamship lines from Halifax and St. John. New grain elevators now under construction at each port will be in readiness for next winter's use. And Charlottetown is to have direct steamship communication with Liverpool as well.

The picture may seem a bright one, but is it overdrawn? Put it at the least, and, if some Rip Van Winkle of but 60 years ago could awake, would he not think himself in some singular dream rather than in this portion of the busy world in which we live?

HINDRANCES.

And if I remind you of the progress which has been made, it is in no spirit of boasting but rather as an encouragement to future effort. Much has been done, but very much remains. There has been much in the past, and there is much now for which we should be thankful to the Giver of all good, and yet we must not forget that future progress, while not dependent altogether upon ourselves, cannot be maintained unless prudence and energy continue to be shown. The foundation is but laid. It is for us and those who come after us to build upon it, and to build with such harmony of purpose that each may advance the common good.

There is no marked wealth in these Maritime Provinces. While there is very general comfort, there is little of what may be called affluence, and, of what there is, very much is invested where assessors cannot reach it, or concealed.

Capital is required for the development of new industries, and it is well known that several of those recently originated could not have been established without assistance from abroad. This is one of the drawbacks we have to deal with. The boards of trade may well consider in what way it can best be met.

In our temperate climate we are free from the earthquakes of the tropics and the tornadoes of the west. Our seasons are not always equal, but we have never undergone the long drouths which are impoverishing our sister colonies in Australia, and almost forcing them to call for outside help. But we may have poor seasons for the farmer still, or in some other way our progress may be checked.

The city of St. John, in which we meet, has had its sad experiences in the past. For the first 50 years of its existence it prospered through the influence of import duties levied in the United Kingdom on Baltic lumber. Gradually they were reduced, and at last repealed, and there followed a period of trouble and distress. Then came the days of wooden shipbuilding, and St. John became not only celebrated for the vessels it produced, but one of the great ship-owning ports of the world. Wooden ships gradually passed out of use, and then, again, came depression and decay. And upon this followed the disastrous conflagration of 1877, when nearly $15,000,000 worth of property was destroyed, and less than half of this was insured. But St. John, supported indeed and encouraged by the kindly sympathy and generous contributions of her friends, rallied from the shock, though it was many years before the loss was overcome.

Windsor, too, Bridgewater and Digby, and even St. John in part again, have suffered more recently. Such trials have everywhere to be met. They teach us to husband our resources, but they should never damp our energy. It is to the present we have to look. I have spoken of the past. I think there is much to encourage us now.

THE PRESENT CONDITION OF THE MARITIME PROVINCES.

Within the Maritime Provinces, while much will yet depend upon the weather of the next few weeks, there is every prospect of an abundant harvest. Mr. Bigelow, the president of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers Association, tells me that it is expected there will be 400,000 barrels of apples for export this year, against 300,000 exported in 1898. Strawberries and other small fruits have been plentiful among ourselves, and in good demand abroad. Though in some sections the grass was partially winter-killed, the hay crop will be a good one generally. The potato and other root crops promise an abundant yield. Oats, also, are promising well. The growth of wheat is being developed. A larger acreage seems to be coming under cultivation. More stock is kept by the farmers, and dairying is generally on the increase.

The lumber cut of last winter was probably from one-third to one-fourth below the average, but the high freshet and subsequent rains have enabled the lumbermen to get out a large supply of logs. Less than 5 per cent. of the cut has been hung up. There may not be enough to keep the mills busy during the whole year, but prices have improved. The English market for lumber has been firm, and shingles again are in general demand.

Factories of all kinds are busily at work, and the energy of the manufacturers is steadily extending their market over Canada and elsewhere.

Notwithstanding the recent accident at the Caledonia mines, near Glace Bay, the output of coal for 1899 will be larger than in any previous year. The introduction of improved machinery is enabling the gold mines of Nova Scotia to be worked to greater advantage, and the product is steadily increasing. With the completion of the iron works at Sydney the annual production of pig iron in Canada will, in the near future, be more than doubled. Mineral products of various other kinds are being worked or developed.

The trade of the year has been fair. Failures have not exceeded the average, and business seems generally to be in a healthy state. The hardware business has a sister association of its own, and aims to bring its interests throughout the Maritime Provinces into one. Quietly, but steadily, the wholesale trade in every department is being developed. It would, I believe, extend much more rapidly but for the pressure of municipal taxation, to which I shall presently allude.

It would be out of place in this connection to give statistics of the progress in the various industries, even were I in a position to do so. Such statistics are essentially of a local nature, and should be furnished rather by the local boards. But it is safe to say that, throughout the Maritime Provinces generally, there is every reason to feel satisfied with the present condition of affairs, and reasonable ground to hope that the general prosperity may continue and increase.

PREFERENTIAL TRADE.

The Maritime Board of Trade, during its brief existence, has dealt with many important questions. First among these stands, I think, the position affirmed at Halifax, in 1895, that the products of Canada should be exported through Canadian ports. The memorial based upon the resolutions then adopted has been acted upon by the Government of the Dominion. Subsidies for Atlantic steamship services are now offered only when the western port of arrival and departure is within Canada itself. This great principle has become fully recognized and generally accepted. It seems unlikely that any subsidy will hereafter be given, as such subsidies were given for years in the past, to assist in building up the commerce of foreign ports.

The day may come when such subsidies will no longer be required, and I feel certain that there is no member of this board who will not rejoice when such shall be the case. It would mean that all Canada was at one in its desire for preferential trade within this great Dominion. It would mean that Canada was complete in itself, and at last taking its due place in the great British Empire encircling the world. It would mean a thorough development of commerce from our ports. Mails and passengers would no longer be conveyed across the Atlantic by the longer, but by the shortest possible routes. Paying freight services from the Maritime ports of Canada must bring fast passenger and mail services in their train. The one is but the development of the other, or rather its complement. As the traffic extends the correspondence expands, and the merchant will himself cross the Atlantic again and again to establish and regulate his connections on either side.

But, while our railway connections were incompleted, vast interests have grown up to the south, and fast lines of steamers have been established with which it would be hopeless, without some such temporary aid, to compete. Not only is the longer railway haul against us, but facilities for the export trade have been established at ports in the United States which we can only hope to gain in time. Canadians are not given to change. They have become accustomed to the established routes. It will take years, perhaps, before our fellow citizens in the interior learn to look on the Maritime Province ports as their business outlets and to give them the preference even on equal terms.

And, again, the

has to be considered. Rapidly as the Maritime Provinces are developing, the traffic originating within their limits is as yet comparatively small. Steamship owners naturally desire to carry freight both ways, and it is the same with the great railway lines. Only as preferential trade within the Empire becomes thoroughly developed can it be hoped that full freights will be found for the great carriers by land and sea, and only as such full freights are found can it be hoped that the freight will be carried on the most favorable terms.

Meanwhile, in order that such traffic may be developed, the subsidies are given. And, surely, with such an end in view no patriotic Canadian can object to their continuance for a time.

It was hoped at one time that the older of the great Canadian railway systems, established by British capital and controled from the Motherland, would have carried its rails across New Brunswick to Salisbury or Moncton, and thence found outlet at Halifax, St. John or elsewhere, over the Intercolonial railway or parallel lines. Unfortunately this purpose, and I believe it was once thought of, seems to be abandoned, and Portland, Me., is being built up through its means. We have still the Canadian Pacific and the Intercolonial routes with their outlets at St. John and Halifax. While these great lines, the one under private and the other under Government control, must have their rivalries, they have also great common interests which should lead them to work harmoniously together. It is only through their doing this that their great work can be successfully carried out.

The resolution adopted four years ago at Halifax was but a step towards the accomplishment of a purpose fast gaining a foothold in the minds of subjects of the British Empire throughout the world. We wish to maintain friendly relations with all men, and especially with those who are our brethren, who are of the same race, speak the same language, even though they may prefer a different form of Government to our own. But the Imperial idea is gaining ground, and finds its expression in the topic "Imperial Trade within the Empire," which has been suggested for your consideration now.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

Improved communication between Prince Edward Island and the mainland has also been already considered and should always have a place in our thoughts. I think sometimes that our Island friends have many and great advantages. If they are cut off from us by a few miles of sea they have wonderful resources within themselves. Their Island is a garden whose capabilities are only beginning to be developed. The Straits of Northumberland are so narrow that the songbirds cross with ease, and yet they may serve to keep more noxious visitors away. And, so, luxuries which are not always benefits may be shut out, and perhaps the home of a prosperous Prince Edward Island farmer is, in all that makes up the truest enjoyment of human life, one of the happiest in the world.

But for purposes of trade, if on no other account, the most ready communication with the mainland is required. Another steamship has just been completed for the winter route. This may well be supplemented by a telegraphic service on the same terms as that enjoyed over the rest of the Dominion.

IMPROVED TRAFFIC SERVICES, PASSENGERS AND FREIGHT.

Last year, at Truro, the Maritime Board urged upon the Government of Canada, the importance of more perfect regulations for preventing accidents at the crossings on the Intercolonial railway. This year, a kindred subject has been brought forward under the head of "Improved Regulations for Passenger and Freight Service on the River St. John." There is, I am informed, great need for such improvement. Elsewhere, steamers like railways have their freight and passenger stations with wharves or piers at which their traffic can be safely carried on. On the St. John it is the custom to pick up passengers and freight from boats almost wherever these may put out. The boats are not always manned by expert or licensed boatmen. It may be a convenience to have the conveyance thus brought to the door of each farmer or summer resident. But it may be a question whether, as population and traffic increase, the convenience of the individual should not yield to the need for guarding against danger to human life, and whether some regulations should not be adopted, either as to fixed stopping places or licensed boatmen, which may serve to prevent the accidents which may otherwise occur.

Other subjects of like nature suggested for consideration are: The construction of the electric railway through the Annapolis Valley from Digby or Annapolis to Halifax; daily or more frequent sailings in winter by the steamship line between Digby and St. John; the rate of freight on apples via Halifax, St. John, and United S ates ports, and the more careful handling of freight. Such topics are more than local in their nature. They affect wide districts, even though the whole of the Maritime Provinces may not be concerned. And such prominence as may be given them now will enable the local boards more directly interested to deal with them, feeling that their efforts are better understood, and that they have the sympathy and support of all.

FIRE INSURANCE—STATUTORY CONDITIONS.

Last year, at Truro, the subject of "Statutory Conditions for Fire Insurance Policies" was considered, and I am now able to submit for your consideration a copy of the Act passed by the Nova Scotia Legislature, under which such conditions came into force in that Province on the first day of July last. The object of the Act is to secure uniformity in the fire insurance contract, and this object has, to a very great extent, been secured. There was no opposition on the part of the insurance companies. They would have preferred generally a stricter form of contract as more likely to prevent fraud and entitle the fair insurer to protection at the least possible cost But even this has, to some extent, been attained, through the power given to the companies to add variations to the statutory conditions, subject to the decision of the court as to whether such variations may be reasonable and just.

The extent to which fire insurance enters into the business transactions of the Maritime Provinces may not be generally understood. The premiums received by the companies average a little more than $1,000,000 yearly, or very nearly one-seventh of the premiums paid within the Dominion. They were but $750,000, 15 years ago. The entire fire loss of the last three years in the three Provinces together has been about $4,200,000, or an average of $1,400,000 for each year. Of this amount about $1,800,000, or an average of $600,000 yearly, has been borne by the fire insurance companies, or perhaps, I may say, has, through their means, been distributed in the shape of fire insurance premiums over the community at large.

The expense of conducting such a business over a wide and scattered field is serious, reaching from one-fourth to one-third of the premiums received. The greater part of this expense, however, goes back to the community in the shape of agents' remuneration, rent, taxes, and other charges. It will be seen that, after the losses incurred and these expenses are allowed for, the companies are not receiving a large return for the protection they give. And I need hardly say that the present year is not likely to turn out to their advantage.

The great cause of fire loss is carelessness, carelessness in the construction of buildings, and carelessness in their use. Where this carelessness can be lessened or prevented the loss is at once decreased, and the premiums are proportionately reduced. Steam sawmills built in accordance with the standards furnished by the fire insurance companies can be insured at one-half the old average rate; and for the better classes of hazards the rates are generally lower than in former years. There is no reason to believe that incendiarism is of frequent occurrence. Many fires are, indeed, I believe, set down to an incendiary which are the result of spontaneous combustion, or of some heedlessness on the part of the owner or the occupier of the property, which he cannot bring himself to believe has produced the unfortunate result. The business has become a science, and, in the effort to adjust the rate to suit the risk, the companies are benefiting the community, since they are encouraging safer construction and deprecating the reverse. Greater care taken to prevent loss must not only tend to preserve property, but also to reduce the rates charged for the protection which the companies give.

Every effort was made to obtain copies of the Nova Scotia Fire Insurance Policy Act in time to enable the committees appointed at the last meeting of this board for New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island to bring the subject before the Legislatures of those Provinces if they saw fit. Unfortunately the copies could not be procured and the matter therefore remains open for further consideration on this occasion.

MARINE INSURANCE RATES.

Passing from fire to marine insurance we have an important t pic to consider "The Increase in Marine Insurance Rates in Connection with Canadian Atlantic ports."

This increase has come from Great Britain. Canada has held out her hand with the offer of preferential trade, and charges one-fourth less duty on the products of the Mother Country and her colonies than on those of other lands. It seems hard that almost at the same time her harbors should be singled out and discriminated against in favor of foreign ports.

The fact remains, however, that prohibitory clauses have been inserted in the marine insurance policies, and special charges are made when permits are granted for Canadian Atlantic ports.

It may be freely admitted that the last two or three years the business of marine insurance has been unfortunate. But are the circumstances such that the misfortunes should be visited on the Canadian Atlantic ports alone?

The navigation to the Maritime Province ports, at least from Sydney to the United States boundary, is as open as it is to Boston or New York. The usual route across the Atlantic to Portland and Boston is very much the same. The Castilian was lost last winter, not on her passage from St. John or Halifax, but on her way from Portland, Me. Fogs there may be, but they extend from the banks of Newfoundland to Cape Hatteras. Tidal currents have been exaggerated. Probably they occur all along the North Atlantic coast.

Shipwrecks there will be. When the sailor approaches a harbor he must needs approach the headlands which give protection and safety to the vessels anchored within. If heedlessness is shown, if the lead is not used, or the course is not observed, there can be but one result. We may feel deep sympathy for the unfortunate sailor whose vessel has struck the shore. We may leave him to settle the matter even with his employers, but the port should not be blamed, unless, indeed, there be circumstances which render access to it peculiarly difficult and dangerous. Is this the case with any of the principal Maritime Province ports?

This question has been dealt with by the Halifax, North Sydney and St. John Boards of Trade, but so far without success. It seems to be one which calls for united action. If it primarily concerns the shipowners and the seaport towns, it affects also the fair fame of the Maritime Provinces throughout.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

Municipal taxation in the Maritime Provinces is another subject suggested for consideration. There may, perhaps, be some feeling of surprise at its mention. And yet it has a vital bearing on their trade relations, their prosperity and their growth.

Upwards of $1,000,000 is levied each year in the Maritime Provinces for local purposes through direct taxation.

It is a serious charge, and yet it cannot be escaped. Each locality must bear its own burden, and distribute it among those whom it can reach.

The distribution should be fair and just. It is unlikely that any system of taxation can ever be devised which will meet with universal approval. But it may at least be expected that the taxation shall be certain and not arbitrary, and that each ratepayer shall contribute to the public revenue in fair proportion to his means; and that it shall be so distributed that trade shall not be unduly hampered, or the wealth which is necessary for its development forced into concealment or driven away.

THE NARROWS, ST. JOHN RIVER, NEAR INDIANTOWN.

In early days a simple plan was very generally pursued. The assessors determined in their minds the amount each ratepayer should contribute, and entered it against his name upon their roll.

But, as local charges increased, it became necessary to introduce some general system under which the individual assessments should be apportioned.

The systems of municipal taxation followed at the present day may be classed under three general heads:

1. In England, the basis of taxation is real estate, the assessment is usually collected, not from the owner, but from the occupier, and, where the occupier is a tenant, is paid by him in addition to his rent.

2. In the United States, each ratepayer is taxed theoretically on the capital value of his real and personal property, and very generally, though not always, upon his income of the past year, derived from his skill or labor, over a certain exempted amount, or, in other words, upon his personal earnings, above a bare living expense, as well. But, inasmuch as, except in the case of those receiving salaries and the artizan and laboring classes, each ratepayer's earnings are very largely within his own knowledge, and personal property can readily be concealed, the universal result is that those of only moderate means are required to contribute more than their due proportion, and but a small part of the personal property or invested capital is actually reached.

3. A third plan has prevailed from time immemorial in Scotland, and has been adopted, with some modifications, at Montreal. Under this system, the municipal taxation is divided between the owner of real estate and the occupier. At Montreal, the rental paid is taken as the standard of the occupier's ability to contribute. Neither personal property or income is asse sed at all; but special charges in the form of license fees are imposed where the circumstances are such that this can be fairly done.

In no part of Great Britain is personal property or income the subject of municipal taxation. An income tax is levied, but for Imperial purposes only. Personal property, as a rule, is not assessed in any form.

In the Maritime Provinces, the system of the United States has been followed, and the burden of municipal taxation is supposed to be distributed between the owners of real and personal property, and generally, also, subject in some cases to living expense exemptions, upon the income or wage earner, in some proportion to their means.

I have endeavored to tabulate the result of the application of this system to 22 of the cities and towns in the Maritime Provinces, returns from which have been kindly furnished by the boards of trade, or procured from local sources. It is, I fear, but a crude attempt, but its imperfections may be pardoned, since it is, I believe, the first comparative statement of the kind that has ever been prepared:

* The Halifax assessment law provides that stocks of merchandise shall be rated at three-fourths of the actual value, and some other classes of personal property are exempt.

In Nova Scotia, generally, income up to $400 is exempted, and also funds invested in Provincial or municipal debentures, except as to the income derived therefrom.

† At Charlottetown, the ratios for real and personal property differ slightly, and the figures given for the ratio of taxation for Charlottetown and St. Stephen are approximate.

‡ At Moncton, an exemption up to $300 is allowed on all incomes derived from personal earnings.

§ At Fredericton, an income exemption up to $300 is allowed, and one-fifth of the supposed value of real and personal estate is taken as the taxable value, against income, over the $300, at the face.

With regard to this table, let me say, first, that the ratios of taxation are, for purposes of comparison, utterly delusive. Real estate is in many cases undervalued, in order that the district may contribute the less to the charges of the larger municipality, of which, for county or township purposes, it may form a part; and the ratio is proportionately increased. This is manifestly unjust and unfair. It is unjust to the rest of the municipality and may very likely provoke retaliation of a similar kind. It is unfair to the individual ratepayer, since, if in any case his property is estimated at its full value, he has to contribute more proportionately than others, and is without a remedy. The law contemplates that property shall be put down at its actual value, but it is nowhere said how that value is to be ascertained.

Some principle should be laid down to guide the judgment of the assessors. The best would probably be that all real estate should be valued at the price at which it might reasonably be expected to change hands between a seller and a purchaser, neither of whom was under any special pressure to complete the sale.

But this is not all. The taxation ratio for each town is no test of the burden actually borne. At Halifax it is 1.72 and at St. John 1.55. And, yet, St. John is the more heavily taxed city of the two, since, at Halifax, income, and a large proportion of the personal property, which is subject to assessment in St. John, escapes. Let the incomes taxed in St. John, and the personal property also taxed there, but exempted at Halifax, be taken into account, and it will be found that the ratio at Halifax will fall considerably below that of the sister city.

Fredericton may perhaps claim that it has a low ratio of taxation, because real and personal estate, rated there on one-fifth only of the actual value, pays but 1.22. But what of the incomes so grossly overassessed? Let these be taken into consideration, and the general ratio is at once increased.

If the entire taxation at St. John was transferred to real estate, the ratio would be doubled and become 3.10. If this were done at Halifax, one-fourth only would be added, making it 2.15, while at Fredericton the ratio would become 2.49.

I mention this for two reasons, first, because it is well to be cautious. We are very apt to comfort ourselves under increasing taxation by the thought that we are not so badly off as others And yet we may be after all.

But, again, it is an interesting question to what extent the taxation of personal property and income under the American system may shift itself insensibly upon the real estate. Where a high income tax prevails the ratepayer is the less able to give a satisfactory rent. Where personal property is closely followed it is the universal experience that it is driven away. Or, if its possessor remains, he does not care to expose himself to the assessors' grasp by living in an expensive house or indulging in an outlay which may befit his means. We need not go to political economists to be told that it is capital and labor that gives its value to the land. It is the plain teaching of common sense. I am not speaking too strongly when I say that in the city of St. John and elsewhere, where almost every kind of personal property is made subject to taxation, no large holder of such property can, if the assessors do their duty, be expected to reside within the limits of the place. Two-fifths of any income he could reasonably expect from his investments at the present rates of return would be taken from him. And in St. John the rents of the better classes of dwellings have fallen, and of the best some are vacant and others offered for sale at a quarter of their cost.

I am speaking plainly, and I am making use of St. John as an illustration because it is my birthplace and my home. I am not despondent as to the future of my native city. It has overcome many difficulties in the past, and in many ways it is prospering and gaining strength. But this difficulty still remains to be conquered. It is undeniable that, while our trade is extending, our stores are filled with customers and our factories are busily at work, real estate is almost unsalable. There must be a cause.

It will be seen by the table that, outside New Brunswick, income contributes very little to the municipal purse. In Prince Edward Island, and at Halifax and Dartmouth, it is exempt. Over the rest of Nova Scotia the highest ratio is .06, at Amherst, and the average is only about .02 of the general local taxation.

But, in New Brunswick, while the assessors of Moncton and Woodstock may perhaps be wiser in their generation, we find elsewhere a higher income rate. At St. John it is .15 and at Fredericton .27 of the whole taxation in each place.

I know that it has been urged that of the word, should be looked to as the basis of taxation, and that each resident of the community should contribute to the public purse in proportion to his annual receipts, from whatever source derived.

At first sight the claim seems plausible. And it was, no doubt, some such idea which led to the peculiar system of fixing the taxable value of real and personal property at one-fifth, as against income at the face, which still prevails at Fredericton, and which was for 50 years the curse of St. John, until it was discarded in 1882. Why should the resident deriving $500 yearly from real or personal property contribute more to the public charges than he who earns annually $500 by his labor or his skill.

For the purposes of the State each contributes very nearly in the same degree. True, even in the State taxation of incomes, there is usually of necessity an exemption up to a certain amount. But the Customs duties, from which the greater part of the State revenues are derived, fall in Canada almost equally upon all. The contribution of each citizen to the State is regulated by the quantity of taxable commodities he may be able to procure and consume.

But there is a vast difference between State and municipal taxation. The subjects with which local administration has to deal are mainly of an economic character. Water supply, sewerage, fire and police protection are instances of this. While each individual in the community partakes of these advantages, it will scarcely be denied that the recipient of a revenue from real estate benefits in a much greater degree than the man who earns his living by his daily toil.

But for the accumulation of property in the town such changes would not be required. The farmer is satisfied with such access to his house as he can himself provide. He lives without fire protection, because his house is not endangered by others around. He draws water from his own well uncontaminated by the drainage from other premises near. In the matter of police he is his own guardian. There is no accumulation of wealth to tempt the thief against whose depredations the city has to guard. He is thus enabled to live at a comparatively small expense so far as contribution to the public welfare is concerned. But in the city it is different. The interest on the public debt contracted in the endeavor to make property of all kinds safer and more valuable has to be met. The various municipal charges put together would make life unbearable if the income idea in all its fullness was carried out. The wage-earner would toil very largely for the benefit of the property owner. All experience has shown that such a system of municipal taxation is unreasonable and unjust.

I cannot speak of the practical effects at Fredericton of the system there in force, but I well remember what took place when it was the law in St. John. The assessors, men who were supposed to be conscientious in the ordinary vocations of life, put the incomes of the working classes at $140 or $160.—one-half or one-third of what it must cost any family to exist in city life. Even when the ratio of taxation was so high that the greater portion of the taxes levied on such classes of citizens went unpaid, and were reassessed year after year to meet only with a similar fate.

The income exemption up to $300 may lessen the difficulty at Fredericton, but it cannot remove it. Inequalities cannot but prevail. Those receiving fixed salaries will, if the assessors do their duty, be taxed beyond the $300, up to the full amount. Others, whose earnings are unknown, will be passed over, although they may be much better able to pay. The ratepayer taxed on his actual income finds himself paying a share of his neighbor's taxes with his own. He has no remedy. He himself is taxed according to the law. He cannot enter on a crusade against others who are not.

It is the same at St. John, and, perhaps, as there is no $300 or other exemption, the difficulty is even more generally felt. The assessors of ratepayers, except where there is a salary, or someone is conscientious enough to furnish a statement himself. To fix them correctly would require a range of vision more than mortal. There is no provision for compulsory statements except in the case of the employe or the clerk. There would be a rebellion if there was. Year after year, the lists are printed, and, year after year, it is seen that they are largely farcical, and, while income generally is supposed to be assessed, a considerable proportion of that best able to contribute escapes.

For, in St. John, the artizan and laboring classes are very generally reached by the assessors now, but with what result? Owing to the incidence of a fixed poll tax, such ratepayers are required to contribute amounts very nearly, or quite, equalling a full week's wages, while the larger incomes pay proportionately less. And the consequence is that a large proportion of their taxation is not paid at all. No ratepayer can vote at the civic elections in April unless his taxes have been paid. And, year after year, of the thousands of electors qualifying on incomes of $300 or other small amounts, two-fifths are disqualified and debarred from voting on this account.

There is another difficulty in connection with income taxation. The large class of civil servants, judges, Customs house and post office officials and others, the employes of the Dominion Government, claim exemption from any such assessment. They enjoy the municipal privileges equally with others. They contribute nothing from their incomes to the common fund.

A singular diversity prevails in the taxation of the fire insurance companies. At Halifax and Charlottetown, license fees are paid. At St. John, the companies are asssesed on their net earnings within the county, which very often means that they transact their business without paying anything at all. At Fredericton, as the application of the 20 per cent. system would have led to a large increase in the rates charged, the companies are taxed only on one-fifth of their incomes, or on the same basis as real and personal estate. Over the greater part of Nova Scotia, where an idea, not unreasonable if it was only generally applied, prevails that special businesses st ould contribute beyond their ordinary income assessment towards municipal charges, the insurance companies with the banks are singled out and called on to pay on five times their incomes, while others are taken at their face. The result is constant injustice. The assessors guess at the incomes received. The companies grade their rates in proportion, and so well is this understood that in only two or three cases are the increased rates accepted and the law carried out. In half a dozen more such incomes are put at amounts which result in their contributing equally with others. In the majority of instances they are not assessed at all.

If the table is again referred to, it will be seen that about in the Maritime Provinces falls on personal property Here the ratio is less uneven. In no city or municipality does personal property altogether escape. The ratio ranges from .18, .19 and .20 at Pictou, Sydney, Kentville and Halifax, to .35 at St. John, .38 at Lunenburg, and .40 at Yarmouth.

ONE-THIRD OF THE MUNICIPAL ASSESSMENT

I have already spoken of the effect of this pressure upon capital in forcing it into concealment or driving it away. In Nova Scotia this is partly obviated by the exemption given to funds invested in Provincial or Municipal debentures. There, too, ships and vessels of every kind are assessed only at half their value. In St. John, all such personal property is supposed to be chargeable at the face, with the result that the assessors fail to discover one-half of the invested funds, and the taxes of those who escape are borne by the owners who are reached and by the real estate. The Probate Court reveals the actual condition of affairs, and then the widow and the orphan must be followed, and those who are the least able to contribute are required to pay the most.

Yet, further, when a large vessel is to be built, a joint stock company is formed with its headquarters in some neighboring village. The vessel may be managed at St. John, but, as the company has its office elsewhere, a considerable proportion of taxation is escaped. There is a fine line of steamships connected with the port; a line that does credit to the enterprise of its owners, who are steadily adding to their fleet. Upwards of $1,000,000 have already been thus invested, and soon the amount will reach $2,000,000 or more. But look at one of these vessels and you will fail to realize from what port she hails. You will see, it may be Liverpool, but not St. John, N.B., painted after her name.

It must not be supposed that such difficulties are felt in the Maritime Provinces alone. They exist in the United States as well, and are borne with only because the assessors fail generally to carry out the law, and a small proportion only of the personal property is actually assessed. Dr. Richard T. Ely, one of the highest authorities on municipal taxation, comments on them strongly. He declares that the system leads everywhere to oppression and to fraud.

But there is a still more important consideration in connection with the taxation of personal property. The system is endangering the growth, and even the existence, of the wholesale trade. At Halifax, stocks or merchandise are rated at three-fourths only of their actual value, but, at St. John and elsewhere, they are supposed to be taken at the face. It is hardly too much to say that, if the law was strictly carried out, most of the wholesale establishments within the Maritime Provinces would be closed.

Montreal, and even Toronto, are sharp competitors for this wholesale trade. At Montreal, where the Scottish system of municipal taxation prevails, wholesale stocks escape taxation. The merchant is assessed, but it is on his rental as an occupier, and, in proportion, not to the stock he may have to carry, but to the premises he occupies, which are taken as an index to the extent of the business he transacts. And at Toronto the assessors fail to discover the greater part of the personal estate at all. A few years ago, when Mr. T. W. Anglin's report on municipal taxation was published, the whole valuation of personal property at Toronto established in this district, the ancient staple trade rapidly declined there, and withdrew itself still more rapidly into the northern clothing districts, where no such burden was ever cast upon the trade."

It must, I think, be admitted that the present system of municipal taxation in the Maritime Provinces has

FEATURES WHICH CALL FOR VERY SERIOUS THOUGHT.

The laws are such that they cannot and will not be enforced. Such laws are in themselves injurious. They blunt the conscience. And, while I believe that many of the assessors are anxious to do right, it is only on the theory of a blunted conscience that the doings of others can be explained.

But it will be no easy task to substitute a better. A considerable proportion of the ratepayers believe that they escape under the present law better than their neighbors. It is easy to work upon the dread of change and to conjure up imaginary evils in connection with any plan that may be proposed. The present system may be bad. It may be felt to be worse as municipal charges increase. But the ratepayer has become accustomed to it, and, while many complain, it is as individuals only, and not in the belief that the system itself is at fault.

The Englishman has become as much accustomed to the plan which casts the municipal burden upon land and house property as the Canadian has was but little more than at St. John, while the population was nearly five times as great.

There is a difference in the way in which various trades are carried on. In some a large stock has to be kept. In others it is the reverse. Samples, to a certain extent at least, suffice, and yet, perhaps, a large business is actually being done.

If the assessment laws, as they exist, are strictly carried into effect, it is plain that must be at a disadvantage as regards Halifax, and both when they come into competition with Montreal. The competition is keen, and prices are finely drawn. A few thousand dollars of municipal taxation may make the difference, and send the merchant in the Maritime Provinces to the wall.

THE WHOLESALE MERCHANT IN ST. JOHN

Mr. Palgrave, in his work on "The Local Taxation of Great Britain and Ireland," points out what was the effect of a similar system in a part of England where it once prevailed. He says: "The practice of rating stock-in-trade never prevailed in the greater part of England and Wales. It was, with comparatively few exceptions, confined to the old clothing district in the south and west of England. It gained ground just as the stock of the wool staplers and clothiers increased, so as to make it an object with the farmers and other ratepayers, who still constitute a majority in their parishes, to bring so considerable a property within the rate. They succeeded by degrees, and, when the principle of rating stock-in-trade was fully to the higher prices which Customs duties entail. The taxes are paid by the owner, or by the occupier in the case of a rented house. He takes it as a matter of course. It would be very different here.

Some modification of the Scottish system might, however, be well worthy of consideration. It is working satisfactorily at Montreal. The real estate would continue to be taxed as now. It need pay nothing more nor less. The taxation now levied upon residents or occupiers—and, it must be remembered, these only can be reached in proportion to the supposed capital value of their personal property or to the incomes they may earn—would be paid by the same persons, but in proportion to the rental paid or estimated for the business premises and the dwellings occupied by each. A comparatively sure basis would be substituted for one that is utterly uncertain. Civil servants and all other classes in the community would be reached. It would be right and proper to exempt the lesser rentals on the same principle that the living expense is deducted where income is assessed, on the principle that the larger share of the municipal charges should be borne by those best able to pay them. To meet such cases, a fixed poll tax might be levied. In view of the actual cost of living, $3 yearly is, perhaps, as much as the ordinary wage-earner, with an income of but $300 or $400, can be fairly expected to pay.

And the taxation could be further distributed, as is done at Montreal, through a system of business licenses, charged for generally whenever the advantages afforded through the municipal privileges warranted their being required, and not imposed only in some special cases, as is the usual practice now

And now I must pass from this subject of municipal taxation on which, perhaps, I have dwelt too long. But I hope I have convinced you that the subject is one well worthy of consideration. If the effect of the present system is that the bone and sinew of the country is oppressed; if the person deriving an income from Dominion sources escapes his fair share of the municipal burden; if trade is hampered; if manufacturing is discouraged for want of capital; if the capitalist conceals his wealth; if he fears to embark in the development of industries at home, and even removes to a foreign land; if there is injustice everywhere; then, indeed, it is time that that system was thoroughly weighed, and such changes as may be required pressed upon the notice of those through whom the necessary legislation can be obtained.

REMAINING SUBJECTS.

Other subjects, such as tourist travel, immigration, trade with the West Indies, rates of freight, electric railways, the development of iron and steel industries, the school curriculum, and our copper currency, will be explained to you by the gentlemen who have suggested them for consideration. There is a full bill of fare. I have, I fear, delayed you too long already, and cannot venture to touch upon them now.

WE HAVE A COMMON END IN VIEW,

the development of the Maritime Provinces of Canada in which we have our home. It is not, I think, altogether a selfish one, although we all hope, and we may legitimately hope, to gain as the general interests advance. The boards of trade ask for no financial help outside themselves. If their members give their time to the consideration of public questions, it is done without charge. If they gather information, or even venture to send delegations where personal contact with the central authority may be required, it is at their own expense. The great principle which underlies this Maritime Board is that the Maritime Provinces can prosper only with the growth of each of the parts of which they are composed. I have pointed out some of the advantages we possess. I have ventured to speak of what seem to me to be stumbling blocks in the path of future progress. If I have done so, it is only with the hope that the existence of those hindrances, if such they be, may be considered, and such steps taken that in course of time they may be removed. I am no advocate for the mere selfish accumulation of wealth. But, for the progress of the community, capital is an absolute necessity. Of the three great requisites of production we have the land in abundance. It is in many parts of these Provinces a fertile land, and it is a land, too, which teems with mineral wealth. We have our rivers, giving a ready access to the interior. We have commodious harbors on our coasts. If we are to have the labor and the capital through which only our natural resources can be developed, we must encourage them to continue with us, and be very watchful of whatever may tend to drive them away. We must not give way to the feelings that our advantages exist only for those who may now be resident among us. We must endeavor to encourage immigration of the kind we need. We should join hand in hand, not merely in advancing such interests as we may have in common, but in helping each other as occasion may arise.

A GREAT IMPRESSION.

The address created a great impression, and unusually vigorous applause greeted the President as he took his seat.

When the applause had subsided the President again arose, remarking as he did so: "I am afraid I have detained you too long. I presume you do not intend to take up any business to-night."

It was after 10 o'clock, but the members refused to adjourn until they had, in words as well as in applause, expressed their approval of the president's address.

"I would like," remarked Mr. John Ervin, of Bridgetown, "to move a vote of thanks to the president for the very excellent address which he has given us. I am sorry we had not even a larger representation from the various boards of trade in the Province to listen to the address, particularly in regard to the progress of the Maritime Provinces, and I would suggest that means be taken to have the address printed and distributed throughout the Provinces."

Mr. M. G. De Wolfe, Kentville: "I have very much pleasure in seconding the motion. The president must have devoted a great deal of time to the preparation of his address. If the same matter had been gotten up at Ottawa it would have cost the country $3,000 or $4,000. I am sure if it is printed and circulated throughout the Provinces it cannot but fail to create a great deal of enthusiasm. "I am told at home," he added, "that when I start talking it is necessary for someone to give me a cue when to stop."

"Here's a cue," interposed a facetious delegate, as he handed Mr. De Wolfe a blackthorn of Irish production. Everyone laughed, and amid it, Mr. De Wolfe took his seat.

Mr. H. Hazzard, Charlottetown, vice-president of the board, in putting the motion, said he was sure the address had been a source of great pleasure to everyone present.

The motion was carried unanimously, and Mr. Jarvis briefly and fittingly replied.

President J. J. McLaughlin, of the local board of trade, invited the delegates to a sail up the St. John river on Thursday afternoon. The invitation was cordially accepted, and the meeting adjourned.

THURSDAY'S SESSION.

It was 10.30 o'clock when the president opened the meeting on Thursday morning, and as he did so he announced that Mr. D. G. Smith, of Chatham, had kindly consented to assist the secretary in his work.

The President: "The next order of business is the receiving of the reports of committees. I will ask the committee on business, appointed last night, to report."

Mr. J. E. De Wolfe, Halifax: "The secretary has the report, but I might say, on behalf of the committee, that we find, in regard to some of the subjects left over from last year for discussion, that there is no one here to introduce them."

Secretary Allison then read the report on subjects, which was as follows, in order named:

1. Preferential trade within the Empire.
2. The increase in marine insurance rates in connection with Canadian Atlantic ports.
3. Improved telegraphic communication between Prince Edward Island and the mainland.
4. Rates of freight on apples via Halifax, St. John, and United States ports.
5. The construction of a line of railway from Victoria beach to Middleton, to connect with the Nova Scotia Central, and thence via New Germany to Halifax.
6. The construction of an electric railway through the Annapolis Valley, from Digby or Annapolis to Halifax.
7. The lobster industry. What can we do to protect it?
8. Development of Canadian trade with the West Indian Islands.
9. Is the curriculum of our public schools and county academies the best that can be devised to fit our young people properly for industrial and commercial pursuits, and thus promote our national advancement?
10. What can be done to attract desirable classes of immigrants to the Maritime Provinces?
11. Daily mail service between Digby and St. John throughout the year.
12. Municipal taxation in the Maritime Provinces.
13. Better system of packing and branding apples.
14. Tourist travel, and the development of accommodation for summer visitors and the best means of inducing them to visit points of interest.
15. Shorter terms of credit.
16. Statutory conditions for fire insurance policies.
17. Development of iron and steel industry.
18. Improved regulations for passenger and freight on the St. John river.
19. Canadian copyright law.
20. Law affecting weight of goods, canned or in packages.
21. Atlantic mail service on basis of speed.
22. The securing of more careful handling of freight on the St. John and Digby route.
23. Legislative union of the Maritime Provinces.

On motion of Mr. J. E. DeWolfe, the report was received and adopted.

THE NEW OFFICERS.

The report of the committee on nominations for the respective officers of the board was presented and read, as follows:

President—M. G. De Wolfe, Kentville, N.S.

Vice-Presidents—D. J. McLaughlin, St. John, and W. H. Aitkin, Charlottetown.

Secretary-Treasurer—Geo. E. Calkin, Kentville, N.S.

The report, on motion of Mr. John Ervin, was received and adopted.

President Jarvis: "Will Mr. De Wolfe now kindly take the chair. I am glad you have elected as your president a gentleman who has always shown such a live interest in matters appertaining to the Maritime Board of Trade."

President-elect De Wolfe slowly wended his way to the platform. "Gentlemen of the Board," he remarked, as he stood in the presiding officer's place, "I have a request to make, and that is that the retiring president be allowed to preside until the close of this session. He has everything under his thumb, and to allow him to remain will, therefore, facilitate business."

Mr. Jarvis: "With all due deference to Mr. De Wolfe, I do not think that what he has suggested is exactly the proper thing. The subjects for discussion are all here, and it is simply the chairman's duty to call them off in their order. I will, however, take a seat on the platform, if you like."

Mr. De Wolfe accepted both the inevitable and Mr. Jarvis' offer to sit at his elbow, and spoke in part as follows: "You have placed me in a very responsible position. In electing me, you have called upon me to follow an 'old stager,' while I am new at the duties appertaining to the office. I shall have a great deal to do in order to keep up with the work, and I shall not be able to keep up with it without your assistance. You are really the men to say whether the work of the board shall be carried on. Words can hardly express my feelings. I consider that the honor you have placed upon me is even a greater honor than to be Governor-General of Canada." (Laughter and applause.)

Mr. J. O. Allison wanted, also, to be relieved of his duties as secretary. "Mr. President," he said, "when the new secretary was elected my duties ceased. I would now like to have him called to take my place."

President De Wolfe: "I am in command now, and shall not allow it." (Laughter.) "Mr. Calkin may, however, come upon the platform and assist you."

Mr. Calkin, accordingly, came to the platform.

Then, upon motion of Mr. C. M. Creed, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered retiring Secretary Allison, while, upon motion of Messrs. Hazzard and Carmichael, the usual stipend of $50 was also awarded him. The movers of both these motions warmly eulogized Mr. Allison for the ability with which he had fulfilled his office.

QUESTION OF PERMANENT SECRETARY.

Mr. A. I. Teed, St. Stephen, N.B., ventured the information that at the meeting of the nominating committee the matter of appointing a permanent secretary-treasurer had been considered. "I give notice of motion to that effect," he concluded.

Mr. C. M. Creed: "I have learned from experience that it will not work. The secretary must be where the president is."

When the subject promised to become a matter for discussion the President pointed out that notices of motion could not be discussed.

On motion of Mr. W. M. Jarvis, Messrs. Calkin and Fisher were appointed auditors.

When the morning session opened, Mr. W. S. Fisher appeared with a basket of sweet peas and carnations, which had been kindly sent to the hall by Mrs. Fisher, and soon every delegate was wearing a handsome bouquet of one or other of the two kinds of flowers. When votes of thanks were going around, Mr. Alex. Henderson, of Woodstock, thought it would he a good idea also to move one to Mrs. Fisher for the bouquets, but Mr. Fisher, who thought the vote was for himself, raised his hands before the chairman in protest.

"Oh! you go away," shouted several members. "It is for Mrs. Fisher."

"Oh!" ejaculated Mr. Fisher as he stole away.

Mr. Ervin gave notice of motion to the effect that he would move an amendment to Article 8 of the constitution. This Article dealt with the per capita tax. His object was to make the per capita tax 10c. per member instead of 15c.

Mr. Schofield: "Before we go on with further business, I desire to make some remarks in regard to a motion made last night relating to President Jarvis' address. I think this board should print an annual report. Such a report would be a permanent and interesting record. I would move that when the committee is considering the matter of printing the president's address, that it also consider the question of printing an annual report."

Mr. Hazzard suggested that the constitution and by-laws should also be embodied in an annual report.

Mr. D. G. Smith declared he had much pleasure in seconding Mr. Schofield's resolution.

The President thought the board could scarcely afford to print an annual report.

The motion was adopted.

Mr. Jarvis extended the hospitality of the Union Club to the delegates.

Upon the suggestion of Mr. Jarvis, consideration of the first subject for discussion, "Preferential Trade," was adjourned until Friday, owing to the absence of Mr. Robertson, M.P., who was to introduce it.

MARINE INSURANCE RATES.

The next subject on the order list was the "Discrimination of Marine Insurance Rates against Canadian Atlantic Ports in favor of United States Ports." The subject was introduced by Mr. J. E. De Wolfe, Halifax, who moved the resolution deprecating the fact.

"What I object to," said Mr. De Wolfe, "is the excessive insurance rates charged against Canadian Atlantic ports in favor of United States Atlantic ports and of the St. Lawrence. I think the excess is about 25 per cent. Instead of being charged higher rates, we should be charged less, or, at least, no more."

A VIEW IN THE HARBOR OF ST. JOHN, N.B.

Mr. W. M. Jarvis seconded the resolution, and, in doing so, said there was a very mixed idea in Great Britain in regard to Canada. He was afraid whether this was not the reason why the rates discriminated against the Maritime Provinces. What he would like to know was whether the Maritime Provinces were compelled to share in the losses incurred on risks in other parts of the Dominion? He was rather of opinion that they did. It would be well to try and find out.

Mr. J. E. De Wolfe: "I don't know whether you know it or not, but the loss of the Labrador on the coast of Great Britain was really charged against Canada.

Mr. Jarvis (continuing): "We shall find it very difficult to get the desired information. Lloyds should have the necessary statistics. Get the statistics showing what the losses have been on the St. Lawrence route, the Maritime Provinces and at United States ports. In this way, the facts will be learned. Then, if it is found that the losses are relatively higher in the Maritime Provinces, let us accept the results."

Mr. S. Schofield said that the mover and seconder of the motion had not shown them the discrimination. "Is it against the hulls or their cargoes?" he asked. He did not believe the underwriters at Lloyds, who were experienced men, would discriminate against any port. "I am of opinion that if we could get at individual underwriters we would find that in advancing our rates they were guided by actual experience." He asked whether at Halifax provision was made against ships putting to sea with excessive deck loads? In Montreal there was. "I regret this check does not exist at the port of St. John, and I do not think it exists at the port of Halifax. It has been stated that this was one of the reasons for the increase of marine insurance rates on steamers running to the Maritime Provinces. It was stated so at Ottawa." Until more facts were advanced he thought it would be unwise to appeal to Lloyds.

Mr. J. M. Carmichael, New Glasgow, who is a steamship owner, did not like the wording of the resolution. It was too arbitrary. He claimed, however, that there was a discrimination against the Maritime Provinces. In his opinion, what the marine underwriters were trying to get at, was the St. Lawrence route, which, he claimed, was more dangerous than that to the Maritime Provinces. "Lloyds have reason for the faith that is in them, but they are ignorant in some respects in regard to Canada. The trouble is that they group the different parts of Canada together. What they should do is to separate the St. Lawrence route from the Maritime Province group. I think we should pass a resolution of some kind in regard to this matter. I am sure our rates are higher from Maritime Province routes than from United States ports. I am not, however, so sure about the rates for the St. Lawrence route. I know this, that in using my steamer I was notified to exclude the St. Lawrence route. It is unfair that we should pay higher rates than vessels sailing from United States Atlantic ports. Vessels sailing from St. John, Halifax and other Atlantic ports are just as sure as those running from ports in the United States."

Mr. S. Schofield said that steamers from Boston and Portland did not carry deck loads. "Ours do," he said, "and this may be the cause of the higher rates. Then, again, there is the question in regard to the class of steamers."

Mr. Cochrane: "I do not think it can be due to the class of steamers, for some of the steamers which run out of United States Atlantic ports are of the very poorest class. Then, as to deck loads, there is no more comfortable or more safe steamer to cross the Atlantic than a steamer with a 10-foot deckload of lumber. I would rather cross the Atlantic on a poor steamer loaded with lumber than on one of the fastest loaded with grain. If there is a master in the room, he will tell you the same thing. In going to Lloyds, you must be able to present a reasonable case, or they will laugh at you."

Mr. W. S. Fisher said he quite agreed with Mr. Cochrane that caution should be used in approaching Lloyds. He said that when in London, England, according to instructions received from the St. John Board of Trade, he had tried hard to get at the bottom of the marine insurance rate question. At Lloyds, they claimed there was no discrimination against Maritime Province routes, or, at least, no intended discrimination. The rates, they said, were based upon the best information obtainable. "But I found," he explained, "that there was a very great difference of opinion in regard to the matter. It seems to me that all that is necessary, in order to convince Lloyds of the legitimate character of our case, is united action on the part of the merchants and vesselowners in the different parts of the Maritime Provinces."

Mr. D.G. Smith, Chatham, N.B.: "Would it not be well for this board to collect statistics showing the losses on the different Canadian-Atlantic routes, I think that at present we have not sufficient information to deal intelligently with the matter." He moved the following resolution:

That the subject of marine insurance be referred to a committee of five, who are requested to prepare a paper to be presented to the British underwriters giving reasons why discrimination should not be made by them against risks in the trade from the Maritime Provinces, such paper to include statistics of casualties happening to vessels running between the Maritime Provinces as distinct from other ports and trans-Atlantic points, as well as other relative information, the paper to be forwarded by the president and secretary of this board to the British underwriters.

Mr. De Wolfe thereupon withdrew his resolution.

Mr. H. Hazzard, Charlottetown, P.E.I., who is in the underwriting business, explained that he had read the resolution passed by Lloyds increasing the rate of insurance, and it was therein stated that the reason for doing so was the excessive deck loads carried, some of these deck loads being 14 ft. He explained that in Prince Edward Island, where they did not ship lumber, the rates were now about 3½ per cent., where they were some years ago as high as 9 per cent.

Mr. Carmichael said that he knew steamers had gone out with excessive deck loads. "I have no doubt the underwriters have grievances, and they always will find some cause for complaint."

Mr. Schofield said that only that day the newspapers reported that a St. John vessel had been fined £50 in London, England, because of an excessive deck load.

Mr. Carmichael: "I happen to know something about that case. The fine was imposed because the vessel was immersed below the Plimsoll line."

Mr. Smith's motion was adopted, and these were appointed a committee to carry out its provisions: W. M. Jarvis, St. John; J. M. Carmichael, New Glasgow; S. Schofield, St. John; J. E. DeWolfe, Halifax; H. H. Hazzard, Charlottetown; H. Dobson, North Sydney.

The convention adjourned at 1 p.m. to meet on the following morning.

FRIDAY'S SESSION.

The convention resumed on Friday morning at 9.35 o'clock, with President De Wolfe in the chair.

A communication was read from the Truro, N.S., Board of Trade, regretting inability to send delegates to the convention of the Maritime Board. "We appointed," read the letter, "eight delegates and eight substitutes, but some unfortunate circumstances have prevented anyone from going. We have not, however, lost interest in the Maritime Board."

The first subject for discussion was

IMPROVED TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION WITH P.E.I.

Mr. H. Hazzard, president of the Charlottetown, P.E.I., Board of Trade, introduced the subject. He said that The Anglo-American Telegraph Co., which had had a monopoly since 1855 and received a subsidy from the Dominion Government of $2,000 per year, did not act square with the public. What he complained about was, that the offices were closed after 8 o'clock at night until 9 o'clock next morning. And not only that, but the rates were excessive. For instance, if he desired to telegraph to Boston, it cost him $1, twice as much as paid by the other Provinces for a similar message. They did not, however, claim that they should have as low a rate as the other Provinces. They would not object, he thought, if they had to pay two-thirds more. What he desired was the cooperation of the Maritime Board.

Hon. Mr. Davis, he explained had taken the matter up, and promised to do all he could in regard to the matter.

Mr. Schofield wanted to know if there were no provisions in the charter of the company whereby it could be compelled to improve the service ?

Mr. Hazzard said there was, and it was under this clause that he thought steps could be taken in order to get the desired improved service.

Mr. Jarvis : "Does the company publish an annual statement showing what dividends are paid? I think the Government should expect it to do so."

Mr. Hazzard : "It does not, and the company claims that it does not do so, as it cannot afford to do so. We have this season two steamers weekly from Boston and a great many tourists coming in. These tourists cannot understand how it is that from 8 o'clock at night until 9 o'clock the following morning, the offices are closed."

Mr. Schofield thought it was only to be expected that, with the cable, higher rates would be paid by the people of Prince Edward Island than paid by the other Provinces. "At the same time they have an unquestionable right to have the office open until 12 o'clock." He moved that the matter be referred to a committee of three, said committee to be appointed by the president.

Mr. F. L. Potts seconded the resolution, which was carried, and the president named the following as a committee to deal with the matter : Messrs. H. Hazzard, J. E. De Wolfe, and S. Schofield.

RATES OF FREIGHT ON APPLES VIA HALIFAX, ST. JOHN AND UNITED STATES PORTS.

The subject was introduced by Mr. P. Innes, Cold Brook, King's Co., N.S. He said the question was a double-barreled one, as it dealt (1) with the railway, (2) with the steamship subsidy.

In speaking on this subject, and I do so as Vice-President of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers Association ; I would like first to draw your attention to the great development of the apple business in the western counties of Nova Scotia, especially in Kings and Annapolis counties. It has grown in the last quarter of a century from small beginnings until it has become one of the great staple industries of the Province. The product of a favorable year is now half a million barrels, and with large areas of young orchards coming continuously into bearing, the time is not distant when this product will have doubled. In fact, what the wheat crop is to Manitoba and the North-west the apple crop is to Nova Scotia. The industry is therefore not merely of local, but of Provincial importance, and accordingly the profitable marketing of the crop is of great moment, primarily to the producer and shipper and incidentally to the country at large.

Now, gentlemen, please consider in the first place the conditions—the physical and geographical conditions—with which we have to deal. The great fruit belt of Nova Scotia lies within an average distance of 80 or 90 miles from the Atlantic seaboard at Halifax. The port of Halifax is accessible all the year around, is nearer, speaking roundly, by some 500 miles to our market in Great Britain than the ports of Portland, Boston and New York.

The railway which traverses the fruit belt, and has a monopoly of the business, is one of the most heavily subsidized and highly favored in the Dominion, and the steamships plying between Halifax and Great Britain are also in receipt of a Government subsidy. Under these exceptionally favorable circumstances, you would imagine, and you would be justified in imagining, that we should be able to market our apples on better terms, or at the very least, on equal terms with our competitors in Canada and the United States.

How stands the fact? I can answer in a sentence : Canadian apples are carried over 600 miles by rail and 300 miles farther by sea at a through rate of 83.47c. (3s. 6d.) per barrel, while Nova Scotian apples are carried an average of 85 miles by rail and 300 miles less by sea at a through rate of 90c. (3s. 9d.) per barrel, and this is not all. The Canadian and American barrel is about one-tenth larger than the Nova Scotian barrel, so that in reality the comparison is 83.47c. as against 99c. per barrel. This is equivalent to a discrimination of 15½c. per barrel against the Nova Scotian shipper, notwithstanding that he is 800 miles nearer the market. In other words, in placing 300,000 barrels of apples, last year's crop, on the English market, Nova Scotian shippers were at a disadvantage in respect to transportation charges to the extent of some $40,000 as compared with their Canadian and American competitors.

RAILWAY CHARGES.

I have stated that this great apple industry has grown and developed in the last 25 years, but the Dominion Atlantic railway has failed to recognize the altered circumstances, and their apple tariff of to-day is, with some trifling modification, the apple tariff which was in force 25 years ago, when the crop was insignificant, but little of it moved by rail, prices ruled high, and apples were considered an expensive luxury. To illustrate : Apples are carried in trainloads at no expense to the company for loading or unloading at a rate of at least 2½c. per ton per mile. A trainload of 2,500 barrels carried 83 miles would be charged $387.50, while a trainload of ore of equal weight would be carried 85 miles for $160. Again, a carload of apples worth $150, more or less, would be charged $27.50 if carried 100 miles, but a carload of flour worth, say, $450, the product of another Province, would only be charged $21 for the same distance.

It is a well-known and fundamental principle in railway practice that the determining factors of a tariff are the volume and the value of the commodity carried. The more valuable the commodity, the higher the rate ; the larger the volume carried, the lower the rate. Apply these principles to the D.A.R. tariff in the matter of apples and flour. A barrel of flour is double the value of a barrel of apples, and the volume of the former that is carried on the D.A.R. is almost infinitesimal as compared with the latter. Therefore, on both grounds, the apple rate should be very much lower than the flour rate. True, the railway company contend that their rates on apples compare favorably with those charged on other railways. I think I have shown by the through rates charged as far West as Toronto that this is not the case ; but, further, there are only a few districts in this great Dominion where the soil and climatic conditions are favorable to the growing of apples. In the Cornwallis and Annapolis Valleys we have one of the best districts. There the apple crop has become the great staple industry, numbering hundreds of thousands of barrels, that have to be transported by trainloads. Yet, all this volume of business is classified, and charged as high rates as in those sections of the country where apples are not grown, and are considered a luxury.

The apple crop of our district should receive as fair treatment as the grain-producing sections, or the coal, iron, and lumbering industries of the country. Secure in its monopoly, no redress can be obtained or expected from the railway company. It is, therefore, submitted that the proper and effectual remedy, not merely in our case, but as applicable to the whole question of transportation in the Dominion, lies in the appointment of a permanent commission, with powers and authority somewhat similar to those of the English Railway Commission, or the United States Interstate Commerce Commission, which would fix reasonable rates and grant just redress on the application of individuals or localities having ground for complaint.

Accordingly, the interest and aid of the Maritime Board of Trade is earnestly solicited towards the appointment of such a commission at an early date.

STEAMSHIP CHARGES.

The excessive charges on the railway are only a part of the grievances of which we have to complain. The rates charged on the steamers from Halifax are equally excessive. Notwithstanding that the steamers are in receipt of a Government subsidy, while those from the Atlantic ports—Portland, Boston, and New York—are not so favored, the rate from Halifax has remained steady for some years past at 3s. per barrel, while the rate from the other ports last season was as low as 1s. 6d. and 5 per cent. primage, and was never higher than 2s. 3d. and 2s. 6d. per barrel. Further, the amalgamation of two lines formerly running from Halifax has deprived us of competition, and the granting of rebates to middlemen enables them, when so minded, to secure the entire steamer's space, and forces the producer into the middleman's hands, if he is to get his apples to market at all. Consequently, several producers have had to send their apples either by schooner, or via Yarmouth to Boston and thence to London. In fact, a saving in the rate could be effected by shipping from Middleton and stations west via Yarmouth, some 300 miles to Boston, and thence by the Johnston line of steamers to London.

The steamers' charge for deals varies from 33s. to 45s. a standard, according to dimensions, but the charge for 28 barrels of apples, which would occupy the same space, is no less than 84s., which would appear to be an extreme discrimination.

We are of the opinion that competition would be induced and our position improved if the subsidies were withdrawn from these steamers altogether, and the Kings County Board of Trade, the Kentville Board of Trade, and the Municipal Council of Kings have asked the Government accordingly, and until such time as the subsidies are abolished, that the Government exercise supervision and control over the rates charged so that they shall not exceed the corresponding rates from competing Atlantic ports, and, further, that the Government appoint inspectors to superintend the loading of steamers, and see as to their ventilation and general suitability for carrying the freight offering.

Mr. Innes read the following resolution :

Resolved, that the Maritime Board of Trade ask the Dominion Government to appoint a permanent railway commission with powers and authority somewhat similar to those of the English Railway Commission or the United States Interstate Commerce Commission, which would fix reasonable rates and grant just redress on the application of individuals or localities having grounds of complaint.

Mr. John Ervin seconded the motion, and, in doing so, said they insisted that the great apple industry must not be handicapped by adverse freight rates. "In addition to the high freight the farmer has to pay, there is another item of cost which has not been referred to at this meeting. A great many of these apples are shipped in the winter time, and, as we have no frostproof cars, the farmers have to put charcoal fires in the cars and also send men to attend to them. This means an additional cost of 5 or 6c. per barrel."

Mr. Schofield said that the Dominion Atlantic railway should not be dealt with too harshly in the matter. It was a struggling line and should be encouraged.

Mr. Innes : "I do not think there is much difference between Mr. Schofield and myself in regard to this question. The apple-growers claim that their rates are excessive ; the railway claims that they are not. Now, what we want is a neutral board, who shall determine whether they are or not. I might say that the Dominion Atlantic railway is in favor of the appointment of a commission, Mr. Griffin, the secretary of the road, having seconded a resolution to that effect adopted by the Halifax Board of Trade."

Mr. D. J. McLaughlin, St. John, thought the question was one which the Maritime Board of Trade should take no action in, and, at any rate, without representatives of the railways being present, so that their side of the case might be stated.

Mr. J. E. DeWolfe did not agree with the previous speaker, and corroborated what Mr. Innes had stated regarding the action of the superintendent of the Dominion Atlantic railway in supporting the Halifax motion.

Mr. T. H. Estabrooks said that as far as he understood the resolution, the question at issue was not a Provincial one, but a Dominion one, as it called for a railway commission to regulate all the railways in Canada. However, as far as he was concerned, he hardly knew which side he was on in regard to the matter.

Mr. F. E. Cox said he would like to see the motion passed, as he believed it would be to the advantage of the Maritime Provinces were a railway commission appointed.

After some further discussion, Mr. Innes' motion was carried by 14 to 5.

THE QUESTION OF SUBSIDIES.

Mr. P. Innes then introduced his resolution on railway subsidies, which read as follows :

Whereas, the subsidizing by the Dominion Government of the Furness Line of steamers has created a monopoly and has led to the charging of excessive rates of freight on apples to Great Britain from the ports of Halifax and St. John ; and

Whereas, it may be inexpedient in the meantime to discontinue such subsidies ;

Therefore, resolved that this Board ask the Government to exercise supervision and control over the rates charged by subsidized steamers, so that at no time they shall exceed corresponding rates from competing Atlantic, Portland, Boston and New York ports, and further, that the Government appoint inspectors to superintend the loading of apples in such steamers and see as to their ventilation and general suitability for carrying the freight offering.

Mr. F. E. Cox seconded the motion.

The motion proved to be an exceedingly lively subject for debate, the liveliest and most prolonged of the convention.

Mr. J. E. De Wolfe said it was a question purely of supply and demand. "While we have such a small amount of business in Canada as we have, we cannot expect as low a rate of freight as the shippers from United States ports," he said, "and, if the subsidies were taken off, we would not have as low rates as we have to-day." He said that the grievance was more imaginary than real, and declared that the present rail and boat rate of 90s. did not net the steamer over 2s. 6d.

Mr. T. C. L. Ketchum, Woodstock, N.B., declared himself in favor of the Government supervision of railway rates. "When," he said, "we, five years ago, came down here to the meeting of the Maritime Board of Trade, the C.P.R. had an arbitrary rate of 25c. per 100 lb. on freight from McAdam Junction to Woodstock. The matter was brought before the board then. Shortly after this, whether through the influence of the board he could not say, the rate was reduced to 12½c., at which figure it still stood.

Mr. D. G. Smith, Chatham, N.B., thought it was a matter that should be relegated to the Halifax Board for consideration.

Mr. J. M. Carmichael : "I sympathize with the fruit growers, but I cannot support a resolution half as strong as that now before us. Not because I think they have no grievance, or that the steamship people are perfect. I know they are not. We steamshipmen take all we can get, just as people in other lines of business do. One very good reason, however, that the rates are excessive is that the steamship owners will take all the apples they can get in preference to other freight. I trust that the efforts of Mr. Innes and his friends to get better rates will be successful, but I am afraid that, until the Canadian trade is large enough to warrant the putting of larger boats on Canadian routes, the shippers of this country will have to pay higher rates from their own ports than are paid on freight from Boston and Portland."

In reply to a question, Mr. Carmichael said : "I am opposed to the granting of subsidies for the carrying of freight. The subsidized line drives the unsubsidized line out of competition." (Hear, hear.) "For instance, a subsidized line going to St. John is determined that it will get a full cargo, and to get it will underbid my steamer. The result is that I am driven out of the port. I again say I am against subsidies for carrying freight; for the carrying of passengers it may be all right."

Mr. W. S. Fisher : "I believe the people of St. John sympathize with the Dominion Government in its desire to see the time when subsidies can be wiped out, but at present it seems impossible to divert the shipping trade from United States ports without the aid of subsidies."

Mr. Carmichael : "Let me explain my position. I would not vote for the abolition of subsidies at present."

Mr. Estabrooks : "If the resolution was divided I think there is a portion of it that should be supported, and that is that part which deals with the supervision of the shipping of perishable cargoes. To be able to guarantee the arrival of our apples on the other side of the Atlantic in good order would be worth a geat many dollars.

Mr. Innes explained that the terms of the contract with the Furness Line provided for the inspection of the fruit and the supervision of the rates, but they were not being put in force, and "this resolution," he added, "is simply to jog the memory of the Government."

M. J. E. DeWolfe : "Then, why come here and take up the time of the Maritime Board ?"

Mr. Innes : "Simply because the clause is a dead letter."

Mr. Schofield, who is agent at St. John for the Furness Line said that there were grounds under which the subsidies could be justified. "As far as our line is concerned, we do not like subsidies, but present circumstances demanded that they should be given. I remember this port for 36 years, and remember when a number of steamship lines ran here, and they brought and carried away good cargoes. Then came the 'National Policy,' which laid down the principle that goods consumed in this country should, as far as possible, be manufactured in this country. This policy has been successful, but the result has been to reduce the volume of freight, which the steamers running here depended upon, by fully one-fourth. The result was a great reduction in rates, and the consequence was that steamships were driven away. Then came an agitation for subsidies, and this agitation increased with the desire for a development of the trade between Canada and Great Britain. This agitation is still going on. The proof of the need of a subsidy was the limited character of our trade."

He explained that the reason the Furness Line bought out a certain competing line was the knowledge that there was not enough business for the two concerns. "No line," he said, "would be more pleased than the Furness Line if it were possible to do away with subsidies ; but it is not possible." He read the clause from the contract between the Dominion Government and the Furness Line in which it was laid down that the steamship company could not charge a higher freight rate on Western goods for export than was charged by United States lines. The Government, he also showed, had the power to fix the maximum rates.

"Last year," he continued, "27,000 barrels of apples were shipped through St. John, but as far as I am aware there was not one complaint as to rates of freight, neither specific or general." Then he read letters claiming that the Furness company was charging the same rate on apples from both St. John and Halifax.

Mr. Innes : "Can you explain to me why it is that from Boston apples can be shipped for 2s., while from Halifax the rate is 3s?"

Mr. Schofield : "Because they have a larger port and there is a larger quantity of freight to ship. Rates fluctuate according to the quantity of freight to be carried. Why, I have known steamers to refuse to take apples from Montreal even at a 3s. 6d. rate. Now, of the 90c., rail and boat rate, the steamer apparently gets 70c., but she does not in reality. There is a class of middlemen, and they, like the railways and the steamers, try to get all they can out of it. And I am sure there are middlemen who make more money out of the apple export trade than the producers do. It is the middlemen in Nova Scotia who are really to blame for these high rates. These men have the steamshipmen by the throat, and demand a rebate of 10 to 15c. per barrel as their share of the proceeds.

Mr. Innes : "Go on ! That is news and we were never able to learn before what the middlemen got."

Mr. Schofield, continuing : "If the Maritime Board is going to deal with the matter it should deal with the real culprits, namely, the middlemen. Do not blame the steamshipmen who are forced to do what they do."

A delegate : "Would the Furness Line give the rebate to the farmers who grow the apples ?"

Mr. Schofield: "We would gladly do so. And that is what we shall have to do."

Mr. Innes: "Who created the middlemen?"

Mr. Schofield: "I cannot say."

Mr. Innes: "Well I can. It was the Furness Line." (Laughter.)

Continuing, Mr. Schofield claimed that the Furness Line was not discriminating in its rates, and produced the following table in support of his contention, the figures in which he declared were correct to a cent:

The President announced that he had received a telegram from Ottawa in reply to one sent the previous evening as to whether the contract for carrying the mails had yet been granted. It was signed by Deputy Minister Parmelee, and read as follows:

"Am not yet in position to give information asked for in your telegram of yesterday."

Resuming the discussion on Mr. Innes' motion, Mr. McLaughlin said he would be compelled to vote against it, because the matter (1) was not within the purview of the Maritime Board, (2) it was against subsidies, and because (3), in asking for the appointment of inspectors, it was asking for what was already provided. The people of St. John were only in favor of subsidies, however, as an expediency, and were hoping for the time when subsidies would not be necessary. The people of St. John had already spent $700,000 on improving the harbor.

Further discussion was deferred until the afternoon session, and the session adjourned till 2 o'clock.

The convention resumed at 2.40 p.m.

Mr. C. L. Dodge resumed the discussion on Mr. Innes' motion re freight discrimination. He said the position of the shipper in the Annapolis Valley was a very unfortunate one. The Furness Line is very heavily subsidized, and to this subsidy the farmers of the Annapolis Valley were very heavy contributors. He was surprised that the agent of the Furness Line should admit that 15 or 20 middlemen were able to take his company by the throat. "We do not," he said, "object to the subsidy on steamers running to St. John and Halifax, but we do object to the heavy tax which these subsidized lines place upon the farmers of the Annapolis Valley." He said that 400,000 barrels would be moved in the Valley this season. Referring to the supervision of the loading of the steamers, he said that often, rather than trust to the longshoremen, he had taken off his coat and unloaded his car of apples. He held, therefore, that supervision was necessary.

Mr. Jarvis said that he would regret to see the question shelved, as it would be in the event of Mr. Innes' motion being defeated. He therefore moved this resolution:

Resolved, that the resolution already passed be referred to a committee to carry the same into effect, and that such committee be further requested to take into consideration the resolution now proposed, and to take such steps as may lead to the arrangement of fair and equitable rates of freights and proper provisions for the handling of apples by any subsidized steamship line.

Mr. Jarvis explained that the first resolution referred to in his motion was that relating to the railway commission.

Mr. John Ervin seconded the motion.

Mr. J. E. DeWolf said there was some truth in what had been said in regard to the middlemen, but he contended that a great deal that had been said was not true. There had been too much exaggeration. Some of the middlemen were forced to give back to the shippers a part of the rebate they got. The middleman, he claimed, was a necessity, and he showed how in getting cargoes he was such. In regard to excessive rates, he asserted that they were often more imaginary than real, as the fact was that apples required the best location on the ship.

Mr. Innes: "I am here, not as a member of your board, but on invitation, as representative of the Fruit Growers Association of Nova Scotia. There is a grievance, but, as the matter is in your hands, it is for you to say which is the best way to deal with it."

Mr. Schofield ventured the information that already efforts were being made to bring about a conference of shippers and of steamboat owners.

Mr. Smith moved that in the event of the committee not being able to arrive at a unanimous agreement in regard to Mr. Innes' motion re discontinuation of freight rates, that it report back to the Maritime Board at its next annual meeting. Mr. Jarvis seconded.

Mr. Dodge: "If the Maritime Board is not prepared to give us any consideration I would rather see the resolution defeated."

Mr. Innes similarly expressed himself.

Mr. Robertson, M.P.P., wanted to know if every means had been made by the shippers to have the difficulty remedied.

Mr. Innes: "Yes; we have tried for years to get the railways to provide remedies, but have failed."

Mr. Schofield: "I am in receipt of a letter from the Halifax office, in which it is stated that it is the intention of the company to do away with the middlemen. To have only an ocean rate and to have the farmers pay their own railway freight rates direct."

Both Mr. Jarvis and Mr. Smith's motions were carried, and the following were appointed a committee to consider Mr. Innes' two resolutions: C. L. Dodge (chairman), D. J. McLaughlin, S. Schofield, W. S. Fisher, R. S. Eaton, Fred. E. Cox, S. C. Parker, and three representatives from Halifax, to be named by the board of that city.

THE LOBSTER INDUSTRY.

In opening the subject of the lobster industry, Mr. W. S. Loggie said that if the condition of the lobster industry continued in the future as in the past it would ultimately be destroyed. "One way suggested to remedy the evil is to limit the size of the lobster to be caught. But the trouble with that is that it is not practicable to carry on the canning industry if the size is limited. To my mind the first thing which ought to be done is to grant no extensions. As you know, the commission appointed last year reported against granting extensions. I would further recommend that the seasons be shortened by five days each year for a certain number of years."

He explained that the average catch of lobsters per boat was 60 to 70 a few years ago. To-day it is only about 30 to 40.

PROSPECTIVE APPLE CROP REPORT.

TORONTO, Aug. 22, 1899.

DEAR SIR,—Having gone over a considerable portion of the apple territory, and having received a great many reports from not only Canada, including Nova Scotia, but also from the United States, Great Britain and the continent, we submit that the present indications regarding this season's apple crop are as follows :

GREAT BRITAIN—Less than last year, as from 351 reports received 137 are average, 20 over average and 194 under average.

GERMANY—A fair crop of cooking apples.

BELGIUM AND NORTH OF FRANCE—A full crop.

HOLLAND—About an average crop.

FRANCE—A fair crop.

UNITED STATES—New York—About one-half an average crop, with quality better than last year.

The New England States (including Maine)—About one-third an average crop.

Pennsylvania, New Jersey, the two Virginias, Delaware, Ohio and Indiana—A larger crop than they have had for years, and, with the exception of Ohio, quality good.

Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and Illinois—Somewhat scattering, but nearly one-half crop, whereas last season Missouri and Kansas had a very short crop.

Michigan—Considerably more than last year, of good quality.

California, Colorado and Oregon—About as last year.

NOVA SCOTIA—Fully as many as last year, with quality probably better.

ONTARIO—In quantity about the same as last year, but quality better, with, however, a shortage of early varieties.

Reports indicate quite a crop of early varieties in the United States.

You will observe from the above that with the exception of the New England States, there is quite a large crop of apples in the Eastern States, which naturally are the large exporting sections.

While the above report would indicate generally a crop of good quality, still reports are now coming to hand of many orchards of inferior quality, which buyers should certainly avoid, as for exporting purposes apples of inferior quality are not wanted and ought not to be shipped.

Regarding price, we are of opinion that buyers so far have been rather unduly anxious, and we fear in many cases local men without funds, in their eagerness to control the apples in their immediate sections with the hope of turning them over to someone having the capital, have induced growers to hold their apples, promising to pay extravagant prices later on, which has a tendency to make the more cautious man of means offer more than his best judgment indicates. We think this is a great mistake and results unprofitably to both grower and shipper, as the grower often sells to men offering a higher price, who, frequently having no capital, fail to pay for them.

It is a misfortune that, as a rule, apples are bought before there is a market established, so that a high price means great risk which often is only fully realized when it is too late, particularly when buyers purchase by the lump or orchard, taking the risk of hot weather, storms, dropping, etc.

Guard against topping, as it is easily detected and prejudices the brand, resulting not only in disappointing sales, but also in diminishing consumption, as, if consumers lose confidence in the honesty of the pack, lower prices and curtailed consumption necessarily follow. Confidence in the pack is essential to liberal consumption and free offering.

We would again strongly caution shippers to handle only such quantity of apples as you or competent men in whom you have perfect confidence can properly oversee, and use every effort to handle only hand-picked apples of good quality at reasonable first cost. Remember, the freight and charges on a poor barrel of apples are as much as on a good barrel, and that apples of inferior quality are not wanted.

We thank you for your esteemed consignments during the past, and trust you will again favor James Adam, Son & Co., Liverpool, with your shipments, who, we can assure you, will give them every attention, and do all possible to have your apples realize best possible price.

We also represent Glasgow, London, and Hamburg houses, should you at any time desire to ship to these points.

We, as you know, have experienced representatives at Toronto, Montreal, Portland, Boston, and Nova Scotia, who will order cars, trace shipments, secure space, see that your apples are stowed in the coolest place, on earliest steamers, and gladly furnish you with any information at any time you desire. As is our custom, as soon as the market regularly opens, we will issue our tri-weekly reports, and keep our friends regularly posted.

Very truly yours,
M. H. PETERSON & CO.

THE HOMES OF VANCOUVER.

It is a very noticeable thing in this city that such a large percentage of people own their own homes, however humble, and it is equally noticeable that there is such a strong desire to own the home on the part of every man in the city who is of necessity a householder, or likely to be. These are the "men who make Vancouver" in a very large degree, and the feature is a grand one, assuring as it does permanency of population, and the selection of that very desirable class, the stay-at-homes, who having become settled down will simply work the harder rather than let adversity or hard times drive them from their chosen home. The merchants of the city realize the weight of this factor and they also know the truth, as one witty Irishman put it in reply to a rather "nifty" visitor, who queried, "These are the homes of the poorer people?" when touring the city on the electric cars : "No ma'am ! These are the homes of the people who pay their debts ?" —The Province, Vancouver.

"BAD DEBTS."

Editor GROCER, — After reading your article re the above in THE CANADIAN GROCER, of August 11, it struck me a little experience of byegone years on the same subject would not be out of place.

In Edinburgh, Scotland, some 20 years ago, I was a member of what was then called "The Black Book Society." Trade protection societies were then few and far between. Our society, though unique in its way, was most useful to the tradesmen who had the privilege of being associates, for would-be members were "balled" in or out as the case might be, no one being supposed to know who put the candidate's name in the ballot box. We had a chairman and clerk, chosen annually. The annual fee was a trifle—I forget how much. We met once a month in a hotel where we had a comfortable room provided free. A hat was placed at the door into which on entering members placed a small slip of paper with the name or names, and address, of the customers to be inquired about. On time being called, 8 o'clock, and the door locked, the chairman proceeded to read the contents of the hat one by one, calling on members to say what they knew of the person's credit or character whose name had just been read. Remarks made there anent were entered in a minute-book by the clerk and indexed for future reference. No member knew who was making the inquiry. When the names were ended, the business of the evening done, from labor to refreshments was next in order, when a quiet pipe and social chat was much enjoyed for an hour or so, to say nothing of the friendship and kindly feeling flowing therefrom.

Yours sincerely,
JNO. MOUAT.

Nelson, B.C., August 15, 1899.

In closing, he read the following resolution :

Whereas, a very large amount of capital is invested in the lobster-packing industry which cannot be withdrawn therefrom without serious loss to the investors thereof, and

Whereas, the record of declining catches and total extinction of the industry in localities where it formerly flourished leads to the conviction that the present regulations, as to length of open season and size of lobsters which may be legally taken, are calculated to destroy the industry in the Maritime Provinces, and

Whereas, it is an established fact that, if a legal size of nine inches and larger only were permitted or made as it is on the New England coast in order to save the industry from extinction, it would be impossible to carry on the industry, and

Whereas, the extension granted the past season in the Straits of Northumberland was prejudicial to and destructive of the interests, as well as inequitable, inasmuch as it was practically a discrimination against other localities on the coast and in harbors where lobsters come in sometimes more plentiful towards the middle of July,

Therefore, resolved—That in the opinion of this board : (1) That no extension beyond the regular season fixed by the regulations should be granted under any circumstances in any locality. (2) That the season for packing for next year be five days shorter all round our coast line than in 1898 ; that in 1901, ten days shorter than said season, and that this policy of shortening the season be continued each year until it is found that the existence of lobsters on our coasts as a paying national product is no longer imperilled. (3) That fishermen taking lobsters with spawn on out of traps be compelled under penalty to return them immediately to the sea, and that packers be placed under obligation as far as practicable that fishermen under their control carry out a regulation to this effect. (4) That no lobsters be taken by "curlies," as only small ones are so taken, as a rule. (5) That the fishing for canning be prohibited altogether in the rivers and bays in the mouth of July, when the lobsters resort thereto for the purpose of spawning or casting their shells.

Mr. D. G. Smith seconded the resolution.

Mr. Robertson, M.P.P.: "There is a shadow of doubt in my mind. It is not by any means clear to me as to whether it is desirable to have a uniform season. I thought that at a former meeting of this board that a good case was made out against uniformity of the season."

Mr. Loggie, in reply to a question, stated that, up to a certain geographical point in Nova Scotia, fishing stopped on July 15, and up to another on July 1. In his opinion there should be no fishing at all in July.

Mr. A. I. Teed thought the board should have more specific information before passing upon the question.

Mr. Murchie thought that something should be done to save the industry.

The motion carried.

RAILWAY FROM VICTORIA BEACH TO MIDDLETON, N.S.

This subject was introduced by Mr. John Ervin, of Bridgetown, N.S. He said that capitalists were ready to build the road provided they could get the Government to lend the usual aid. The road was a necessity, as a great many people were now greatly inconvenienced in getting their produce to market. The country through which the line would run was rich. The proposed line is north of the Dominion Atlantic Railway, and the terminus, Victoria Beach, is on the Digby basin. Mr. Ervin read the following :

Whereas, having considered the memorial of the Bridgetown Board of Trade, re proposal to build a line of railway from Victoria Beach to Middleton. And, whereas, such railway will open a thickly settled and fertile section of Western Nova Scotia, which is now without any railway facilities. And, whereas, such railway will also afford a convenient and short route of transportation to a shipping port for the large fruit production of the county of Annapolis. And, whereas, such line of railway will come in connection with other lines of railways now built or in course of building, thereby giving a through line from the Annapolis Valley to the city of Halifax.

Therefore, resolved, that this Board approve of the construction of such line of railway, and consider it is deserving of such Government aid and encouragement as is usually given to railways intended to serve the public interests.

Mr. F. E. Cox, Middleton, seconded the resolution, and in doing so, explained that he did so on his own responsibility and not as a representative of the Middleton Board.

Messrs. Schofield and Hathaway supported the resolution, which was carried.

THE WEIGHT OF CANNED GOODS.

Mr. W. F. Hathaway, of St. John, introduced the following resolution :

Whereas, the want of uniformity in the weights of canned fruits, provisions, etc., is unfair to the consumer and is also hurtful to the true interests of trade.

Therefore—Resolved, that in the opinion of this Maritime Board of Trade all canned meats, vegetables, fruits, fish, packets of tea, tins of lard should show in plain lettering the weight of contents.

That penalties should be imposed upon all packers and canners who do not stamp their goods, and also that penalties should be imposed on all dealers and traders who expose such unstamped goods for sale.

And further resolved, that the secretary, before February 1 of next year, forward copies of this resolution to the Minister of Trade and Commerce, and also to the several Dominion representatives from Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

In speaking to the resolution, Mr. Hathaway, wholesale grocer, said there was sometimes a difference of 3 to 5 oz. in the different packs of canned goods, particularly fruits. The weight of canned goods was, as a rule, correct. The question was whether the wholesale houses are to continue selling light-weight goods. For his part, he did not propose to do so if he could help it. The wholesale grocer was not responsible for the short weights. It was the dishonest packer.

Mr. Alex. Henderson, of Woodstock, N.B., seconded the resolution, and, in doing so, said that his company was already putting the weight on their packages of canned goods. He further stated that his factory had this year shipped 40 tons of canned raspberries to England, and it had orders for all the gallon apples it could put up.

The motion was carried unanimously.

Fred. E. Cox introduced the subject of a daily mail service across the Bay of Fundy. He moved as follows :

Resolved, that in the opinion of this board the D. A. Railway steamboat service between St. John and Digby is of such importance to the business interests of the large territory interested as to call for a daily service the year round.

It was discussed at some length, and finally, in view of a recent discussion between Mr. Gifkins and the St. John board relative to the matter, it was withdrawn.

The present subsidy is $12,500 per year. There is now a daily service four or five months during the year, a tri-weekly for about two months, and four trips per week during the winter months.

The convention adjourned at 5 p. m.

The board convened at 8.30 p.m. with President De Wolfe in the chair. The attendance was better than in the afternoon.

TOP WHARFAGE AT DIGBY.

The first order of business was the consideration of a memorial signed by W. W. Ogilvie and a number of Ontario and Annapolis Valley millers in regard to top wharfage for goods lying on the Government wharf at Digby.

The President : What shall we do with it ?

Mr. Conrad moved that the board concur in the memorial. Mr. Cox seconded.

Mr. Carmichael said that before he voted upon the question he wanted information.

Mr. McLaughlin read a clause from the memorial which he considered would give the desired information. The clause read : "In March, 1897, the Government agreed to exempt this traffic from top wharfage at Digby pier by refunding in full the amount collected. With this understanding rates were arranged and continued up to the present, whereby it was possible to meet the competition of the American railways and have this traffic diverted through Digby. The result has been, since the Government so wisely came to this conclusion, that up to December 31, 1898, equal to 62,020 barrels, and from January 1 to June 30, 1899, 22,464 barrels, or a grand total of 84,484 barrels, were diverted to this all-Canadian route."

The motion was then carried.

A communication was read from Mr. Murray Hentis, of the Sussex board, desiring the board to thank the St. John board for the entertainment of the previous day.

A PROPOSED ELECTRIC ROAD.

Mr. W. V. Brown, of Berwick, introduced the following resolution :

Whereas, the need of a second and competing transportation railway line between Halifax and St. John, through Western Nova Scotia, is generally recognized.

And, whereas, certain London and Berlin capitalists have intimated their willingness to construct an electric railway from Halifax to Annapolis or Digby, provided certain concessions are offered.

Therefore, resolved, that in the opinion of this Board every encouragement should be given towards the furtherance of this enterprise by our Government, boards of trade, municipal and town councils and newspapers.

Mr. John Ervin, in seconding the resolution, explained that the Berwick board had received a communication from capitalists in London and Berlin in regard to the possibility of building an electric railway in the Annapolis Valley. Their communication had been replied to. Since then the capitalists had been again heard from, in which they said they were prepared to build a road provided certain concessions were made. What these concessions were they had not stated.

Both Mr. Robertson, M.P.P., and Mr. Jarvis thought that it would not be advisable to adopt the resolution.

Mr. Brown said he had statistics to submit. "We were not the movers in this matter ; we were approached," he said. With the consent of the seconder, he withdrew his resolution.

THE PACKING OF APPLES.

Mr. Jarvis, at the request of the Berwick Board of Trade, introduced the following resolution :

That some steps be taken to secure better regulations regarding the packing and branding of apples, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Departments of Inland Revenue and of Agriculture at Ottawa.

In introducing the resolution, Mr. Jarvis said that everyone who consumed apples realized the necessity of some such law as that suggested.

Mr. J. E. De Wolfe, in seconding the resolution, said that regulations were necessary which would make dishonest packing criminal.

Mr. P. Innes explained that, at the last session of Parliament, a bill had been introduced, at the instigation of Prof. Robertson, having for its object the packing and branding of apples. When the bill was being considered representatives of the Fruit Growers Associations of Ontario and Nova Scotia were consulted, but the representatives of the two associations had been unable to agree as to the defining of standards. Ontario, for instance, contended for size, as indicative of No. 1 A, while Nova Scotia, whose small apples were among its best, would not agree. The bill would be taken up again next session and would probably become law.

The resolution was adopted.

TOURIST TRAVEL.

The following resolution was introduced by Mr. J. D. McKenna :

Whereas, tourist travel is fast assuming considerable proportions in the Maritime Provinces,

And whereas, it has been demonstrated that such travel has proved of great benefit to such Provinces,

Therefore, resolved—That this meeting views with favor the earnest efforts of the many towns of these Provinces to encourage the coming of tourists, and would impress on delegates the importance of the construction of summer hotels, and the more general advertising of the natural beauties and advantages of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island from a tourist's standpoint, and that special attention should be directed to the encouragement of this class of travel from Quebec and Ontario.

In speaking to his resolution, Mr. McKenna cited instances of the benefit the Maritime Provinces had received from tourist travel. The matter was, therefore, most important.

Mr. J. E. De Wolfe seconded the resolution. He complained that 99 per cent. of the tourists who visited the Maritime Provinces were not from Ontario and Quebec, but from the United States. In looking over the papers he seldom saw reference to tourists from Ontario and Quebec.

Mr. Hazzard mentioned that when recently in a hotel in Prince Edward Island, he was surprised to see about 60 Toronto people. "It was like a colony of Torontonians," he concluded.

Mr. Conrad stated that he was recently in Cape Breton, and he saw a number of Toronto people there with their families.

After further discussion, the resolution was adopted unanimously.

SUBJECTS FOR DISCUSSION.

Mr. D. J. McLaughlin gave notice of the following notice of motion :

No questions for discussion by this Maritime Board shall be considered by the Board unless notice of at least one month shall be sent to the secretary, to be forwarded by him to each affiliated Board of the intention to introduce such subject for discussion at the annual meeting of the Maritime Board.

Mr. Geo. Robertson, M.P.P., moved the following resolution :

Whereas, since the last meeting of this Board, statutory conditions for fire insurance policies have been established in Nova Scotia,

Resolved, that committees be appointed to confer with the fire insurance companies to secure similar legislation in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

The motion was seconded by Mr. D. G. Smith and carried.

A complaint having been made in regard to careless handling of freight between St. John and Digby, Mr. D. G. Smith moved that the matter be left with the local boards to deal with.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Ervin and carried.

The secretary presented an interim report showing a balance on hand of $94.25.

On motion of Mr. Smith, the secretary was instructed to communicate with local boards of trade which had not yet paid their per capita tax.

KENTVILLE NEXT PLACE OF MEETING.

It was decided, on motion of Mr. Geo. Robertson, to hold the next annual meeting at Kentville, N.S.

Then came votes of thanks to the St. John Board of Trade, to the press, to the president, to Mr. Allison, and, after a motion closing the convention was adopted, all joined hands and lustily sang "Auld Lang Syne." By this time it was nearly 11 o'clock.

A DOUBLE FEAST.

It was not all work that demanded the attention of the delegates to the convention, for, on Thursday afternoon, they were entertained by the local board to a sail and banquet on the St. John river.

The steamer, the Victoria, left Indiantown at 3.30 p.m., and carried the excursionists about 35 miles up the river.

Just as as the return journey was commenced, the guests, about 150, sat down to a banquet in the spacious dining-room situated on the main deck of the steamer.

After the banquet, the toast list was taken up in the saloon of the steamer, and speeches were delivered by United States Consul Myers, Mr. George Robertson, M.P.P., President De Wolfe, Mr. H. Hazzard, Mr. J. E. De Wolfe, J. M. Carmichael, and others. Those of the speakers from outside points deservedly praised the St. John board for the excellent arrangements made for their entertainment, and over the scenery of the St. John river they waxed eloquent. Mr. Hazzard declared that, in some respects, it equalled, if not surpassed, the Rhine, although, of course, it had not the rugged and strikingly handsome castles to be found on that river.

It was only natural that the speakers should have waxed eloquent over the scenery on the river. On either bank of the river, with their bases gradually sloping towards the river, towers a continuous range of mountains hundreds of feet high, and capped with dark green trees and decorated with pasture lands of bright green.

It was nearly 11 p. m. when the steamer was again moored to her wharf.

CONVENTION NOTES.

It was not because President Jarvis is a fire insurance man that there was so much "fire" in his annual address. It was because it had so much "meat."

It was de-Creed that Secretary Creed, of Halifax, should have a good time and he had it.

The Nova Scotian delegates were all agreed that there was no fog about the arrangements got up for their entertainment.

Mr. P. Innes, of Kings County, N.S., was the biggest man at the convention.

No one was more indefatigable than Mr. Fisher in looking after the interests of the delegates.

President De Wolfe is a conscientious and painstaking officer, and has the interests of the Maritime Board at heart.

President De Wolfe promised the Maritime Board a good business time at the next annual convention.

Mr. John Ervin, of Bridgetown, was one of the most faithful attendants at the meetings of the convention.

Mr. S. Schofield appeared to be loaded with documents to support every argument.

Secretary Allison has a cool head and a capacity for work.

Retiring President Jarvis' address should be read by everyone.

CANADIAN COMPUTING SCALES.

Since the introduction of computing scales into Canada, C. Wilson & Son, the Toronto scale makers, not only secured the right to make the American money-weight scales, but invented new designs of their own. A special feature about the Wilson computing scale is that it shows the money value and weight all at the same time. This is a great advantage, as the grocer can tell the customer the weight without having to weigh the goods a second time. Another advantage is simplicity of construction, and the workmanship is all that can be desired. A very important point is the bearings, they are agate and diamond steel, and under the marble platform where the weak points give out first, the Wilson scale has ball-bearings. They are claimed never to wear out. The business of this firm has extended so much recently that they have been forced to open a warehouse in Winnipeg for the supply of the Western orders. They are now making over 100 styles of scales, so that if the grocer does not wish a computing or money scale he can get their catalogue and can choose any size from the largest railroad track scale down to the finest tea scale.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN

SACCHARINE IN EUROPE.

SACCHARINE is not an article of food, and its use has been to a large extent prohibited.

The German imperial law of October 1, 1898, prohibited the use of saccharine for the industrial production of beer, wine, etc. This prohibition applies also to all artificial sweetening substances, such as zuckerine, sykose, crystallose, dulcine, glucine and the like. The legislation of other countries has advanced further in respect to the accurate perception of the nature of artificial sweetening substances.

Belgium has prohibited the importation, manufacture, and sale of saccharine and analogous substances, and make an exception only where these substances are imported by pharmaceutical chemists for medicinal use.

France prohibits the importation of saccharine and similar sweetening substances, and their use in articles of food.

Great Britain prohibits the use of saccharine in the manufacture of beer.

Italy prohibits importation and manufacture of saccharine, and products containing saccharine, and permits only the importation for medicinal use.

Austria-Hungary prohibits unconditionally the importation of artificial sweetening substances, allowing only the importation of saccharine for medicinal purposes; in that country also the employment of artificial sweetening substances in food is prohibited.

In Spain the importation of saccharine and of any substances containing saccharine as articles of food is prohibited.

The same is the case in Portugal, where an exception is made in favor of apothecaries.—Kuhlow's German Trade Review.

HEAVY REDUCTION IN SUGAR.

According to The New York Journal of Commerce, the American Sugar Refining Company, at the opening of business on Monday, announced a reduction of 3-16c. per lb. on granulated and other grades of common use, and continued their guarantee of prices to buyers until January 1. The independent refiners immediately reduced their prices to correspond, and the Arbuckles went still better and announced a horizontal reduction of ¼c. The Sugar Trust's grades that suffered reductions other than 3-16c. were standard and coarse powdered, which are cut ¼c., and XXXX powdered, which was reduced 5-16c. The Arbuckles withdrew their guarantee on prices.

The reductions in prices at this season are much more important than is reflected by the actual quotations, as they apply to business already transacted as well as to future business. It is estimated that the refiners have the following contracts outstanding, and which must now be filled at the reduced prices, even should an advance be immediately put into force:

Sugar Trust	1,500,000
Arbuckle Brothers	100,000
Doscher	100,000
Howell Refineries	100,000
Total	1,800,000

These figures are trade estimates, but there is every reason to believe that they are not wide of the mark. It will, therefore, be seen that the Sugar Trust is by far the greatest sufferer by the decline.

The reduction was ordered by President Havemeyer when he found that outside refiners were quietly cutting prices, and that some wholesale grocers were themselves selling at 1-16c. below list prices.

U. S. TRADE WITH CANADA AND MEXICO.

A United States contemporary makes the following comparison of that country's trade with Mexico and Canada:

"By the national census of October, 1895, the total population of the Republic of Mexico at that time was 12,578,000. In 1896 the estimate of the population of the Dominion of Canada was 3,150,000 for the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, or about one-third of the population at the same time of the Republic of Mexico. The question has frequently arisen, with which of its neighbors, Mexico on the south or Canada on the north, do the United States do most business, and which country furnishes the best promise of an extension of commercial relations. So far as exports are concerned, the exports of American products to foreign countries, there can be no doubt whatever that Canada furnishes a better market for American goods than does Mexico, and this is especially true of all manufactured articles.

"During the 10 months ending May 1, 1899, the total United States exports to the Republic of Mexico were to the amount of $20,000,000, while in the same period the exports to Canadian Provinces were $64,000,000. That is about the usual proportion, though the total amount is larger in both countries than it has been heretofore. An important item of United States commerce with Mexico is the item of lumber, to the value, during the 10 months ending May 1, 1899, of $641,000, while to Mexico was also sent, during the same period, furniture to the amount of $196,000 and wood to the amount of $229,000 more, a total of more than $1,000,000 worth in 10 months. Other items of United States export to Mexico are agricultural implements, horses, railway cars, carriages, coal to the amount of $1,250,000 a year, cloth and clothing, cotton goods, telegraph instruments, hardware, petroleum, paraffine oil, cottonseed oil, lard and books.

"The United States exports to Canada are not only much more diversified, but are larger in amount in nearly every case, except in cottonseed oil. The imports of foreign products into the United States do not preserve the same ratio, for such imports from Mexico are substantially the same amount as they are from Canada, and if anything the tendency increase is in favor of Mexico. During the ten months ending May 1, 1899, the total imports of goods from the two Canadian Provinces into the United States were $18,699,000 while during the same period the imports from Mexico were $18,145,000.

"From Mexico this year, during the ten months of the fiscal year covered by the last Treasury report, there were imports of coffee to the amount of $2,000,000; of fruits to the amount of $150,000; of hides and skins—an item in which the United States commerce with Mexico largely exceeds that with Canada—$1,500,000; rubber $150,000; tobacco to the amount of $253,000, and mahogany to the amount of $300,000.

"The means of communication between the United States and Canada are being improved all the time, whereas the means of communication with Mexico, though better than they were formerly, are for topographical reasons not susceptible of great increase. In proportion to the population of the two countries, the trade of the United States with its Canadian neighbor is, of course, decidedly better than with Mexico, but it is not easy to predicate on this any estimate of the probable future growth of business between the two countries, except that the relations of the people of Canada with the people of the United States are growing constantly more friendly, a social development in which Canadian emigration into the United States plays a part, whereas American social relations with Mexico remain practically unchanged."

Messrs. Hudson & Hopper, commission merchants, etc., St. John, N. B., have dissolved partnership. L. A. Hopper has established himself in business in stall No. 12, country market, with Mr. Fowler, under the name of Fowler & Hopper. Mr. Hudson will wind up the old business and continue at the old stand.

A SUCCESSFUL MAN'S VERDICT.

C. P. HUNTINGTON, president of the Southern Pacific railroad, who rose from the hardware business to his present position in the railroad world, relates to an exchange his advancement in life in the following interesting manner :

"It was merely evolution. I had been a trader from my youth. I began gathering shillings when I was eight years old, and had a wide experience before taking up railroad work. It was not a jump for me.

"It isn't by sudden jumps that healthy success is attained. It's by steady work and honesty of purpose. A middle-aged man may jump from one business to an entirely different one and succeed, but it will need hard work and the probabilities will be against him. The foundation of success is laid in youth.

"Between the ages of 15 and 22 most men are made. A man can learn more in those seven years than in any others in his whole life, yet those are the years that many youths spend at college unfitting themselves for commercial pursuits, learning things that are of no use to them—actually building up a barrier against success.

"The successful man learns the rudiments of business in early life. The unsuccessful man is the one who in his youth watched the clock to see that he did not begin work a minute ahead of time—or quit a second behind it. Those are the boys who are discharged first, whenever the staff is reduced ; but the boy who thinks of working instead of quitting, and looks after his employer's interest instead of his own ease, is the man who is kept on, and goes ahead and succeeds.

"Success is a simple thing. The money saved in early life grows in fortunes later on. The young man who can always save 10c. a day is a man of sense. He is on the road to success. But the young man who trades this 10c. for a cigar is a fool.

"There may be cases where fortunes are made by jumps, but great success comes from persistent effort. It is a mistake to point out the accomplished work of a successful life and ask a young man to duplicate it. The immensity of such a work appals him. It is like taking him suddenly to the top of a high steeple to see a great city. The great height makes him dizzy, but to the steeplejack, who knows his business and has scaled the steeple, it is quite a little matter. That is the reason why rising men should not look ahead. They should work for to-day and to day only, and if they do that faithfully and live economically, they'll be ready for whatever comes on to-morrow.

"My part in the organization and building of the Central Pacific did not seem a great task for me, because my hardware business, when I laid it down, was greater than my railroad business when I took it up. I called it a hardware business ; we bought and sold all kinds of things—thousands and thousands of dollars worth of goods that never saw the inside of our store. We bought whole cargoes and sold them direct from the ships. I recall buying one cargo at 10 per cent. above the invoice prices, paying only $5,000 down. The aggregate business done by our firm amounted to perhaps more than $5,000 000 annually, and so the organization of the Central Pacific came as a comparatively easy task."

COULDN'T GET AWAY FROM IT.

The following extract from a letter written by a native of Lowestoft, Eng., from Anastasia Island, Florida, to The Lowestoft Journal, would indicate that Colman's mustard is as well known in Florida as it is in all sections of Canada :

"It is some time since I saw your favorite of watering-places, but am always interested in news from old Lowestoft, and through your columns give my kind regards to all who remember me—amongst others, to Stationmaster Smith and Harbormaster Henderson, and the various members of the Constitutional Club and Amusements Committee. I occasionally hanker after the flesh-pots of Egypt, as represented by the East Coast bloater, and Colman's mustard, which is always on my table, and found far back in the woods, even in the homes of the Florida natives. A man out here told me he could get away from sorrow and despair, but he never yet went where he could not get Colman's mustard.

"Yours faithfully,

"WHITWELL H. RANSON."

NEIGHBORLINESS IN TRADE.

There is a great deal of added pleasure to commercial life, says The Ohio Merchant, when near business men are neighbors in the best sense of the word. You see the rain or the sunshine damaging some of the goods of your next door competitor. Quietly point out the fact to him. His horse has got the reins under feet by the hitching post, perhaps. Extricate them yourself, without even looking back into the store to see if your deed is seen. A customer wants some rich cheese, and you are out. Step out naturally, without the formality of putting your hat on, put your head in next door and say, "Hello, Brown ! Have you got some real, nice cheese ? I've got a customer for something better than I've got." Then buy what is wanted, if he has it, or even send the customer in if he wants to taste it. If you're the right kind of a man, you won't lose any customers by such means. In fact, any decent man will soon learn to reciprocate such neighborly ways, and you will each make life much pleasanter for the other.

FROM ERRAND BOYS TO PEERS.

There are no better examples of individuals who have fought their way to fame and fortune than the cases of Lord Mount Stephen and Lord Strathcona, who have each risen to the highest point of eminence from the humblest prospects. The former began life as an apprentice to an Aberdeen draper. After further experience in a London shipping-house he emigrated to Canada, and joined his cousin, who was in a dry goods business. This marked the turn in the tide of his fortunes, for he quickly became manufacturer, bank president, and then pioneer of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Lord Mount Stephen's charity is as boundless as his wealth.

Lord Strathcona began life as an errand boy in an obscure Scottish village, emigrating to New York. A few months later he worked his way up into Canada, and eventually entered the service of the Hudson's Bay Company, then at the climax of its power and prestige. Beginning at the very bottom of the ladder he forged his way up to the very top. The knowledge he obtained of the capabilities of Canada was immense. At the moment when the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway seemed in danger owing to the hesitation of capitalists and of the Dominion Government to contribute towards the undertaking, he came forward with Lord Mount Stephen and a few friends, and guaranteed the whole of the capital required for the line, thus assuring its creation and success. They richly deserve the distinction of being styled Canada's pair of "Grand Old Men."—Scottish American.

Ready ?

The thoughtful housewife begins to serve light, dainty, wholesome dishes about this time—Summer. Are you ready to meet the demand with one time-tried article that she will want to use? Benson's Prepared Corn has taken first prizes at all Canadian Exhibitions. Awards were made by skilful judges, carefully chosen for this one purpose—of selecting the best by all the tests that go to prove it "best."

It is absolutely pure—it has a delicacy which is all its own—it never varies from the one high standard of quality that has made it famous. It pays to handle articles of recognized merit like

MONSOON
INDO-CEYLON TEA.

What Monsoon doesn't offer grocers in the shape of good tea isn't worth having.

There is no possible way of serving your customers as well as with Monsoon. We plant, grow and pack all our own teas, which enables us to give a high-class tea at a moderate price.

If you do not handle Monsoon order a trial case.

FOR YOUNG CANADIANS.

Don't wait until the iron's hot,
But make it hot by muscle.
Don't wait for the wealth your father's got,
Take off your coat and hustle.

What a year 1900 is to be! What a time for the young Canadian hustler—the rapid stenographer, the expert bookkeeper and the nimble telegrapher! They will all be wanted just as surely as that bright year is coming around. A start now will put you with the successful ones, and we can start you aright. Will you send us your name and let us tell you how? It is no trouble to us, and will benefit you.

...BRADSTREET'S...

Capital and Surplus, $1,500,000. Offices throughout the civilized world.

Executive Offices: Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway, New York City, U.S.A.

THE BRADSTREET COMPANY gathers information that reflects the financial condition and the controlling circumstances of every seeker of mercantile credit. Its business may be defined as of the merchants, by the merchants, for the merchants. In procuring, verifying, and promulgating information, no effort is spared and no reasonable expense considered too great, that the results may justify its claim as an authority on all matters affecting commercial affairs and mercantile credit. Its offices and connections have been steadily extended, and it furnishes information concerning mercantile persons throughout the civilized world. Subscriptions are based on the service furnished, and are available only by reputable wholesale, jobbing and manufacturing concerns, and by respectable and worthy financial, fiduciary and business corporations. Specific terms may be obtained by addressing the Company at any of its Offices. Correspondence invited.

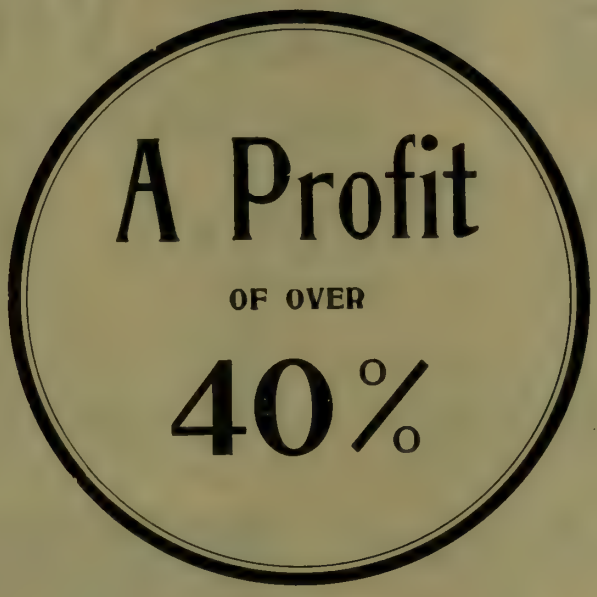
Nothing succeeds like success!

Why are we successful?

Why is it our business is increasing?

Because we know what people want and we are in a position to supply the demand.



THE PUBLIC are realizing that such standard brands of Table and Dairy Salt as "Coleman's" and "Rice's" can always be relied upon, and DEALERS are correspondingly becoming aware that to be up to the mark they must keep these brands of Salt for sale.

Absolutely pure, do not harden like inferior brands, and cost no more. Try them and be convinced.

Through Experimenting?

If the inducement of larger profits has been held out to you from the sale of certain brands of Cigars that are comparatively unknown, then you are experimenting and juggling with the confidence of smokers who buy of you. It doesn't pay to run such chances.

No manufacturer, anywhere, can offer you larger profits than I do when you sell my Pharaoh 10-cent Cigar or my Pebble 5-cent Cigar, because you cannot hold your trade on Cigars if the quality and workmanship of each one of them is not exactly up to one high standard. If you are a grocer, send for samples and my price list.

HOW TO PUT A NEW STORE ON A PAYING BASIS.*

By J. J. QUINN.

A GOOD, broad, solid foundation is as necessary for successful business as it is for a building that is expected to stand, and I would make the basis and the foundation of my business :

Fair, square, honest dealing with everyone.

No misrepresentation of any goods under any circumstances. Nothing to be sold for the best of its kind unless it is the best.

Money back to any dissatisfied customer without grumbling or deduction.

Courteous, kindly treatment for everyone, whether they buy much or little, or buy at all.

One price, and that the lowest consistent with honest business methods.

Everything sold on its merits ; no premium or gift schemes of any kind for anything.

After securing a store, the next thing is to purchase the stock, which should consist of popular and standard goods, with special reference to the needs of the neighborhood. Some neighborhoods demand certain lines of goods ; these demands should be watched and catered to. That is the storekeeper's business—to supply his customers' demands. Nothing should be bought, no matter how good or how cheap it is, if it cannot be sold.

Stocks should be bought where the

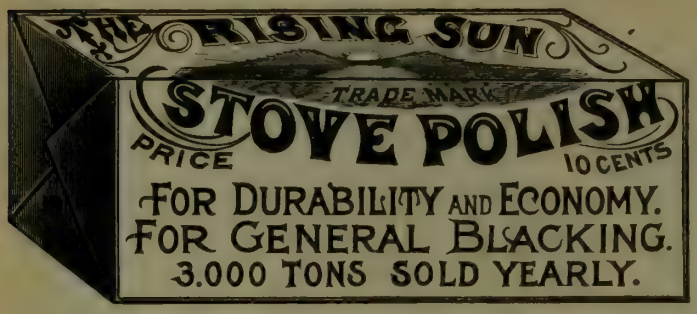
can be secured at the lowest possible price ; quality first, price next. All purchases should be made for cash (10 days). If necessary, pay spot cash to secure a bargain or goods you must have. Never lose or sacrifice a discount. Discount lost on a bill is interest paid on that bill. With canned goods, pick a standard brand in tomatoes, corn, peas, lima beans, string beans and peaches that can be sold at or close to a popular price for such goods, and hold on to and push that brand in preference to other brands. Other brands for other prices will have to be kept in stock, but make one special brand of each article named, whose quality and price are worth such an effort, your specialty in that line. This will be as near as a new store can come to producing those results that are aimed at in having one's own private brand of canned goods.

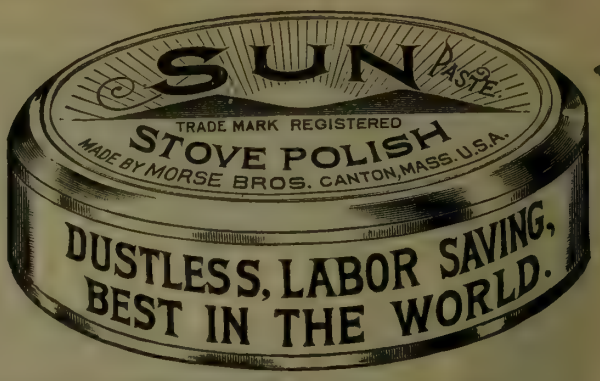
Great care is necessary in purceasing any goods, but the greatest care is necessary in purchasing the four most important trade-winners and trade-holders that a grocer sells : Tea, coffee, flour and butter. It is not hard to find high grades in all of these articles, but it is hard to set a right standard of quality in each of these things and then keep that standard through thick and thin and still buy so as to sell right. In buying teas and coffees, under no circumstances should package goods be purchased, even if the trade of the store demands such goods, This is one thing to which an exception must be made in supplying the customers' demands.

A MORE PROFITABLE TRADE.

in goods of better quality, for the same price, which will advertise the man who sells them, instead of the packer of the package goods, are the reason why package teas and coffees must not be sold. In buying teas and coffees the one way to be sure of what you have is to test them in the cup before you buy. A full variety of teas should be secured. If a customer wants a Formosa, he should not be given a Foochow. Some storekeepers don't know this much, but the people who drink tea do. That is why some grocers have no tea trade. Buy teas that will sell for and be worth 40, 50, 60 and 80c. per lb. Prepare three special blends suited to the tastes of the neighborhood, one for 40c., one for 50c. and one for 60c. Give each one a special name, and in speaking or advertising always give it that name, as "Our B——Blend, 50c. a lb."



PUSH TEA AT ALL TIMES,



but one blend should be especially pushed, and that one the 50c. tea. With the present advanced condition of the market a tea can be blended and sold on its merits for this price which will be much better in quality than the 60c. tea sold with presents, and yet be 10c. cheaper. Two big points —better goods and less money, and on all a right profit made. Not as large as could be made two or three years ago, but a big profit still for any man who knows how and wants to sell tea. Great care should be used to get the exact proportion of the right teas thoroughly mixed in blending, and keep the quality and flavor the same all the time. To secure this end tea should be blended and put away—enough to do a month or two packed in clean, dry tea boxes or sugar barrels tightly covered with several thicknesses of clean paper, in a dry place. Better in a room by itself if possible. This work of blending in either tea or coffee should be done by the proprietor himself, who should keep his secrets concerning the blends to himself. Tea caddies should always be kept tightly closed.

Coffees should, if at all possible, be bought green, but not until a generous sample has been roasted by a man you can trust to do his work right. Then, if the coffee drinks right, and the price is right, buy.

THE BUYING OF COFFEE

green or roasted should be a question of sufficient capital. If money will permit, always buy it green; if this cannot be afforded, buy the right kind that has been roasted right. Low-priced coffees at 12 and 15c. retail must be kept. A good return for the investment is secured from them, but three blends should be prepared to be handled, after the manner of tea—one at 20c., one at 25c., and one at 30c., each to be given a name and sold by that name. While all should be pushed, the one that should be especially pushed would be the 25c. blend, for which price a splendid, smooth-drinking blend can be sold better than can be bought at the average store for the same money, and vastly better than the coffee sold with presents for even higher prices, and a good, round profit made.

The same care should be exercised with the coffee as with the tea, in keeping up the standard, etc. Keep coffee fresh at all times; never have over a week's supply of roasted on hand, at the most. The sale should be worked and pushed on the same lines as the tea in general. With flour, care also is required. A real blend of spring and winter wheat gives splendid results, and can be bought and sold low at present.

Select a distinctive name for the flour, and push and sell it under that name in your own bags, with the name and the strongest claims that can be made for it printed on the bags. The present low selling price prevents large profit, but through the amount handled and the advertisement which comes through this method of selling. People go out of their way to get good flour. Set your standard high in flour as well as in other staples, and keep it high. Make no compromise with low quality. To secure the best results with butter, print butter alone should be handled. There will be no loss of weight from careless weighing, heavy draft or any cause whatever. Time will be saved in waiting on a customer who wants butter, and the quality can be kept at the standard for good butter easier than by any other form of butter prepared for market.

These remarks refer to genuine print butter, not reprinted tub. Arrangements should be made with a creamery, or, if this cannot be done direct, because of the small amount of butter used at first, business can be done with a creamery agent. Buy one quality, and that the best that can be had. Don't have anything to do with "pretty good" butter. It generally brings pretty bad results, and don't accept a pound that is not standard. If the effort is made, butter can be bought right that will keep sweet until used. Have the prints printed with your own print, and wrapped in parchment, with your "ad." for the butter printed on it. Arrangements can be made to have butter printed, the best that money can buy, with one's own private brand, even if no more than 50 lb. per week are used.

There are many reasons for handling tea, coffee, flour and butter, as I have described. In the first place, there is no guess work about their quality; it is not only good, but always the same, and free from variations. Equally as important, if not more so, is the fact that every one of those four things, sold in the manner described, advertises itself and the store from which it came in a way that no other method can equal. The public become impressed, not only with the goodness of the goods, but with the impression that they cannot be bought at any other store. You have no one else handles them, and that is the value of using a name for each blend of tea, and coffee, and the flour, and butter, and any other goods, especially canned goods, soap and spices, as soon as the amount of business permits.

When the stock is selected and brought to the store, have it arranged as neatly and attractively as possible, and kept that way, keeping near to the front of the store those goods most in demand. Everything in the store for sale should have a neat price-mark. All goods which are shown in such a manner as to permit it, should have in addition to the price a word or two saying what they are, or telling their quality. Another thing that deserves a word is eggs. When price permits buy the very best. When the price goes beyond what the neighborhood wishes to pay use selected storage stock, candled, and guarantee every egg. It will cost less to guarantee them than to lose trade by not doing it. This simple plan has been found to work perfectly under every condition.

ADVERTISING.

No argument is needed to prove the necessity for advertising; business cannot be done without it. The best advertisement any store or business can have is a well-pleased customer. Patrons of a store will always talk about the store. If they are not treated right they will stay away, and often keep others away. If they are treated right they will come back, speak well of the store, and bring others. Bend every effort, then, to win and deserve the confidence of the customers. Money cannot pay for any other advertisement as good. Begin with the show-window; clean and dress it each week. A good plan is to put in it the chief bargain you are advertising for the week. Best results come from making a full display of one thing, or, if a number of things are used, they should all be of the one class. There is nothing in this but the result of the experience of the best men in the country who do this work. Whatever is shown should have a neatly-lettered card with the price. The value of a window for advertising is shown by these results. I have made over 50 sales a day of cakes shown in the window, at a profit of 35 per cent. Before the display as many sales would not be made in a week. A neat display of canned tomatoes, with a a catchy card, brought buyers from the opposite side of the street, and sold in a week five times the usual amount. These are not exceptions, but the usual results from

WELL-ARRANGED WINDOWS.

In placing goods for show in the window, not only the packages of goods should be shown, but the goods themselves, ready for the table, if possible. Canned fish of any kind, if displayed, should have with it a can emptied on a platter placed on a napkin, and the fish garnished with its necessary dressing. Such a window and many others are so tempting that people cannot help buying. A display of flour should be accompanied by a nicely-baked loaf of bread, made from the flour, with two or three thin slices cut from and laid beside the loaf on a white napkin. Another sliced loaf should be kept on the counter for the inspection of the customers. Show the bread and prove your claims for the flour by the bread it makes.

A can of anything you want to push, emptied into a glass dish, kept on the counter, with a little intelligent talk, will never fail to sell the goods. The best way to sell tea or coffee is to make it right in the store. This should be done on Saturday at least; sometimes on Friday as well. The outfit to do this—gas stove, extra-size coffee pot, hot-water boiler, tea kettle and tea pot—will cost not over $5. An attractive, tidy girl will do all the work of making tea or coffee, only one each day—one day coffee, another day tea—for $1.00 on Saturday alone, or $1.50 for Friday afternoon and night and Saturday all day and night. Have a cup served to a customer while she is being waited on, and talk whatever she is drinking. Tell her how to make it; it will taste as good in her own home.

Even with a crowded store, this can be done—a trial will prove how well the money this costs was spent. When this is going to be done, let everybody know it, so they can have a cup of tea or coffee. Bulletin or sign boards in front of the store, neatly lettered, are valuable aids in telling the people what you want to sell. I always use them, and make the letters plain enough to be read from 100 to 200 feet away.

EVERY BAG GOING OUT OF THE STORE

should bear the store's advertisement. The bags for tea and coffee blends should have the name of that blend plainly printed on them, together with the strongest claim that can be made for the goods. Circulars are very important. The best size is 9 x 12, and I would use either a special color of paper or ink, so that the public would know the circular as soon as they saw it, even before reading. They should be printed twice a week, and should never contain a word or a claim that is not absolutely true. No man can afford to lie and then advertise his lies. Too much should not be said, and all that is said should be in the plainest, strongest language. One circular should be distributed on Monday and Tuesday, and another one on Thursday and Friday of each week. Every circular that is printed should have without fail an ad. for tea and another for coffee. Don't say too much, but make a clear, strong point each time. Not more than six or eight articles should be advertised on any one circular. Always give prices and a few words about each article, the whole matter being printed in clear, heavy type. Occasionally, besides the regular form, a few prices might be quoted on some special goods.

SPECIAL PRICES

can be made on some goods to last for three pays each week. For instance, a special price will be put on some articles for Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Starting with Thursday morning, these articles are put back to the regular price, and special prices for the remainder of the week are put on other goods. This should never be done with more than two or three things at a time, and when it is done, advertise and show the goods well, pushing them hard. Let everyone have all they want, unless you set a limit to the amount each gurchaser can have of the goods at the special price. It won't do to have bargains and then hide them. When tea or coffee is made in the store and demonstrated, advertise that fact especially well.

Have circulars distributed carefully by persons who will put them under the doors, not only around the store, but in every locality from which trade naturally comes to the street on which your store is situated. Don't wait until the people get on the street, and then depend altogether on attracting their attention by the appearance of the store. Get their attention before they come on the street; bring them on the street with the idea in their heads that your store is the one they are looking for. If you do this, they will stop and see you.

Always

HAVE EVERYTHING WEIGHED AND MEASURED

that can be kept ready to hand to the customer as soon as it is called for. This work can be done in the early part of the week, when trade is lighter. This is work that must be done, and done carefully, and should be finished each week by Thursday. All such weighing should be done by someone competent to do justice alike to the customers and the store—to weigh honestly.

In waiting on trade, each man should have his own place at the counter, and work there; but under no circumstances should boys be allowed to wait on the trade until thoroughly drilled in their work. There is no excuse at any time for any lack of courtesy to a customer. No matter how big the crowd may be in a store, every man can work quickly and still have a pleasant word and manner, all of which helps immensely to make a store popular. When through waiting on a customer, pack the goods in the customer's basket carefully, or else bundle them neatly.

Watch that customers, especially children, always get their turn, and if a person attempts to leave the store without being waited on politely speak to them, telling them they will be waited on in a few moments. Such an act generally holds a customer until the chance to wait on him or her comes.

I BELIEVE IN DELIVERING GOODS

to customers. Never promise to have an order delivered at a certain time unless you are reasouably sure that it will be delivered at that time. If, through any unforeseen circumstances, it is impossible to deliver all orders at the time promised by the usual means, resort to unusual means, and have goods home when promised, even if additional expense be incurred. Keep your word and your customers' confidence. You cannot afford to break the former or lose the latter.

Always have the cashier supplied with plenty of change. Make the allowance liberal; don't trust to luck or your neighboors to help you out. Customers don't want to wait while change is hunted. Another point in connection with the advertising—keep everlastingly before the public, on the circulars and every ad. printed in any form, and talk it over the counter, the difference between your method of selling honest goods at honest prices and the system of those who are selling cheap teas and coffees with a premium at the price of high-grade goods. Keep quality and price to the front all day and every day, and make your name and character part of the business.

It costs money to advertise, and to the advertising account must be charged the difference of price when goods are sold at special prices. When this is done there is a reduction of profit sure, but this reduction is the price paid for the advertisement which the special prices give. At a convenient place, where it can be plainly seen,

HAVE A BARGAIN TABLE,

on which samples of special-price goods can be kept, or any stock that is not moving right, so that customers can see them more easily. If there should be any article which fails to sell, put it on this table, with a price that will make it sell. Cost, or even less—much less, if necessary—is better than no return, and you keep your shelves clear of stale stock. A good salesman can sell anything he wants to sell, if there is merit in it and it is pushed, but never forget that nothing will sell long without pushing. By honesty, energy and push there will be no stale stock, odds or ends, and the shelves will always be clean, with bright new goods.

An easy way to

or any salt fish is to handle them right. Of course, the fish must always be covered with plenty of brine and the barrel tightly covered. Have the barrels placed in a row against a wall or partition in the cellar if possible. At each end of the row of barrels in use place and fasten at the rear in an upright position a 2 x 3 post. To these two posts fasten a board or boards about 18 inches wide, running the length of the barrels, sloping at a good sharp angle towards the barrels. Let the front of this board be about one foot above the top of the barrels and extend over them three or four inches, while the rear will be, by reason of the angle at which it is set, several inches higher than the front. Along the front place a two-inch strip the entire length of the board, with a hole in the bottom of the strip right over the centre of each barrel. On Fridays and Saturdays, when salt fish will sell heavily, the fish can be taken from each barrel and laid on this board, which will drain them quickly, the brine running back in the barrel through the hole in the strip, while the fish are held firm in an almost upright position.

When fish are drained for Friday and Saturday, use large white plates to show on after draining, with a spray or two of parsley to garnish them. When the plates are filled, fill the draining-board, and when more are wanted they can be had immediately, ready drained without waiting. For other days, have short, flat tubs—the bottom part of small fish barrels, sawed off, will do—kept scoured and clean, outside and in; the fish kept in these for show should be well covered with brine, the sale during these days not warranting them being put on dishes, as they would dry out.

Many other little things, each one important, such as keeping the store, cellar and storage-rooms clean, the butter refrigerator sweet, the scales and scoops bright and polished, not on certain days, but every day, are not specially mentioned, because every business man knows the necessity for such things.

THE PERSONAL CLEANLINESS of everyone employed in the store is imperative. Always have clean hands. Don't attempt to touch butter, tea, coffee, or anything, in fact, with hands soiled with oil or grease of any kind or mackerel brine. Never use the hands to touch anything that can be handled with a scoop. If too much has been put in a bag, empty it out or take it out with a scoop, but don't put your hands in it. Have a special knife for butter—silver-plated is the best, as it will not blacken the butter—and use no other knife for butter, and use the butter knife for nothing else but butter. If the cheese knife blackens cheese, take a small piece of soft cheese and rub the knife well with it on both sides. The knife will then cut clean, without any black mark.

There is not one theory among all the ideas herein described, every one of them having been tried and its value proven by the writer, who, while head clerk for a former employer was given permission to use his own methods, with the result that by the application of the very ideas contained in this paper a business of several hundred dollars per week, with 60 per cent. of the total trade in tea and coffee, was built in ten weeks' time in a broken-down store with a past history or reputation which had to be wiped out. This was done under exactly the same conditions as those described in the beginning of this paper as the conditions surrounding the store I would start. The same competition from the same stores had to be met and overcome, and it was met and overcome in the manner and time I have described, a result far greater in extent and much harder to achieve than to make a new store pay in six months, for a new store has no past reputation to wipe. The store where this was done continued successful during my engagement. My employer and myself disagreed about salary, and I resigned my position.

After I came away my former employer did not succeed in keeping the store on the same suceessful basis, for the very good reason that he would not pay a first-class man to run the store, and he did not know how himself, being without any experience whatever in the grocery business, except the little he gained while he had the store. He therefore sold out to one of the largest firms in the city, who now run the store as a cut-price store. In starting a store in this same locality now, to be run on the ideas herein described, I would not therefore have to meet the competition of another store run in a like manner, the absence of which competition would therefore make my chances of success far better.

This system can, with some slight modification be applied to meet the requirements of any locality. But it is especially intended to meet and overcome the competition of cut prices and department stores. It has successfully done this in a fair, open fight against great odds, for two of the stores whose competition was overcome were representative stores of the two largest cutters in Philadelphia, while another was a department store — the headquarters of another chain of cut-price stores. It is simply selling things for what they are in an up-to-date, aggressive manner at prices which are honest to the grocer and his customer.

LONDON'S MEAT SUPPLY.

Little more than a half of the bill that London settles every year goes into the pocket of the English farmer, says Cassell's Magazine. From the ends of the earth comes this vast supply. This great ogre of a city of ours, before whose gastronomic efforts the feats of all the giants of legend and fairy tale fade into insignificance, has taken his toll of the wild ranchers from boundless Western prairies, of the beautiful chestnut-colored herds of the Andalusian Mountains, of the piebald-coated cattle that the honest Dutch tend as their own children, and of the sturdy oxen of the North German plains. Canada and Australia send us lambs and sheep, the River Platte our ox tongues, Hamburg and Rotterdam our pigs. What an advertisement for the Navy League! What an object lesson for those who declare our fleet is overgrown !

It passes human comprehension to think what would become of London if our command of the sea were lost and the foreign supplies failed ! if the 150,000 live cattle from America that swell the metropolitan cattle herd during the year never reached their destination ; if Holland's half million of sheep were forced to remain on the home pastures—in short, if the 140,000 tons of meat, neither bred or fed in these islands, that London annually consumes, ceased to appear in the butchers' shops of the metropolis.

IN MANY CASES

ELEVEN-CENT CHEESE.

THERE has been a sensational advance in the price of cheese during the past week of over 1c. per lb. This jump is due to heavy buying throughout the country on export account, and, as a result of it, the first cost price of cheese has reached 11 9-16c., a figure that has not been paid at this time of the year in the past ten seasons. At the Campbellford board, 1,704 boxes were offered and sold at that figure.

Prices now are 3c. per lb. above where they were this time last year, 1c. per lb. above 1897, and 2½c. above 1896, which affords a pretty good idea of the reasons cheese-producers have to be satisfied this year. In fact, since the present season opened, prices have averaged 1½c. per lb. advance on last year's basis.

There have been marketed to date at Montreal, 1,147,231 boxes of cheese, against 1,223,528 last year, a decrease of 76,297 boxes; but, when due allowance is made for the extra 1½c. per lb., the aggregate return to Canadian cheese-producers this year has been greatly increased, the excess on the total receipts to date at Montreal since the season opened being, in rough figures, $800,000 odd; and, if prices continue firm, the increase will be still greater.

No doubt it is a puzzle why prices have kept up this summer in the face of heavy exports, the total up to last Saturday being 1,097,704 boxes, against 953,000 for the same period in 1898.

The reasons are various, for, while it is now perfectly clear that stocks of last year's cheese in Great Britain were exhausted by the opening of the present season, it is also very evident that the home make in Great Britain, and the supply from European countries, has been enormously curtailed by the torrid dry weather which has prevailed in England and on the Continent practically since the middle of June.

Naturally, with reserve stocks nil in England, and the consumption of cheese there at its zenith, as it always is during the harvesting season, the heavy demand has to be met, and it is from the way the demand from abroad has followed the rise on this side that retailers in Great Britain are sold up as closely as wholesalers. At any rate, the rapid clearance of arrivals is the only reasonable explanation to offer for the manner in which buyers in Britain have responded to the demand for higher prices made upon them from this side.

Canadian factorymen this year have also been in a position to take immediate advantage of every change in the market, as they have not, as yet, contracted a box ahead, but sold their output as it was ready for the market.

DELEGATES TO THE MARITIME BOARD OF TRADE.

Through some inadvertence, the names of the Kentville, N.S., delegates to the Maritime Board of Trade, published in last week's issue, were ascribed to Halifax, while the names of the Halifax delegates did not appear in the list at all. The Halifax delegates were Messrs. J. E. De Wolfe and C. M. Creed. In the report of the proceedings, however, the names of the delegates appeared as they spoke upon the various questions which came up for consideration.

CANADIAN REFINED SUGAR STEADY.

The refined sugar situation in Canada has, so far, been unaffected by the decline and unsettled feeling in New York.

This is easily understood by a comparison of prices now ruling in the United States and those asked in Canada, which shows that, even allowing for the drop in New York, prices in Canada are 17c. per 100 lb. below present values in the United States.

The raw sugar situation has also ruled unsettled abroad, prices on beet having declined as low as 10s. ½d. to 10s. 1½d. for August and September beet in London. Since then, however, the market has reacted somewhat, and values have recovered ¾ to 1½d. of the decline, 10s. 2½d. for both August and September being now quoted.

At New York, raw sugar, which has been unsettled, has lately ruled steadier, in sympathy with London and increased demand from refiners, present prices being 3 15-16c. for fair refining, 4½c. for centrifugal 96 test, and 3 13-16c. for molasses sugar.

DISCOURAGEMENT IN BUSINESS.

Dissatisfaction is not a bad quality. On the contrary, when present in a moderate degree, it is beneficial.

When a merchant or a clerk is completely satisfied, he is no longer ambitious to improve his business or his condition. And, like an engine without steam, he comes to a standstill. Next stage is decay.

But excess of dissatisfaction produces discouragement. And then, instead of being impelled forward, most men experience the opposite results.

Ever aim to reach a higher notch—to make your business or your position better. "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again," as an old maxim has it. You may not reach all the notches your eye is upon; but, by trying, you reach those you otherwise would not.

CANNED BEETS.

A line of canned vegetables, new to the Canadian trade, is being put on the market. We refer to canned beets. As far as can be learned two factories are so far engaged in putting them up.

While new to Canada they have been on the United States market for a year or two, and last year the demand is reported to have exceeded the supply.

GROCERY IMPORTS FOR TWO YEARS.

THE wholesale grocery trade of Canada, like other branches of commerce, is sharing in the general prosperity which the country has now for a year or more been enjoying. And one of the best proofs of this is reflected in the trade returns.

The fiscal year ended June 30 last, but, until the Trade and Navigation Returns are issued, which will be not for at least another six months hence, it will be impossible to give any other than a summary of the imports of groceries for that period. A summary, however, enables one to acquire a knowledge of the importations under the different classifications as well as the grand totals. As far as they go, therefore, they are of interest. The following tables, which are compiled from the monthly returns issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce, and are, therefore, subject to slight revision, give the importation of goods (dutiable and free), appertaining to the grocery trade, for the fiscal years 1898 and 1899:

	11,704,517	13,957,655
Grand total of grocery imports (dutiable and free)	$16,053,483	$19,034,666

It will be noticed that the increase in the imports for the last fiscal year was practically $3,000,000, or 18.75 per cent. This is most gratifying.

The largest percentage of increase is in dutiable goods, being 19.02, against 16.74 in free goods.

With a few exceptions there was an increase in every item above enumerated.

It may possibly be remembered that when THE CANADIAN GROCER was dealing with the imports of provisions during the fiscal year, 1898, it ventured the opinion that the importation of salted meats would probably not be as large in the succeeding as in the preceding year. We gather from the above table that that prediction has been verified.

The increase in the importation in bacon in 1898 was in part due to the scarcity of heavy fat hogs in Canada, owing, in turn, to the attention that had been given to the producing of "streaky" bacon for the British market, thus necessitating the importation of fat bacon by our own packers to satisfy the demand for the lumber camps. During the past year the producing of fat hogs has not been so much neglected, hence the absence of the same need for importing fat bacon.

The importation of dried fruits and nuts is all the more striking on account of the unusually small quantity of Eleme figs, Sultana raisins and certain descriptions of nuts, due to the shortness of their respective crops and accompanying high prices. When the detailed returns are issued, it will probably be found that the increase is largely due to a freer importation of Valencia raisins.

The importation of pickles, it will be noticed, continues to increase, the quantity brought in last year being $20,860, or 13.67 per cent. in excess of that of 1898.

The series of articles which appeared in THE CANADIAN GROCER some months ago, on the subject of Canadian pickles, induced a few of the makers of these goods to improve the quality of their product. The reports we receive from time to time prove it. But, there is still an abominable lot of trash on the market. And as long as this is so, little else than an increase in the importation of foreign goods can scarcely be expected, for it is beyond the power of a few picklers who aim to turn out a first-class article to counteract all the evil which careless and unambitious manufacturers work.

The increase in the importation of spirits and wines, while perhaps not gratifying to prohibitionists, is gratifying in so far as it is an indication of better times, for, when times are bad, they always leave their impress upon trade in these lines.

Just how, in the absence of the detailed trade returns, to account for the increase in the importation of sugar is a rather difficult matter, but it will, in all likelihood, be ulimately found to be largely due to the importation of foreign refined sugars, which, it will be remembered, came into this country from the United States in increased quantities, chiefly on account of the war among the independent refineries and the Trust.

The increase in the importation of coffee is not much—scarcely $10,000—but it comes as a change to the decreases of the last few years.

Had there been anything else than an increase in the importation of tea, we should have been disappointed. The past 12 or 14 months, taking it all around, have been rather active in the tea trade; and the speculative and excessive stocks bought a year and more ago, when alleged tariff possibilities were used as arguments for making sales, have been dissipated, leaving the market in a better condition and favorable for an expansion of the import trade.

The few unfavorable features which characterized the grocery trade were due, not to market influences, but to the old evil, namely, the cutting of prices. Sugar and Valencia raisins may be cited as cases in point.

STRONGER MARKET FOR CURRANTS.

A stronger tone has developed in regard to the currant market. Until quite recently the estimates were for a large crop. But drought has been so severe that the original estimates, according to advices just to hand, have been reduced by almost 10,000 tons.

It is now estimated that the total yield will not exceed 150,000 tons. As the quantity to be held back by the Government, under the provisions of the retention law, will be 15 per cent., it is possible there will be available for export but 127,500 tons.

The quality of this year's yield is expected to be superior to that of last year.

In consequence of the threatened short crop, prices are cabled firmer from the primary market, and it is said that present figures are likely to be maintained.

The first shipments were expected to leave Patras about August 20th.

CLOSE OF THE SALMON CANNING SEASON.

THE season for the canning of salmon on the Fraser river is over, having closed August 25.

Although the pack is larger than was a few weeks ago thought probable, the season has been a most unsatisfactory one for the packers, on account of the high price they were compelled to pay for fish. Shortly after the season opened the price paid to the fishermen was 30 to 35c. for each fish. During a couple of days in the middle of last month it dropped down to 15c., but before the week was out it had reached 25c. The average price paid during the season is estimated by one canner at 22c., or about two-thirds above the nominal price of a few years ago.

In a letter we have before us from Malcolm & Windsor, Limited, Steveston, B.C., under date of August 24, is the following: "The fishing season for sockeye salmon closes to-morrow, August 25, and with it closes the most unsatisfactory and most unprofitable year it has been the misfortune of Fraser river packers to encounter. The price of the raw material was forced up to such an extent by the scarcity of labor and keen competition among the different canneries as to make canning anything but a profitable undertaking, and the unfortunate part of the business lies in the fact that the packers have no one but themselves to blame for the present demoralized state of the industry. * * * Taken as a whole, the past season must have given food for reflection to many of the packers, it being abundantly evident that the business can no longer be carried on profitably under existing circumstances."

The size of the pack on the Fraser is variously estimated at from 400,000 to 450,000 cases. Last year the total was 268,203 cases, including the fall pack. In 1897 the total on the Fraser was over 800,000 cases, the largest on record.

The pack of salmon on the Fraser river during the past seven years was as follows:

1893	457,797
1894	363,967
1895	400,368
1896	356,984
1897	860,459
1898	268,203
1899	450,000

What the pack is on the northern rivers we have not the means at present of ascertaining. From all reports, it has been fairly successful. Up to July 15, it was about 79,000 cases. It may, therefore, be safely conceded that, while the total pack in British Columbia will not be nearly as large as in the phenomenal year of 1897, yet it will compare not badly with the average of previous years.

The comparative pack in British Columbia for the five years ending 1898 was, by cases, as follows:

	1894.	1895.	1896.	1897.	1898.
Fraser river	363,937	400,388	356,984	860,549	268,203
Skeena river	61,151	67,797	100,140	65 905	80,000
Rivers Inlet	39,351	58,579	107,468	40,207	105,484
Naas river	19,587	19,550	14,649	20,847	20,000
Lowe Inlet	8,315	8,681	10,395	10,666	10,323
Namu Harbor	.....	3,000	3,987	4,357	.....
Alert Bay	2,000	5,100	2,840	8,602	8,189
West Coast, V.I.	.....	3,320	5,107	4,434	4,330
	494,371	566,495	601,570	1,15,477	496,529

A significant feature of the present year's pack on the Fraser, that is worthy of note, is that the larger proportion of it is in 1 lb. flat tins. "Talls," write Malcolm & Windsor, Limited, "have been neglected this season, and but few have been packed, the high price of fish militating against the variety." A good number of ½ lb. flats have also been put up, according to that firm's letter.

Nearly all the flats will, of course, go to the English market.

GLUTTING THE MARKET.

DURING the past three weeks there have been several instances of glutting the Toronto fruit market with one or another line of fruit.

For two weeks this market was so oversupplied with muskmelons that prices fell to a point which made it more profitable to feed inferior to hogs rather than send them to market. This week shippers have been more careful about the quality of the stock sent in, with the result that prices have been advanced to a point satisfactory to both grower and handler.

Watermelons have been brought into the market in such quantities that prices fell to a point that frightened shippers, so that they refused to send them into the market until higher prices are assured.

Notwithstanding reports to the effect that the drought has reduced the crop of tomatoes, this fruit was sent into market on Friday and Saturday last in such quantities that the price fell from 15 to 20c. per basket to 8 to 10c. This, of course, was unremunerative to all concerned, except the consumer, and the consequence was, that receipts on Monday and Tuesday were so small that it was not difficult to get 20c. per basket for all good stock. Receipts are now normal, and from 15 to 18c. is the ruling quotation.

While it may be difficult to prevent glutting the market, growers should remember that it rarely pays to ship inferior stock, especially when the market is well supplied.

Another point worth remembering is that every oversupply which knocks prices below a paying basis is closely followed by a reaction, which means better prices for those who gauge the market to hit the reaction correctly.

PUSH THE BEST GOODS.

EVERY merchant should keep in his store low-priced as well as high-priced goods, but where some make the mistake is in bringing the former forward as a substitute for the latter.

It is the high-priced goods that give, as a rule, the best satisfaction to the purchaser, and also the best results to the seller. Naturally, therefore, these are the goods which should be pushed. That they are not always is well known.

Time and again, when a customer asks to see a certain line of goods, the clerk will submit the cheapest line there is in the store, instead of beginning with the highest-priced and working down to the lowest, if necessary.

While every man must use his own judgment, it is not wise to suppose from appearances that the cheaper the goods the better they will suit the customer. Unless the customer asks for the lowest priced article in a certain line it is the wisest thing, as a rule, not only to offer the best, but to show why it is the best. But, of course, if it is the cheapest that a customer will have, it is unwise to be overpersistent in pushing forward the high-priced article.

A CORRECTION.

A paragraph appeared in our last issue to the effect that Wood Bros., millers and grain dealers, Brantford, Ont., had been succeeded by The Brant Milling Co. The paragraph was taken from a commercial agency report, but we have been advised by the Messrs. Wood that the statement is untrue. According to a circular which accompanied the letter of the Messrs. Wood, a change has been made in the personnel of the firm by Mr. W. B. Wood being succeeded by Mr. Thomas L. Wood, who had been associated with the business for some years. The circular also pointed out that the firm's new flouring mill, replacing that which had been burned down, enables it to supply its customers as before.

ONTARIO MARKETS

TORONTO, August 31, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE travelers who had been off the road for a couple of weeks were last week again on their respective routes, and, as a natural result, a larger business has been done. Canned goods are quiet, as a rule, although there has been a little speculative buying during the past week. The canned goods situation is, on the whole, stronger than it was a week ago. This is particularly true as far as corn and tomatoes are concerned. The coffee trade is a little more active, and a better business is developing in the tea trade on retail account. Sugar is meeting with a good demand at unchanged prices. In spices, the feature is the strong position of pepper. A continued strengthening in the tone of the currant market is to be noted, and Valencia raisins are cabled much dearer. Locally, there is practically nothing but fine off-stalk on the market.

CANNED GOODS.

There is a gradually strengthening of the position in regard to canned corn and tomatoes on account of the continued drought. At present, there is no dearth of tomatoes coming into the factories—in fact, some, at least, have been compelled to turn farmers away who were bringing them. This, however, is no guarantee that the pack will be large. The packers can only put up a certain number of cases per day. It is length of season enables a large pack to be put up, and what militates at the moment against a lengthy season is the drouth, which, naturally prevents the development of the later fruit. Some of the wholesale houses, awaiting developments, have, this week, instructed their travelers to withdraw prices on tomatoes for future delivery, while we know of one house which has advanced its figure to 85c. The ruling quotation, however, is 80c., but there is so little business doing that all quotations are practically nominal. One wholesale house reports that it refused 85c. f.o.b. factory for 2,000 cases each of tomatoes and corn, but it is quoting tomatoes to retailers in small lots at 75 to 80c., but there is no demand.

Corn continues to be the strongest feature of the canned vegetable market, as it is the general opinion, rain or no rain, that the pack will be very small, which, with the market practically bare of old corn, makes the position decidedly strong. Wholesalers are firm at 85c., but there is very little business doing at the moment. Old corn is quoted at 90 to 95c. per doz.

Beans are firm, and we hear of one instance in which a sale was made back to a packer at 75c. The ruling quotation to the retail trade is 75 to 80c. The idea as to price to the retail trade for peas is 75c.

Salmon fishing closed on the Fraser river on August 25. The pack there is estimated at from 400,000 to 450,000 cases. But while that is double that of last year, the season has been a bad one indeed for the packers on account of the high price they paid for fish, ranging all the way from 15 to 35c., while the average price is estimated at 22c. It is said that the packers have positively lost money. There has been very little doing in canned salmon for future delivery. The packers do not appear to be offering at all. The wholesalers are still quoting to the retail trade, but there is not much doing. The prices they are asking are $1.32½, $1.35 and $1.40 for Fraser river fish; $1.25 for northern river fish, and $1.05 for cohoes.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

Canned lobster are firmer, advices from Newfoundland stating that the price of ½-lb. flats has advanced 50c. to $1 per case within the last few weeks. Not many 1-lb flats appear to have been sold to local wholesalers this season, they having bought rather heavily last year.

The local demand for canned meats is keeping up well.

COFFEES.

A little more activity has developed upon the local market in Rio coffees, both wholesalers and retailers being freer buyers. Prices are pretty low.

SUGARS.

The outside markets are lower on both raw and refined sugars. There have been several declines in beets in Europe during the past week. The decline in refined sugars in New York last week was from 3-16 to ¼c. per lb. On the local market, the demand is active and prices unchanged.

SPICES.

The feature of the spice market is the firmness of pepper, the price of which has advanced about ½c. per lb. during the last couple of weeks in the primary market. Tapioca, while firm, shows no further advance.

TEAS.

Wholesalers report an improved demand for tea, particularly for the Japan description. Shipments of Japan tea are arriving freely, but not much new business is being transacted for importation.

There is a good inquiry for Ceylon and Indian teas of low grade, but there are few, if any, teas obtainable at the low figures which buyers are willing to pay. Suitable low grades, in fact, are hard to get.

Shipments of China green teas have arrived during the past week, and there has been a little business done by the brokers, but it is very little. Prices are lower than last year. One or two inquiries are reported for China black teas, but we hear of no transactions. China black teas are dearer than they were last year.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The position of the currant market is a strong one. This week's mail advices and cables from Greece state that the crop is smaller than anticipated, owing to the drouth. It is now expected that the total yield will only be about 150,000 tons. As the quantity to be retained under the law is 15 per cent., the quantity available for export will probably be only in the neighborhood of 1,275,000 tons. Local wholesale houses report a good and an increasing demand for currants, and prices are firmer.

VALENCIA RAISINS—The market is advancing. Some cables announce an advance of 1s. 6d. and others of 2s. 6d. There is practically nothing but fine off-stalk left on the local market and that is quoted at from 5½ to 6c. Cleaned can be obtained, however, at the same figures.

SULTANA RAISINS—Early shipments were effected on August 21. The market is strong, there having been a series of sharp advances lately owing to damage by rain. A. Whittall & Co., under date of Smyrna, August 11, write: "Although Sultanas promise a production of 30,000 tons, against 24,000 to 25,000 tons last year, stocks this season in all consuming centres are all exceedingly small. The United Kingdom has barely 600 tons, against 2,000 tons same time last year. This fact proves that, notwithstanding the high level of prices that prevailed last season, the consumption was sufficiently active to absorb all the yield and to deplete stocks carried over from the previous year. So far as can be learned the available excess this year will only be a matter of 3,000 tons when the question of the stock of old is taken into account. This excess, therefore, is not large enough to permit of prices ruling at a level very much lower than last season."

FIGS—Tapnet figs for future delivery are being offered rather freely. Prices are higher than the opening figures of last year.

GREEN FRUITS.

The volume of business being done on the Toronto fruit market continues exceedingly brisk. One firm alone handled over 4,000 packages of the various fruits on Tuesday, which was, as usual, the buslest day of the week. The fruits most in evidence are peaches, pears, grapes, apples and tomatoes. Canadian Crawford peaches are arriving more freely than a week ago, yet, as the quality is right, prices are well maintained at 75c. to $1.25. Common white varieties are easily purchased at 40 to 75c. Californian Crawfords are quoted at from $1.25 to $1.50 per box. Canadian Bartlett pears are also more plentiful, but prices firm, as the demand is excellent. Grapes are beginning to arrive in great quantities. The demand is poor for inferior stock, but improves in proportion to the improvement in the quality. Red peppers are coming in more liberally, and prices are down 15 to 20c., the quotation now being 40 to 60c. Canadian apples are offered in large quantities, with prices steady. Towards the end of last week the arrivals of tomatoes were so immense that prices fell to as low as 8 to 10c. This somewhat frightened shippers, with the result that early this week arrivals were so light that prices advanced to 20c. Shipments are increasing again, bringing the price to 15 to 18c. Raspberries and watermelons are off the market. Raspberries are done, and the cause of the scarcity of watermelons is that prices have ruled so low lately that shippers refused to bring them in at the price. The glut of inferior muskmelons has been ended. Prices were so poor that shippers found it did not pay to send anything but good stock in. The result is a good demand at higher prices. There is a fair movement of lemons, and a brisk sale of bananas at unchanged prices. Huckleberries, of which there has been an immense crop this year, are almost done. A few lawtonberries are offering yet at unchanged prices.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS — Receipts continue large. On account of the very hot weather lately the quality is below the standard. The local demand shows some improvement, due probably to increased consumption during Exhibition time. Prices are steady at 13 to 13½c.

BEANS — There is practically nothing doing. Prices are nominally $1 to $1.10 for hand-picked, and 75 to 85c. for ordinary stock.

POTATOES—Prices continue to stiffen because of the prolonged dry weather, an advance of 15c. being noted, the present price being 65 to 70c. per bushel. The demand is good.

VEGETABLES — Celery is 10 to 25c. cheaper. Otherwise there is no change. We quote: Cauliflower, $1 to $1.50 per doz.; Rhubarb, 15 to 20c.; radishes, 15c. per dozen bunches; corn, 10 to 20c. per doz.; vegetable marrow, 40 to 60c. per doz.; green onions, 5 to 10c. per doz.; celery, 40c. to 50c. per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz., 30 to 50c.; parsley, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; green cucumbers, 5 to 10c. per doz.; new beets, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; parsnips, 40 to 60c. per dozen bunches; carrots, 10 to 20c. per doz. bunches; green peas, $1 to $1.10 per bag; butter beans, 75c. to $1 per bushel; tomatoes, 15 to 20c. per basket.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Though the drought is affecting the production, receipts continue fairly large. The local demand is considerably reduced because of the high prices, and Manitoba is supplying the wants of all points west of that Province, so the sales of Ontario butter on that account are practically nil. The export demand, however, is brisk, and prices show an advance of ½c. in best dairy tubs and in all creamery. The English market is slightly easier this week, as the drought there has been relieved by showers. We quote dairy tubs at 17 to 18c.; best tubs at 16½ to 17½c.; second grade tubs at 12 to 14c. Creamery tubs and boxes are worth 20 to 21c., and prints and squares, 22 to 23c.

CHEESE—There seems to be no let-up in the stiffening of cheese prices, especially on the country boards. During the past week, prices ranging all the way from 11¼ to 11 9-16c. have been paid at the boards. Locally, prices did not follow up so rapidly, and many sales have been made in Toronto

FISH.

Oysters have arrived. They are quoted at $1.50 per gal. for standards and $1.75 for selects. The scarcity of whitefish and trout is still keeping fish prices firm. We quote as follows: Trout, 8c.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; Oregon salmon, 12½c.; maskinonge, 8c.; pickerel, 7½c.; perch, 4c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; cod in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c., oysters, selects, $1.75; standards, $1.50.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN.—Prices are easy, but unchanged, at outside points, where red and white are both selling at 68½ to 69c. this week. There is a good movement on the street markets, of wheat especially. Goose wheat has advanced 2 to 2½c., while red and white have declined 2c., resulting in that goose wheat is now ½ to 1c. per bus. dearer than red and white. We quote the street market: Wheat, white and red, 70c.; goose, 70 to 71c.; peas, 60 to 61c.; oats, new, 34 to 35c.; old, 29 to 30c.; barley, 43 to 44c.; rye, 51 to 53c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat is 2 to 2½c. lower, now being quoted 78½ to 79c. Toronto and West.

FLOUR—There is a fairly good demand. Prices are unchanged. We quote as follows: Manitoba patents, $3.90; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.60; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—The demand is improving. Prices are unaltered. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.75 in bags and $3.85 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

SEEDS.

There is a small jobbing movement of timothy at $3 to $4 per cwt. Little clover is yet moving. There is a brisk demand for alsike at $4 to $4.75 for choice to fancy lots. Extra fancy lots are worth 25c. more.

SALT.

The demand keeps good with prices steady. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote F.O.B., barrels, 70c.;

HIDES -- A brisk demand keeps prices firm. We quote cowhides: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9c.

SKINS — The feeling continues stiff, with prices unchanged. We quote as follows: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 9c. per lb.; No. 2, 7c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheep and lambskins are selling at 45c.

WOOL — Conditions are unchanged. There is little doing. We quote fleece at 14 to 14½c., and unwashed at 8 to 9c.

MARKET NOTES.

Currants are advancing.

Barrel pork is 50c. per bbl. dearer.

Canned beets are being put on the market this season.

Sweet potatoes are on the market at $3.75 to $4 per bbl.

Sultana raisins have advanced 3s. per cwt. within the last few days.

Oysters are on the market at $1.50 for standards, and $1.75 for selects.

Dairy tub and all makes of creamery butter are 1c. per lb. dearer. Cheese has advanced ½c. per lb.

Black pepper has advanced about ½c. per lb. in the primary markets within the last couple of weeks.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, August 31, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been a fair volume of trade in general groceries during the week, but the movement is still of a mid-summer character on the whole. Sugar prices have not been affected by the drop in New York, but business in this staple is quieter than it was. Holders manifest firm views on Barbadoes molasses, and expect an advance in jobbing values as soon as the fall movement sets in. Canned goods are quiet, but firm in tone, corn being a notable instance in this particular, it being impossible to obtain a firm offer on this vegetable from packers. Dried raisins and currants are both firm at primary markets, an advance of 6d. being cabled on the latter, while, in some cases, quotations have been entirely withdrawn. Coffee is dull and spices are firm, while there is rather more inquiry for tea on forward account. In country produce, the dominant fact is the sensational strength of cheese, owing to heavy buying.

SUGAR.

There has been no change in the local sugar situation despite the decline in New York, for the very good reason that prices in Canada are still 17c. per 100 lb. below the present values ruling in New York. The raw sugar market in London has ruled very weak of late, beet declining as low as 10s. ½d. to 10s. 1½d., but, since touching those figures, the price has improved to 10s. 2¼d. for both September and October beet. Actual demand on spot for refined is less active than it was, as buyers' wants have been anticipated for some time, but prices here are steady at $4.55 for granulated, and $3.65 to $4.30 for yellows, as to grade.

SYRUPS.

There is no change in syrups, demand ruling slow, and values the same at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., as to quality at the factory.

MOLASSES.

There is no new feature to note in the molasses market. Demand is slow for round lots, and, in the absence of transactions, prices are difficult to quote. There are buyers willing to concede 32½c., but sellers will not listen to this price, and have confidence in better prices in the future. The jobbing price is 35c. on car lots, and 36c. for single puncheons, but an advance is being talked about.

CANNED GOODS.

Trading in canned goods has been rather quiet during the past week. Advices continue to predict a short pack of corn, some estimating the shortage at 25 per cent. At present no firm offers can be obtained on new pack, and old pack is firmly held at 90 to 92½c. Offers of new crop tomatoes are noted at 75c. f.o.b. factory, and old stock is firmly held at 77½c. Sellers ask steady prices on new crop peas and beans, viz., 75 to 77½c.

Demand for new crop fruit is quiet and values rule steady. We quote: Apples, 3 lb., 75c.; preserved, $1.40; 1 gal. tins, $2; pears, 3 lb., $1.80; plums, 3 lb., $1.60; greengages, 3 lb., $1.75; yellow peaches, 3 lb., $2.25; pumpkins, 3 lb., $3 65; strawberries, preserved, $1.35; do., in syrup, $1.15; raspberries, preserved, $1.40; do., in syrup, $1.15.

Business for forward delivery in new pack salmon has been nil, but the tone is firm and prices all around are fully maintained.

DRIED FRUITS.

Private advices from Denia state that orders so far executed for Valencia raisins have been on the basis of 18 to 20s., the inside figure being for shipment via Liverpool for fine off-stalk, which is equal to 5 to 6½c. laid down in Montreal.

A considerable business for importation has been transacted in currants at 13s. 6d. for Provincials, 13s. 9d. for Filiatras, 16s. for Patras and 20s. for Vostizzas, and latest cables quote an advance of 6d. all around upon these prices, while in some cases prices were withdrawn altogether.

COFFEES.

Business in coffee is quiet, and prices generally steady, a few lots of Maracaibo, in bags, selling at 8 to 14c., as to grade, for 25 and 30-bag lots.

SPICES.

The spice market is firm, especially for pepper and nutmegs, and higher prices are looked for in both these lines. Tapioca, for future shipment, also exhibits a stronger tendency, and cannot be laid down here under 4c. duty paid. We quote as follows: Singapore black pepper, 12½ to 13c., and Singapore white, 19½ to 20c. Penang pepper, 17½ to 18c., and West Coast, 12 to 13c. Pimento, 11 to 12c. Nutmegs, 28 to 44c., as to quality. Cassia, 9 to 10c.; Jamaica ginger, 19½ to 20c.; Cochin tips ginger, 6 to 6½c.; Zanzibar cloves, 9 to 10c.; nutmegs, 40 to 55c., and mace, 45 to 50c.

TEAS.

There has been a rather small trade in teas during the past week, but, for forward account, importers note more inquiry. Sales of 300 to 400 packages new crop Japan are reported at 15½ to 17½c., and another lot of 200 at 15c. Ceylons are strong, and recent advices from primary centres note an advance in prices.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been a fair trade in green fruits during the past week. Bananas have ruled at 75c. to $1.25 per bunch, and lemons are slow at $2 to $3 per box. Oranges are steady under light supplies, but the demand is light at $3,25 to $4 per box. There have been heavy receipts of seasonable fruit. Bartlett pears realize $1.80 to $2.20; plums, $1.10 to $1 40, and nectarines, 85c. Barrel pears were in great demand, selling up to $4.30 per bbl., while ordinary stock went quickly at $3.90 to $3.95. Apples realized $1.65 to $3, as to grade.

FISH.

The fish market is nominal as to value. We quote: Fresh haddock and cod at 3 to 4c. for haddock, and 3 to 3½c. for cod; British Columbia salmon, 12 to 13c.; halibut, 13 to 14c.; salt fish: Green cod, $4.25 to $4.50 for No. 1, and $5 for No. 1 large per barrel; dry cod, $4; Nova Scotia herring, $4.25 to $4.50 in barrels; Cape Breton, $4.75 in barrels; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $14 to $15; sea trout, $9.50 to $10; lake trout, $4.25 to $4.50 per keg of 100 lb.; No. 1 green haddock, $4 to $4.25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was some demand over the cable and one or two round lots were placed on Liverpool account. The local demand continues slow and the market is quiet with no change in prices to note. We quote: Choice candled stock, 15½ to 16c.; straight lots, 14 to 14½c.; No. 2, 11 to 12c., and culls, 9 to 10c. per dozen.

MAPLE PRODUCT—A few small lots of maple syrup are coming forward, but the demand at present for the same is slow, and the market is quiet. We quote: Syrup, in small tins, 55 to 60c., and sugar, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

HONEY—There is very little doing in honey and the market is quiet. Old white clover extracted is offering at 6½ to 7c. per lb.

BEANS—Business in beans is chiefly of a jobbing character and prices rule steady at 95c. to $1 for choice hand-picked, and 85 to 90c. for primes.

POTATOES—Receipts of potatoes are fairly liberal for which the demand in a small way is fair, and prices are unchanged at 35 to 40c. per bag.

ASHES—The demand for ashes is still slow and the market remains quiet. We quote: First sorts, $3.70 to $3.75; seconds, do., $3.50, and first pearls, $5.25 to $5.50 per 100 lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—There was no material change in the situation of the flour market. The demand was fair from local and country buyers for small lots, and a moderate amount of business was done. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.30 to $3.40; in bags, $1.60 to $1.65; Manitoba patents, $4 to $4.20; strong bakers', $3.60 to $3.80.

GRAIN—There was nothing special to note in the local grain situation to-day. The decline in wheat prices at American centres has checked the foreign demand here for the same, in consequence the volume of business done over the cable to-day was small. There continues to be a fair inquiry for new crop peas, but shippers are not disposed to accept present bids for any more. On spot, they are bidding 65c. in store, September delivery. The market for new crop oats was firmer, 29¼c. being bid for round lots afloat, September delivery. There was a good demand for No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat in the Winnipeg market, and prices for such advanced 1c. over Saturday's closing, but other grades closed a trifle lower.

MEAL.—Business in meal continues quiet, and the market is still unsettled. Rolled oats are quoted at $3.65 to $3.67½ per bbl., and at $1.70 to $1.72½ per bag, but these figures are being shaded in some cases.

FEED.—There is nothing new to note in feed, supplies being still short, and prices firm. We quote—Ontario bran, in bulk, $14 to $14.50; and shorts, $15 to $15.50 per ton; Manitoba bran, $14; shorts, $16 to $17; mouillie, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY.—The demand for baled hay was better, and a fair amount of business was done. We quote: Choice No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $6 to $6.50, and clover, $5.50 to $6 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

The local market was without any new feature. The demand is only fair for cured meats, and other lines are moving slow, consequently, trade on the whole is quiet. We quote as follows: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7c. to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined, 5½c. to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11½c. to 12½c. per lb.

TEAS TEAS TEAS

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE — The past eight days has developed renewed excitement in the cheese market, which has led to an advance since last week of over 1c. per lb. on the export basis. Business was done over the cables at 11¼c. for Westerns, and 11⅛c. for Easterns, while one line of 5,000 boxes Easterns, comprising Julys and Augusts, chiefly the latter, sold at 11c. At the wharf, Monday morning, 7,000 or 8,000 cheese were disposed off, and 10¾ to 11c. was the ruling price, and in the case of some inferior lots prices ranged down to 10¼c. This is an advance of over a full cent since last Monday, and to say that it is entirely due to speculation is absurd. Of course, speculative buying has had a great deal to do with it, but the drouth in Great Britain is the primary cause of the current high prices. The Liverpool cable advanced another 6d. to 51s.6d. for colored, and 50s.6d. for white.

BUTTER—The market shows a turn to more steadiness, though the actual change is slight. At the boat on Monday morning, creamery sold all the way from 20½ to to 21¾c. from first hands, which, of course, means an advance for dealing between traders. Western dairy, in shipping lots, was firm at 15½ to 16c. The local jobbing trade is quiet: Creamery, 21½ to 22c.; Townships dairy, 17 to 17½c., and western, 16 to 16½c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Cables note an advance of 6d. all around in currants at primary markets.

The decline in sugar at New York has not affected this market to any extent.

The possibility of an advance in the jobbing price of molasses is being discussed.

A sensational jump of a full cent per pound in cheese is a leading feature this week.

Estimates state that the pack of new canned corn will be 25 per cent. short this season.

Tapioca for forward shipment is held very firm, and none could be laid down here under 4c. duty paid.

Louis Picard has started in business as grocer in Montreal.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., August 31, 1899.

WHILE business is still somewhat quiet, there is an improvement noticed. Market being somewhat steady affects sales. Dried fruits incline to have attention, but dealers prefer to await events, hoping for lower figures. While payments through the trade are fair, three failures within the past few weeks have not been without their effect. The fact is, dealers get credit too easily, and in the end there is loss. In tea, fair stocks of new have arrived; prices are firm and reports firm. China teas favor rather firmer figures. In spices, the tendency is stronger, particularly in pepper. Tapioca is still high. Hops are a very light sale; prices are high. Retail trade is particularly good. The city is full of strangers, the hotels being unable to accommodate them.

OIL —At this season burning oils become active, and large orders are being booked. Prices are firm. A new oil light has been shown in the city, which is very brilliant, and should it prove a success, would mean an increased demand. Lubricating oils are quiet and easy. Paint oils keep very high, and have but a light sale. In cod oil receipts are as yet small; price is low. It seems that a manufactured oil has largely taken the place of cod oil for manufacturing purposes, giving satisfaction at a lower price.

SALT—There have been no receipts of English salt during the week. Market is well supplied, and there is no change in price. There is a good active demand. In Canadian salt there is rather less sale as the dairy season advances. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—There is still some inquiry from the trade for corn, peas and tomatoes, but packers have very few if any to offer; in fact, it is said some will not be able to fill their orders, particularly for corn. Except in peas, stocks are light, and corn and tomatoes will come on a bare market. This is true of other lines, as salmon, peaches and golden apples. The latter are firmer, but trade is largely supplied. Lobsters will be higher than ever this fall; in fact, are so high as to have little or no sale. Oysters are rather higher, and scarce. Pineapple is marked up; in fact, is hard to get, and as packing season is over is likely to still further advance. Sardines, particularly natives, have improved sale. Haddies are likely to rule higher, as pack is smaller than was expected. Clams and bloaters have a good sale.

GREEN FRUITS—This is a very active line. Apples and Californian fruits are leading in the demand. In the former, American fruit is still supplied, but the larger part of the sale is New Brunswick fruit, which is of nice quality. As yet, the price is quite high. Some apples from Nova Scotia are being received, but the quality is poor, and sales are largely made by auction. Pears are in favor, and some very nice eastern Bartletts have been received, and sell low. Californians are of large size and hold high. Peaches of nice quality are received, both Ontario and Californian. They, with Californian plums, hold at an even figure. Ontario plums are quite plentiful, and, owing to a small crop in Nova Scotia, will be more largely used than usual. Oranges have but light sale. Lemons are higher, and move quite freely. Bananas still have a good sale. Small cranberries are a light crop, and are quite high in price. Blueberries are very plentiful, and are low. Raspberries are about out of the market. In tomatoes, natives are more freely received, but a good many Ontarios are still sold. Prices are lower.

DRIED FRUITS—Except a few Valencias for early shipment and some candied peels little has been done in new fruits. Prices of Californians are daily expected. In Valencias, dealers hope for lower figures later. Currants show quite a range in the figures quoted by different brokers, and buyers hold off. Outside of the buyers, who are bound to look for lower figures, the feeling is that higher prices will rule. In spot stocks, prices are low and there is but limited sale. In prunes, there is some inquiry, but little will be done until the new year. The position is considered strong, and price asked on new Californian fruit is rather higher than last season. In regard to apples there is a difference of opinion, but, while figures may be lower than last season, there is not likely to be any very low prices. In onions, American are now supplying the trade. Prices are still quite high. Nuts, particularly filberts, will rule quite high this season.

SUGAR—There is no change in prices. Yellows rule rather lower in proportion to granulated, and are having rather more active demand. On the whole, the tendency is firm and any change is expected to favor holders.

MOLASSES—The presence of considerable New Orleans in desirable packages and of particularly good value at the figure asked has created a somewhat easier tone in the market. Porto Rico held here is very fine stock, and, while there is a fair supply, prices are firmly held. Barbadoes is high and scarce. The stock of other grades is small.

PRODUCE—Eggs are not plentiful, but the demand is not large. Prices are kept quite firm. Buyers are now particular about quality, but such as are coming in give good satisfaction. Butter is very plentiful and only best stock will bring even a fair price. There is only a retail demand for creamery. The one large factory making butter in this Province is shipping it to England. Cheese are lower here than at any outside point. Stocks are light and factories have largely sold for export, many having contracted for their season's output. The factories have received fair prices, but in some cases below market value. The loss, because of no proper way of selling, will amount to several thousand dollars.

FISH.—All lines are scarce, particularly fresh fish. There are almost no fresh fish. The run of fall shad was light, and best pickled shad will rule high. Dry cod hold their price, but any increased receipts will tend to rather easier figures. Pollock keep high, and are likely to rule firm. In pickled herring, firm figures rule. At Nova Scotian points light catches are reported, and, as they are the early fish, they are the best. Large fish will rule high. In Grand Manan herring, late catch fish are the best. New smoked are still high, but with freer arrivals lower figures will rule. We quote: Large and medium dry cod, $3.75 to $4; small, $2.50; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 7 to 8c.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $2.25 per 100; pickled herring, $1.75 per half bbl.

PROVISIONS.—There is more inquiry, and meats tend higher. In all grades of pork higher prices are asked. Chief supplies are coming from Boston. They are selling below Western figures. Beef is firmer. In smoked meats, market is being more largely supplied by local cured. Prices, at present, are quite firm. Lard is still low, but tendency is towards higher prices.

FLOUR, FEED, AND MEAL — In flour, there is a better movement, and rather higher figures rule, particularly in Ontario grades. There is quite a range in Manitobas. Oats are scarce, and show little change in price. Rather lower prices rule in oatmeal, but, at present, shippers look for but little change. Cornmeal is scarce, and full figures are asked. The limited supply causes rather higher figures. Beans have more inquiry, but local sales are light. Prices are firmly held. Our farmers have had good haying weather, and a fair crop and better figures are expected than last year. We quote: Manitoba flour, $4.55 to $4.70; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.10; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $3.90 to $4.10; cornmeal, $2.25 to $2.30; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10; prime, 95 to $1.00; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

J. J. Bostwick received this week a shipment of canned meat from The Wm. Davies Co., Limited, Toronto.

Two young St. John business men are going with Armour & Co., of Chicago, namely, F. Merritt, late with Puddington & Merritt, and R. F. J. Parkin, late with Dunn & Co.

The loss to farmers and cheese factorymen, in both this Province and Nova Scotia, on account of not having public cheese sales will, this season, run into thousands of dollars.

Said a dealer to a broker: "What difference do your people make between hand-picked and prime beans?" The reply was, "5c." "Oh," says the dealer, "I am offered primes 8c. below hand-picked." "Yes," replied the broker, "but they charge you 8c. more for their hand-picked than their primes, and we charge but 5c. more."

TRADE CHAT.

AN exchange says it is estimated that the various canning factories in Picton, Belleville, Bloomfield and Trenton will this year turn out over 6,000,000 cans. One factory in Picton, that will turn out 2,500,000 cans, 12 years ago only turned out 136,000 cans.

It is reported by the mercantile agencies that the store of A. M. Cole, grocer, Vancouver, is closed.

All accounts against the late Isaac G. Hutchinson, general merchant, Brighton, N.S., are advertised for by Fred. H. Hutchinson, administrator of the estate.

At a meeting of the Stratford, Ont., Board of Trade, it was decided to reorganize the board, and to call a meeting in September to elect new officers and to arrange a policy of action.

The Dominion Government has decided, by Order-in-Council, to admit free of duty all sugar or molasses of cane or beet testing under 35 deg. by the polariscope, for use in the manufacture of compressed food for live stock, when imported by the manufacturers of such food, to be used only in their own factories.

Thomas Wilson, fruit inspector for British Columbia, is visiting Winnipeg and other points in Manitoba and the Territories studying the fruit markets there with a view of capturing this trade for British Columbia, where the fruit-growing industry is being rapidly developed.

VISIT US.

When in our city call and see us. We won't urge you to buy goods if not requiring, but we might be tempted to show you any specials which we may have, and can now advise that we are busy collecting for your inspection when you call. Our office and staff will be at your disposal, and we shall be glad to renew old acquaintances and make new ones. We say again come and see us.

Our customers do not always know what we pay for goods, but they can always find out what we sell them at. That is where the money is in it for them. In asking you to acquaint yourselves with what we have to offer, we are asking you to adopt the same policy in your buying that we have ourselves adopted, and which enables us to offer you uniformly rock-bottom values, not to speak of frequent specials. We adhere to the policy of buying where we can buy best, and when we can buy best. We welcome all reputable sellers to offer us goods. We ask all reputable buyers to secure our offers.

CURRANTS FIRMER IN LONDON.

A London, England, paper of August 19, says: "Currants on the spot are firmer, supplies being very small, and the prices asked for new crop are higher than was expected, which is naturally having an influence on existing stocks. Samples of the new fruit are being received by post daily, and give the impression that most of the growths will be dry and good. Estimates of the weight of the crop are being reduced from day to day as the harvesting proceeds, and it becomes more possible to get at the out-turn. Speaking broadly it would appear that there is a shortage as compared with last season in every district except the 'Islands,' in which the crop is large and good."

PERSONAL MENTION.

Major John Sloan, of John Sloan & Co., is holidaying on the lower St. Lawrence.

On Thursday, last week, W. H. Tighe, grain dealer, etc., Chatham, Ont., who has been for some months troubled with brain trouble, went for a short walk. He has not since been henrd of. On Sunday, a book, identified as his, was found on the L.E. & D.R.R. bridge over the Thames river. The river has been dredged, but no trace of Mr. Tighe was discovered.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, August 28, 1899.

THE absorbing subject in Manitoba at the present is whether or not our enormous crop is to come off in prime condition. So far, reports from all directions are most encouraging. The August moon has passed the full and there has been no frost. There is no disguising the fact, however, that in many districts the crop is a little later than last year. Although wheat-cutting is progressing rapidly in some sections, yet, taking the Province as a whole, it will require fully ten days of fine warm weather to bring the crop to perfection, and, latterly, the weather has been cooler than could be desired, though with the end of the week warmer weather has set in.

Mr. Tom Wilson, member of the Board of Horticulture, is in the city in the interests of the British Columbian fruit growers. The Fruit Growers Association, of British Columbia, have this year secured the services of an expert packer from California, who is, at present, moving from station to station in that Province, supervising the packing of fruit for this market. The cars will be shipped through to Mr. Wilson at this point, and, it is likely, will be handled, through Bright & Johnson, of this city. The C.P.R. have undertaken to give special attention to the icing of the cars as they come through, and an earnest effort is being made to place British Columbian fruit on this market in prime condition. The time is most opportune, as California, Washington and Oregon plums are all somewhat short, and, in consequence, plums which retailed here at from $1.15 to $1.25 per crate last year, are selling this year for $1.50 to $1.75. Last year, 35 cars of Walla Walla fruit was sold on this market, this season 7 cars are the outside limit to be obtained. The green fruit market in this city has been pretty well cleared up during the week, but large shipments are expected on Monday. There have been several Ontario shipments of plums, peaches and pears, but, with the exception of small lots arriving by express, they have, as usual, arrived in poor condition. In grapes, a very fine sample of "Moore's Early" has been received per express, and these are quoted at 60c. the 10-lb. basket. One car of Ontario apples has arrived in fine condition. These are selling at $4 per bbl.; American apples. at $3.50. Montana crabs are a complete failure this season, there being no car lots to be had. The Southern crabs are arriving; barrels are very poor. They sell at $5.50. Tokay and Muscat grapes are arriving in small quantities from California, and sell at $3.50 the 20-lb. case. Bananas are growing scarce, and $3 is asked for bunches in good condition. A final car of watermelons, muskmelons and cantaloupes, are due to arrive Tuesday; these will be the last of the melons. The watermelons weigh 25 lb. apiece. Plums, $1.50 to $1.75, but Oregon fruit, due to arrive Tuesday or Wednesday, will probably go as low as $1.25. Lomons and oranges are without change.

In general groceries there has been no change in any line. Prices are firm. Trade is very fair for the season, but no active movement of any kind is reported. If anything might be said of canned goods, it is that the market appears rather stronger than last week.

CURED MEATS—This market continues very firm, but no additional advance over last week is reported. A good deal of American meat is coming on this market.

BUTTER—This market is active and advancing. Creamery has advanced 1c. during the week, and the quotation at factories is 17½ to 18c. There is report of one purchase of very fine creamery at 19c. In spite of the sharp advance in creamery, little change has taken place in dairy, with the exception that there is a slightly increased demand for small lots of strictly first-class fresh yellow dairy, for which 12c., country points, is paid. All other dairy ranges from 10 to 11c., with a tendency to go into cold storage. The first car of creamery, entirely the product of one creamery, went east to Montreal last night. It was shipped from the R. A. Lister creamery at Morris.

CHEESE—There is a sharp demand, and the supply in this Province is far below the requirements of the trade, and there is no doubt that lots from Ontario will soon be on the market. The price paid during the week was 9½ to 10c. There is no doubt that Manitoba dairymen have made a mistake in the matter of cheese production this year.

EGGS—This market is very stiff at 15c. delivered, Winnipeg. The quality of the eggs, however, is improving, as cooler weather prevails.

NOVA SCOTIAN FRUITS.

The Nova Scotian plum crop is light this year, and this market will have to depend on Ontario for its later supply. Both Ontario and Californian plums, pears and peaches are now on the market. Nova Scotian apples are beginning to arrive in small lots by schooner. The Forest Flower landed a few barrels last week.—Sun, St. John, N.B.

Robert Macdonald has sold out his grocery business on the corner of Neeve and Ontario streets, Guelph, to Steve Matthews, who will take possession at once. Mr. Macdonald will go on the road for C. Kloepfer, M.P., wholesale carriage hardware dealer, Guelph.

GUESSING FOR GOLD.

The Pure Gold Manufacturing Co. have opened another of their surprises for their patrons in the shape of a guessing contest, the subject of which is a large package of jelly powder, an enlarged fac-simile of their well-known package jelly powder. The prize is certainly a valuable one—no less than $100 in gold.

W. Lefaivre & Taschereau have been appointed curators of F. Gagnon & Fils, general merchants, etc., St. Paul's Bay, Que.

BUSINESS CHANGES.

DIFFICULTIES, ASSIGNMENTS, COMPROMISES.

THE estate of Ismael Guindon, general merchant, St. Faustin, Que., is offering 40c., cash, on the dollar.

G. W. Martin, grocer, Kentville, N.S., has assigned.

Jos. Bussiere, grocer, Quebec, is offering 50c. on the dollar.

Campbell Bros., general merchants, McAdam Junction, N.B., have assigned.

E. O. Ingalls, grocer, fancy goods dealer, etc., Selkirk, Ont., has assigned to Robert Bruce.

D. G. Cathcart, grocer, etc., Revelstoke, B.C., has assigned to The Parsons Produce Co.

Auguste Berube, cigar dealer and confectioner, Lake Megantic, Que., is offering 25c. on the dollar.

Paradis & Jobin have been appointed curators of J. & J. Nadeau, general merchants, etc., Cascapedia, Que.

James Martin has been appointed provisional guardian of M. A. Menard & Co., general merchants, Buckingham, Que.

L. N. Bourgeois & Co., general merchants, Danville, Que., have assigned, and a meeting of their creditors has been called.

PARTNERSHIPS FORMED AND DISSOLVED.

Shaw & Lloyd, grocers, Bridgetown, N.S., have registered dissolution.

Ford & Rogerson, grocers, Vancouver, have dissolved, E. B. G. Rogerson continuing.

Ulric and Joseph Messier have registered partnership under the style of Messier & Frere, grocers, Montreal.

Bouchier & McAdam, general merchants, Abbotsford, B.C., have dissolved, — Bouchier continuing.

Edouard D. Marceau has ceased to be a partner in the firm of L. Chaput, Fils & Cie., wholesale grocers, Montreal.

Racine & Frere, grocers, Montreal, have dissolved, and Clara Racine, wife of Damien Racine, has registered as proprietress.

Copartnership has been registered by James J. Hughes and George E. McFarlane as general merchants, under the style of Hughes & McFarlane, Souris, P.E.I.

The statement in last week's issue that Wood Bros, millers and grain dealers, Brantford, Ont., had been succeeded by The Brant Milling Co. was in error. The only change made in the firm was that W. B. Wood was succeeded by Thomas L. Wood. The firm style Wood Bros. continues unchanged.

SALES MADE AND PENDING.

The stock of A. N. Ellis & Co., general merchants, Carberry, Man., has been sold at auction for 59c. on the dollar to T. Finklestein.

The assets of Robert Robertson, general merchant, Burnstown, Ont., have been sold at auction.

CHANGES.

A. H. Sperry & Co., grocers, Greenwood City, B.C., have been incorporated.

W. R. Erskine, general merchant, Atwood City, Ont., has been succeeded by G. Lougheed.

Mary C. Sequin, wife of Frank McGuire, has registered as tobacco and cigar dealer under the style of Frank McGuire.

John McFarlane, general merchant, etc., Campbell's Bay, Que., has retired. He has been succeeded by McFarlane Bros.

The stock of T. G. Clute, general merchant, Stirling, Ont., has been sold to W. R. Mather, who continues under the style of Clute & Mather.

L. J. Lahay, sawmiller and general merchant, Kearnay, Ont., has sold out his general store to D. S. Vincent, of Novar, Ont., who is selling out his Novar business and intends moving to Kearnay.

DEATHS.

D. Sissons, general merchant, Carlton, N.W.T., is dead.

A TRADE SERMON.

One of the London trade papers of recent date contains the following item :

"The personal estate has been valued at £31,534, and the gross value of the whole of the estate is £69,975, of Mr. Edwin Henry Booth, of Avenham Tower House, Preston, J. P., grocer, who died on January 13 last, aged 70 years, a native of Bury, where, when 11 years old, he ran errands for a tailor and draper, and had experience of the difficulty of living on 3s. per week. He began business as a grocer in Blackpool, and afterwards opened a shop in Chorley, and, 40 years ago, opened a third shop in Preston, where at that time ophans had no shelter but the workhouse. Mr. Booth and some friends, therefore, founded the society which has had its outcome in the Fulwood Orphanage, and of this institution he was treasurer until he died."

There are several trade sermons in the above paragraph, which is a type of similar items of trade news all the time being made public. It is an answer to the query, Does the grocery business pay? As a boy, this man earned 75c. per week; at threescore and ten he bequeathed a fortune of $350,000. Industry marked his entire career. Benevolence was with him practical, and not theoretical. The work of his life was rendering a needed service to the people and of using his gains in a way to benefit his fellows long after a busy life closed.—American Grocer.

WINDOW-GAZERS EARN MONEY.

"MODERN conditions, needs and competition, develop many queer pursuits," said the State street merchant. "The business of carrying signs about the streets—'sandwiching,' it is called—is a century old. Merchants used to advertise their goods, you know, by hiring a man to go about ringing a bell and crying the wares of his patrons. That is one of the street noises we have lost. I sometimes think it would be a good scheme to revive it. It would pay while its novelty lasts. The queerest profession of all professions, I think, however, is the profession of window-gazer. All pursuits are 'professions' these days, as you are aware. We haven't any 'trades' left. Never heard of of a window-gazer?

"There are many in Chicago, and, although they don't get rich, they are paid enough to keep body and soul together. A window-gazer, as the name implies, is a man or woman who makes a living by gazing into a window. You know that if you stand in State street, look fixedly at the 12th storey of a building across the way, you will have a sidewalk blocking crowd about you in no time at all? Well, that is what the window-gazer does. He strolls casually along until opposite his employer's window. Then he stops, and gazes with an appearance of deepest interest. In five minutes a crowd is gazing with him. As individuals of this crowd get enough and move on, others will take their places for probably half an hour. From a nearby street corner the originator of the audience is looking on. When the crowd has melted away totally, he gathers another by the same simple method. He works from 10 in the morning until 9 at night, and he is paid $2 per day. This may seem a large sum for such work, but it is not when the character of the window-gazer is taken into consideration. He must be a gentleman in appearance. To dress well is a desideratum with him. You will perceive that a man fitted out like a tramp might look into a window for an hour without exciting any attention or inducing anyone to stop and look with him. The nearer the window-gazer can approach to the ensemble of a man of leisure and wealth out for a stroll the more valuable his services are. The same things hold good of woman gazers. They are generally placed in front of the displays in the finer millinery shops or the department stores. You can spot one at any time by taking the trouble to hang about any establishment of this character, and keeping your eyes open." — Show Window.

BE LOYAL TO YOUR EMPLOYER.

LOYALTY doesn't mean honesty only, says The Keystone, it means more than mere faithfulness in the performance of prescribed duties. If you are truly loyal you will be watchful for his interes at all times, outside as well as inside the store. You will take as much interest in the success, as he does, or as much as you take in your own. You will constantly be studying how you can advance his interests within the limit of your opportunities.

A loyal clerk "takes the business to bed with him," as Stephen Girard said. He doesn't have to be told to do his work—he does it in the pleasure of the sense that it is his contribution to the prosperity of "the boss"; for loyalty is a higher virtue than faithfulness. It represents all that faithfulness stands for, and something more besides.

The loyal clerk best shows his quality outside the store, outside of store hours. Let us suppose his employer is a crusty sort, or has peculiar notions, or an awkward habit of walking, or an impediment in his speech, or some other blemish which attracts attention and light talk. In a miscellaneous company of friends, or even among a few intimates, these crochets or pecularities of "the boss" are made fun of, in the presence of the clerk. If he is just an ordinary clerk, who thinks that he has earned his salary when he has done his specified work, or who believes that he has discharged all moral obligations to the business when he leaves the store, he will join in the laugh, and probably lead in it. He will illustrate "the old man's" absurdities, as one speaking with the authority of daily observation. But, if he is the loyal clerk we have in mind, he will show offence at these sarcasms; will correct the reports of idle gossip; will "stand up" for his employer with all the zeal he can summon. Whatever personal opinions he may hold as to the evidence of weaknesses or whims on the part of the merchant, he will not reveal, but will conceal such opinions, and make the best showing for a poor cause; for he is loyal.

If his employer is not honest, or in some particular not worthy of the respect of self-respecting people, he will quit his service; for the right sort of clerk will find it hateful service to serve such a man. He must quit him to be loyal to himself—to his conscience and his manhood. But while he remains he must be loyal; and he may withdraw his loyalty only when he withdraws his service.

In the Name

"Benson" and "Edwardsburg" there is a sure profit to the grocer who sells Starch, because Edwardsburg Starch is known by, and sells on its merits. It is not a new thing or an experiment—it has been tried for over forty years and not found wanting in any vital part. Whether it be for the laundry or for cooking, if the name is on the package, a grocer's profit is absolutely assured, because that package will sell. You won't have to stop to explain the virtues of the Starch, because its high quality, its absolute purity, and the unvarying evenness of the grade is known by cautious buyers all over Canada.

"Edwardsburg" or "Benson"

FOR YOUNG CANADIANS.

Don't wait until the iron's hot,
But make it hot by muscle.
Don't wait for the wealth your father's got,
Take off your coat and hustle.

What a year 1900 is to be! What a time for the young Canadian hustler—the rapid stenographer, the expert bookkeeper and the nimble telegrapher! They will all be wanted just as surely as that bright year is coming around. A start now will put you with the successful ones, and we can start you aright. Will you send us your name and let us tell you how? It is no trouble to us, and will benefit you.

Capital and Surplus, $1,500,000. Offices throughout the civilized world.

Executive Offices: Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway, New York City, U.S.A.

THE BRADSTREET COMPANY gathers information that reflects the financial condition and the controlling circumstances of every seeker of mercantile credit. Its business may be defined as of the merchants, by the merchants, for the merchants. In procuring, verifying, and promulgating information, no effort is spared, and no reasonable expense considered too great, that the results may justify its claim as an authority on all matters affecting commercial affairs and mercantile credit. Its offices and connections have been steadily extended, and it furnishes information concerning mercantile persons throughout the civilized world. Subscriptions are based on the service furnished, and are available only by reputable wholesale, jobbing and manufacturing concerns, and by respectable and worthy financial, fiduciary and business corporations. Specific terms may be obtained by addressing the Company at any of its Offices. Correspondence invited.

THE BEST PLAN OF MAKING A NEW STORE PAY.*

By Otto P. K. Hjermstad.

So many people appear to think that any man with a little capital can start a grocery store and make a living out of it. But it takes something else besides money to make the grocery business a success, and I venture to say that not more than one person out of twenty that start grocery stores ever make a success of it. And the main reason why so many make a failure of their enterprise is that they go ahead, with no ideas or plans whatever on how to conduct their stores, get trade and hold trade, and thereby make their business a profitable one. The man without a plan on how to run his business is like a ship without a rudder—he is cast hither and thither on the sea of troubles, till he at last gets wrecked and is obliged to turn his busines sover to his creditors.

A person about to open a new grocery, must carefully lay his plans long before the opening of his store, and he must be sure that his plans are right, and that by following them he will make his business a profitable one in the shortest possible time.

When I get in a position to start a grocery store of my own, which I sincerely hope I will be some day in the near future, I shall go ahead with the determination to succeed. I shall spare no efforts to reach the top of the ladder. I will locate my store in a small city of, say, 8,000 to 15,000 inhabitants. I prefer a small city to a larger one because in a small city there is less competition, and it takes less capital to begin with than is the case in the larger cities.

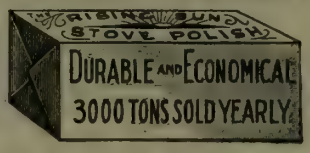
Before I open my store I will have to study the people of the locality where it is going to be, in order to get ideas on how to proceed to make my store their store. And I will make a visit to some of the successful stores of the larger cities to look into their ways of doing business, see how they take care of the stock, how they advertise, etc., and, above all, to find out the reason why they succeed while their competitor in the next block starves. By doing this I think I can pick up a good many pointers that will be of help to me in the future in running my own business. One always learns by observing.

I do not think the location of a store has as much to do with its success as many seem to believe. Of course, it's very desirable to be located on a corner in the business centre of the town, but if a store is run on the right principles it is bound to succeed, even if it is located a few blocks from the centre. As most of the shopping is done by ladies, I will have my store amidst as nice surroundings as possible, in order to make it pleasant for my customers to come to my store. I will have it as far away from a saloon as possible, for there is always more or less noise and rough people connected with a saloon, and such things are not fit to be in the neighborhood of a nice grocery store.

I will spare no efforts to make my store attractive and convenient. It shall be clean at all times, and bright and inviting. A grocery store of to-day isn't like that of years ago. Then a few planks fastened to the wall, a counter, a scale and a stove were about all the fixtures a grocer needed. Goods like coffee, sugar, crackers, soap, etc., were simply placed on top of the sawdust on the floor, in their original packages, that at the same time served as seats for many loafers.

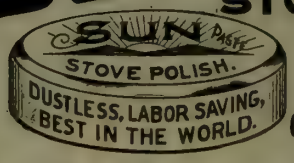
But it's different now. An up to-date grocer must have different fixtures for the different goods in his line in order to be able to take proper care of the goods and display them in an effective manner that they will sell at sight.

I will get the best and nicest fixtures to be had for my store. Good fixtures cost a good deal of money, but in the long run they will prove to be very much cheaper than poor ones. And another thing, nice fixtures that take good care of the goods and display them to good advantage draw trade and sell goods, and thereby help the grocer in building up his business.



I will take great care in hiring clerks for my store. As my store is going to be a strictly up-to-date grocery, I will want intelligent, up-to-date clerks to represent it. I think the most foolish thing a merchant can do is to hire so-called "cheap" clerks. They are willing to work cheap, but then they also do cheap work, and make life a burden to their employer, and drive customers away from his store. No, I will try and get clerks that have a reputation for being good clerks—clerks that are always willing to work, not so much for the little money they are earning as for the sake of pleasing their employer and help him to build up a good business. Such clerks are a treasure to a store.

If possible, I will get clerks that are well known in the locality where my store is going to be, for they are sure to have a number of friends that will want to trade where their friends are working, and that will help them along, in other words, advertise them and thereby also the store where they are working. For this reason these clerks will bring me a good deal of trade that otherwise would have gone elsewhere.



When I am ready to buy the first stock for my store I will make out a list of goods needed and quantities wanted, and submit it to some of the best wholesale houses for prices. The firm offering the best goods at the lowest prices will get the order. I must be careful in selecting my stock, and make my selection with an eye to the class of people whose trade I'm going to strike for. Not knowing how much trade I am going to get at first, I will not buy a very big stock to start with, just enough to make a good showing.

In buying my goods I shall be very careful to get only good goods that are guaranteed by the manufacturer or the wholesaler. If I should sell poor goods to my customers I could never expect to make a success of my business. And I will buy for cash only, in order to get the lowest possible prices.

Whenever any goods arrive I will at once have them examined, weighed and entered on a receiving book. In case there should be anything the matter with any of the goods, or if there should be a shortage somewhere, or an overweight on the freight bill, the receiving book would instantly show it, and I could put in a claim against the jobber or the railroad company. In this way I will often be able to save a good deal of money.

I will mark all my goods in plain figures. This will make my customers feel that I think that my prices are right, and it will also give very little chance for "jewing." I shall discount all my bills. Those short lines at the top of the bill-heads: "1 per cent. off in 10 days," and "2 per cent. off in 10 days," to many grocers don't seem to be of very much importance, but the grocer who does not make use of the chance thus offered him to save a few cents on his purchases is indeed foolish and shortsighted. Those few cents saved on every bill that is discounted during the course of a year count up to be a big sum, and by discounting his bills a grocer can easily in a year save enough money to pay the salary of one clerk, and that seems to me to be a very big saving.

The grocer's hardest task is the buying of goods. The art of buying goods right is not learned in a day. It takes years of study and practical experience. The buyer must keep in close touch with all the markets; must know where he can get the best goods at the lowest prices; must know when to buy and how much, etc. In order that I may learn all this I will have to for they are a grocer's best teachers.

I will try to get on the right side with the traveling men, for they are next after the trade papers the merchant's best friends, and will help him in his buying and save money on his purchases if they are treated right.

In order to put my store on a paying basis in the shortest time possible, I will have to advertise extensively. No businessman of to-day can ever hope to succeed without advertising. I am going to advertise my store from morning till night—all the time. I shall keep everlastingly at it. At least two weeks before the opening of my store I will commence to advertise. As the newspapers are the best advertising mediums for a retail store, I shall take liberal spaces in the daily papers of my city, and also in the weeklies. Of course, I cannot advertise any goods before my store is open for business, but I will tell the readers what kind of a store I am going to have; what kind of goods I am going to sell; why they should bring their trade to me as soon as my store was ready, etc. In this way, I will make them interested in the store, and they will look forward to its opening as if it were an important event.

AFTER THE OPENING

I will commence to advertise my goods. I will change my "ads." frequently—every day if possible—and try and say something new in every "ad." in order to make them interesting, so people will look for them and read them. I will quote prices on all goods I advertise. On certain days I shall put out different lines of goods at low prices as leaders. These bargain days I will advertise extensively, and I am sure they will bring me many customers. And these won't buy only those leaders, but also other goods they see displayed, I am quite sure.

I shall not neglect my

as I consider them almost as good advertising mediums as the newspapers. I shall have my windows nicely decorated, and only display one line of goods at the time, and I shall make liberal use of price tickets. If I do not get time to trim the windows myself I will teach one of my clerks to do it, and shall see, too, that he changes the displays frequently.

Another good way of advertising that I am going to make use of is demonstrating. Almost every manufacturer of food products is willing to pay the expense of a demonstration of his goods. These practical demonstrations are sure to bring many people to the store and make them talk about it.

My ads. in the weekly papers will have to be a little different from those in the dailies, because the former go mostly to farmers. As the farmers, to a large extent, buy goods in exchange for their produce, I will have to give some reasons in my ads. why it should be to their interest to bring their produce to my store. The produce trade is one of the

in a grocery store when properly taken care of. I will have one of my clerks do all the buying of produce from farmers, as I think in that way I can give more satisfaction to my customers. There being so many grades of butter, so many kinds of potatoes, etc., we would be liable to mix the different lots should we all do the buying. One man, however, can keep everything in order, and thereby the selling will be so much easier.

out advertising, all his efforts in that line won't do him any good if he does not live up to his advertising. Therefore, my motto shall be: "Your money back if you don't lke it," and I shall stick to it too. That will in me and make them come again and again, for they will know that if anything they buy at my store is not satisfactory they simply have to return it and get their money back.

I shall do a strictly cash business. By so doing I will save the expense of employing a bookkeeper, and I can sell goods cheaper than the fellow across the street, who is doing a credit business. And above all, I will at all times know where I am and will be free from all the anxiety and worry and loss of money that a credit business is bound to carry with it. I don't think I shall have much trouble in getting the people of my locality to understand that buying for cash is to their interest as well as to mine. My lower prices will do the talking.

The profits on most groceries sold at retail being so extremely small, it will become necessary for me to as much as possible, if I shall ever hope to make my business a paying one. I will have to work hard—harder than I ever did while working for others—in order to get along with as few clerks as possible, I shall keep away from all kinds of advertising schemes, for, while all of these are made to look very tempting, and are bragged up by the originators to be good trade-winners, most of them will prove, after having been tried for a while, to be very expensive affairs.

In a grocery store where so many perishable goods are kept, there's always something going to waste. The grocer must keep his eyes open, so that such waste does not interfere too much with his profits. Goods that are spoiling must be gotten out of the store right away, for a grocer in his store. They can be closed out for something, for there are some people looking for just such "bargains," and what little money the grocer gets for such goods just helps to make the losses that much less. But he must be very careful not to send such goods to his regular trade.

Six months may seem to be a very short time in which to put a new grocery store on a paying basis, but I am sure it can be done, and the best plan I know of for doing so is as outlined in this article, namely, by Good advertising.

Keeping a good store.
Buying for cash and selling for cash.
Selling only good goods.
Keeping expenses down.

There are, no doubt, other good plans, but I am going to make use of the ideas submitted in these lines when I get a store of my own, and I am sure it won't take me more than six months to build up a good paying business.

BRITISH COLUMBIAN FRUIT IN MANITOBA.

Writing from Winnipeg to The Province, Vancouver, Provincial Fruit Inspector Tom Wilson, who is also a member of the Board of Horticulture, says :

"I have visited the more important points between Calgary and Winnipeg in the interest of the fruit growers of British Columbia, and find that our fruit would be very much more in demand if the people could be assured that it would arrive in good condition. Everyone says it is badly packed, and the cry is the same from the Rocky Mountains to Winnipeg. I have assured them that this fault will be remedied in future, and I doubt not if our fruit growers only take pains that the results will be most satisfactory. At present Californian fruit is getting scarce, and consequently more expensive and there are no Oregon and Washington plums on the market. One firm alone here disposed of 30 carloads from Walla Walla last year. Now they have advices that the supply cannot possibly exceed 5 cars—probably not that. There is quite an amount of Ontario plums on the market here, but, like ourselves, the Ontario people have a great deal to learn as regards packing, and the consequence is that their fruit arrives here in very indifferent condition ; also the quality of their fruit is not up to the standard of ours, either in appearance or flavor. The fruit growers of British Columbia can capture the market here and establish themselves on the prairies if they look to their packing and the supply holds out. If they only knew how much depends on their efforts they would amend their ways."

CURRANTS IN LONDON.

The market for currants continues active, and a further rise in provincial and medium fruit has taken place. A certain amount of this activity is due to the news which continues to be received about the growing crop, the estimates of the probable yield continually diminishing. Up to within the last day or two, there has been a constant rise in the prices asked for new currants, and any slight reaction is due to the fact that English buyers have not followed the rise to its full extent in their purchases. The samples received up to the present show fairly good quality, but the provincial growths are uneven and the amalias very deficient in size when compared with those of last season. This may not be so much of a disadvantage as it would certainly have been in previous years, for the increase in the demand for small currants to the neglect of the larger fruit has lately been phenomenal. Only two steamers have yet left Greece for London, and the third leaves to-day ; it will, therefore, be quite the end of next week before the first new currants can arrive on the London market.—Produce Markets' Review, August 26.

TO REGULATE TEA OFFERED.

The period of combines is on us. Because the union of the tea-planters was not strong enough to ride rough-shod over the buyers, it does not follow that by combination they may not achieve something in other directions. The recently-decided-on committee of five brokers to regulate the quantity of tea offered for sale is getting into working order, and, as the majority of the Indian tea-producers have given in their adhesion to the scheme, it is likely there will be a more even distribution of offerings over the whole year than formerly. This is not an innovation with which we can find any fault, as it is always a good thing to avoid the disorganization of markets by see-saw operations ; at one time more being offered than buyers can take and prices necessarily falling, while at other periods held-back stuff causes a smart reaction the other way. Anything that tends to stability is good for the trade, the only danger being lest the sheme should be carried too far.—Grocers' Journal.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

PROSPECTS for the rice crop in Louisiana continue to be reported as fairly favorable, and latest estimates place the yield at 1,800,000 sacks. Advices from the Coast also continue encouraging, and it is estimated that the yield of the Louisiana and Coast crops together will be equal to about 2,250,000 sacks.

Late mail advices from Malaga are to the effect that there is a good crop of raisins of excellent quality.

Advices from Sevilla state that the canning crop of olives, which is expected to be about an average one in size, will be 30 per cent. culls, or 20 per cent. more than the general run. Prices, therefore, may perhaps be 10 to 15 per cent. lower than last season.

NEW VALENCIAS IN LONDON.

Three small shipments of Valencias have reached this market during the week, and these have been distributed at prices which are certainly above the average. Stocks all through the country being almost nil, a good demand may reasonably be expected much earlier than is usually the case. The quality and condition of the fruit at present to hand is good, although size is lacking, and, considering the hot dry weather experienced for some time past, this will probably be the character of the bulk of the crop.—Produce Markets' Review, London, August 19.

CALIFORNIAN PRUNES STRONGER.

Telegrams from the Coast indicate a much stronger feeling among the packers of prunes. This is said to be due to the fact, as claimed by reliable parties, that the crop has been overestimated. In Santa Clara it is now stated on good authority that the output will probably not exceed that of last season. While it is indicated that there will be relatively plenty of the large sizes, particularly 40's, 50's and 60's, it is feared that the supply of 90's and smaller fruits will be very light. In fact, some packers, we are informed, will not sell 90's alone and others 80's and 90's at any price, while those who are ready to sell a few 90's in connection with other sizes demand a premium of ¼c. on that size, and we are reliably informed that buyers in some instances have already paid this premium. Mail reports just to hand state that packers were not, at the date of writing, anxious to sell the regular four sizes, but had made some contracts on a 3c. basis for 50's to 60's, 60's to 70's, 70's to 80's and 80's to 90's.—New York Journal of Commerce.

CANNED TOMATOES IN THE UNITED STATES.

"The tomato market," said a prominent commission merchant yesterday, "is in an anomalous condition. Notwithstanding the great increase in the cost of tin cans the market in tomatoes is lower to-day than when the season for selling futures opened. A condition like this always rights itself, and in my opinion future tomatoes bought at present low prices will show a profit in the near future."—New York Journal of Commerce.

THE PACK OF CANNED APRICOTS.

This season's pack of apricots is estimated at fully 700,000 cases, compared with 411,273 cases last year. The unprecedentedly large pack of apricots this year, it is said, used up the surplus cans, leaving canners now dependent upon the daily output of the three local factories, which is reported to be insufficient to meet the demand at present. Peaches, pears and plums ripened at the same time, taxing the canneries to their fullest capacity. The pack of peaches, it is expected, will be short, on account of the scarcity of cans and the short packing season.

COLSON & SON, Montreal, agents for Crosse & Blackwell, announce that the peel trade is practically over for this season. They also say their general trade for Crosse & Blackwell is steadily growing, each year showing a decided gain upon the previous one, and this year has exceeded the record.

SS. Rosarian has just arrived with a supply of Morton's and Marshall's canned herrings, 1899 pack, for Laporte, Martin & Cie.

"Victoria" and "Princess Louise" Japan teas are reported as being of extra value ; they are sold by Laporte, Martin & Cie., who control these two brands.

Mr. D. G. Bell, of Bell & McEachern, Stayner, was in Toronto last week.

Mr. W. H. Cawsey, of W. H. Cawsey & Co., retail grocers, Halifax, is spending a few weeks in Toronto.

Mr. J. H. Magor, of Frank Magor & Co., Montreal, has just left on a business trip to the Lower Provinces, carrying samples of Cadbury's fancy Christmas goods, Carr's biscuits, and other lines.

These are among the outside merchants who have been in Toronto during the week: W. J. Crowther, Kingston ; J. T. Robinson, Bobcaygeon ; Geo. Sherrin, Thamesville ; W. J. Falconer, Sydney, Cape Breton ; C. Beck, Penetanguishene ; J. W. Shields, Victoria Road; W. J. Smythe, Rydal Bank; J. Irwin, Manitowaning.

"MONSOON" ON AN ELEPHANT.

The most striking feature of the great Labor Day parade held in Toronto was the immense elephant advertising "Monsoon" tea. There was a large package of "Monsoon" (5½ feet long by 3½ feet wide) on the elephant's back. Inside the package there was a man throwing samples on either side of the street, and large banners hung from the base of the package to the street.

SALMON AND LOBSTER IN LONDON

Business in salmon during the week has been on rather a quieter scale, both buyers and sellers preferring not to operate largely until they receive more definite news of the British Columbian pack. The reports of the fishing, up to the end of last week, were so consistently bad that buyers showed some anxiety to secure such parcels as sellers were willing to part with at a reasonable figure, but the business actually done was not large, and before many transactions were completed reports arrived of a more favorable nature. In a few days, the result of the catch will be known, and it is hoped that it will not be necessary for the packers to ask higher rates than those at present ruling. The market for Alaska is very firm, but prices are practically unchanged. There is a good inquiry for lobsters, and fresh shipments of tall tins are anxiously awaited.—Produce Markets' Review.

THE PRACTICE OF SUBSTITUTING.

IT is a mistake for merchants to substitute goods without first obtaining the consent of the purchaser. Even when the goods substituted are superior the practice is a dangerous one. People at least think they know what they want and it is an offence to them when they find that the goods they ordered are not the ones supplied.

This characteristic of the great mass of people may be born more of pride than of reason; but it exists, and not only exists but must be respected. Those who will not respect it cannot but expect to lose business.

This applies to the wholesale as well as to the retail merchant. THE CANADIAN GROCER recently had proof of this.

A retailer who has met with a great deal of success in business was asked if he dealt with a certain wholesale house. He replied in the affirmative, but declared that he was gradually transfering his patronage to other houses, and explained that he was doing so because the wholesale house in question persistently substituted goods.

The retailer in question is doing a large and growing trade, and hence is a valuable customer.

While directly it may not be as profitable, when out of a line ordered, to secure it from a competitor, yet it is the wiser thing to do, and in the long run pays the best, for it does not, like substituting, tend to annoy and drive away customers. If the particular line cannot be obtained, the next alternative should be to ascertain if another can be substituted. Of course, there may be exceptions when the best thing to do is to send forward substituted goods with an explanatory note. As to when this is necessary the shipper's judgment only can determine. But merchants should only do this when they are fully persuaded that it is the best course, in the interest of the customer, to pursue.

DECREASED EGG EXPORTS.

The export movement of eggs from Canada, which, until very recently, was decidedly backward, as compared with 1898, has shown decided improvement during the past fortnight.

Compared with last year, the decrease is striking, the exports up to the end of August being only 8,300 odd cases, against 33,504 for the same period in 1898. The receipts at Montreal, however, during the same time show that a smaller quantity was marketed this year than last, viz., 106,853 cases this year, against 150,000 last year.

Prices have shown an upward tendency lately, as reports from the country state that 13c. f.o.b. cars have been made at country points. At Montreal, the range is 14½ to 16c.

NEW SEASON'S VALENCIAS.

The first shipment of new season's Valencia raisins is due the latter part of this week, and by the time this issue is in the hands of its readers the wholesale houses will probably be taking their shipments into store.

The prices which will likely be quoted to the retail trade for this new fruit are as follows, according to brand and quality: Fine off-stalk, 5¾ to 6½c.; selected, 6¾ to 7c.

The shipments come upon a bare market, there being nothing but fine off-stalk in the warehouses of the wholesale houses.

On account of the shortness of the crop and the foreign demand, prices are expected to rule firm in the primary market.

NOW IT'S TWELVE-CENT CHEESE.

LAST week we had to note 11c.-cheese. This week the sensational advancing tendency of the market has continued, and fully 1c. per lb. more has been paid at country points for cheese than last week.

In the Townships section of Quebec 12½c. was bid by an excited speculator, and, of course, accepted, while at the various country boards, since we last had occasion to refer to the matter, 12c. has been the ruling cost of strictly finest Canadian cheese.

This, of course, means 12¼ to 12½c. for the goods laid down in Montreal. And there are some speculators in Montreal sanguine enough to expect 13c. for the last half of September make.

The drouth seems to be the strongest bull card, for it has not only affected the make west of Toronto, but in the east as well, for reports from Brockville give the shrinkage at 50 per cent. This, no doubt, is an extravagant estimate, but cutting it in two, and allowing a shortage of 25 per cent., the reduction in the output will be considerable. It has also to be borne in mind that the yield in Great Britain and the continent has been materially affected this summer, but whether, after all due allowance has been made for these conditions, consumers will consent to a cost of 13c. in Canada is a mattter that only the future will decide.

TEAS COSTING MORE MONEY.

The enlarged business in tea, in a distributive sense, that traders have been predicting for several weeks back refuses to materalize, and importers now assert their belief that the higher cost this year, as compared with last, has a tendency to check the actual consumptive movement.

The changes in this connection are quite noticeable. For instance, black teas are fully 2c. per lb. higher for all grades than at this time last year, and Japans and Pingsueys also are dearer. In China, the latter are very high in price, and consequently a smaller quantity is said to be on the way to this continent than at the same time last year. Pea-leaf gunpowders seem to be scarce at all leading distributing points in Canada, and no well-made goods are to be had under 17 to 18c.

A QUESTION OF PACKAGE GOODS.

IN last week's issue we published an article on "How to Put a New Store on a Paying Basis." It was a prize essay, contributed by J. J. Quinn to Grocery World. In many respects the essay was a good one, but there were two or three points therein so weak, that we feel we cannot allow them to pass without comment.

The first is in regard to package goods. "In buying teas and coffees," said the writer, "under no condition should package goods be purchased, even if the trade of the store demands such goods. This is one thing to which an exception must be made in supplying the customers' demands."

There are two points in the sentence quoted which are worthy of consideration. The first is in regard to the handling of package teas and coffees. The second is in regard to the refusal to supply them even if the customer wants them.

As far as package coffees are concerned, they are not much of a feature in Canada. Practically the only packages in which they are put up are tin packages. The greater part of the coffee retailed over the counter is weighed and wrapped in paper as the customer orders it. But there are a good many coffees on the market in tin packages, and enough of them are wanted to warrant the manufacturers of such goods to continue putting them up.

As far as the Canadian trade is concerned, it is, however, more interested in Mr. Quinn's attack on package teas.

Package teas have become in Canada as much a feature of the grocery trade as sugar in barrels. Not only are there firms devoted to the putting up of teas in pound, half-pound and quarter-pound packages, but nearly every wholesaler in the country is handling them. In Toronto, there is not a wholesale grocer who does not sell package teas, and nine-tenths of them have their own machines.

It is, therefore, obvious that package teas have become as much a staple article on the market as any other line of package goods that might be mentioned. Tea may not always be put up in packages as it is to-day. But the hills we term eternal may not always be where they are to-day. Custom is ever changing. We do not travel in exactly the same way we did 15 years ago.

But, whatever may be the future of the package tea, it is here now, and it is becoming more established every day. The indications are not that it is but a thing of passage, but that it has come to stay.

Now, then, taking the fact into consideration that the package tea is a staple article and is likely to remain so, as far, at least, as present conditions can be interpreted, it is obvious that he who starts into the grocery trade to-day must either keep package teas or be handicapped in building up a business.

We do not say that he cannot do without package teas, any more than we claim that he cannot do without packages of starch, jelly powders, baking powder, cocoa, pickles, and a hundred and one other lines. Certainly he may be able to exist without it just as a man has been known to exist with half of his respiratory organ gone. But certainly he will not do as well.

Then, as to not supplying package teas to his customers, even if they demand them, absurdity stands out upon its face more marked than the "man" upon the face of the moon.

Granted that the package tea is only come to stay a short time and vanish. Would that be any reason why a grocer going into business should not handle it? Not at all.

Whatever may be said against the package tea, this much must be said in its favor: It is a legitimate article of commerce. Well, then, the principle that every wise merchant goes upon is that it is the proper thing to carry in stock, as far as possible, every legitimate article which his customers want. But here is a man who lays down a doctrine which is to the very contrary. "Under no circumstances," he declares, "should package goods be purchased, even if the trade of the store demands it."

Such a statement is positively preposterous. Had he urged that bulk teas should be pushed and package teas sold only when demanded, there might have been some sense in his argument, but to refuse to sell a pac kage tea, even when a customer demanded it, is contrary to all sound business ethics. And it is to be hoped that no business man will ever make the mistake of refusing to keep in stock any legitimate article of commerce which is in demand, whether it be package tea or anything else, just because he may be prejudiced against it.

GOOD TRADE OUTLOOK.

Mr. S. A. Rankin, a general merchant of Falding, Ont., was among the visitors in Toronto the past week. Falding is a little village on the Ontario, Arnprior, and Parry Sound railway, and is seven miles from Parry Sound. Mr. Rankin reported trade good and the prospects bright in his part of the country. Lumbering operations promise well, the Conger Lumber Co. alone intending to take out 20,000,000 feet of lumber this year. "Tourist travel, both Canadian and American, has been immense this summer," said Mr. Rankin.

Falding is five miles from the Parry Sound copper mines, where a great deal of activity is being experienced.

Mr. Rankin has been in business about four years, and his trade has developed so much lately that he will have to erect a new storehouse.

DECEPTIVE CANNED SALMON PRACTICES.

Under the English combination arrangements a clearly defined difference in value is established between salmon caught in the different rivers: Fraser river, 21s. per case; Skeena, 20s. per case; Rivers Inlet, 19s. per case.

In face of an established difference of 2s., or 50c., per case, between Fraser river and Rivers Inlet, it is asserted that much of the Rivers Inlet salmon is shipped to the eastern markets of Canada under Fraser river labels.

BUSINESS IN NOVA SCOTIA GOOD.

Mr. H. S. Black, of Black & Co., Truro, N.S., wholesale grocers, spent a few days in Montreal this week on his way home from the D. R. A. meeting in Ottawa. Mr. Black says business in Nova Scotia has been good the past season, and prospects for fall trade are bright indeed.

A MENACE TO CANADIAN SHIPPING AND TRADE.

WHILE it is possible for the Dominion Government to do a great deal more than it has done to popularize ocean travel via Canadian ports, yet there is a great deal that can be done by steamship owners themselves.

One thing, and the chief thing, they can do in pursuance of this is to exercise greater care in the loading of their ships. That there is necessity for reform in this particular is beyond question.

At the recent convention of the Maritime Board of Trade, composed of the leading business men, steamship owners and insurance men of the Maritime Provinces, a great deal of attention was given to the subject of marine insurance rates, and the excessive rates as against Canadian and in favor of United States ports.

There was at first a disposition to blame the British underwriters for the discrimination, and, while it was finally realized that these underwriters were not as well informed in regard to the respective Canadian routes as they should be, yet it was demonstrated that the chief onus for the so-called discrimination was not upon the underwriters but upon the owners and captains of the steamships. Mr. S. Schofield, St. John, N.B., representing the Furness Line, charged that the high marine insurance rates were due to the excessive deck loads that were carried by some of the steamers, and Mr. Horace Haszard, Charlottetown, P.E.I., corroborated this by stating that he had read the resolution of the British underwriters whereby the rates on steamers plying to Canadian Atlantic ports were increased, and in that resolution it distinctly stated that the cause of their action was the excessive deck loads carried by steamships.

It was significant that during the convention of the Maritime Board, one of the St. John papers published a cable stating that the captain of one of the steamers which had left that port recently had been fined £50 for having his vessel overloaded.

Now, a press despatch comes to hand with the statement that the Department of Marine and Fisheries is in receipt of complaints regarding the serious overloading of a number of steamers running out of Montreal. It was charged that in some instances vessels had been so heavily overloaded that at Cap a la Roche there were only six inches of water between the keel of the steamers and the rocky bottom of the river at that point.

To such a pass have matters come in regard to marine insurance that steamers insured at Lloyds are prohibited from plying to Canadian Atlantic ports until after a special permit has been obtained. And with the permit comes a higher rate of insurance.

This is a condition of affairs which obviously militates against not only the Canadian ports and the steamship lines plying thereto and therefrom, but against the trade and commerce of the Dominion.

It is, therefore, obvious that the Government should adopt, and without delay, efficient means to prevent the overloading of steamers running out of Canadian ocean ports.

We know that there are a good many steamship owners and captains who are opposed to Government supervision in such matters, but something must be done to prevent the continuance of a practice which causes to be imposed upon the Dominion conditions which handicap her in competition with her powerful neighbor.

SMALL PORTS OF ENTRY.

Some importers are continuing to agitate for the enforcement of equal rates of duty at the smaller and larger ports of entry. This is a point to which we think the Minister should give his best attention. It is, no doubt, his wish that the law providing that the same class of goods should pay precisely the same rate of duty, no matter at what port they may be entered, should be enforced. It is only fair to the entire importing trade of the country — wholesale or retail — that it should. For this purpose the collectors at all ports, large or small, should be kept thoroughly posted on all new regulations, and be in close touch with the heads of the Customs Department at Ottawa. No doubt this is nominally the case now. Yet, importers are continually hearing of instances that look like the existence of unequal exactions of duty. These are not laid at the door of fraud or wrongdoing, but simply that the appraisement is different. This should not be so. If the collectors of small ports cannot be as well posted and as competent to exact precisely the same rate of duty on a shipment as it would have to pay at some large city like Halifax, Montreal or Victoria, then the small ports will have to be closed.

COUNTERFEIT BILLS.

We hear again of counterfeit bills of the Dominion. There are said to be in circulation some $1 notes bearing the date of 1878. The bill, with the exception of the portrait of the Princess Louise, is well done, and, as an old bill has been imitated by the counterfeiter, it is most dangerous in that it is not easily detected by the average man. The imperfections are most noticeable in the drawing of the face, the profile being straight and out of line. In addition to that, the paper is of poor quality, but with all these discrepancies it has found its way into circulation.

These old bills ought not to be left in circulation at all. The Dominion should keep its paper money in clean condition. Some of the bills now in circulation are filthy. When paper money gets soiled and greasy the detection of counterfeit notes becomes very difficult. The very fact that bills are old and have apparently passed from hand to hand many times without question is accepted as a proof of their genuineness. Yet, what is easier than to make a counterfeit look old and dirty like the genuine note?

We understand that the manufacture of each note costs Canada about 2½ cents. That is not much. There must surely be some profit on circulation, taking silver and paper together, so that Government money can afford to be kept in good condition.

AN AMUSING LETTER.

The following somewhat amusing business letter was recently received by a wholesale house in Toronto:

Dear Sirs,—I regret that owing to a disappointment in some money I have been expecting, I have not funds to hand to pay you, and trust you will be good enough to further extend time on this small balance till September 19, and I promise to pay you. I enclose the 51c. which will leave an even balance of $15, and I trust you will be kind enough to wait till above date, and thank you in anticipation for so doing.

ONTARIO MARKETS

TORONTO, September 7, 1899.

GROCERIES.

BEING the second week of the Exhibition, there are, as usual, a great many country merchants in the city, and the travelers are in the warehouses to help entertain them. These merchants are placing some orders, but the most of them come in to "see the sights" and not to do business. The general trend of trade is healthy, and what changes have been made in prices have been in an upward direction. The most important change is an advance of 10c. per 100 lb. in the price of all grades of refined sugar. This advance was unexpected. The situation in regard to canned goods continues strong, particularly as to corn, which it is considered the recent rains were too late to materially benefit. Syrups and molasses are still quiet, although a little better demand is developing for the former. In the primary market there has been some fluctuation in currants, but Valencia raisins have ruled firm. Teas are in much about the same condition as a week ago.

CANNED GOODS.

The past week has not been marked by any particularly new developments in regard to the canned goods market. The recent rains naturally tended to benefit the vegetables which are being packed or are to be packed—tomatoes and corn, for example; but it is the general opinion, as far as corn is concerned, that the rain came too late to be of material assistance. The feeling in regard to corn is, therefore, decidedly strong.

The demand for canned vegetables is light, either for future or present delivery. Peas are going out fairly well, but there is very little doing in other lines. The idea as to price of futures is much the same as a week ago, namely, 80 to 85c. for tomatoes and 85 to 90c. for corn. Peas are quoted at 80c. up, old tomatoes at 80 to 85c. and old corn at 90 to 95c. Canned fruits are quiet and firm.

There is a moderate trade doing in canned salmon on spot, but for future delivery there is very little being done. For the best known brands of Fraser river fish wholesalers are quoting $1.35 to $1.40 per dozen. For Northern packs the ruling figure is $1.25, and for cohoes, $1.05 up. Advices received from one source this week place the pack on the Fraser at 430,000 cases, composed of 75,000 cases of ½-lb. flats, 5,000 cases of ovals, and the balance in 1-lb. flats and talls. This same authority states that owing to the keenness of competition among the canneries for fish, the average cost per case of salmon put upon the Fraser was $4.50. Owing to the new regulations, fishing for cohoes does not begin until September 25, and the pack of this kind of salmon is expected, in consequence, to be light.

COFFEES.

Mail advices from London confidently predict higher prices for all grades of coffee except Rio. Local wholesalers still report a dood demand for green Rio coffee.

SUGARS.

The feature of the sugar trade, as far as the local market is concerned, is the advance of 10c. per 100 lb., which took place at noon on Saturday on all grades of refined. The fixed price is now $4.75 Toronto for

See pages 27 and 28 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

Montreal granulated, and $4.70 for Acadia. Yellows range from $3 80 up. The advance was unexpected and wholesalers were caught with rather light stocks as a rule. The demand has not, apparently, been checked by the advance, there still being an active trade being done. The outside raw markets have ruled irregular since our last review.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The molasses market is firm, and but very little business is being done. Syrups, although still quiet, are in a little better demand.

SPICES.

Pepper is still the chief feature of the spice market, the price still being strong and advancing. A stronger feeling is also developing in regard to ginger.

NUTS.

Advices to hand state that the crop of Tarragona almonds is insignificant and the quality not very good, while quotations represent a laid down cost of 12 to 12½c. per lb. Cables from Naples state that the crop of Naples walnuts is a comparatively short one, but will be of very fine quality.

TEAS.

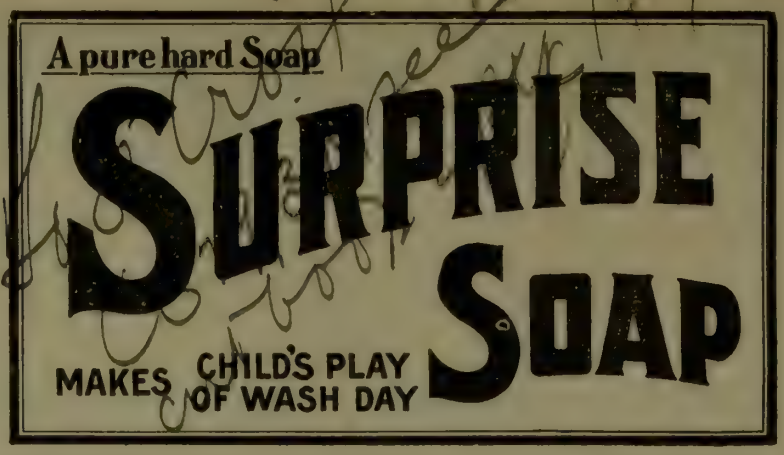
Local wholesalers are experiencing a fair demand for teas. Latest mail advices from Ceylon report that the weather has been very dry, and that it looked as if supplies would run considerably below estimates, in which case higher prices would be likely before the end of the year. The crop in India is suffering from the same cause.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—There have been some fluctuations in the price of currants in the primary market during the past week or 10 days. On Tuesday a cable stated that the market had advanced 3d. on the lower grades and 6d. on the higher grades of currants. The market is still, however, about 1s. per cwt. below the lowest point. Some good-sized orders have been placed for importation during the past week. Currants arriving by the first direct steamer will probably be quoted to the retail trade as follows: Provincials, 4¾c.; Filiatras, 5c.; fine Filiatras and Patras, 5½c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS—It is expected that, owing to the short crop and the large foreign demand, Denia prices will be maintained for the season. By the time this issue is in its readers' hands, the first shipment of new season's Valencias will probably be in the warehouses of the different wholesalers. The prices being quoted for this new fruit are as follows according to brand and quality: Fine off-stalk, 5¾ to 6½c. per lb.; selected, 6¾ to 7c. As there is nothing but a little fine off-stalk of old fruit left upon this market, the new fruit practically comes upon a bare market.

SULTANA RAISINS—The market has eased off a little in regard to price, but quotations are still high.



CALIFORNIAN PRUNES—Advices just to hand from California state that owing to the cool weather the crops are ripening slowly, and shipments this year will in consequence be almost three weeks behind last season. Owing to the scarcity of small sizes packers will only sell car lots of assorted sizes. Local brokers report that a fair number of transactions have taken place during the week.

GREEN FRUITS.

There are only a few oranges on the market. They are of the Rhodi description, and are in ½-boxes. On account of the high prices, the demand is only limited. The inquiry for lemons is fair. There is still some old stock on the market, but repacked goods are selling at $3.75 to $4 per box. Bananas are in good demand. Sweet potatoes are just beginning to move, and during the past week the inquiry has been fair. The first shipment of new season's Spanish onions is due to arrive early next week, and the price which the wholesalers are quoting is $1.25 per crate, about the same figure as the opening price last year. Receipts of native green fruits are heavy, and on Tuesday about 20,000 packages were received at the fruit market. Peaches are in good demand, with shipments liberal. Crawfords are quoted at 65c. to $1 per basket, "Sweet Water" at 40 to 50c., and common varieties at 35 to 40c. Plums are in large supply, and they are quoted at 25 to 50c., according to kind and quality. Pears are now coming in quite freely. Bartletts are selling at 30 to 50c. per basket, and Flemish Beauty at 25 to 35c. Muskmelons are more plentiful, and the demand is good. Small cases are quoted at 35 to 50c., and large at $1.25 to $1.50. Watermelons continue rather scarce. Apples are not very plentiful. Prices range from $1.25 to $2.25 per bbl., and the outside figure could be easily obtained for good fruit. Grapes are beginning to come in rather freely, and the demand is good. They are selling at 17 to 25c. per 10 lb. basket for Niagaras, Concords and Moore's Early. Tomatoes are not at the moment as plentiful as they were. Ruling prices are 15 to 17½c. for ordinary stock, but fancy fruit would bring a little more.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Although a good many eggs are selling, the demand is not as large as it was expected it would be during the Exhibition. No stocks are accumulating, on account of the quantity that is being both exported and put into cold storage. As high as 13c. is being paid outside by some, but that figure is held to be unwarranted, particularly as the "seconds" have to be taken out afterwards. The ruling price quoted by the jobbers to retailers is 14c., and for "seconds" 12½ to 13c.

BEANS—There is no demand, as is usual at this season, and $1.10 for hand-picked and 90c. for prime are nominal quotations.

POTATOES—A good many are coming forward, and the demand is fair. The idea as to price is 60c. per bag on track, and 65 to 70c. out of store.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There has not been much change in the butter market during the past week. The general tone is healthy. Quite a little low and medium-grade butter is coming forward, but really good dairy butter is scarce. Good butter is picked up as quickly as it comes in. Choice dairy tubs are worth 18½ to 19c. per lb., but butter at that price is scarce. Good to fine is quoted at 17 to 18c., while low grade is quoted as low as 12c. per lb. Dairy pound prints are 20 to 22c. per lb. for choice, and 19 to 20c. for good to fine. There is not much doing in dairy pound prints as, at the high price ruling, people prefer to pay a little more and take creamery prints. Creamery butter is in fair supply and the market rules firm. Creamery prints are quoted to the retail trade at 23c., and tubs at 21 to 22c. There is a good demand for butter on export account.

CHEESE—The market is still excited and advancing. As high as 12c. has been paid at the factories. Jobbers' prices are 11¾ to 12c., with an upward tendency.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Deliveries of grain are fair, with wheat and peas slightly higher than a week ago. We quote the street market: Wheat, white and red, 69 to 70½c.; goose, 71 to 71½c.; peas, 61½c.; oats, 30½ to 31c.; barley, 38 to 42c.; rye, 53½c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat, 78½c. Toronto and West.

FLOUR—Prices are unchanged, and the demand is quiet. We quote: Manitoba patents, $3.90; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.60; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.55 in bags and $3.65 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

Receipts of trout are larger and prices are a little easier. Whitefish are scarce and ½ to 1c. dearer. The demand for fish during the past week has been good. The market is now fairly supplied with oysters. The weather being a little warm, the demand is very light. We quote: Trout, 7 to 7½c.; whitefish, 8 to 9c.; Oregon salmon, 12½c.; maskinonge, 8c.; pickerel, 7½c.; perch, 4c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; cod in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c. Oysters, Booth's standards, $1.35; other brands, $1.25 per gal.

SALT.

There is no particular change in the situation. The demand is particularly good for this time of the year, and prices are quoted as before. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote f.o.b. barrels, 70c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English coarse salt 47 to 49c. Toronto per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Refined sugars are 10c. dearer.

A drop of 20c. is announced in rolled oats.

A cable received on Tuesday quoted currants 3 to 6d. dearer.

The price of Wethey's mince meat has been advanced, present quotations being $11 per gross net and $3.75 per case of three dozen.

In an item which appeared in last week's issue, it should have been stated that the Pure Gold Manufacturing Co.'s guessing contest was to be at the Industrial Exhibition.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, September 7, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE whole grocery market has not shown any material change this week, and business, while of fair volume, is not extensive. The easy feeling abroad continues in raw sugar, and prices here are unaltered. Syrup is dull and nominal, and there is nothing special to report in molasses. Canned goods are strong, especially new corn, for which an advance of 10c. is asked. Cables, both on raisins and currants, are quite firm in tone. Spices rule strong, and other lines furnish nothing noteworthy.

SUGAR.

The easy feeling abroad in raw sugar has continued during the past week, and to-day cane is quoted in London at 12s. 4½d. for Java and 11s. 9d. for fair refining, while beet is quiet at 10s. ¾d. for September and 9s. 8¼d. for October. In New York, raw is quiet; fair refining, 3 15-16c.; centrifugal, 96 test, 4½c., and molasses sugar, 3¾c. The price of all refined sugars were advanced by the Canadian refineries on Saturday. The demand is limited, however, as buyers bought freely during the early part of August, and are now stocked up pretty heavily. At the refinery, granulated is selling at $4.65 and yellows at $3.75 to $4.40, as to quality.

SYRUPS.

There is no change in this market, business being extremely quiet and prices largely nominal at 1¾ to 2¼c., as to quality.

MOLASSES.

Business is moderate in this staple also, and there has been no noticable change in the situation. Barbadoes in round lots are quoted at 33½c. and Porto Rico has sold at 28c. In a jobbing way, a fair movement is noted at 35c. in car lots and 36c. for single puncheons of Barbadoes stock.

CANNED GOODS.

The foremost fact in relation to these is the strong disposition of canned corn of this year's pack, an advance of 10c. per dozen being asked on last week's level, and a good inquiry is noted at 80c. per dozen, that figure having been refused in several cases, while 85c. was made for two lots of 1,000 cases, and still higher prices seem to be expected. There is no change to note in new crop tomatoes, peas or beans. Old corn on spot is firmly held at 90 to 92½c. and tomatoes at 77½c.

French sardines maintain their strong tone, and prices for forward shipment have again advanced from 1s. to 1s. 6d. on the opening figures.

DRIED FRUITS.

Cables from Denia quote Valencia raisins for September shipment at 16 to 21s., as to grade. Reports from Greece in regard to new crop: Currants are of a highly bullish character.

COFFEES.

Business in coffees is still slow, and the market rules quiet. In bag lots of 25 we quote: Maracaibo, 8 to 14c.; Mocha, 18 to 19c.; Java, 16 to 20c.; Rio, 8 to 9½c.. and Santos, 8 to 9½c.

SPICES.

The strong tone is firmly maintained in the spice market, and pepper and nutmeg are advancing abroad, though no change has yet been named in spot prices. Tapioca is also very firmly held. We quote as follows: Singapore black pepper, 12½ to 13c., and Singapore white, 19½ to 20c. Penang pepper, 17½ to 18c., and West Coast, 12 to 13c. Pimento, 11 to 12c. Nutmegs, 28 to 44c., as to quality. Cassia, 9 to 10c.; Jamaica ginger, 19½ to 20c.; Cochin

TEAS.

The improved demand for teas that was expected as a result of the forward inquiry noted last week has not materialized to any extent yet. The higher prices asked have, in importers' opinions, had a tendency to check the actual distributive movement from second to third hands.

GREEN FRUITS.

A reasonable trade has been noted in green fruits during the past week. Bananas range from 75c. to $1.50, as to quality, and oranges are steady at $3.25 to $4 per box. Lemons are dull at $2 to $3 per box. Bartlett pears are steady at $1.80 to $2.20; plums, $1.10 to $1.40, and nectarines, 85c. to $1 per box. Barrel pears sell all the way from $3.50 to $4.25 per bbl., according to quality. Apples were steady at $1.65 to $3, as to grade.

FISH.

There is no change in this market. We quote: Fresh haddock and cod at 3 to 4c. for haddock, and 3 to 3½c. for cod; British Columbia salmon, 12 to 13c.; halibut, 13 to 14c.; salt fish: Green cod, $4.25 to $4.50 for No. 1, and $5 for No. 1 large per barrel; dry cod, $4; Nova Scotia herring, $4.25 to $4.50 in barrels; Cape Breton, $4.75 in barrels; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $14 to $15; sea trout, $9.50 to $10; lake trout, $4.25 to $4.50 per keg of 100 lb.; No. 1 green haddock, $4 to $4.25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was no improvement in the demand, and the market remained quiet at steady prices. We quote: Choice candled stock, 15½ to 16c.; straight lots, 14 to 14½c.; No. 2, 11 to 12c., and culls, 9 to 10c. per dozen.

MAPLE PRODUCT—The demand for maple product continues slow; in consequence, the market is featureless. We quote: Syrup, in small tins, 55 to 60c., and sugar, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

HONEY—Business is slow and the market is dull, but steady. Old white clover, extracted, is offering at 6½ to 7c. per lb.

BEANS—A small jobbing trade continues to pass in beans at 95c. to $1 for choice hand-picked and 85 to 90c. for primes.

ASHES—There was no change in the situation of the market for ashes. We quote: First sorts, $3.70 to $3 75; seconds, do., $3.50, and first pearls, $5.25 to $5.50 per 100 lb.

HOPS—Quiet, with finest Canadian 18 to 20c. and other grades 14 to 16c. New, in single bales, sell at 25c.

POTATOES—Receipts are increasing, and prices range from 35 to 40c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—There was no important change in the situation of the flour market. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.30 to $3.40; in bags, $1.60 to $1.65; Manitoba patents, $4 to $4.10; strong bakers', $3.60 to $3.75.

GRAIN—A feature of the grain trade continues to be the good demand for new crop peas from foreign buyers, and sales of some round lots were made to-day for future shipment at quite an advance over prices bid early last week. Locally, buyers are bidding 66 to 66½c. afloat, but few round lots are offering owing to the fact that farmers in many sections west are busy ploughing. The tone of the market is stronger in sympathy with advices from abroad, the Liverpool public cable noting an advance of 1½d. over Saturday, quoting 5s. 11½d. There was also a stronger feeling in oats owing to the improved demand from abroad and higher cables, in consequence prices here advanced ½c. per bushel to 29 to 29½c. afloat. Feed barley is offering at 41½ to 42c., and a round lot of No. 2 changed hands to-day at 45c. afloat. Rye is selling at 56½c. afloat, and Ontario No. 1 spring wheat is offering at 72c. afloat. In the Winnipeg market wheat was weaker, and prices closed ½c. lower all round.

MEAL—The demand for meal continues slow, and the market is quiet, with no change in prices to note. Rolled oats are quoted at $3.65 per bbl., and at $1.70 per bag.

FEED—A fair amount of business was done in feed, but as supplies are still small prices rule firm. We quote: Ontario bran, in bulk, $14.50 to $15; and shorts, $15.50 to $16 per ton; Manitoba bran, $14; shorts, $16 to $17; mouillie, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY—There is a steady demand for baled hay from local buyers, but the volume of business doing on foreign and American account is rather small at present. The tone of the market is steady, and prices show no change. We quote: Choice No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $6 to $6.50, and clover, at $5 50 to $6 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

The market for all lines was again quiet, but the undertone was steady. We quote as follows: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15 50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7c. to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined, 5½c. to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11½c. to 12½c. per lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—The market was quite firm, and no finest western cheese were obtainable here under 12¼ to 12½c., and it is claimed that that price has been made over the cable for considerable lines of cheese, and that holders want even more money. At the wharf Monday morning, 6,000 to 7,000 boxes Quebec cheese were offered, and all sold at 11¼ to 11½c., the outside price being the ruling. This is an advance of ½c. on the price paid last week for the same goods. The Liverpool public cable took another advance to-day to 53s. to 54s. This is an advance of 1s. since last Friday, and almost 3s. in less than 10 days.

BUTTER—The market is dull but steady. Cables forwarded without offering creamery, received no replies. Advices from abroad state that rain has been general throughout United Kingdom, and pastures have, in consequence, improved considerably, which, shippers state, cause the falling off in demand. We quote creamery 21½ to 22c., and Western dairy, 15½ to 16c., in an export way.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., September 7, 1899.

THERE is more activity noticed in wholesale grocery circles. It is expected that a very large number of outside dealers will take advantage of the low rate during the Exhibition, which opens next week, to come to the city. Wholesale houses will have their travelers in to look after their customers. Cheese is the active feature of the market. Demand for export is large. Factories which contracted the output find their mistake. Their loss may have a good effect in causing them, as they have been urged for years to do, to establish a cheese board, where their output can be sold in open competition. The loss to the farmers is very large this season, owing to their imperfect methods of selling their output. In spice, the tendency is to higher prices. Cream of tartar is a little easier. Teas are quite active. New Chinas are turning out good values. Low grades again rule high, being quoted above last year's figures. In Ceylons, large numbers of samples have been received, and a much fuller range in prices is being quoted.

OIL—There was a somewhat unexpected advance in burning oil this week of about ½c., and the market rules very firm. Dealers who have made contracts at the old figures have been fortunate. Lubricating oil is quiet. Many lumber mills are shut down owing to the lack of logs. Paint oils are very high. Cod oil is coming to hand more freely, but is low.

SALT—Some 6,000 sacks of Liverpool coarse arrived this week, and found a ready sale at full figures. Further arrivals of both coarse and factory-filled are expected within a day or two, and the outlook is for a good demand at firm figures for Canadian salt. There is the regular business doing. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

GREEN FRUITS—This has been a very active week. Oranges are crowded out, and it is as well, as there are few offering of good quality. Lemons are high, and sell largely in a small way. Bananas are easy, and hold a fair business. Californian and Ontario fruits have the chief attention. A much larger quantity of the former is arriving than ever before. Californian peaches are about done. The pears are very fine, and run large. Fair prices rule. Plums and grapes have a good sale. Ontario peaches are arriving more freely, and are nice. In grapes and plums, Ontario goods largely hold the trade, there being very few either Nova Scotian or New Brunswick plums this season; prices tend easier, but will continue quite high. In tomatoes, the Ontario-grown still find a market here. With the exception of blueberries and cranberries, the berry season is over. Shipments to the American market have been larger than usual this season. High-bush cranberries are favorites here. They are quite scarce and high. In apples, a few American are still sold, but the arrival of New Brunswick apples of good quality at lower figures has created a demand for the home-grown article. Nova Scotian apples arriving are still poor. Some New Jersey sweet potatoes are being received.

DRIED FRUITS—This line is having more attention. While Valencias are quoted rather higher than the figures named last season, it is thought present prices are the lowest for the season; in fact, some packers have already advanced their prices, and orders have been quite freely given, the demand being largely for layers. Sales for Malagas will be light this season. Prices of Californian are anxiously awaited, and, if not too high, they will sell freely. They are favorites here. Californian prunes have some attention, as present prices are low and the outlook is for higher figures. There are very few Oregons offered, and foreign goods are likely to rule high. In Californian small sizes are scarce, and in some grades are not quoted. Currants show quite a range in price. Some good orders have been placed. Sales of cleaned will be large this year. Spot stocks are light, particularly Californian raisins. There is but a limited business. In nuts, prices are expected to rule high. This is not a large market. American onions are rather lower, and supply our market. In evaporated apples there is no business.

CANNED GOODS.—There is likely to be trouble, particularly with those who have sold to arrive, as packers are doubtful about being able to fill orders; this is most evident in corn. Owing to the extreme dry season in Ontario crops have been disappointing. Spot goods have fair sale at full figures. In salomn, new goods are to hand. Prices will rule high this year. Many packers have not offered in this market at all. Canned haddies will be scarce this season and full figures will rule. In fruits, pineapple is higher. American is very scarce. Oysters have but a limited sale; they are firmer. There are no lobsters. Some few shrimp are to hand, but they are scarce and rule high. Gallon apples are expected to rule higher, though some very low prices have been quoted from Montreal. Spot stock is small.

PRODUCE—In eggs, lower prices rule, receipts being more free and demand light. The quality now being received stands watching. Butter is rather firmer if quality is extra, but of fair stock there is an oversupply and price is low. New Brunswick creamery butter is showing splendid returns from sales in the English market. There is little local business, prices being too high except for retail trade. Cheese is higher and local stock is small. Factories are selling at good figures as promptly as they are making, and there is a good output; some factories have sold ahead.

SUGARS—Refineries continue to hold figures firm and there is a good average sale. Little or no foreign sugar is being received, except some American yellows, and only of these a limited quantity.

TEAS TEAS TEAS

A NEW Consignment of Indians, Ceylons, and Japans in hand. Wholesale only.

S. H. EWING & SONS, 96 King St., Montreal.

MOLASSES—There is little change. Owing to a fair stock of Porto Rico and some New Orleans and Trinadad that is offered market is easy, but no lower prices are expected. Barbadoes is a light stock, and is the feature of the market that leads to the strong position. There is little sale for syrup.

FISH—Fresh fish continue very scarce. In dry cod prices of last week are maintained, but with freer receipts they will tend lower. In pollock, high figures rule, and the market is firm. From this out the bulk cured will be slack salted and shipped west to American points, where better prices rule than here. There is increased sale for boneless fish at full figures. In pickled herring there is as yet but little doing. Prices show little change. Large fish will be scarce. In smoked herring, old fish are dull and quoted lower ; in new, receipts are still light and prices high. It will soon fall as goods come to hand. The new are much preferred. Bloaters are very dull in the west, so quite low figures rule here. Haddies as yet show but local sale. Supplies have been light. Pickled shad are a slow sale at even figures. We quote : Large and medium dry cod, $3.75 to $4 ; small, $2.50 ; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality ; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6 to 9c.; halibut, 10 to 12c. per lb.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; shad, 10c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c. ; pollock, $2 to $2.10 per 100 ; salmon, 15 to 16c.; pickled herring, $1.65 to $1.70 per half bbl.; bloaters, 60c.

PROVISIONS— Pork and beef have improved sale and higher prices rule. Beef in particular tending higher. Our lumbermen now largely use local mess pork, prefering it to Western. In lard there are fair stocks, prices tending higher. Smoked meats have but fair sale.

FLOUR, FEED, AND MEAL — In flour, there is but a fair business. Buyers are all anxious for old wheat flour, while Ontario tends firmer. It is thought the big crop in Manitoba will not only mean easier figures in that grade, but affect the whole market. Oats scarce and oatmeal rather higher, but with new soon on the market lower figures are looked for. Beans tend higher. Crop is reported light ; it is earlier than usual. Stock here is small. Peas are scarce. Barley is still high, but rather easier. Hay is a good crop here, and a good demand expected, so that better returns are expected than for some years. We quote as follows : Manitoba flour, $4.55 to $4.70 ; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.10 ; medium, $3.60 to $3.75 ; oatmeal, $3.90 to $4.10 ; cornmeal, $2.25 to $2.30; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10 ; prime, 95 to $1.00 ; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2 ; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15 ; round, $3.25 to $3.40 ; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15 ; hay, $7 to $7.50 ; timothy seed, American, $1.50.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Mr. A. P. Tippet, of A. P. Tippet & Co., Montreal and Toronto, is in the city this week, and, with F. H. Tippet, the local representative, called on the trade. Having been in business here for many years, Mr. Tippet has many friends among the trade.

Mr. Gilmore, representing Chase & Sanborn, called on the trade this week.

Mr. Thompson, representing the F. W. Fearman Co., was in the city this week.

Joseph Finley received a car this week of his well-known "Lyn" brand salmon, the first new goods on the market.

While many dealers use the cheaper grade of peanuts, The White Candy Co. import the best. They this week landed a shipment of "Bon Ton," which are the very best Virginia peanuts.

Mr. Walter Miles, who for a number of years has represented Messrs. Peek Bros. & Winch here, is about to go with T. H. Estabrooks. Mr. Miles' close connection with the tea business for so long peculiarly fits him for the position he has accepted, and will no doubt lead to a material increase in the present very large business done by Mr. Estabrooks.

thresh and handle. In the western Mennonite reserve, threshing has already progressed considerably, and 25 cars of new wheat have passed through Winnipeg, all grading No. 1 hard. The market will probably open at from 56 to 57c. Oats are also a particularly fine crop, and millers are looking forward to a full supply of choice home-grown oats for milling purposes.

The Codville Co., wholesale grocers, are busy moving into their new warehouse on Bannatyne street east. At present, chaos reigns, but next week, no doubt, it will be possible to say something more about it.

Mr. E. B. Nixon, buyer for the grocery and liquor department of The Hudson's Bay Company, is taking a trip in which business and pleasure are combined. He will be absent about five weeks.

Trade in all lines is good and prices are being well maintained. There is more change in produce than in groceries proper just at present.

CANNED GOODS—This market remains in the same situation as has been reported for the last month, with the single exception that the position is stronger. Canneries are asking higher prices, and quite a number have withdrawn quotations. This is, no doubt, due to the continued drouth in Ontario. Both corn and tomatoes are likely to be short. Wholesale merchants here are buying very little; in fact, they cannot attempt to compete in price with Eastern houses which bought at low figures and are offering goods at considerably below what it would cost wholesale men to lay them down at.

DRIED FRUITS — No new raisins will reach this market for three or four weeks, and, as all have been bought at open prices, it is impossible to give a market.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—Californian evaporated apricots are now more than 1c. higher than the opening price. This is due not only to the crop being somewhat shorter than anticipated, but also to the fact that a much larger quantity of apricots have been canned this year. Jobbers here quote 15½ to 16c., with a certainty of an increase almost immediately.

PEACHES — The crop is abundant and present indications are that there will be plenty of good fruit at a reasonable price; no new peaches are as yet in. Prunes will probably be the same figures as old fruit. Pitted plums will undoubtedly be short and the prices higher than last year, though, as yet, they are not quoted.

COFFEE—This market is abnormally low, and it looks as if it was a good time for retailers to buy Rios, as excellent grades of this kind are quoted at 8 and 8½c. Though the coming crop is large, prices are considered to have reached rock-bottom.

FLOUR—There is a slight drop in this market, and patent is now quoted at $1.75; strong bakers', $1.55; Algoma, $1.35, and XXXX, $1.05. The market is rather slow, as is usual at this time of year. Farmers buy all their supply before harvest, and the trade now is confined to the inhabitants of cities and small towns.

CURED MEATS—This market has not changed, with the exception of a very slight advance in shoulders, which are now quoted at 10½c. Other prices are: Hams, 14c.; bellies, 11½c.; backs, 11c.; spiced rolls, 10½c.; dry salt long clear, 8½c.; extra short clear, 7¾c.; backs, 9c.; shoulders, 8¾c. The market is very firm and the demand very fair.

BUTTER—This market is firm and the trade brisk, 18½ to 19c. factories is the quotation for creamery. The make now is excellent. Quite a number of cars are going east to Montreal, but the bulk of the creamery is going west to Vancouver. Dairy butter remains unchanged, 10 to 11c. country points, with the bulk going into cold storage. Up to the present the improvement in creamery has not advanced dairy. There is a limited demand for fresh, well-made yellow dairy for city consumption, but otherwise the demand is very light.

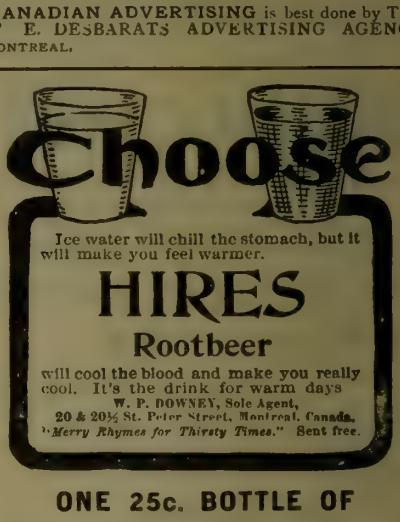
CHEESE—This market is very firm and 11c. was Saturday's quotation, and, it is thought, this may go even higher. There is not sufficient in the country to supply the demand for fall trade.

EGGS—Are in fairly good supply and are bringing 15c. delivered at Winnipeg. The quality of the eggs is now first-class.

GREEN FRUITS—This market is in rather bad shape at present. The early preserving fruits are about done, and the later varieties are not yet in full supply, this is particularly so with plums. The Californian stocks are about exhausted, and the Washington and Oregons will not be in until late in the coming week. Later Californian plums, assorted varieties, are selling at $1.60 to $1.75. Peaches, Californian freestone, $1.40; Bartlett pears, $3 per bbl.; other varieties at lower figures. Ontario tomatoes, very fine, 50 to 60c. for 20-lb. baskets. Ontario plums, 80c.; pears, 75c. A final car of Muscatine Iowa watermelons have arrived; their average weight is 25 lb., and they sell for $3.50 per doz. Oranges, Californian, $5.50 to $6; lemons, $5 to $5.50. Bananas are in good supply, and are selling from $2 to $2.50 per bunch. The supply of first-class home-grown vegetables has never been better.

KINGSTON GROCERS TO PICNIC.

The retail grocers, of Kingston, intend holding their second annual picnic at the Exhibition grounds there, September 20. The committee of management is composed of: J. S. Henderson, W. R. McRae, T. H. Johns, M. Sutherland, B. W. Robertson, Rigney & Hickey, W. G. Craig, A. Maclean, Jas. Redden, D. Couper, Geo. Crawford, R. J. Carson, J. Gilbert, Secretary.



TEA BLIGHT IN CEYLON.

There are rumors of grey blight, not only in the low-country, but in some of the leading hill districts—fostered by the prolonged wet weather which has served to largely counteract the depressing effects of a cooler atmosphere on the virility of the pest—and, although the latest circular from J. C. Willis' pen, to judge by the date, might have been published a month ago, by those with whom the material was left, it still comes opportunely. It describes the appearance of both grey and brown blight, explains how they spread, and recommends a remedy which, though entailing additional strain on the already-taxed tea bush, represents a method which will present no scientific difficulties to the estate labor force.—Times of Ceylon.

IMPROVED BACON MARKET.

The improvement in the market for bacon and hams is not unconnected with the torrid days we are passing through. People do not, somehow, look upon bacon as meat, and, as the latter is eschewed when the weather is sultry, the former increases in popular estimation. The full tide of labor, which is now at the flood in our factories and workshops, bringing increase of substance to the workingman, is responsible for a great portion of the increase in the demand for what is to many a luxury designed to embellish the breakfast or the tea-table, while the fact that outdoor work is in full swing does as much as vaguely-worded telegrams from Chicago, or more or less true reports as to killings from Denmark, to keep up the market quotation.—Grocers' Journal, London, August 19.

These are Growing Times

Our trade for Jersey Cream Baking Powder is growing.
Our trade for Standard Teas is growing.
Our trade for Cocoanut is growing.
But, for jumps and strides, our Coffee trade is the winner.
Why should it not be so?
Our Jersey Cream Baking Powder is the best in Canada.
Our Standard Teas are the finest packed.
Our Coffees are the best values sold.
Our Cocoanut is not equaled in America.

A Word re Cocoanut

A manufacturer that should know claims we are losing thousands of dollars every year by manufacturing this line, and has made us this magnificent offer: If we let him manufacture all the cocoanut the two factories make he will allow us one cent per pound less than the regular wholesale trade on all we can sell, and he is prepared to guarantee that we will make thousands a year, not on what we would sell, but on what we would not lose by manufacturing. We know the business is one of the most risky in the world. If you know of anyone that wants to lose $100,000.00, and lose it quick, advise him to go into the cocoanut business.

However, we are in the cocoanut business to stay, and we are going to win trade by continuing to make the best goods manufactured.

Salt is A Staple

When you sell Salt, please remember that Salt is as staple as Flour. There is nothing luxurious about Salt—it is an absolute necessity. The woman who buys it, buys it because she has to have it. If she can't get at your store she goes to your competitor for it, and she takes some of her other trade along with her—please remember that!

In a staple article like Salt, a woman doesn't hesitate to buy the best—she gets it when she orders the "Salt of Quality"—clean, white, perfectly crystalized Windsor Salt. Sold by leading wholesalers everywhere.

GROCERS SETTLE DIFFICULTIES.

The local difficulties in the retail grocery trade have been settled on an amicable basis. The absurd price-cutting, which could not possibly result in anything but disaster to the weaker ones and detriment to all, has been done away with and the Retail Grocers' Association is now running in regular order again. The principal articles in which price-cutting was indulged, such as flour, sugar, kerosene and canned vegetables, are always sold on a very narrow margin as they are practically never bought in a competitive market, having a price regulated by cost of production largely. These are staple articles of consumption on the values of which the public are fairly well informed and no one will begrudge paying a fair price for them though that innate weakness of human nature, the love of getting something for nothing, may make some customers regret the delights of a grocery "rate war."

It is to the credit of the bright caterers who supply the daily bread and cheese and tea for Vancouver citizens that they have been able to fix up their little differences so intelligently. There is room enough for all in this country although some of the grocers might sigh for a little more elbow room in their trade.—The Province, Vancouver.

WOOD BROS.' NEW MILL.

Wood Bros., proprietors of the Brant Roller Mills, Brantford, Ont., have made sufficient progress in the rebuilding of their flour mill, destroyed by fire in May last, as to be able to announce to the trade that they will in a few weeks have their brands of "Golden Crown," "Silver Star," "Laurel," etc., on the market. The new mill, of which the accompanying cut is an illustration, is being equipped by the Goldie & McCulloch Co., Galt, with the most modern machinery, and will have a capacity of 200 barrels per day. The Gyrator system of bolting, which insures brightness and strength in the flour, is being introduced into the mill. This, with the 23 years' experience of the proprietors, should assist in the further enlarging of their business.

Mail advices from Sicily are to the effect that the market for filberts is tending upward, owing to reported damage to the crop by fogs. Estimates of the crop make it from two-thirds to three-fifths of last year's crop.

Ladies who are good enough housekeepers to put up their own pickles sometimes wonder why they do not keep. It is on account of the poor often sold unknowingly by the grocer. If the merchant were as careful about the VINEGAR he sells as he is about his tea or sugar, he would only sell that made by The

Wilson, Lytle, Badgerow Co., Limited, of Toronto and then his lady customers would have no trouble about their pickles.

A FOOLISH TRAVELER.

"I HAD a post office money order on a little town out West." said the New York drummer—"one which I got through Chicago—and when I showed up to get it cashed I was dead broke, and found the post office in charge of a girl about 20 years old. She was chewing gum and reading a novel as I walked into the place, and, as she was slow in getting a move on her and I was in a deuce of a hurry, I gave her some pretty sharp talk. She sassed me back, and we had some lively words for about five minutes. I never did a more foolish thing in my life. You know what a post office money order is, of course. It makes a man mad all over to waste the time to get one, and when you present it at another post office, you must satisfy the authorities that you are the person named. I signed my name and all that, but the girl quietly remarked :

"'I don't know that you are the person named. You will have to be identified.'

"I had letters in my pocket, of course," continued the drummer, "but she waved them aside. Anyone can carry letters around addressed to their proper name. I had my initial on my cuffs and collars, but they were no good. I had telegrams, but she was obdurate. As a matter of fact, she bothered me a whole day, and when the office closed I was still without my money. The order called for $50 and I went to every merchant in town to get the money and transfer it. Nobody would let me have the cash. There was but one way to do, and I did it. I walked into the post office next day and said :

"'My name is John Blank. Here is an order calling for $50. Yesterday I was fool enough to snub you. To-day I beg your pardon.'

"Two minutes later I had my money and was out on the sidewalk, and you can bet your shoes I don't get caught that way again. When I feel like snubbing another girl I'll tackle one who isn't employed by Uncle Sam in a position where she can hold me and set me to looking around for a pawnshop."—Chicago News.

Benson's Prepared Corn

There is no adulteration in Benson's Prepared Corn—there is no need to adulterate because it has sold entirely on its merits as an absolutely pure Prepared Corn for over forty years. The delicacy of its flavor is almost proverbial.

Comparisons are made with Benson's Prepared Corn as the standard—you hear this everywhere—"It's just as good as Benson's." You know what "just as good" means—an endeavor to sell an inferior article for a lower price. Benson's Prepared Corn is the standard—forty years have proved it so beyond a question.

FOR YOUNG CANADIANS.

Don't wait until the iron's hot,
But make it hot by muscle.
Don't wait for the wealth your father's got,
Take off your coat and hustle.

What a year 1900 is to be! What a time for the young Canadian hustler—the rapid stenographer, the expert bookkeeper and the nimble telegrapher! They will all be wanted just as surely as that bright year is coming around. A start now will put you with the successful ones, and we can start you aright. Will you send us your name and let us tell you how? It is no trouble to us, and will benefit you.

THE BRADSTREET COMPANY gathers information that reflects the financial condition and the controlling circumstances of every seeker of mercantile credit. Its business may be defined as of the merchants, by the merchants, for the merchants. In procuring, verifying, and promulgating information, no effort is spared and no reasonable expense considered too great, that the results may justify its claim as an authority on all matters affecting commercial affairs and mercantile credit. Its offices and connections have been steadily extended, and it furnishes information concerning mercantile persons throughout the civilized world. Subscriptions are based on the service furnished, and are available only by reputable wholesale, jobbing and manufacturing concerns, and by respectable and worthy financial, fiduciary and business corporations. Specific terms may be obtained by addressing the Company at any of its Offices. Correspondence invited.

A word about

VENICE WAFERS

EXACT SIZE

They are a variation of our "FLORENCE" wafer, to which we recently drew attention. Made in the same flavors, Raspberry, Lemon, and Coffee, they are only half the size, being less than one inch wide. Their convenient size and shape make them very popular; particularly suitable where dainty "stand-up teas" and suppers are being served. When sending in your next order, include a case of "VENICE" wafers.

"Pharaoh" and "Pebble" Cigars

Some one says, "In the name there is fame," and this applies to those two popular brands of Cigars that I make (the "Pharaoh" 10-cent and the "Pebble" 5-cent Cigars) most emphatically.

I would add the words "and profit" to the quotation I make above. The testimony of a thousand grocers in Canada backs me up. I know whereof I speak. No two brands anywhere run more evenly in the grade—no two brands are more truthfully advertised. If you are a grocer I would like to send you samples and prices.

A PRACTICAL WAY OF BUILDING A BUSINESS.*

By S. E. Kimmel.

THE city of Johnstown, Pa., has a population of about 42,000. It is dotted with stores from one end to the other. Every now and then a grocery store of the cutter type springs up, but it does not last long. There are quite a number of first-class stores, however, that get fair prices for their goods. The particular ward in which I would locate has about six first-class groceries, but none that I would class as a cutter. There are also some smaller ones in this ward. The most of the laborers living in this ward are paid weekly, which is quite an item to be taken into consideration.

I would now proceed in the following manner :

First.—Secure a proper location and storeroom. I am aware that the location and the room, also the reputation of the former merchants (if a room that has been used formerly), has a great deal to do with making a success of the venture. I would prefer a new room. I would at least not go into a room about which you often hear the expression : "There has never been anyone in that place that made a success of it, and I don't think he will," and other expressions of the same nature.

Second.—Secure a proper line of goods :

a.—A few fancy goods.

b.—Standard grades.

c.—A few cheap ones.

Under this head I wish to say that the

would be the standard grade. They would best suit the customers for my location, while the few fancy ones would answer for the ones who would want that grade, and the cheap ones would do for the bargain-seeker. I believe in the saying, to a certain extent : "Give the people what they want, and give it to 'em cheap." By this I do not mean that I would want to begin cutting, but that I would try and suit their tastes.
